NEW YORK TIMES
FOR 1884.
REDUCED IN PRICE.
CHEAPEST AND BEST
NEWSPAPER IN THE UNITED STATES.

FOR 1884.
REDUCTION IN PRICE.

The price of THE NEW YORK TIMES was reduced on the 18th of September from 4 cents per copy to 2 cents, with a corresponding reduction in the subscription rates. Within three days the circulation of the paper had doubled, and its daily sales are still rapidly increasing. Facts like these give plain and positive proof of the excellence and completeness of THE TIMES as a newspaper for the people. But the step that has brought it within the reach of every class of readers involved no cheapening of its quality or lowering of its standard. It is, and will continue to be, an able, lively, and complete newspaper. Whatever is of human interest in the chronicle of passing events at home and abroad will be found in its columns. It prints more telegraphic matter from all parts of the United States than any other metropolitan journal. Its special cable dispatches promptly supply its readers with all important European news. While it neglects nothing of general interest, it has gained a recognized pre-eminence for the accuracy and fullness of its political reports and of its news concerning railroads, banks and banking, insurance matters, real estate interests, important legal decisions, military and naval affairs, educational progress, and social, religious and scientific thought and discussion. It gives early announcements of new publications, American and foreign, and it reviews with fairness and critical ability the best books of the day. Its dramatic and musical criticisms are a notable feature of its well-filled pages. Faithful to Republican principles, it is wholly unfettered by considerations of party or faction in expressing its opinions. Its criticisms of parties, of public men and measures are independent, fearless, and honest. It has no hobbies, but is in sympathy with all progressive and reform movements; and amid its graver duties it finds time and the mood now and then to be merry over the foibles of mankind.

THE SUNDAY TIMES, in addition to the news of the day, contains bright and readable selections from the latest English reviews and magazines, selected and original poetry, and extracts from the newest books.

THE WEEKLY TIMES gives a compact and complete summary of the news of the week, with editorial note and comment upon topics of national and general interest. It is an admirably complete weekly newspaper, and has a large circulation in every State in the Union and in foreign countries. During the Presidential year of 1884 THE WEEKLY TIMES will furnish its readers with prompt and full information of the progress of the canvass.

If the Assembly will pass the bill providing for the abolishment of the State paper, $60,000 will be saved the people annually.

BERNER's lawyer has asked the court for an investigation into the trial of that case, it having been said that the jury was corruptly influenced. He denies the statement published that he could secure a favorable verdict for $5,000.

THE TIMES is indebted to Hon. N. W. Nutting of Oswego for a copy of his speech delivered in the House of Representatives at Washington, March 27th, in favor of the redemption of the trade dollar. The speech is an able one and worthy of consideration. Mr. Nutting says that the Government has issued $36,000,000 of this coin, that Congress put upon the statute book a law which authorized the United States treasury, through its mint, to coin these trade dollars and to give them out to be used in the lines of commerce and trade, not only by this nation but by the world at large. What did Congress then do but in 1875 pass an act taking from this trade dollar its legal tender quality which belonged to it by the act authorizing its creation. The government itself refused to accept this money. Mr. Nutting further says that the Congress of the United States in passing the law of 1876, taking from this dollar its legal tender function, committed a fraud on all the people, at least, who had received this money. Mr. Nutting says he hopes the Government will have to redeem every dollar of it. Mr. Nutting sustained sharp interruptions from Calkins of Indiana with credit. We are glad to find Mr. Nutting in Washington standing up and advocating firm and upright principles upon financial questions, surrendering no point to the silver monopolists.

NEW YORK STATE.

Henry Ten Eyck, widely known and one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Cazenovia, is dead.

Thirty-nine prisoners were received at the Albany penitentiary last week. There are now 862 inmates in the institution, 766 male and 96 female.

The union carpenters of Troy, who struck demanding that only union men be employed, have withdrawn that demand, the builders have refused to accede.

James H. Westcott, a farmer of Butler, Wayne county, set seven acres of land with tobacco plants last year and recently sold his crop for $1,800, more than twice the value of the land.

As Thomas F. Fitzgerald, aged 26, a lawyer of Batavia, saw a constable coming to arrest him, Saturday, for forgery, he hastened to his office and shot himself three times in the head. He cannot live. He admitted forging a number of notes, ranging from $35 to $190.

Interest at Syracuse in the case of Bertha Chester, who claims to have been abducted increases. A few days before the alleged abduction the girl fell in a faint on the street and was taken home by a strange man and woman. The police say they have other evidence to disprove the girl's story.

William Welch, aged 28, a cigarmaker of Elmira, went into a meat market in Hornellsville the other day while intoxicated, and bought a piece of raw beef, and, calling for some salt, proceeded to eat. The proprietor ordered him out, and he fell on the sidewalk. A piece of meet had lodged in his throat, and he died in a few minutes.

Last Friday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock the dwelling house of George Prosser, on Rochester, between Fifth and Sixth streets was discovered to be on fire. Fortunately the fire had made but little headway and was soon extinguished, by the assistance of the neighbors, but not until a good sized hole was made in the roof. The cause of the fire is supposed to have originated from a defective chimney.

Phillips.

WHY THE "ROYAL" IS THE BEST.

The improved method of which it has been made possible to produce pure cream of tartar, has had an important bearing upon the manufacture of baking powder. By the process heretofore generally employed, it has been found impossible to remove all impurities, more particularly the tartrate of lime, which remained to such an amount as to [illegible] impair the quality of the cream of tartar, and to interfere seriously with the strength and wholesomeness of the baking powders into which it entered.

By the new process, which is owned by the Royal Baking Powder Company [illegible]

Messrs Feelic, Rial and Ed. Marsh went to New York this week for German help.

Mrs. Holden of Fulton, has been visiting at Mr. William Summerville's a few days this week.

A quarrel broke out between two Germans employed by Mr. Dor Andrews not long since. One of them was trimming grape vines while the other was hoeing around them. They began a dispute and the one with the knife was going to stab the other. Mr. Andrus interfered and separated them and was in the act of taking the knife away when he received quite a gash across his hand.

Mrs. Andrew Decker who had a shock of paralysis nearly five years ago and who has been gradually failing ever since, died at two o'clock last Thursday morning. She had lived to the age of 79 years 9 months and 11 days. The funeral was held at the church at eleven o'clock to-day. Rev. Mr. Skeel of Franksort, Herkimer Co., addressed the people and friends most earnestly and tenderly.

Rev. Mr. Phelps of this charge and Rev. Mr. Roe of Fulton were also present. Friends went with the remains to Lysander for interment, where Mr. Decker and daughter Frank will remain a few days. Mrs Decker when in health was a woman of very quiet and unassuming ways and an example of goodness. She spared no pains in her domestic life to help make a happy home. During her long illness she was very patient and uncomplaining. Her daughter Frank attended her with unfailing care to gratify her every wish and year after year sacrificed her own ease and liberty for the comfort of her mother.

COUNTY COMMENT.

George Gregg of this town is importing German farm hands from Castle Garden. He brought one party of six men and expects to go for another party next week.—[Phœnix Register.

The calf trade still continues brisk. It looks very much as though stock was going to be scarce and high in this section. All the calves are being slaughtered for veal and "boneless chicken."—[Pulaski Democrat.

The cheese factory at Oswego Center will re-open for cheese making about the 1st of May, and be conducted by G. D. Trimble. The factory has been closed for the past two years.—[Hannibal News.

Among those killed in the recent fight with the Pigeon Indians near the Painted Post river a few days ago, was Joseph Gates. Phillip Gates, who lives near Phœnix, has a son of that name, who has been away from home about eighteen years, and when last heard from was a ranchman in the vicinity of the fight.

A claim agent in New York is endeavoring to discover the heirs at law of Mrs. Helen Blake, who died in England in 1876, leaving two millions of dollars. Among the responses to the advertisements which he inserted in a number of papers was one from Miss Belle Sheridan of Oswego, who is quite sure the woman was a relative of her father. Oswego reporters have failed to find the alleged heiress, and it is thought there that the New York papers have again made a mistake in locating her at Oswego instead of Owego.

SHUN DANGER.

Rheumatism or neuralgia of the heart almost invariably results in the death of the patient, and thousands who are troubled with these diseases resort to their liniments or other applications for relief, thus endangering their lives by changing the seat of the disease or pain and forcing it to other and more sensitive and fatal portions of the system. It is impossible to cure these diseases while the acrid poison remains in the blood, and Rheumatic Syrup is the only remedy yet known that will drive and expel from the system all traces of uric acid, which is the sole cause of all rheumatic and neuralgic pains.

[illegible]

[illegible] sight to behold, and the pain I suffered was almost beyond the limits of human endurance. I was induced to try your Rheumatic Syrup, as it was recommended as a great Blood Purifier, and before I had used all of the second bottle I was entirely cured, and my skin is now as smooth and clear as ever. I desire to recommend the Rhumatic Syrup to all whose blood is impure.

Gratefully yours. B. F. KNAPP.

Mrs. Haight Not to Hang April 18.

An application has been made by Barnet one of the counsel for Mrs. Haight, to the Governor for the commutation of her sentence. Should the sentence not be commuted the case will be appealed to the General Term of the Supreme Court which will stay the execution until its determination.

A REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

Mrs. Mary A. Dailey, of Tunkhannock, Pa., was afflicted for six years with Asthma and Bronchitus, during which time the best physicians could give no relief. Her life was despaired of, until in last October she procured a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, when immediate relief was felt, and by continuing its use for a short time she was completely cured, gaining in flesh 50 lbs. in a few months.

A Masterpiece of Art

Whenever Mr. Styles, the artist who seems to be trying to hide his light under a bushel at Fulton, puts brush to canvass something meritorious always is the result. He is just becoming known to Syracusans as a landscape painter, but it is only now and then that we are privileged to see his productions. One of our citzens visited Mr. Style's studio recently and returned with an exquisite marine view that delights all beholders. Beneath a blue sky, across which float delicately tinted clouds, roll magnificent breakers translucent in their green beauty. In the foreground, swinging in the trough of the sea, appears the red-brown head of a buoy, marking the spot where hidden dangers lie. In the far distance glistens a white sail and a narrow line of beach, the only suggestion of life in the picture. The artist has caught the subtle beauty and facination of the sea itself and reproduced them on canvas. The painting may be seen for a few days at Hendrick's art store.—[Syracuse Journal.

I have been much troubled with muscular Rheumatism; have been treated by five of our best physicians without receiving any relief whatever. I then used Allcock's Plaster on the parts affected and I can assure you the pain has almost entirely left me. I can recommend them to every one as the best plaster made. I have tried other kinds but found them worthless. B. F. GALLAGHER.

She has not since been seen. The police were notified at 2:15 this morning and Captain Quigley and a detail of officers immediately began a search for her, thus far without success. Her brother, who followed her to the door saw her fleeting form half a block distant, but was unable to overtake her, and she disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up. Every effort is being made to find the unfortunate girl, though grave fears are entertained for her safety, as she is almost naked and in her bare feet, wandering through the muddy streets.

"That Boy."

To The Editor of the FULTON TIMES:

Dear Sir—I am a poor woman and would like to ask advice through your paper, on a subject in which I am deeply interested: I have a son who is now in his seventeenth year, and until about three months ago has always been kind and good to me as any child should be to his parent, but unfortunately he has been led into the "pool rooms" located in the hotels and rum shops of this place, where he now spends his evenings and also his earnings.

Will you please inform me through your columns how licenses are issued for such places, and also if boys under age are to be allowed to play pool and spend these earnings in such places or if there can be a stop put to such evil doings by law? INQUIRER.

Fulton, April 7, 1884.

In reply to the above we will say that the Board of Commissioners of Excise of the Town of Volney grant all licenses that are granted in this village. From each person to whom they grant a license they take a bond in the sum of $250, conditional among other things that the person so licensed will not suffer his hotel "to be disorderly or suffer any gambling or keep a gambling table of any description within the inn, tavern or hotel so kept by him, or in any outhouse, yard or garden belonging thereto." Every person keeping a pool table for gambling purposes is guilty of a misdemeanor, and every person who sells liquor to a minor is liable to a fine. All All these "evil doings" can be stopped by law if persons who have evidence in their posession that the law has been broken will present the same to the Police authorities instead of sending anonymous communications to newspapers.

Morrill Bros.' Party.

J. Justin Morrill was made the victim of a surprise party last Monday evening, The occasion was in honor of his 21st birthday. Many letters of regrets were received from abroad among which was one from his Uncle, Senator Justin Morrill of Vermont, accompanied by a moneyed gift. After spending some time in social amusements, a gorgeous supper was served in elegant style. At about midnight, after heartily enjoying themselves, each one bid Justin good-night, wishing him many happy returns of the day.

A genuine surprise was also given Elmer E. Morrill last Monday evening, it being the anniversary of his 23rd, birthday. A select company of about twenty were present. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

[illegible] Niagara uniting Canada and the United States, and in full view of the greatest of the world's cataracts. So much has been written of this stupendous undertaking, of this last and greatest achievement in engineering skill, that curiosity prompted the writer to "stop over" a train to more fully examine this substantial and really elegant structure. We passed over it and back, went down hundreds of feet to the base of the lofty towers and gazing heavenward, stood entranced, lost in wonder and admiration, and really knew not which most to admire, the grandeur and sublimity of nature in the fall and never ceasing roar of the mighty waters or the wonders and marvels in art as manifested in the mechanical and engineering skill of man in the construction of this new and novel bridge across this angry and resistless current so far above its bed. The photograph as engraved and printed in every time table gives an accurate likeness of the bridge, but some descriptive words may be of interest to your readers.

The design is known as the canti-lever bridge and acts upon the principle of a trussed beam, supported at or near its center by a tower with arms extending each way, the land end being firmly anchored to the earth or rock to provide for the bearing weight resting upon the other end extending far out over the stream. The same arrangement exists upon the opposite shore and these arms—made of well tested steel put together in sections and firmly bolted—which reach out some 175 feet over the river beyond the towers, leave a gap of but 120 feet which is filled by the ordinary truss bridge resting upon the ends of the canti-levers. The design is very simple and much easier of construction than the Roebling wire suspension bridge located just below this one and built in the year 1855, which at the time was considered the greatest feat of engineering skill ever undertaken, and only since exceeded by the world renowned Brooklyn bridg finished last year. The real beauty of the old bridge had never been fully seen until this later work has been completed, giving so near a side view of its entire length. The location of this new bridge is but a short distance below the Falls and affords a much better view than the old Suspension Bridge. But from neither of these, owing to the mist and spray, can a very clear view be obtained of this mighty fall, and therefore the new railway leading to the approach from the Canada side has been laid along beside the Falls and at Falls View every through train over the Michigan Central stops for some minutes, from which close proximity, a clear and distinct sight can be had and in fact for a mile below the train passes along the bank, revealing the wonders of the American Falls, the Center Falls, the Rapids, Goat Island, the new Suspension Bridge and much of the wild and picturesque scenery which has before cost so much effort and money to behold. The wire suspension bridge was more than three years in construction, while the new canti-lever was commenced last July and completed in November, with a double truck at that. It is the first bridge built upon this plan in the country, is 500 feet between supports and can safely carry a weight of over 3,000 tons. This bridge greatly adds to the attractiveness at Niagara Falls. H. N. G.

"Karl the Peddler."

Charles A. Gardner will appear at the Opera House next Wednesday evening, April 16, in his charming play of "Karl the Peddler," supported by Miss Topsey Venn. The Dayton Democrat says: An unexpected large audience witnessed Charles A Gardner's rendition of his new German character, "Karl" at Music Hall last night, The plot is really good. Mr. Gardner is a comedian of excellent parts and is immense in German dialect, as good as "Fritz" Emmet or George Knight, if not better. His singing and dancing are good. The company throughout is a good one.

How Watch Cases are Made.

It is a fact not generally known that the James Boss' Gold Watch Cases really contain more pure gold than many "solid" gold cases The demand for these watch cases has led to the manufacture of a very poor grade of solid gold watch cases—low in quality, and deficient in quantity. These cases are made from 4½ to 10 karats, and a 5 or 6 karat case is often sold for 12 or 14 karats. It is NOT economy to buy a watch case so poor in quality that it will soon lose its color, or one so soft that it will lose its shape and fail to shut tight, thus letting in dust and damaging the works, or one so thin that a slight blow will break the crystal, and perhaps the movement. It IS economy to buy a James Boss' Gold Watch Case, in which NONE of these things ever occur. This watch case is not an experiment—it has been made nearly thirty years.

HAZLETON, PA., Oct. 24, 1883.

I sold two James Boss' Gold Watch Cases thirty years ago, when they first came out, and they are in good condition yet. One of them is carried by a carpenter, Mr. L. W. Drake, of Hazleton, and only shows the wear in one or two places; the other by Mr. Bowman, of Cunningham, Pa.; and I can produce one or both of these cases at any time.

SYLVESTER ENGLE, Jeweler.

(To be Continued.)

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these, that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know The Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

[illegible] will not get much out of it.

Ashes applied to potatoes should be placed over the seed pieces after the latter have been placed in furrows or drills.

Don't breed too many kinds of fowls at the same time unless you are going into the business. Four will make your hands full.

As soon as the soil can be worked, such seeds as beets, turnips, parsnips, salsify, spinach. kohlrobi and radish may be sown.

Cows that have not been wintered well need a little exsra care just now. A warm bran slop with a little ginger fed daily will produce wonerful results.

Cows can not be treated altogether as a herd; but each cow must have an individuality, and so has each class and grade; and this must be felt by the owner.

Canadian cheese factories refuse to receive the milk of cows which are allowed to feed on slough grass or drink stagnant water, claiming that such milk will always prevent the manfacture of good cheese.

An Ohio farmer says he has cured his horses of coughing by using oil of tar and camphor gum. He puts in all the camphor gum the tar will cut and gives a teaspoonful on the tongue three times a day after feeding.

Let it ever be borne in mind that the most valuable part of the manure is that which is very soluble, and unless it is retained by some absorbent, or kept from the drenching rains, it will be quickly out of reach.

Copperas is a splendid medicine to keep on hand for poultry. When they have roup wash their heads with a solution of it and put some of the solution in the drinking water as a tonic. It provides them with soluble iron, which is necessary.

Spruce butter tubs are the best; hemlock makes a sweet tub; acids from the oak color the butter and injure its appearance; white ash gives the butter a strong flavor if kept long and increases the liability to mold; maple smells and cracks badly. Soak all tubs four to six days in brine before using.

According to Dr. J C. Peters, it is filth that causes most of the diseases of domestic animals. He mentions particularly the habit of allowing bedding and manure to accumulate under the horses and other animals in stables. The impure air thus generated is peculiarly adapted to injure the health of the animals compelled to breathe it.

There is no need of bothering about a cows pulse to find out if she is well or not; simply look at her nose. If well, it will be moist and cold; if feverish, dry and hot. She is like a dog in this respect. A staring coat or a hollow eye also indicate trouble, and as symptoms of disease, they are more to be dreaded than the dry nose.

Durham is historic. It was neutral ground during the armistice between Sherman and Johnson. Soldiers of both armies filled their pouches with the tobacco stored there, and, after the surrender, marched homeward. Soon orders came from East, West, North and South, for "more of that elegant tobacco." Then, ten men ran an unknown factory. Now it employs 800 men, uses the pink and pick of the Golden Belt, and the Durham Bull is the trade-mark of this, the best tobacco in the world. THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy; positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

BRANDETH'S PILLS

They are compounded of Roots, Herbs and Gums of the most healing and beneficial kind.

As a Family Medicine they are unrivalled, curing Head-ache, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia—clearing the blood of all impurities—acting on the Liver, Kidneys and other important organs, removing the waste tissue, and adding years to the lives of all who use them.

For fifty years they have been used by the American public, and their constantly increasing sales show how they are appreciated.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

[illegible] owing to the excitement produced by the operations of the French in Tonquin, there is no public preaching of the gospel to the heathen.

It is said that nearly 800 churches, an average of about eight a month, have been burned in the United States in the past nine years. In 1883 there were 119 thus destroyed, at a loss of $672,170 and a loss to insurance companies of $312,380. Defective heating apparatus is one of the chief causes of these fires.

On a recent tour among the Garos, in Assam, Rev. E. G. Phillips visited a large village, where two years ago he left a Christain teacher. Here he found eleven converts awaiting baptism. Seven of these were school-boys, two were a husband and wife, and two young unmarried women. He regards the conversion of those not connected with the school as an especially encouraging feature of the work.

The church at Fredonia, N. Y., Rev. M. D. Kneeland, pastor, welcomed about sixty persons into membership last month. Of thirty-two who were baptized, six persons received the ordinance of immersion, the Christain chapel being used for the occasion. A number more are expected to unite in May. One fourth of those who united were fruits of a season of special interest at Milford near by, where services have been held two or three times a week for some months past.

FASHION NOTES.

Jet beads are now extensively used in trimming.

Black French laces are the favorite trimming laces.

Dark blue ladies' cloth is still the fashionable material for riding habits.

Pompadour passementeries with raised figures are the new trimmings for dresses and wraps.

Collar buttons of old silver, with designs of antique heads, are made to match the coin pins and bracelets now in use.

The simple designs in tailor made dresses are still retained and a suit of that kind will last for several years and be fashionable.

Persian vests are added to new basques of jersey cloth, and these are sometimes made of iridescent beads in Persian designs and colors.

A Moliere vest of jetted net laid over silk and edged with jetted lace may be made of a fourth of a yard of jetted net, and is a pretty and dressy addition to black corsages.

A long narrow scarf made of netted jet, with or without an edging of jetted lace will be worn in the street around the neck instead of the Spanish lace scarfs so long in vogue.

White pique collars for ladies are now made in all the shapes that are fashionable for linen collars, but those in the high, close, garrot shape are preferred; these have squre pique cuffs to match.

Jetted net plastrons in heart shape, pointed or square, in a soft puff, are made with a standing lace band or collar to put on over any simply trimmed dress of black silk, surah or satin.

Cashmere serges of very light quality and English manufacture are imported for the tailor suits that will be used throughout the spring for walking and traveling dresses, and for the seaside and summer resorts during the summer.

London Hair Restored—Great English Toilet article. Restore growth, color, gloss, and softness. Remove dandruff, Aristocratic families of Great Britain endorse it. Elegant dressing. Fragrantly perfumed. The favorite of fashion. At Druggists for 3s 1½d or 75 cents in U. S money. 36y1.

Couldn't Hurt Him.

"Great Scott! I've killed him!" yelled the baggage smasher as he hurled a Saratoga plump into the pit of the stomach of an old gentleman standing on the platform.

But the injured party rose with a gay air and laughed out:

"Not much, yer lop-eared idiot, I've just got outside of a beef steak in that restaurant, and I'm solider 'n the sides of a iron plated gunboat. Sling along yer Saratogies; 's long as yer aims straight fur that thirty-five cent lunch ye can't hurt my feelin's!"—[Evansville Argus.

CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough of cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. It does not dry up a cough like many preparations, and leave the disease behind it, but acts directly upon the throat and bronchial tubes, removing all the phlegm and morbid matter that accumulates ni the throat and lungs. It allays all irritation, and renders the voice clear and distinct. Trial size free. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to a lady patient who had been complaining of her continued health and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for the joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would take a man confined to his bed for a year and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from liver and kidney trouble!" 47t4

[illegible] Mr. Hopper said, [illegible] dressing and cackling, back among [illegible].

[illegible] the young couple were quietly married, and went to live in the little yellow farm house behind the blacksmith's shed.

"Hang the gladiolies!" said Bela Barlow. "I've a good mind to feed 'em to the pig."

"Oh, Bela, don't!" said Mary. "Give 'em to me. I'll plant 'em in the little south border. Cousin Jacob meant it in all kindness, you know."

"But what do we care for gladiolies?" persisted Bela.

"Never mind," said Mary; "I'll plant 'em, all the same."

In the meantime, however, a storm was brewing at the Hopper homestead.

Cousin Jacob, who had by this time recovered so far as to hobble about with a stick and a pair of carpet slippers, did not relish his dinners as he used to do.

"D'ye call this an onion stew?" said he. "Why, there ain't no sort o' flaver about it."

And Miss Boone, who had a chronic catarrh, and could not taste anything declared that the flavor was excellent.

'Humph! humph!" growled Jacob Hopper, "I'd as soon eat so much stewed rags! Put it in the pig's barrel. Bring on your pudding. A man must eat something!"

The pudding—one of the variety known as "b'iled injin"—was brought on, and luckily it proved to be tolerably palatable.

So that, after the mid-dpy meal, old Jacob went out to look for his bulbs on the shelf.

"I'm late a-plantin' 'em," said he. "But that's somethin' I never could trust any one else to do. But, dear me, this 'ere's a most onaccountable circumstance. Where be they?"

Hetty Boone was summoned from her dish-washing to solve the problem.

"Gladioly bulbs!" said she. "I don't know nothin' about 'em. How should I?"

"But they were on the shelf here!" said old Jacob. "In a flat, yellow pie-plate. Six of the Royal Princess variety, at a dollar apiece."

Miss Boone turned livid.

"I guess the rats has got 'em," said she. "Or, hold on, cousin Jacob—you give 'em to Bela Barlow's wife yourself."

"Them was in a blue pie-plate!" shrilly cried Mr. Hopper. "Where are my gladiolies, Hetty Boone? That's what I want to know. Twelve dollars a dozen! Varieties as can't be replaced not for the mint itself."

Miss Boone wisely got behind the skeleton of the old spinning-wheel.

"Wal," said she, "if you must know, Jacob Hopper, you eat them gladiolies for your dinner. I s'posed they were onions, and stewed 'em up. And, after all, what's the use of such a mortal fuss about a few dried-up old roots?"

So speaking, Miss Hetty fled for her life, and none too soon, for Jacob Hopper had seized the wooden rake in his wrath.

"The Lord be good to me!" said the repentant old man, as the sound of the banging kitchen door warned him that Miss Hetty had got beyond the reach of his rage of his rage. "I never struck a woman yet, but I dunno what I might be tempted to do if that creetur had stayed on here."

Mary Barlow was weeding her china-aster bed, when cousin Jacob trudged slowly and painfully up to the blacksmith's shop.

"Mary," said he, "have you planted them bulbs?"

"Yes, cousin Jacob!"

"Well, you may dig 'em up ag'in," groaned the old man. "They ain't nothin' but red onions. Hetty give you the wrong lot. She bil ed the dollar-bulbs in a stew that tasted like old newspapers. I'm p'isoned, for all I know. And I dunno that it makes much difference whether I be or not."

"Oh, cousin!"

"Mary," pursued cousin Jacob, "do you s'pose your mother would come back to keep house for me? Hetty Boone is going to-night. I hain't been half-way comfortable since she came to keep my house. And if you and Bela would come, too, I'd let him have the farm on shares. Somehow, I'm lonesome without you. And these gladiola bulbs have opened my eyes. You nor your mother wouldn't have made such a blunder as that. I ain't ashamed to own that I've been in the wrong, and you in the right. Will you come?"

"Yes, cousin Jacob," Mary answered, heartily kissing the old man.

So ended the reign of Miss Hetty Boone. The fate of the gladiola bulbs had sealed her doom. And all the stipulation that cousin Jacob made, was that their common table should never be desecrated by the presence of onion stew.

The Approaching State Sunday School Convention.

The magnitude of the interests involved in the moral and religious training of the children and youth of this great State is almost beyond calculation. With a juvenile population, of school age, bordering upon a million and three-quarters, one-fourth of which it is estimated, is without secular instruction, that is, not attendant upon the public or other day schools, and perhaps three-eighths, or more, without religious training, this commonwealth is confronted by a vast educational problem. After all that is provided by the State, and all that is done by churches and societies, the educational deficiencies in the Empire State are simply enormous. In the line of moral and religious improvement, the Sunday School is a pioneer of recognized value, and for economy and efficiency in its operations stands unrivaled after a history of a century. Among the old and worthy organizations for Sunday School extension in this country, of an undenominational cast, the New York State Sunday School Association stands among the best. It was established in 1855, and is strictly non-sectarian. Its twenty-ninth annual meeting is to be held at the city of Oswego, June 3-5 next, the first convention appointed in that locality since 1859. A cordial reception will, no doubt, be accorded this valued organization, which has numbered among its members and workers many of our foremost religious thinkers and speakers. Its programme may be expected to be filled with practical essays, discussions and conversations upon the many phases of this great work, and with addresses of eloquence and power. The mission work of this Association deserves especail mention. Through its extended organization, which reaches every county, the wants of the mission field are readily discerned, and it aims not only to supply missionary service of general work wherever needed in the field, but to induce county and other local societies to undertake the details of the work in the several sections of our great commonwealth. No other body, save only the efficient county organization, accomplishes for the children, and youth of New York, in the poorer and more destitute sections, what the State Society is doing. Still the work is as yet but very partially performed. Men and means are largely needed, and it is desired that our Sunday Schools and churches and representatives to the convention to discuss the interests of this great work. As samples of the destitution found, we may quote the following:

"I have just been informed of a section of country (in Madison Co.) about twelve miles long and six wide, where there are no Sunday Schools or preaching." The missionary speaks of a point in the same county where he gathered a room full of children for the purpose of arranging a Sunday School, but "there was not a christain in the place." Of a portion of Lewis County he says: "Religion is about the last thing spoken of in this part of the State." In Cayuga County, the missionary found a woman "who said she had not been in Sunday School or church for seventeen years, and that she had a grown up daughter who did not know what Sunday School meant." In a place in Steuben County, a day school was found where "the teacher, a girl not over sixteen, sat with sewing work in hand, but no scholars. She had seven names on the register but frequently passed the day with no one present." At a point in Oneida County, the missionary recognized "the greatest religious destitution he ever met, a geneial condition of depravity and mischief." He traveled eight miles through a thickly settled section of the same county, "with numerous hotels but no Sunday Schools." In one district of this county there was "not a praying man or woman." These are a few examples, selected from a central and generally rich and prosperous section of the State, and not worse than the condition of many people and localities scattered all across our wide domain. The State Association, having in its Executive Board such experienced and well known men as William A. Duncan, (chairman of Executive Committee), of Syracuse, Hon. Edward Danforth, (Secretary), of Elmira, Judge O. J. Harmon of Oswego, L. H. Biglow, (of Biglow & Main), New York, E. W. Hawley of Brooklyn, H. B. Silliman of Cohoes, Reuben Bernard of Kingston, Judge W. B. Edwards of Binghamton, (Surrogate of Broome County), R. C. Cooke of Whitehall, H. A. DeLand of Fairport, James Vick of Rochester, Dr. J. H. Helmer of Lockport, and others of zeal and ability, confidently looks to the Christain public to aid in its warfare against ignorance and sin in the community, and in behalf of needy childhood and youth. Timothy Hough of Syracuse, is the treasurer of the organization, through whom donations are invited in aid of the good work. It will help any of our Christain people in their impulses toward a devoted service in the cause of humanity to participate in the deliberations of the Oswego convention, and assist in the worthy work of saving the young to Christianity and to the State.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

NEW YORK TIMES
FOR 1884.

REDUCED IN PRICE.
CHEAPEST AND BEST
NEWSPAPER IN THE UNITED STATES,

FOR 1884.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

The price of THE NEW YORK TIMES was reduced on the 18th of September from 4 cents per copy to 2 cents, with a corresponding reduction in the subscription rates. Within three days the circulation of the paper had doubled, and its daily sales are still rapidly increasing. Facts like these give plain and positive proof of the excellence and completeness of THE TIMES as a newspaper for the people. But the step that has brought it within the reach of every class of readers involved no cheapening of its quality or lowering of its standard. It is, and will continue to be, an able, lively, and complete newspaper. Whatever is of human interest in the chronicle of passing events at home and abroad will be found in its columns. It prints more telegraphic matter from all parts of the United States than any other metropolitan journal. Its special cable dispatches promptly supply its readers with all important European news. While it neglects nothing of general interest, it has gained a recognized pre-eminence for the accuracy and fullness of its political reports and of its news concerning railroads, banks and banking, insurance matters, real estate interests, important legal decisions, military and naval affairs, educational progress, and social, religious and scientific thought and discussion. It gives early announcements of new publications, American and foreign, and it reviews with fairness and critical ability the best books of the day. Its dramatic and musical criticisms are a notable feature of its well-filled pages. Faithful to Republican principles, it is wholly unfettered by considerations of party or faction in expressing its opinions. Its criticisms of parties, of public men and measures are independent, fearless, and honest. It has no hobbies, but is in sympathy with all progressive and reform movements; and amid its graver duties it finds time and the mood now and then to be merry over the foibles of mankind.

THE SUNDAY TIMES, in addition to the news of the day, contains bright and readable selections from the latest English reviews and magazines, selected and original poetry, and extracts from the newest books.

THE WEEKLY TIMES gives a compact and complete summary of the news of the week, with editorial note and comment upon topics of national and general interest. It is an admirably complete weekly newspaper, and has a large circulation in every State in the Union and in foreign countries. During the Presidential year of 1884 THE WEEKLY TIMES will furnish its readers with prompt and full information of the progress of the canvass.

THE mass meeting of the various trade unions held in New York City Monday evening to urge the passage of the 8-hour and other bills for the benefit of the working classes, now before the Legislature, was one of the largest labor demonstrations seen in that city for years. It was estimated that from 7,000 to 10,000 persons were present, representing thirty trade organizations.

THE Governor returned without approval the Assembly bill to amend the general act for the incorporation of benevolent societies by providing for the disolution of such corporations and the applications of the proceeds of the property to any object indicated by the trustees. The Governor does not think the bill provides for sufficient notice to interested stockholders, and he thinks all the purposes of the act could be secured under the Code of Civil Procedure. If not, he thinks the code should be amended, instead of amending the general law.

CHARLES READE, the well known novelist died in London last Friday. Deceased was born in 1814, in Oxfordshire. He was educated at Oxford, and so distinguished himself as to secure a fellowship. Whereas, Divine Providence has again visited us with his afflicting hand and taken from our midst our beloved brother James Ramsey, who with humble submission to the Divine Will, with perfect confidence and faith in the merits of his Redeemer, and in humble hope of Eternal life after long months of suffering, has gently breathed his spirit out,

But who may know her fate—either for good or evil? By the earnest advice of friends in Peekskill, Mr. Howell tenderly conveyed his daughter—all there was left of her—to the office of Dr. David Kennedy, in Rondout, N. Y. Dr. Kennedy perceived that she was suffering from heart disease, and also from an advanced stage of a complaint common to women.

Having given some minor directions in reference to diet and clothing, Dr. Kennedy prescribed his FAVORITE REMEDY as his young patient's only medicine. Not long after the threatening symptoms vanished, the light returned to her eyes, the bloom to her cheeks and happiness to her heart, an example of a recovery which is as wonderful as the medicine that effected it.

CHEESE MARKETS.

THE TIMES this season will be of special interest to all persons engaged in the manufacture of butter and cheese. Our facilities for obtaining the latest correct reports from principal markets are first class. We will be able to give the Utica markets besides the doings of the Fulton market and all matters of interest to dairymen.

AT UTICA.

April, 15.—There is enough of last year's cheese on hand to supply the market up to the first or middle of June. The indications are that June cheese will be worth but 10c. delivered in July and July cheese will go at 8c. Some parties believe that cheese will go as low as in 1879, but they are very few. The annual meeting of the Utica board of trade will meet next Monday April, 21. Some offerings of cheese will probably be made at that time.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, April 14, 1884.

Gentlemen—I have taken but two bottles of Rheumatic Syrup, but have received more benefit from it than from all the remedies I have tried. I have improved every day since I first commenced to use it, and I am confident that there is no case of rheumatism that the Rheumatic Syrup will not cure, if the patient will adhere closely to the directions for its use, and use proper care about exposing themselves, Yours Truly

Rheumatic Syrup Co.:
Gentlemen—I have been troubled with rheumatism in my ankles and feet for over one year. Have tried several remedies, but found nothing to relieve me or stop pain. I commenced taking Rheumatic Syrup, and in less than two weeks all pain had left me, and to-day I am as well as ever. It is a sure cure for rheumatism. Mrs. Albert Graham

In the morning he started on his visit, as his wife supposed, but instead, he came to Fulton and went directly to his house where he packed his trunk and tool chest and had them taken to the depot. He then went to the home of Mrs. Perry and helped her pack her trunk which was conveyed to her father's at the Upper Landing. He then left town on the next train. When he left his wife in Oswego he gave her $1.50 which he said would last her until he came back. When she returned from Oswego she heard of his doings and received a letter from him stating that he was working in Syracuse and giving her his boarding house address which she found was false. A gentleman who knew of the circumstance ran across him while at work in Syracuse and during the conversation the foreman handed him a letter addressed to Rufus Field, a name which he had assumed. He said the letter was from his wife and that she was coming up to spend Sunday with him. The letter was from Mrs. Perry who left here Saturday and nothing more has been heard from either of them. Mrs. Monroe says that Mrs. Perry is a disreputable character, and that Monroe has kept her in provisions for sometime past, She also says the report that she is not married to Monroe is untrue, as she has in her possession a certificate of their marriage. She says that Monroe has another wife living.

Monroe is a man about 35 years of age with a very pleasing a appearance. Mrs. Monroe was a true wife and did everything to make her home happy. She has the sympathy of her friends and neighbors in her troubles.

ELECTING DELEGATES.

First Assembly District Convention at Oswego.

The first Assembly District Republican convention was held in Oswego yesterday, the adherents of each faction were out in full force and considerable excitment was manifest. The Arthur men captured the convention. They did this by shutting out the Sloan delegations in the First and Second wards and so controlling the commitee on credentials and subsequently the convention. Mr. Sloan made a telling and magnetic speech and attempted to show what had been done in the First ward, but the Chairman, Dr. Milne, informally ruled against him. Each side carried a district. It is now left for the delegates of Cayuga and Wayne county to decide who shall be the national delegate. The chances greatly favor Mr. Sloan, as both Cayuga and Wayne are anti-administration counties. The State delegates are the Hon, Charles North, W. G. Gage, S. B. Mead, A. Cropsey, and James McCarthy. The Congressional delegates are M. P. Neal, Fred Bennett, T. G. Thompson, G. A. Whiting, Geo. Dodge, A. S. Guthrie, C. A. Worts, Russell Turner and H. A. Wilcox.

The Republican State convention will be held on Wednesday, the 23d day of April, 1884, in the city of Utica.

[illegible] patient gentleman have gathered to kill time. The details are very natural and striking and there call to mind most vividly the scenes enacted by easy going travellers while en route to foreign lands. The artist is George Wright of Philadelphia. A single character painting which is very prominent, in what is termed the black room is "Dead Broke." A street urchin with a serious, knowing face, stands with each pantaloon's pocket turned wrong side out, holding them extended with the thumb and finger, with a look which speaks "dead broke" in every lineament.—J. G. Brown, an American, is the artist. One of the finest paintings in the gallery is "Phydias in his Studio" by Joseph Coomans. The Greek Sculpturer is represented at work with a number of the royal family intently gazing at the chiselled form as it nears completion. The coloring is as nearly perfect as can come from the hand of this great master. This also is in the black room, which is now being greatly beautified by the resident artist, Mr. John Miller. The great plate mirrors are bordered with vines and passion flowers and what seem to be living roses.

Beautiful life size portraits of mother and daughter appear in "The Storm," by a Spanish artist. This is a faithful picture, and one of great value. At the corner, in characters almost hid we read Palmaroli. The frightened gaze of the child clinging to her mother's side to hide from the infuriated storm is wonderful to look upon. A fine landscape from the art schools of Munich is freshly hung and greatly admired. "Blind Man's Buff" by Schatze, is full of quaint characters, with old time costumes and as striking as life itself. These and some others have just been hung at large expense by Mr. Powers replacing those which were taken to the additional story erected last year. "October" by Auguste Hagborg, of Sweden is a grand picture 8 by 10 feet and is most suggestive of old country peasant life. It is said to be the finest representative painting brought to this country of the peculiar school in France of which the noted Jean Millett was the originator and master. Among the elegant pieces of statuary none commands more attention than the bust of Mr. Powers, made by the celebrated sculptor, Chev. C. Popotti, of Rome. His "Flower Girl"—"The Hunter Boy" and "Two Cupids" are works from his chisel and are perfect in design; the artist has spread out the limbs and and slender carvings seemingly without regard to the difficulty or the danger of his undertaking. All the paintings above mentioned have not yet been catalogued and have not before been noticed by the press. Of the more than five hundred older paintings much could be said. In monied value they represent hundreds of thousands of dollars, and are the finest works from such of the old painters as Raphael, Michael Angelo, Rubens, Rembrandt, Leonards, Giotto and others. Of course the originals of these magnificent pictures are in the extensive galleries of the old world. But the best talent of Europe has been employed in reproducing them unequaled creations, and many of the copies are said to rival the originals in excellence and often surpass them in freshness and beauty of coloring. No gallery in this country can compare with this in decoration, in richness of hanging and in attractiveness. It represents in its best sense the good taste, large enterprise and broad liberty of its founder and must ever remain a lasting monument to his memory. The Powers building is not more a private benefit than a public blessing. A distinguished honor to the "Flour City." H. N. G.

THE SUN.
NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, ro of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In 1875, thirteen men comprised the entire working force used in the manufacture of the James Boss' Gold Watch Case. Now over five hundred are employed, and the number is constantly increasing. The reason of this increase is this: In the James Boss' Gold Watch Case all the metal in sight and subject to wear is solid gold, while the remainder, which only lends strength to the case, is of stronger metal than gold, giving gold where gold is needed, and strong, elastic metal where strength and elasticity are needed, a combination producing a watch case better than solid gold and at ONE-HALF the cost.

Over 300,000 of these cases have been sold, and every [illegible] in the country can testify to their quality and merit. [illegible]

A [illegible] fold of [illegible] lawn is frequently worn on the neck instead of the stiff linen collar.

Changeable taffetas silks of smooth, lustrous surface are largely imported for spring and summer dresses.

New silk stockings come in ribbed, vertical striped, and checked effects, in colors that match the new goods.

A new handle for country parasols is long and jointed, and screws together, when opened, forming an alpenstock.

One of the richest stuffs for wraps and parts of costumes is silk grenadine brocaded with frise (uncut) velvet figures and flowers.

Harlequin stockings have one-half the leg and foot in one bright or dark color, the other half in a paler shade of the same or a contrasting tint.

Very dressy toilettes are made of embroidered white net flounces, mounted over pink silk surah skirts, and worn with a basque of embroidered muslin.

For dark costumes for the street glace satins with illuminated Persian figures for a part of the dress, and the plain changeable ground for the remainder, are popular.

Gray in all shades prevails in all kinds of dry goods from dress fabrics to stockings, but gray is generally brightened with vivid colors in figures, stripes and checks.

Rosettes, cockade bows, and chains of loops of velvet ribbon trim the sides of dresses that have an embroidered front, or else they secure the drapery on the sides if there is an overskirt.

The most elegant white dresses for spring weddings will be made of white China crape trimmed with flounces of Valenciennes lace, and plastrons of crystal-beaded net, with also draperies of this net.

For very quiet dark dresses satin merveilleux, Rhadames, and surahs are still largely imported, and when these are to be made lighter and more summary looking, they will be trimmed with ecru embroideries that look like lace.

For graduating dresses and for summer afternoons at the watering places, sheer white muslin dresses are being made in very simple styles, and are again trimmed with embroidered flounces or with the Oriental lace that resembles embroidery.

☞ Diamond Dies will color anything any color, and never fail. The easiest and best way to economize. 10c. at all druggists. Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt. Sample card, 32 colors and book of directions for 2 cent stamp.

Mr. Carr has been stated clerk of Chemung Presbytery for thirty-four years. He is still in good health and hopes to be able to preach the gospel for a few years longer.

The vagaries of the rich are very queer, and it is a curious study to inquire into the secret springs of human action. In Paris there are a number of Buddhists, who have no place of public worship. The want is, it seems, to be supplied by a rich English lady. She has bought a plot of ground, and the masons are already at work.

Rev. John McCullagh, the venerable missionary and superintendent of the American Sunday School Union, for Kentucky, who has been personally instrumental in establishing one thousand Sunday-schools in that State, has been succeeded in the superintendency by his son, Rev. J. H. McCullagh, of Henderson, Ky. He is said to possess the same rare qualifications for the position and work which his father has displayed in a service of more than fifty years.

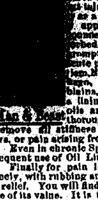
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty-five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalleled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

Some one asks: "How long is a man a bridegroom?" We believe it is fashionable now not to skip out for two months.—Boston Globe.

FARM GOSSIP.

The "general purpose cow" is an impossible animal. Let each farmer decide whether all circumstances point to a beef, a milk, or a butter breed, and choose the stock accordingly.

Unless hens are cooped up when nursing broods there will be much loss, as very often the hens will not settle down for the chicks to nestle, the consequence being the chilling of the chicks by cold.

Field mice are said to be more numerous this spring than for a number of years. The winter was favorable for the preservation of these mischievous rodents, and a great number of girdled fruit trees is the result.

Farmers who manure heavily should not forget that the growth of weeds will be as highly stimulated as the legitimate crop, and that consequently more thorough and cleaner cultivation is essential to giving the crop the entire benefit of the fertilizers. Few farmers can afford to buy fertilizers to raise weeds with.

A goat raiser in Texas says he began with seven animals, and at the end of 14 months had butchered three, sold three and had 37 left. He knows of no domestic animal fit for meat which is so prolific as the goat. The flesh of the kid resembles that of the deer, and as the goat subsists for the most part on leaves and weeds, and very little on herbage relished by other animals, it can be reared with far less expense than any other domestic beast. Improved stock of course is the most profitable.

CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough or cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. [illegible]

A DRUGGIST'S STORY.

[illegible] said to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would take a man confined to his bed for a year and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from liver and kidney trouble!" 47t4

SINGLE COPIES THREE CENTS.

[illegible]

Mrs. Sevrance had been married only [illegible] happy and after the long [illegible] these two years [illegible] in the night, and [illegible] of every moment [illegible] society. How, in the [illegible] could she leave her husband [illegible] months' stay in Europe? [illegible] what she asked herself.

"I care," said Mrs. Sevrance, tying the knot of pink bows and ends round her throat a new and more bewitching bunch than Victorine had achieved. "and that's the whole of it!" and the brown eyes sparkled triumphantly at the conclusion of the matter.

Still, it was such an excellent opportunity; one that might never occur again; a party of [illegible] "And I should make the [illegible] just filling two coaches everywhere, and, as Cousin Harry says, only one long picnic," she went on. "I don't see why Charlie can't go too. But I shan't stir a step without him. And that's settled!"

Of course, not taking advantage of such a chance, she might have to wait for years, or might possibly never go at all. "For if Charlie can't leave his business now, there's no knowing if he ever can before we are too old to want to go, or else have a thousand cares to tie us down at home," she murmured. "It's terribly provoking. But what must be, must be." And she swept down to dinner, where cousins Harry and Sarah were to make it a partie carree. "It's very vexatious of them," she thought as she descended, "that they must needs come to-day, when I should so like to talk it all out with Charlie alone. But then, if they didn't come, I dare say I should think they were indifferent about my going." And Mrs. Sevrance greeted her cousins without any idea that her last sentence spoke volumes for her.

"Well," said Harry, in his hearty way, with the first spoonful of soup, "I suppose it's all settled about the trip over?"

"All settled," said Mrs. Sevrance, smiling, and flashing a shining glance at her husband.

"That's so nice," said Sarah. "And you have your letter of credit? No? Well, then, make it of several figures, Charlie; for although we take nothing with us, it is certain we shall bring a great deal away. Europe will be the poorer for fans and embroideries, and all sorts of bawbles; for we must have corals from Naples, and beads from Venice, and laces from Belgium, and—"

"There, there, there, Sarah!" laughed Charlie. "Don't go on, or Sophy will reverse her decision, and go, and bankrupt me."

"Go!—Why—what do you mean? Is she not going? She just said she was."

"No, I didn't say so," his wife answered for him. "I only said it was settled." And there was just an accent of indecision now.

"You see," said Charlie, "I have a sensible little wife. She has no idea of going abroad and ruining me with her caprices."

And then the sensible little wife looked at him with dilating eyes. Sensible? Ruining? Did she hear straight? Was it possible that he really grudged her the cost of the trip over? After all his profession of affection and desire to sacrifice anything in token of his love, could he be depriving her of the immense pleasure of this trip for fear she should buy a little bric-a-brac? "I really don't know what you mean, Charles," she cried. "You are perfectly inexplicable. I never had an idea that it was on account of money that you didn't [illegible]—"

Mr. Sevrance looked up with a start, and of course he spilled his soup. "My dear—" he began.

"For if it is on account of money," she continued, her eyes getting some dangerous lights in them, "that alters the whole matter. I have money enough of my own any day to—"

"My dear child," Mr. Sevrance managed to ejaculate, "how can you be so foolish—"

"Oh, it's all very well, Mr. Sevrance, to call me foolish—"

"I didn't call you foolish, Sophia."

"Didn't he, Sarah? I ask you, Harry? And you said 'Sophia,' too!"

"Sophy," said Mr. Sevrance, gently, "do you think this is dignified?"

"I don't know how a person can be expected to be dignified when her husband tells her before everybody that if she wants to go to Europe she must spend her own money, or stay at home, tantamount to that—"

Mr. Sevrance pushed back his plate and laughed. "You dear little goose," he cried, "do you really think I would grudge you a dollar of your little money!"

"Harry and Sarah," said Mr. Sevrance, turning to their cousins, "I am sure you will excuse this little domestic scene, [illegible] much a part of us—"

Mrs. Sevrance had endured a good deal [illegible] herself, without flinching [illegible] shot from her eyes be[illegible] long curling lashes; but [illegible] straw, and it was tears [illegible] the eyes now. "I should [illegible] should be asked to ex[illegible]. "Rebuked for extrav[illegible] in this manner, [illegible] to you a pauper, before [illegible] everybody—" thing," she's so nervous! She has pro'd and con'd over the trip so much she's all in confusion. She wants to go, and she wants to stay, and she wants him to want her to go, and she wants him to want her to stay." And while Sarah was involving herself in the problem, Harry finished his soup, and Mr. Sevrance came back in triumph, leading his wife, blushing and smiling, with his eyes full of tears, and who took her seat, saying: "You both know I am such a simpleton that it doesn't signify; so I won't apologise. Only I'm sure I shall never feel quite certain now that Charlie doesn't grudge me the pleasure, because when a suspicion has once crept in, it will keep putting its head up; and if I believed he did, I would certainly go, for I never thought of his wanting me to stay at home for anything but because he couldn't bear to part with me, and I see he can bear to part with me perfectly well."

"I really think," Charles said, gayly, "that you must have been sitting up nights, with this notion of yours, it has so unnerved you. Of course I want you to take the trip over, if you would like it."

"If I would like it, Charles! As if there was anybody who wouldn't like to go to Europe! Especially with the holidays over, and Lent coming on, and the carnival in Rome—"

"Well, then, I'm sure I don't see why you don't go. For my part, I had rather you would go than not." Rash speech—for the tongue is a fire.

"That's just it! That's just what I say!" she cried, setting down the glass untasted, and turning on him with her cheeks burning like two great roses. "You don't see why I don't go, and of course you want me to go if I would like to, and you'd rather I'd go than not! A pretty way to talk to a wife! Those are your own words. You needn't contradict them. You can bear to part with me perfectly well, you see. You have other ways, no doubt, to pass your time than in my society. You had rather I'd go than not! Oh, I never thought—I never thought—and before two years—" And it was neither tears nor smiles nor blushes now, but Mrs. Sevrance was taken out of the room in a kicking hysteric.

"Great heavens, Sarah!" said Harry. "Do they go on this way every day at dinner?" The butler began to grin. "Poor Charley Sevrance!" said Harry, helping himself to the lobster plate, which was too delicately crisp and brown to be kept waiting. "Job's wife was nothing to her! What have I done to escape his lot? But she does give a nice dinner. Let me look at you, you commanding woman," he began again, after a little. "To think that you never had a hysteric in your destiny? or have I achieved a greater fate than belongs to husbands in general?"

And here a feeble wail piped through the crack of the folding-doors into the room beyond. "Oh, how can you be laughing in that way when I am so wretched?"

"I wish Europe was in the bottom of the sea!" cried Mr. Sevrance, opening the crack, and coming back to finish his repast. "When you are through, Sarah, if you will try to talk a little sense into Sophy—I can't."

"Oh! oh! oh!" cried Mrs. Sevrance, at the door herself, her pretty bright locks all drenched in Cologne water, and curling in rings round her face, that was now as white as it had been rosy. "The idea of your talking that way about me behind my back! I know I havn't a great deal of sense, and I suppose that's the reason you want to be rid of me. Oh! I'm going—I'm certainly going now. You will have your vacation, and go to your club every night, and be just as gay as the gayest bachelor about town; only if the Servia, or the Cephalona, or the Babylonia, or whatever it is, goes down, I want you to remember that you drove me to my death."

"Sophia?" cried her husband, in a voice full of the potentialities of being able to endure no more; "come to your place and finish your dinner, and don't let us have another word of this."

And to everybody's amazement and amusement she obeyed him, and made a very good dinner after all, saying little, but listening eagerly to Sarah's account of the dresses that Helena and Madeleine were going to take.

"I knew master'd fetch her if he'd just put his foot down," said the butler, in his pantry. "Europe, indeed! If she was my wife, I'd pack her off, and pay to scuttle the ship."

"What's the use of talking so, Mr. Welsh?" asked the high-toned maid, who busied herself beside him. "You know your'e just as bad as master is about her, and every bit as indulgent. I'm sure it's myself would never have taken service with her but for the hearing her well recommended."

"You just wipe your silver, Maria. You talk too much with your mouth," said the butler, closing the door behind him.

"But you don't mean to say, Sarah, that Helena and Madeleine are going to carry all those things?" Mrs. Sevrance was saying.

"Yes, I do. They maintain they can't have a dress fitted in Paris as Chenery fits here. And they've had their trunks packed this week and over."

"The idea! Why, I shouldn't think of taking anything but a satchel myself for such a little trip over as this. One black silk dress on and my wraps in a strap, are all that I should need beyond the hand-bag, if I were going to start in the Roumania to-morrow."

Mr. Sevrance looked up with a quick glance at Harry, who in a moment returned it as intelligently.

"[illegible]," said Harry.

"[illegible]," said Mr. Sevrance.

"But in time," [illegible]

[illegible] Sophy to excuse him, and Sarah to wait for him.

When he returned, an hour or two afterward, Sophy was actively engaged with Sarah in examining a map of the proposed route of the party, and had already projected the purchases to be made in various cities. "There's one thing I am determined to have," Sophy was saying, "and that is some Norwegian filigrane silver. It is so exactly like the frost of snowy latitudes—one of the things that are the expression of the country they come from. And now we must arrange it so as to bring Koningsberg—"

"Well," said Harry, "we shall have plenty of time for all that when we are aboard. And now you had better have a good night's sleep, for the Roumania sails at 11 to-morrow, and I bought out the Stephensons. I've left work with all the others, and we'll meet on the pier. Au revoir. Come, Sarah."

"Does this mean," cried Sophy, suddenly turning to Charles as the door closed upon the others, "that you have sent and engaged my passage over my head, and arranged for me to go, whether I will or no? You treat me exactly as if I were a child. I will never, never, never forget it."

"I don't want you to forget it," said Charles, with a fatal facetiousness.

"And you can jest when you are going to part from me in twelve hours! You can make merry about putting that interminable reach of black water between us! You can laugh, with me on the brink of that black gulf of death that a January sea is! Oh, what a relief you must feel my going! Perhaps you don't want me to come back."

And then Mr. Sevrance, with his grave and tenderly reproachful face above her, had clasped her in his arms, and she was pouring her tears into his breast. And she awoke, the night long, every half hour, to clasp him, and kiss him, and cry over him, and then to turn away, and cry over herself as a wretched wife whose husband wanted her out of the way, and was sending her a costly journey, with a probably unlimited letter of credit, ready to pay any price for six months' freedom.

It was a gray, wet day when she rose—rain and snow and slush.

"The idea," she said, "of crossing the sea in January! Who ever heard of of such a thing?"

"It isn't the pleasantest month in the year," said her husband.

"Then why, in mercy's name, did you choose it for me?" she exclaimed.

"I choose it?—I?

"Really, the next thing you'll be saying you never said you wanted six months' rest from my caprices."

"I never did."

"What did you say, then?"

"Now, Sophy, listen," said her husband, seriously. "Let us have no more nonsense. I love you. I hate to lose your companionship for even six months. But I want you to enjoy yourself. And whether I do or not, the thing is done. You are going to sail this morning with cousins Harry and Sarah, and Helena the Mongolfiers and Van Stubbs. You know that you want to go; every arrangement is made, and there isn't another word to say about it, for I won't be mortified before the world as I was before Harry and Sarah yesterday."

"It is just as you please," she said, with immense dignity; and she sailed past him, and proceeded to oversee Victorine's packing of the little berth trunk and satchel, with much calmness, breakfasted like one in a dream, and summoned the housekeeper for directions during her absence. And then she came down-stairs wrapped from head to foot in her furs, and carrying an air cushion, which, as she had remarked to Victorine, might float in the absence of a life-preserver.

"I will drive to the pier with you, and see you safely on the boat," said her husband.

"Yes," she replied, in the same dreary way, yet as if she stated a mathematical fact; "a parting is not likely to be so effusive that it cannot be public when a man sends his wife away from him."

"Sophy," said Mr. Sevrance then, as they stood on the upper step, "if I really took it all back, and even at this late moment insisted that I could not let you go to—"

"I should refuse to be bandied about like a doll; I should go," she said, distinctly. And so they went.

The party was in such high spirits when she joined them on the great steamer that their state of feeling was contageous, and Sophy stopped, amazed to find herself laughing—and she so wretched!—at the list of Helena's luggage, as if she had committed sacrilege. And then there had been one long despairing clinging to Charlie, and she had flung herself down anywhere as he disappeared, perfectly reckless as to people, and careless whether the ship went to the bottom or not.

"I am going to my state-room," she said, by-and-by, feeling the throb of the engines as they ploughed along through the water. "I will lie down and get used to the motion. You needn't come. I know where it is; I left my satchel and air cushion there."

"Yes. But you don't want to shut yourself up there so soon," said Sarah.

"Come, here are the flowers that have been sent to the prima donna; let us look at them. And then we will go on deck, and see how the sea looks in winter weather. Can't we Harry? Is it too —st? There, now"—as they established themselves—"this is great sport. Aren't you glad you come, Sophy?"

"Oh, no! no! [illegible]," she cried. "I [illegible] him, and [illegible] about it too, and put all the responsibility on him, and leave him all alone to that club he hates, and the empty desolate house. Oh, I'm a monster—I'd give half my life if I had never come at all. It's dreadful for a young wife to leave her husband—and such a husband."

And just then a gentleman passing asked Harry if he thought there was time to scratch off a note and send it back by the pilot-boat.

"The pilot-boat!" cried Sophy, turning with her beautiful face in its customary bath of tears. "Do you mean—Is there a pilot-boat? Does the pilot leave us, and go back in that boat? And can I get aboard it? Oh, I can—I know I can! I won't be a bit of trouble and that will be all right. I will go back, and surprise and delight my dear unselfish, self-sacrificing patient husband, and never, never leave him till—" And she paused with a glow upon her cheeks and a lustre in her eyes, and smiles about her lips. "I really am too noisy," she said.

"Poor Charlie!" sighed Harry, mockingly.

"Now I certainly will," retorted Sophy, a swift indignant flash replacing the softness, before she laughed.

"Well Sophy, if you will, you will. But you are my own cousin, and I am going to give you a bit of advice first. If you want to make love brittle treat it as you would an iron rod, and plunge it into hot coals and then into iced water and keep it up. That is, continue to indulge Charlie in such alternations as he had from you yesterday. Although I am bound to say that Charlie seems to like it."

"I don't care what you say," she answered, quite radiant. "I deserve it all—I deserve it. But now that I've really made up my mind to go back to Charlie, my heart is as light as a feather—"

"Why, there goes the pilot boat, now," said Sarah, demurely. "Dear me, how quietly they do things on these great steamers! I had no idea she would leave us for some time."

"Has she gone? Oh, has she gone?" cried Sophy, looking for the thing fast becoming a dancing speck. And the next instant she had swept away and made for her stateroom with a plunge, bursting in, and flinging the door to behind her.

Somebody started up from the sofa. "Well, my darling," said her laughing husband.

"Oh, Charlie," she cried, throwing herself into his arms. "I knew you meant to come along all the time! I never should have stirred to come a step if I hadn't felt sure you meant to come too!"—[Harper's Bazar.

234 ADELPHI ST., BROOKLYN, N. Y. March 29, 1881.

No family should be without ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS; their healing powers are wonderful and their efficacy far reaching and lasting. For years past I have seen and known them to cure and relieve the most obstinate and distressing cases of rheumatism, kidney complaint bronchitus, neuralgia, lumbago, inflamation of the lungs and throat, paralysis, asthma, spinal weakness, and coughs and colds. In my own case they have afforded me almost instant and permanent relief. My friends consider them an invaluable and speedy remedy for all kinds of aches and pains. They are a blessing in disguise; and no wife or mother should be without them if she values her peace and comfort and freedom from nervous exhaustion and other ailments. [illegible]

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

THE SITUATION.

The fact is beginning to down upon the average intellect of the party whip, that there is such a being as the independent voter. It is also apparent that the independent voter is by no means so mindful of the lash aforesaid, as has been the case in years past. The party of to-day who nominates the best man will most likely take the cake; and in view of such a likelihood, it will be well to cast aside the mere question of availability in the choice of a candidate and look rather toward a man with a square record in the past and brains for the future, instead of a "bar'l" for the present. The "bar'l" may be all right and is undoubtedly a factor of no mean pretensions in the conduct of a political campaign; but the independent voter of to-day is looking for a man whose record in the past has been upright, whose deal has been square, whose every act has looked toward the good of his fellow man, who is a business man and a successful one at that, a fact which always pre-supposes brains. There are such men and the parties should unearth them.

CONGRESS will be false to its duty if it fails to pass the bills demanded by the workingmen; that the importation of pauper labor under contracts shall be prohibited; that a bureau of labor statistics be created, and that the eight-hour law shall apply to all government work.—[Buffalo News.

THE New York Sun says; "South Carolina is in a very unfortunate plight, and her people are much worse off than than the inundated inhabitants of the Western valleys. A large number of her industrious and hard working farmers are actually starving, a fact which seems almost incredible in a year when wheat is cheaper than at any time within twenty-five years."

THE crop reports from the winter and spring wheat belts of Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Nebraska, Dakota, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Missouri show that wheat has only been damaged in a few localities. and is now doing well. Spring wheat prospects are not cheering owing to the continued cold, wet weather. The outlook of the fruit and grain crop was never better.

IF the Morrison bill should be defeated at the close of the general debate it is understood that Mr. Hewitt has a new Tariff Reform Bill prepared which the Committee of Ways and Means will report very soon afterward to the House. But if the debate on the present bill should not close before May 10th or 12th, opponents of tariff reform believe the session will then be too far gone and the House too impatient to get through with appropriation bills and other necessary business and go home to allow of a favorable consideration and debate of a second bill.

The building is five stories high, and her effigy dangled therefrom for half an hour before being discovered by the faculty, by whose order is was cut down. The job was a good one.

Bitter Bread.

Complaint is frequently made by those who use baking powders that they leave in bread, biscuit, or cake raised by them a disagreeable, bitter taste. This taste follows the use of all impure baking powders, and is caused either by their containing alum (introduced to make a cheap article) by the impure and adulturated character of other ingredients used, or from the ignorance of their manufacturers of the proper methods of combining them. These baking powders leave in the bread a residuum formed of lime, earth, alum, or other deleterious matter, not always, though frequently, tastable in the food, and by all physicians classed as injurious to health. The Royal Baking Powder is free from this serious defect. In its use no residuum is left, and the loaf raised by it is always sweet, light and wholesome, and noticeably free from the peculiar taste complained of. The reason of this is because it is composed of nothing but absolutely pure materials, scientifically combined in exactly the proper proportions of acid and alkali to act [illegible]

The inhabitants of the pleasant town of Cortland, N. Y., were shocked one morning by the announcement that Mr. Clinton Rindge, one of their most prominent citizens, had committed suicide. The news spread rapidly and aroused the entire neighborhood where Mr. Rindge was well and favorably known. At first it seemed impossible that any one so quiet and domestic could do so rash a deed, and the inquiry was heard on every side as to the cause. The facts as developed on investigation proved to be as follows:

Mr. Rindge was domestic in his tastes and took the greatest enjoyment in the society of his children and pride in their development. And indeed he had good reason to be proud for they gave promise of long lives of success and usefulness. But an evil day came. His youngest son, William, began to show signs of an early decay. He felt unusually tired each day, and would sometimes sleep the entire afternoon if permitted to do so. His head pained him, not acutely, but with a dull, heavy feeling. There was a sinking sensation at the pit of the stomach. He lost all relish for food and much of his interest for things about him. He tried manfully to overcome his feelings, but they seemed stronger than his will. He began to lose flesh rapidly. The father became alarmed and consulted physicians as to the cause of his son's illness, but were unable to explain. Finally severe sores broke out on his arms and he was finally taken to Buffalo where a painful operation was performed resulting in the loss of much blood but affording little relief. The young man returned home and a council of physicians was called. After an exhaustive examination they declared there was no hope of final recovery and that he must die within a few days. To describe the agony which this announcement caused the father would be impossible. His mind failed to grasp its full meaning at first; then finally seemed to comprehend it, but the load was too great. In an agony of frenzy he siezed a knife and took his own life, preferring death rather than to survive his idolized son. At that time William Ringe was too weak to know what was transpiring. His face had turned black, his breath ceased entirely at times, and his friends waited for his death believing that the fiend Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which he was suffering could not be removed. In this supreme moment William's sister came forward and declared she would made one final attempt to save her brother. The doctors interposed, assuring her it was useless and that she would only hasten the end by the means she proposed to employ. But she was firm, and putting all back, approached her brother's side and administered a remedy which she fortunately had on hand. Within an hour he seemed more easy and before the day was over he showed signs of decided improvement. These favorable signs continued, and to-day William B. Rindge is well, having been virtually raised from the dead through the marvelous power of Warner's Safe Cure, as can be readily verified by any citizen of Cortland.

Any one who reflects upon the facts above described must have a feeling of sadness. The father dead by his own hand, supposing his son's recovery to be impossible; the son restored to health to mourn the loss of his father and the agonized relatives with a memory of sadness to forever darken their lives. Had Clinton Rindge known that his son could recover he would to-day be alive and happy, but the facts which turned his brain and caused him to commit suicide are such as any one would accept as true.

However sad this case may be, the truth remains that thousands of people are at this moment in as great actual peril as William Rindge and in as great danger of causing misery if not death to their friends. Liver and kidney diseases are become the most common and most dangerous of any or all modern complaints. They are the most deceptive in their beginnings and horrible in their final stages. They are far more deceptive than consumption, and can rarely be detected even by skillful physicians unless a microscopic analysis is resorted to, and few doctors understand how to do this. Their slightest approach should strike terror to the one is threatened as well as to his or her friends. These diseases have no distinct symptoms, but come in the form of lassitude, loss of appetite, aching muscles and joints, dull headaches, pain in the back, stomach and chest, sour stomach, recurrance signs of cold, irregular pulsations of the heart, and frequent dizziness. If neglected these symptoms are certain to run into chronic kidney and liver or Bright's disease, from which there is sure to be a great amount of agony and only one means of escape, which is by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. The importance of taking the this great remedy upon the slightest appearance of any of the above symptoms cannot be to strongly impressed upon the minds of all readers who desire to escape death and pain and prolong life with all its pleasures and blessings.

The people of Rochester are greatly exercised over the sudden exposure and consequent disappearance of Tan Kee, an alleged Chinese lecturer, who had been lecturing there under the auspices of the Boston lecture bureau in the Methodist church. He spoke with great fluency and gave shocking tales of barbarities practiced in China. He assumed great piety and gained the entire confidence of clergymen. It was learned Sunday that he went on a debauch after each lecture and frequented disorderly houses. He is reported to have said he was going to "paint the town red," and the "town" has concluded that he kept his word.

SAVANNAH, N. Y., March 3, 1883.

Rheumatic Syrup Co.

Gents—I have been a great sufferer till within a few months, for ten years with that worst of all diseases—rheumatism. At times I have been wholly unable to attend to my business, and for eight weeks was confined to my chair, my only relief from pain being while some one of my family rubbed my limbs. At the [illegible]

But who may know his fate—either for good or evil? By the earnest advice of friends in Peekskill, Mr. Howell tenderly conveyed his daughter—all there was left of her—to the office of Dr. David Kennedy, in Rondout, N. Y. Dr. Kennedy perceived that she was suffering from heart disease, and also from an advanced stage of a complaint common to women.

Having given some minor directions in reference to diet and clothing, Dr. Kennedy prescribed his FAVORITE REMEDY as his young patient's only medicine. Not long after the threatening symptoms vanished, the light returned to her eyes, the bloom to her cheeks and happiness to her heart, an example of a recovery which is as wonderful as the medicine that effected it.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

UTICA, N. Y., April 21.

The market for cheese was not very active to-day, no prices having been set for it in New York, and buyers being at a loss to know what to pay. Only a few lots of the finest stock were sold outright, and all of it at one price. Thirteen lots, aggregating 820 boxes, went at 12½c., and 555 boxes were consigned, making a total of 1,375 boxes, with 12½c. as a ruling price. The cheese comprise all of the March make of these twenty-three lots, along with four and five days of April. One year ago the transactions were only 707 boxes, with 400 of them ranging from 13c. to 13½c. So that with almost double the transactions of a year ago the price is about 1c. less. It does not look as favorable as it might, particularly since shippers are standing off entirely. Perhaps, however, these prices may tempt them. Our quotations are still for old cheese. Following is our usual table of comparison:

	Rec'ts.	Exp'ts.	Cable.	Freight.	Price.
Apr.22, 1882	12,507	29,758	63s.	17s. 6d.	13⅛c.
Apr.21, 1883	11,257	7,609	70s.	32s. 0d.	15c.
Apr.19, 1884	10,733	5,445	68s.	15s.	15c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, April 21, 1884.

CHEESE.—We have again had quite a dull market. Cheese at all skimmed appears to have been thoroughly sat down upon in New York, and our buyers were loth to put any price at all upon it. They say exporters do not want it at any price, and claim it as a risky business to handle it in any other way than on consignment. As the bulk of the offerings are this class of goods, it may readily be imagined that to-day's market was dull, and a good share of the stock was sent on commission. But there are some salesmen who will not, no matter what the situation may be, send on commission, and the record of such forced sales are given below. "Every day cheese," and whole milk cheese, what little was offered, found plenty of good seekers and at good rates. Of course, there is nobody to blame for the drag in the skim cheese trade but the dairyman themselves, and if the decline is still greater another week it may have a good effect in future seasons in causing a reform in this matter of manufacturing a tough, tasteless mass and calling it cheese. Following is a list of the transactions:

Lots	Boxes	Price
2	44	7c
2	59	07¼
9	225	08
2	57	08¼
2	85	09½

1	35	12⅛
27	616	Com.
64	2,010
Farm Dairy	315
Total	2,325

FARM DARIES.—The class of farm cheese selling is about the same as the factory stock. Sales to-day are 315 boxes at 7 and 11c., but one lot at the latter price, the bulk going at 9 a 10c.

BUTTER—There were 258 packages of butter sold at 23½ and 26c., probably nine-tenths of the sales being made at 25c.

PENNELLVILLE.

The cheese factory at Pennellville commenced receiving milk last week under the management of Chas. Barnaskey. The price for making is $1.25 per hundred pounds, which embraces all expenses, including delivery. All rejections are made good, and the quality of the cheese is guaranteed to be equal to that of the three best adjacent factories.

GILBERTS MILLS.

Peck's cheese factory at Gilberts Mills opened on Monday of last week. The record of this factory last season was among the best, and the buyers were well pleased with the cheese made.

PHOENIX.

J. D. Barnaskey's cheese factory commenced operations last week. The price agreed upon for making, $1.22½ per hundred.

A NEW postal card will soon be issued. It will be smaller, of better material, more beautiful in design and of a bluish tint.

[illegible] and the [illegible] on the door, a person could not distinguish it from a family conveyance. They are single, (for two people) and double (for four), and have the same privileges accorded them that other public hacks have. That is—they can stop at any public coach stand, or can skirmish around for fares. Twenty-five cents a mile is the charge and the cabs can also be hired by the hour. The drivers are as a rule, Americans, and they are more polite and obliging than the usual run of cabbys. The rival coach and hack drivers have named the new cabs "black and tans" but I have noticed that the later catch more fares than their envious rivals. Seventeen cabs were turned loose on the start and one hundred more are to be added as soon as the scheme proves a success. Since the great bridge was completed real estate in Brooklyn has taken the rising scale. All around Prospect Park elegant residences and flat buildings are being erected, and building permits are issued at the average rate of one hundred and fifty per week. I inspected some model flats last week on one of Brooklyn's principal avenues and they were certainly perfection. Seventy-five buildings—all alike were erected on three blocks and each building contains six flats, or separate apartments for that number of families. A wide vestibule leads into a spacious hall, elegantly furnished and covered with brussels carpets. In the outer hall, one one side, is a board with six mail boxes, and six speaking tubes, leading to the different flats. By announcing yourself at the tube, the party in the rooms above can, by pressing an electric button, open the door and you are at liberty to ascend. The stair cases are wide and furnished like the halls. Nine rooms make up the suite and consist of four connecting sleeping rooms, parlor, library, lavatory, dining room and kitchen. The kitchen is perfect and for convenience would delight the heart of any housekeeper. Stationary tubs and a range occupy one side and close to the range is a shute for sending ashes to the cellar. A dumb waiter is conveniently near and on this all the family supplies are sent up from the ground floor. Coal and wood are also received in this way. A janitor attends to these matters and all a lady has to do is to telephone for groceries and meat and take them from the waiter when they arrive. The dining room was a gem; as was also the parlor. All the rooms are light and airy and everything is exactly as it should be. The building is heated from the cellar at the owner's expense. and for all this convenience and beauty the occupants have to pay, for the first and second flats $40 and for the third $30 a month.

The great bridge is well patronized now-a-days and has done wonders for both cities. The cable road is working smoothly and trains are dispatched on four minute intervals, without a delay or hitch. This speaks well for the management, for they took up this problem, less than six months ago and have solved it to the entire satisfaction of themselves and the public at large.

WANDERING JEW.

The streets to-day present a fine appearance. All rubbish and loose earth has been removed leaving a clean hard road. THE TIMES compliments Street Commissioner Hyde on his good work.

The young people's social at the Presbyterian church parlors last evening was largely attended. The evening was spent in social intercourse, interspersed with instrumental music. An unusually pleasant time was had. This is the last social of the season. These entertainments have been very popular with the young folks.

A Volney farmer who secured several immigrant laborers from Castle Garden some time ago, regrets his bargain. The men were recently afflicted with a strange disease, and have communicated it to the farmer's two children. The doctors do not understand the nature of the disease.

Broad Innocence.

It is reported that a prominent citizen, not a member of the Fulton Board of Trade, and who is too innocent for this wicked world, was nicely gathered in by three practical jokers recently. They were playing a game of euchre and the p. c. aforesaid held a hand almost impossible to beat, but owing to his unwavering trust in his fellow man he failed to see his opponent take his own queen and play it against him three times in succession and thereby beat him. His innocence cost him forty cents.

The Board of Trustees have been asked to prohibit ball playing in the park. The question arises whether or not lawn tennis is one of the games that is prohibited under the ordinance which prohibits ball playing. If it is so prohibited and the Board of Trustees think it for the good of the village to enforce the ordinance they must necessarily prohibit lawn tennis, for which there can be no reasonable excuse.

Western Letter.

WEETA, Cass Co., Ia., April 21, '84.

To the Editor of the Fulton Times:

As we were residents of Fulton a few years ago, the many friends and neighbors whom we left will perhaps like to know of our whereabouts, and where we are about to locate. We lived as a few of our friends were aware on the line of the survey for the Hennepin Canal 4½ miles from Cordova Ill., and being within a few hundred rods of the line and but a short distance from the terminus on the Mississippi, land took a sudden boom and so we took advantage of it and sold out. We received the snug sum of $18,000. We will hereafter reside at this place. This is a small town on the main line of the Chicago R. I. & Pacific, 70 miles east of Council Bluff. This is a fine rolling country resembling in appearance the general surface of New York State. No very abrupt hills, but capable of easy cultivation. The soil is deep and rich and a beautiful stock country.

Crops here were poor last year on account of wet, cold, and early frost. Hogs and cattle are the chief exports. [illegible] No wheat is [illegible] for home consumption. They claim this to be a very healthy country and it has that appearance. The Chicago R. I. & Pacific lies along a valley or series of valleys from Devenport to the Bluffs. The soil along the whole line is very fertile and even. But little timber is to be seen and mostly along water courses. When I have more time and am better acquainted with the country I will give a better discription.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Nutting and Sloan Get Left as National Delegates.

The Republican Congressional Convention for the Twenty-seventh district met at St. James hall in Oswego last Friday, George W. Cowles of Wayne presiding. Oswego delegates were divided between ex-Speaker Sloan and Congressman Nutting. Before the Convention efforts were made to compromise the Oswego delegation on a third man, but the Sloan men refused all advances. The vote resulted as follows: D. M. Osborne of Cayuga, 48, Thereon G. Yeomans of Cayuga, 30, Sloan, 8, Nutting 10. Osborne and Yeomans were declared elected. Every delegate voted for Osborne, the Cayuga and Wayne delegates for Yeomans, the First district of Oswego for Nutting and the Second district for Sloan, except one delegate. The delegates were instructed for Blaine and Lincoln by a vote of 38 to 10. It is claimed that the support of the Wayne and Cayuga delegates, was promised Sloan if he would endorse Blaine. The Representation in Congress conventions was fixed at 6 delegates for each Assembly district. The instruction of the delegates for Blaine met with disapproval as Oswego county is equally divided between Arthur and Edmunds.

Stoddard's Victory.

The four ounce glove fight for the receipts at Pittsburg, Pa., Monday evening, between James C. Daly and Hiel H. Stoddard of Syracuse, resulted in favor of the latter. One account of the affair says that it was one of the most disgraceful impositions on the public of Pittsburg that was ever perpetrated. After friendly set-tos between local boxers, Stoddard and Daly fought four rounds with pillows. There was no attempt to knock one another out. It was simply an exhibition for the gate receipts, under special arrangement. Neither man received an injury. There were 1,500 people present, and they were so mad that they were hardly restrained from tearing down the building.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

Imitation always follows a successful article, and imitation is one of the best proofs of real honest merit; and thus it is that the James Boss' Gold Watch Case has its imitators. Buyers can always tell the genuine by the trade-mark of a crown, from which is suspended a pair of scales. Be sure BOTH crown and scales are stamped in the cap of the watch case. Jewelers are very cautious about endorsing an article unless they not only know that it is good, but that the character of the manufacturers is such that the quality of the goods will be kept fully up to standard.

[illegible] make the train.
What addition! I can't help harp
On what is sure to turn the brain.
But labor's wheels will still go 'round,
On wages there will be no lock,
Tho' this world at last has found
It has a twenty-four o'clock.

Dear Sue, maybe you have forgot
Our wedding twenty years ago;
'Twas 12 when parsons tied the knot;
Tho' now it seems it was not so;
Time's river flows on mighty fast,
And each new wave seems but to mock,
For wife, we've had to find at last
We wed at 24 o'clock.

Our Maud, who'd like to sleep till noon,
Now rising on the stroke of six,
Can have their share of sleeping soon,
And doze till 18. What a mix!
But when young Lynn comes here to call,
And stays like patience on a rock,
'Twill throw a shadow over all—
So late the hour—13 o'clock.

And meeting hour which always came
So regular at half-past ten,
Will never seem again the same—
A sort of 22 Amen.
Dear Sue, this thing is certain sure
To soon affect both you and me;
For our old clock there is no cure;
It and the future can't agree.

Though some folks learnedly many speak
Of Greenwich time and this and that,
It is our century's strangest freak—
A queer, diurnal tit for tat.
We're told the world improves with age—
Our ship at last has reached a dock
Where change in all things is the gauge,
'Twill soon be 24 o'clock.

FASHION NOTES.

High collars and high coiffures are all the rage.

Easter cards with mediæval designs are the novelties this season.

Nun's veiling bids fair to be the favorable fabric for evening wear.

Flowers and feathers figure largely in evening, dinner and ball toilets.

Velveteens are made more soft, silky, velvet like, and durable than ever.

Flower and leaf fans are the correct thing for ball toilets, when the garnitures are of flowers.

Puffs or wristlets of ribbon, velvet, and lace, with jet buckles and ornaments, are coming in vogue.

Blue with brown and pink with olive green are among the pretty contrasts made up in changeable taffetas.

Lace dresses, as they are called, will be the summer fancy for black dresses, and are already worn in the house.

Fine wool costumes of French cashmere and drap d'ete are popular for church, visiting and day receptions.

Silk underware is made still more costly and elegant with quantities of lace and more or less fine embroidery and feather-stitched seams.

Necklets of roses, forget-me-nots, or pansies linked together are in great favor for full dinner, reception and ball dress.

The favorite trimming of the Henri II. hat is a broad band of velvet a large metel, jet, or jeweled buckle, a panache of feathers.

The novelty in lace dresses is suggestions of the full round gathered skirts which it is predicted will at no distant day be restored to favor.

Feathers and flowers fastened in the coiffure with moths and butterflies of gold thread and gossamer and favorite ornaments for evening wear.

The new bourettes with rough threads, and the sheer bison-cloths in gray and brown shades, are made up to form the entire suit, and are somewhat in taylor styles.

When a necklet of flowers is worn the hair is adorned with the same kind of blossoms, generally in a knot on one side of the chignon or on the crown braids which are now worn.

The novelty for mountain, sea-side, and traveling dresses in fine elastic cloth of very light quality, woven continuously in round breadths about two and a half yards wide to make the skirt without seams.

The handsomest black wool dresses have the basque and drapery of Henrietta cloth, with a soft vest and pleated kilt of striped black and white gros grain, or stripes of black satin or of velvet on ecru gros grain, or else checked black and white silk on which are raised black velvet figures.

A new kind of embroidery, destined to become immensely fashionable, consists of raised flowers, the petals formed of lustrous satin or satin ribbon in all the colors and shades demanded by the artist, and the leaves and calices of Kensington stitch in silk floss. Mme. Modjeska lately ordered a dress embroidered in this style of an Atlanta (Georgia) lady, who is an exquisite painter with her needle. The price was fabulous.

A Cautious Verdict.

A Cincinnati man was arrested for stealing chickens and was tried by a jury of his peers.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said the judge, on their return from the jury room, "are you agreed upon a verdict?"

"We are," replied the foreman, solemnly.

"What say you? Do you find the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty of murder in the first degree."

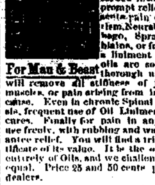
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



For Man & Beast

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalleled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

BRANDETH'S PILLS

They are compounded of Roots, Herbs and Gums of the most healing and beneficial kind.

As a Family Medicine they are unrivalled, curing Head-ache, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia—clearing the blood of all impurities—acting on the Liver, Kidneys and other important organs, removing the waste tissue, and adding years to the lives of all who use them.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three years of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

Chickens when first hatched should not be hurried out of the setting nest. For twenty-four hours, at least, from the time the earliest commence to show themselves, it is better to leave them under or with the hen mother. They need no food for from a day to a day and a half usually. When they get strong enough to venture from beneath their mothers wings it is time to move the brood.

To make pork of the best quality, especially for smoking, no strong tasting food should be given during the last few weeks of the pig's existence. Even Indian meal is considered much too strongly flavored by English farmers who make choice hams and bacon a specialty. To the refuse milk of the dairy they add barley or oat meal and well boiled potatoes.

Don't forget the dust bath. This is made by nailing together four boards in the form of a square. No bottom is needed. Place in a sunny corner and fill with fine dry loam or road dust, with an extra barrel full to use when needed. There is nothing equal to a good dust bath to keep the hens free from lice. If they are very lousy a bushel of wood ashes may be added to the bath.

How to cement a cistern: Dig the hole round by all means, where you cement on the ground; if dug square it is very liable to crack in the corners. Use coarse, clean sand, three parts of sand to one part of lime; mix well together before it is wet; put on the first coat and let it thoroughly dry, and then put on the second coat. When this is dry make a wash with cement, take a white-wash brush, and go over with that thoroughly, and then cover it deep so the frost can't get to it

In planting a vegetable garden, many lay out a great deal more work than there is any need of. They think they must grow pretty much all the species of vegetables that are grown in the garden, whereas, should they consult the tastes of the family, they would probably ascertain that some kinds were not desired, and it would be necessary to grow some kinds in very small quantities only. Plant liberally of those kinds in eager demand by the family, and sparingly of those not specially cared for.

It does look suspicious when a drug firm gives a package of cucumber seed with every dime's worth of goods bought. CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough or cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. [illegible]

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to a lady patient who had been complaining of her continued ill health and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for the joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would take a man confined to his bed for a year and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from liver and kidney trouble!" 47t4

[illegible] affection,
[illegible] grow cold,
[illegible] life's pathway,
[illegible] or gold.
[illegible] a cottage—
[illegible] would pine—
[illegible] with your sweet face [illegible] in beauty,
Just meet me half-way with a kiss.

Come, tell me how long I must linger,
A sighing for joy you can give;
[illegible] kept me a-waiting—
[illegible] to live.
[illegible] the worth of affection,
While I am so eager for bliss,
And with your fair face bright with blushes,
[illegible] meet me half-way with a kiss.

Come teach me the art of true-loving,
And smile when I call you my dear;
My heart is now throbbing with pleasure
And tenderly drawing you near.
While youth's bright, warm summer is passing,
Oh! give me one token of bliss;
Just fly to my arms with an answer,
I'll meet you half-way with a kiss.

While shadows of twilight are deep'ning
And nightingale's songs we can hear,
Come teach me the worth of affection,
The love that is constant, my dear,
I wait in the sweet blooming clover;
And long for your tokens of bliss;
Come, love with your fond eyes a-glowing,
And meet me half-way with a kiss.

THE FIRST OF MAY.

"The first of May is the day custom has established for moving," said Reginald, thoughtfully studying the points of his polished boots; "and I think, all things being considered, we could not choose a better."

"The first of May be it, then," was my reply. "As there is nothing to move but ourselves and our personal luggage, the proceeding will be by no means as formidable as it might under some circumstances. What is the number of the house?"

"No. 66, One Hundred and ——th street."

"That is very far out, but we shall be sure of quiet. You say the house has been untenanted ever since the owner went to Europe? So beautifully furnished and the rent so cheap—that seems a little strange, doesn't it?"

Reginald coughed slightly and looked, I fancied, the least bit uncomfortable for a minute.

"Well, Minnie, I have not told you quite everything about the house," he said, smiling; "but it is probably best to have our understanding thorough. There is just one objection to No. 66, which, however, in the eyes of sensible people, is no objection at all. The property has for many years borne the reputation of being haunted."

"What nonsense!" said I promptly.

"Nonsense! That is the correct word; nevertheless, no one but the owner has ever lived in that house, simply on the account of the absurd stories associated with it. On certain days of the year, late in the evening, a carriage, according to the legend of the neighborhood, drives up to the door, from which an old lady descends and enters the dwelling, and prowls through it for the remainder of the night; sometimes alone, and sometimes accompanied by a ghostly maid. That, my dear, is the solitary disadvantage attaching to No. 66. If you have the strength of mind to forego it, we get, upon a lease of five years, an admirable establishment, furnished from top to bottom, at a rent merely nominal, and escape all the expense and vexation of freighting our present belongings to town, and also——"

"I have decided, Reginald," I interrupted. "We will take No. 66 from the first of May. I hope I have a little more common sense than to believe in haunted houses at my age."

Numbered by years, my age was only twenty; but in character and solid experience I felt at least fifty.

So, a few days later, Reginald and the landlord's agent closed the bargain, and I began to look forward impatiently to the day we had fixed upon for returning to the city.

I had, in fact, grown tired of the monotony of our country home, although once it had seemed a paradise. Our rustic pursuits had not altogether prospered; a superstitious person might have supposed some enemy had cast an evil spell upon them.

With three or four cows, we had to buy all our milk; our fowls, if they laid any eggs at all, deposited them with such care and secrecy that they were never found; the raising of our vegetables cost us their weight in gold; the industrious cultivation of our land and the lavish distribution of seed only produced enormous crops of weeds; in short whatever we undertook seemed to result always in mortifying failure, so [illegible] years of this kind of experience [illegible] to disgust us.

[illegible] were now about to return to the [illegible], and, I have explained by transcribing the foregoing dialogue with my husband, fortune appeared to already smile [illegible] our resolution, since we were to [illegible] all the horrors of moving—to step, [illegible], without impediments of any [illegible] from the one residence into the [illegible].

[illegible] the first of May, about three o'clock [illegible] afternoon, three persons might [illegible] seen by the curious observer [illegible] little platform at Slowborough, [illegible] for the train. They were Reginald and my maid, Sarah Ann [illegible]. It was raining dismally.

[illegible]" said Reginald, standing [illegible] at the [illegible] the water [illegible] [illegible]

A few minutes later, in a comfortable car, I was gliding rapidly toward the city. Sarah Ann Buggins, not having an extensive fund of conversation, slept, while I looked out of the window at the rain, and mused.

It was still raining when we arrived at the depot—by this time a perfect downpour. Our train had brought us in nearly an hour behind time, owing to detentions on the road, and the evening was already growing dark; and I think I never felt so depressed in my life as I handed the card of address to the hackman and got into his vehicle.

"What is the number of the street, mum?" said that individual, putting his head through the window and perfuming the surrounding atmosphere with the unmistakable odor of whisky.

I repeated the address distinctly and emphatically; and nodding oracularly, with an "All right, mum," he clambored up on his box, and away we rolled.

The street I had named seemed much further off than I had expected, even with my extended conception of the distance previously; and another surprising circumstance was that after we had been riding for about an hour, I began to have the impression that we were traveling in a circle.

At last, however, we stopped—it was now quite dark, and our coachman having let us out, still breathing alcohol upon everything, and remarked, thickly, that "Be the powers of war, here yez are," pocketed his fare, and left us standing on the pavement.

It was now, as I have said, quite dark, and the rain was falling harder than ever. We rushed up the steps and thrust the key into the door, but the lock would not yield. For five minutes we worked at it in vain. What was to be done? By this time I certainly began to conclude that for moving the first of May is, in spite of its association, liable to be an unlucky day.

It is not often that Sarah Ann Buggins has a lucid idea; but now fortunately her wandering glance, catching sight of the cellar-window, suggested one. She proposed entering the house by that subterranean avenue, and attacking the front door on the other side.

I agreed; five minutes later I stood in the passage, very wet, but victorious. The establishment was at our disposal.

By this time, of course, Reginald was long overdue—doubtless detained like ourselves on the railroad; and, expecting him every minute, Sarah and I made a fire in the admirably furnished kitchen, and while drying ourselves—for the trunks not having come, we had no change of clothing—we held conference with regard to supper.

I decided upon sending her out to find a grocery and purchase such things as we needed for a hasty meal, and, said I, as she was about to vanish upon this errand:

"Be careful that you don't get lost Sarah. Remember the number and street," and I repeated both, which she in turn repeated faithfully after me.

And now I was alone in this strange house—haunted, it was said, and certainly for years untenanted. My misadventures had made me, perhaps, a little nervous.

Sitting by the fire, I listened eagerly for Sarah's return, and so a long quarter of an hour passed, and then another, and finally an hour, and yet she did not come back.

I confess that I was frightened. And Reginald—where was he? On and on slipped the minutes—the hands of the Dutch clock which, for occupation, I had wound up and set going, seemed to tick them off like seconds. Nine rang out, and I could have cried. Great heaven, what could it all mean? Where were they—my husband and the girl?—something must have happened to both.

Looking into the fire, with every nerve strained to its utmost tension, I listened and prayed for them to return. Ten o'clock sounded noisily behind me, and I could have screamed this time. The coal was burning low, and I certainly had no idea of going into the cellar for more, but what should I do when the fire expired?

At eleven o'clock nothing but ashes remained, and I burst into tears.

They relieved me a little; I determined to go upstairs to bed. With the candle in my hand, I went into the passage, and, trembling in every limb, ascended the stairs. Horribly dismal and damp was the old house; how I wished I were safe back in the little cottage I had left.

At last I reached the bedroom—splendidly furnished, like the whole establishment, but gloomy and murky as a sepulchre. I glanced at the bed with a shrinking curiosity, almost expecting to see a corpse lying on it or something alive and more horrible. But I am bound to say it looked very hospitable, with its snowy pillows and counterpane; and undressing quickly as possible, I got into it just as the clock struck midnight and my candle sputtered up with a sudden gleam and went out.

The rain had ceased and the moon shone in; I lay still trying to think clearly about all that had happened and to explain it. Just as I was busy with my first theory, I heard a carriage drive up to the front door. Reginald, of course!

With a cry of joy, I sprang to the window and looked out. From the carriage below I saw, not my husband, but two women emerge—an old lady and her maid—and both were distinctly visible as they went up the steps and instantly entered the house, while the vehicle rolled away.

Then I remembered the story my husband [illegible] told me. With a beating heart I listened, but for ten or twenty minutes nothing followed, and then I suddenly heard the front door shut with a crash.

After another interval of dreary [illegible] I heard the sound of music from [illegible]

My mind was made up; not an hour would I live in it if the owner gave it me as a present. And having formed this resolution, I got out of bed and dressed myself, determined to quit the place at once.

What a day! The first of the "merry, merry month of May," of which Shakespeare so cheerfully speaks; and what a night! Here was Reginald's grand scheme of moving without trouble put in practice.

Quaking, shivering, sick at heart, dreading to leave this room and face unknown sights and things in the passage and on the stairs, and yet resolved to get out of a building that seemed to have some dark curse upon it, I summoned all the courage I had left, and opened the chamber door.

Cautiously I went along the corridor until I reached the stairs, and here, with my heart in my mouth, I stopped, for on the wall I saw the reflection of a light—a light that was not standing still, but advancing.

I would have turned back, but could not; and a moment later a figure appeared ascending the stairs—the apparation of an elderly stout woman, evidently a lady, with beautiful gray hair and large, strange eyes. She was dressed in costly black silk, and in her hand she carried a lamp.

She was smiling and talking with great volubility.

"Sir Edward's spirit wishes to communicate," I heard her say. "Sir Edward Albertswyth, you know, killed in Monmouth's Rebellion—the battle of Sedgemore. Sir Edward is present, he has a secret to tell; there are some papers hidden——" and turning her fine brown eyes in my direction, she saw me.

"Oh!" she said, with a little inflection of surprise, "it is you. I expected you, my dear; I have been waiting for you ever so long."

She approached, with her handsome but rather wild smile, and I could not stir, and in a few seconds she was standing at my side.

"I am Lady Alice Lisle, my dear—don't be afraid," she continued. "I hid Nelthorpe and Hickes in the chimney. I expected you to-night. There was a star of blood on the foredead of the white horse—the signal, you know, and I understood. My answer was—speak low, or we shall be overheard—it was a flower-de-luce and a skein of gold; spiritual signs, you see, which only the spirits, like you and me, understand."

I was sinking with terror; she held her lips close to my ear and whispered, glancing all the while over her shoulder; and then drawing back suddenly, she laughed.

"But after all, I am not afraid," she said; "I have been in Egypt since Monday—Upper and Lower, both; and I saw the Saracen on his camel, with a red cloak on and a fez with a tassel of green—Mahomet's color—come to the great mountain by the Red Sea. He told me not to fear—he will be with us to-night also: the chief of the white spirits. He will communicate with you and the sign will be a toad with eyes of ruby and skim milk white. You will know him by that."

She laid her thin, wrinkled and very pale hand on my arm, and murmured, with a sudden caution:

"We are watched, though. She was with me a while a ago, but has gone out and will be back soon. I have found the way at last—poison? But don't breathe it. It's a great discovery—a secret as yet. I know how to poison people through their dreams," she whispered, with a cautious laugh; "what do you think of that? I learned from an evil spirit; a bad dream, you know, poisons the veins of the brain—do you see?" and she smiled on me with a lurid triumph.

With the strength of despair I made an effort to spring by her, but she quickly barred the way, her countenance changing instantly to fury.

"I can harm you, if I choose," she she said. "I have a knife in my pocket. There are bodies buried in the cellar and room for more. Ghosts enough are walking, I should think—white spirits and black, red spirits and gray."

With one more effort I slipped past her and hurried down the steps. Uttering a cry of rage, she followed me, and so began a horrid chase through the house, into rooms and out, down corridors and up, the dreadful phantom of the old lady always on my track, and at last finding the kitchen door, I opened it and dashed into the yard, and just as I reached the alley gate a policeman seized me.

"Come to my arms, me jewel," he exclaimed, with delight. "Sure I've bin waiting for yez since the last tin minutes."

Hysterically I tried to explain; but, replying with a hateful, sardonic laugh, he bade me "be aisy and come along wid him."

I sobbed and remonstrated, and threatened him with Reginald's vengeance, and I know not what; but every word I uttered was received with contemptuous irony, and, taking me by the hand, he led me along the streets until we reached the station-house, where he laid the charge of burglary against me.

No words can describe my fright, humiliation and anguish.

The policeman's story was very simple, but it revealed my mistake and his.

The intoxicated hackman had taken me to the wrong house. I had, with the aid of Sarah Ann, made a burglarous entrance into the residence of a certain wealthy and demented old lady, Mrs. Cadwallader Crow.

So explained the captain at the desk, who, I must confess, was polite, and very much amused.

[illegible]

ally return together about midnight. On this occasion, coming back and finding the house disturbed, the maid naturally concluded there were burglars on the premises, and at once sought the police."

All was now pretty clear, except the fate of my husband and of Sarah Ann Buggins.

The captain went to his telegraphic instrument and was busy there for about five minutes, and then turned to me with a smile.

"Your husband has been making inquiries at another precinct, and was about to have a general alarm sent out. He went to the house No. 66, and, not finding you there, supposed you were lost or had met with foul play, and for several hours has been searching for you distractedly. He will be here presently. Nothing, so far, has been heard of your maid."

A quarter of an hour afterward a familiar step sounded in the corridor, the door opened, and Reginald appeared. With a cry of joy I sprang into his arms.

He scolded me and I scolded him, and then I cried, and then he begged pardon and we made up; and then the captain, who had been at his instrument again, said:

"Sarah Ann Buggins has just been arrested for disorderly conduct in the street. She was found crying and howling on Broadway, and was supposed to be intoxicated. She had lost her way."

He named the locality of the station-house, and we decided to go there at once and obtain her release. A carriage was ordered, and a little later we hurried away.

Sarah's release was, of course, readily accomplished. The unfortunate creature, at sight of us, was nearly overcome with joy.

And now it was nearly daybreak, and, with feelings that may be imagined, we started once more for No. 66 One Hundred and ——th Street.

This time we found it; a splendid residence it proved to be. We have lived there a year now, and have never seen or heard a ghost; nor have we had any other reason to regret our choice.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE.

it will be time enough to doubt the reliability of Kidney Wort. Doctors all agree that it is a most valuable medicine in all disorders of the Liver, Kidneys and bowels, and frequently prescribe it. Dr. P. C. Ballou of Monkton says: "The past year I have used it more than ever, and with the best results. It is the most successful remedy I ever used." Such a recommendation speaks for itself. CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,600 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough or cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. It does not dry up a cough like many preparations, and leave the disease behind it, but acts directly upon the throat and bronchial tubes, [illegible]

SUPERINTENDENT of Public Works Shannahan has issued orders for the special opening of the canals in the State on Tuesday, May 6.

SINCE the Utica convention there is said to be a growing feeling among the politicians at Albany in favor of the nomination of Lincoln.

THE Salvation Army claims to have on this side of the Atlantic 52 corps, 17 out-posts, 96 stations and 238 officers, of whom 102 are attached to headquarters and 136 are field officers. The army has invaded 13 counties and printspapers in various languages.

THE Railway Age says: "It is already safe to assert that there will be a large amount of railway building in the United States during the present year. While the number of great trunk lines to be commenced or completed is not likely to be so large as in the past few years, the demand for new and compartively short roads seems to be as active as ever."

THE internal revenue receipts for the first nine months of the present fiscal year were $87,454,083, while for the corresponding period of the previous year they were $107,959,337. That shows a reduction of $20,505,254, but it is not enough, for the surplus in the treasury is growing larger day by day and is likely to make trouble for extravagant Congressmen.

THE natives of Alaska, who capture all the seals that grow sealskin sacques, get forty cents a piece for each skin, and the United States Government gets two dollars royalty. The company which has the exclusive monopoly of the business sell them at the uniform price of twenty-four dollars. It requires about three skins to make a five-hundred dollar coat.

THE Western Union company announces a reduction in night rates to 15 cents for each additional word between all comparative points east of the Missouri river. The Bankers' and Merchants' company made a uniform night rate of 15 cents a few days ago. The Baltimore and Ohio will offer to send night messages at the rate of 16 words for 15 cents and a cent for every additional word.

MR. FRANK HISCOCK, the Republican Congressman from the Onondaga District, is described as a tall, handsome man, with brown hair and slightly bald. There is insanity in his family, and one of its members is now deprived of his liberty on that account. He has a son about twenty-two years of age in Cornell University, who is the swell of Syracuse. His wife is an invalid and does not go much into society at Washington. Mr. Hiscock's name has been mentioned in connection with the Vice-Presidency.

ORANGE JUDD, Editor of the American Agriculturist for some thirty years, but unconnected with its business management for a year or two past, has lately retired from its editorial department and located in the West. He desires to gather a complete "Postal Card Album" of his old Readers and Friends, and requests them all to send him now a Postal giving their present location and address, naming also, when convenient, the years in which they were his subscribers. Mr. Judd's address is Chicago, Illinois.

THE Governor has signed the oleomargarine bill and nominated J. C. Brown of Utica for state dairy commissioner to act under the provisions of the bill. In signing this bill prohibiting the manufacture of grease to be used as butter the Governor has acted wisely han has also protected the dairymen of the State. There is no good reason why the public should be compelled to use this trash, nor should the market be flooded with it, thus preventing the sale of honest butter and discouraging our enterprising farmers. The Governer's head is level.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, the young politician who heads New York delegates to Chicago is only 34 years old. He graduated at Harvard in 1880, and at once branched into politics. He was first elected a member of the Assembly of 1882. He has been an earnest worker and after three years of public life he goes to the National Convention as the leader of the Rebublican party of this State. In the Utica convention Roosevelt showed his power of leadership in the triumph over Blaine. But his political leadership may be short lived—Yea! as short as Warner Miller's.

THE Attorney General has decided the Sumatra tobacco question in favor of the Amererican producers. The effect of this decision is to keep the import duties on Sumatra tobacco at seventy-five cents per pound. This is a decision of great importance to the farmers of Chemung, Tioga, Onondaga, Oswego, Cayuga, and Wayne counties. Had the decision been in favor of the importers of Sumatra leaf, the duty would have been reduced to thirty-five cents per pound. This would afford insufficient protection to home growers.

WE are in receipt of late Chicago papers from our correspondent H. N. G., among the best is the Sunday Inter Ocean, with its 140 columns of interesting reading matter, and five advertise- [illegible]

[illegible] C. H. [illegible] The following is the result of the ballot on the delegates-at-large:

Warner Miller	243
A. B. Cornell	[illegible]
Andrew D. White	407
Theodore Roosevelt	472
John I. Gilbert	349
Edwin Packard	256
Chester S. Cole	2
John W. Vrooman	1
James H. Moran	1

The four delegates elected are opposed to the President's renomination without a division. Presidential electors were chosen, and a new State Committee appointed. The latter is divided between the Blaine and Arthur men. The platform approves the administration of President Arthur, advocates protection, opposes further silver coinage and favors Federal aid for educational purposes.

Warner Miller as a representative of the Blaine forces was defeated by six votes. The New York World, a Democratic paper says: "Warner Miller is an expert at lobbying a woodpulp monopoly job through Congress. He is a blunderer and a nincompoop as a political manager. His profound stupidity and absurd self conceit gave the four Republican Delegates-at-large to Edmunds and defeated his own friends."

The convention nominated Judge Chas. Andrews of Onondaga and Chas. A. Rapallo of New York city for Court of Appeals. The Democrats will probably nominate the same men as Rapallo is a Democrat.

It is conceded that the Blaine men and also the Arthur men are not pleased with the results. Still, however, Edmunds success at the Utica convention may be the index of his success at Chicago. Blaine's chances are yet good, as are Arthurs.

The convention was largely attended and a good feeling was manifested.

PALERMO, April 28, 1884.—Something of a sensation this morning in this place was caused by the announcement of the marriage of Mr. Fred Duel of Salisbury, Herkimer county, to Miss Cora Bracy of this place. The father and mother of the bride were taken wholly by surprise, knowing nothing of the matter until told by the father of the groom on his arrival at the factory at this place. But at present writing they are after the erring ones to bring them home to their love and hearts once more. It is understood they are to leave for Salisbury soon where Mr. Duel is at present employed.

In Memoriam.

Death is ever a mysterious visitor, silently crossing our thresholds and bearing away our most precious treasures and none can stay his hand. The ties of affection which bind us to our loved ones are no safeguards, and were it not for that love which is stronger, nobler and far more pure than ours, we should be overwhelmed by our sorrow. By the death of Mrs. Phœbe Wells, which occurred April 8th, 1884, her family and friends have been sorely bereaved. She was a daughter of Peter and Phœbe Althouse, born in Volney, August 27th, 1840, and the wife of W. Wells. She possessed that rare geniel nature which won her many friends wherever she was known, and in her youth she was the life of the circle in which she moved. Assuming the cares of her father's family at an early age she dispensed their hospitalities with a lavish hand and in every way lightened the burdens of an invalid mother. When quite young she became interested in religion and united with the Baptist church at Fulton, October 8, 1868. After her marriage she continued to reside in the home of her youth. Being an only daughter the affections of her parents seemed peculiarly drawn out towards her and they could ill bear to be separated. She loved peace and harmony and was willing [illegible]

[illegible] Grand Army [illegible] our readers.

Captain Alfred Renson, of New York, while pacing in the lobby of the armory, previous to one of the meetings, suddenly stopped and scanned the face of a gentleman who was in earnest conversation with one of the Grand Army officers. It seemed to him that he had seen that face before, partially obscured by the smoke of battle, and yet this bright and pleasant countenance could not be the same pale, and death-like visage, which he so dimly remembered. But the recollection, like Banquo's ghost, would not "down" at command and haunted him the entire day. On the day followin he again saw the same countenance, and ventured to speak to its owner. The instance the two veterans heard each other's voices, that instant they recognized and called each other by name. Their faces and forms had changed, but their voices were the same. The man whom Captain Rensom had recognized was Mr. W. K. Sage, of St. Johns, Mich., a veteran of the 23d N. Y. Light Artillery and both members of Burnside's famous expedition to North Carolina. After the first greetings were over, Captain Rensom said:

"It hardly seems possible, Sage, to see you in this condition, for I thought you must have been dead long ago."

"Yes, I do not doubt it, for if I am not mistaken, when we last met I was occupying a couch in the hospital, a victim of 'Yellow Jack' in its worst form."

"I remember. The war seems to have caused more misery since its close than when it was in progress." replied the Captain. "I meet old comrades frequently who are suffering terribly, not so much from old wounds as from the malarial poisons which ruined their constitutions."

"I think so myself. When the war closed I returned home and at times I would feel well, but every few weeks that confounded 'all gone,' feeling would come back upon me again. My nervous system, which was shattered in the service, failed me entirely and produced one of the worst possible cases of nervous dyspepsia. Most of the time I had no appetite; then again I would become ravenously hungry, but the minute I sat down to eat I loathed food. My skin was dry and parched, my flesh loose and flabby. I could hold nothing on my stomach for days at a time, and what little I did eat failed to assimilate. I was easily fatigued; my mind was depressed; I was cross and irritable and many a night my heart would pain me so I could not sleep, and when I did I had horrid dreams and frightful nightmares. Of course, these things came on one by one, each worse than the other. My breath was foul, my tongue was coated, my teeth decayed. I had terrific headaches which would leave my nervous system completely shattered. In fact my existence, since the war, has been a living death, from which I have often prayed for release."

"Couldn't the old surgeon do you any good?"

"I wrote him and he treated me, but like every other doctor, failed. They all said my nerve was gone and without that to build upon I could not get well. When I was at my worst, piles of the severest nature came upon me. Then my liver gave out and without the use of cathartics I could not move my bowels at all. My blood got like a stream of fire and seemed litterally to burn me alive."

"Well you might better have died in battle, quick and without ceremony."

"How many times I have wished I had died the day we captured Newbenre!"

"And yet you are now the picture of health."

"And the picture is taken from life. I am in perfect condition. My nerve tone is restored; my stomach reinvigorated; my flesh is hard and healthy; in fact I have new blood, new energy and a new lease of life wholly as the result of using Warner's Tippecanoe. This remarkable preparation, which I consider the finest tonic and stomach restorer in the world has overcome al, the evil influences of malaria, all the poison of the army, all traces of dyspepsia, all mal-assimilation of food, and indeed made a new man of me."

The Captain remained silent for a while evidently musing over his recollections of the past. When he again raised his head he said:

"It would be a godsend if all the veterans who have suffered so intensely and also all others in the land who are enduring so much misery could know of your experience, Sage, and the way by which you have been restored."

And that is why the above conversation is recounted.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

UTICA, N. Y. April 28.

Our market has not been very active to-day, as buyers were not very sharp for cheese, altho' willing to pay the same price as last week. Salesmen were hopeful of somewhat better prices, but with the exception of four small lots taken presumably for home trade, buyers are unwilling to exceed last week's bids. About 50 lots in all changed hands. The cheese offered to-day was all the make of every day, while that of a week ago was only every other day cheese. That may perhaps explain a stightly stronger tone. There is no diminution in the make this year, nor do we imagine that there is much increase, altho' the quotations show that the marketings to-day were about 450 more than a year ago. Transactions were as follows: Two lots, 51 boxes, at 12c.; 35 lots, 2,659 boxes, at 12½c.; 2 lots, 110 boxes, at 12⅝c.; 2 lots, 151 boxes, at 12¾c. Sales 2,371 boxes; commissions 282 boxes; total, 2,653 boxes. Ruling price 12½c., which is ¼c. below the ruling price of a year ago. On the corresponding day of 1883 transactions were 2,103 boxes, ruling price 12¾c. In 1882 they were 2,805 boxes, ruling price 12c. So we are ½c. better off than two years ago, with 150 boxes less marketed.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, April 28, 1884.

CHEESE.—The market shows a decidedly better tone to-day. This is parly attributed to the rather better quality of stock offering, but mainly to the very much improved demand from the export trade. Buyers manifest considerable anxiety to secure stock, especially the finer grades, of which there was an increased offering. There were some very fine lots of whole milk stock which were eagarly taken. The bulk of the skimmed cheese is now gone, and it is hoped and believed that the trade will soon assume better shape and be in a more stable condition.

Most of the cheese known as every-other-day stock sold at 10c and under, tho' there were occasional choice lots at better figures. Every-day cheese ranged for the bulk at 10¼ to 12c.

Following is a list of the transactions, showing a very wide range in prices. It will be observed that there is a much less proportion of cheese on commission than formerly:

He was taken before acting Police Justice Rice, waived examination and gave bail in the sum of $800, his father going part of his bail. About five years ago he married Delia Roberts of Oswego Falls who bore him a girl now about four years old. On April 9th Waugh went to Oswego with Mrs. Anna Alger, a widow who resides on Fifth street near Broadway in this village, and while there they were married by the Rev. Dr. Tully of that city, Mrs. Alger taking possession of the certificate. Mrs. Alger says she was induced to marry Waugh by his representations that he was a single man.

The Oswego Times says the signature of Waugh in the register kept by Dr. Tully is apparently written in a free, natural hand and lines perfectly with the ruling of the paper. It is not the signature of a man who was drunk, unless in that condition he could write as well as when sober.

It is without doubt that no man in Mr. Waugh's position in life would in his right and sober mind deliberately commit such a rash act. It is also strange that a woman living in Fulton as long as Mrs. Alger has, professes to be entirely ignorant of the fact that Waugh was a married man. The affair has caused sorrow and shame among his people and also among his wife's folks. His people are highly respected here. His father was elected President of the village at the last election. At present the fault seems to be laid entirely to Waugh, but as only her side of the story has been told we do not know but that she is as blamable as he. Little if any investigation was made by her as to whether Waugh was a married man or not, a point which most any one in Fulton could have enlightened her on. We see no reason why she should not be blamed as much as Waugh.

Mrs. Waugh has commenced proceedings for a divorce.

A Pleasant Event.

On Saturday last between the hours of 3 and 8 p. m. occurred a very pleasant gathering at the residence of Mrs. Amos Stearns, who had previously invited her children, grand-children, and a few of her friends and neighbors to celebrate her 70th birthday. Some little time was spent socially after which they partook of a bountiful repast to which all did ample justice. After supper she presented to each son, daughter, grand-child and great-grand-child, 20 in number, a beautiful bedquilt, and to each married grand-child a pretty chair tidy, these being Mrs. Ada Keefe, Mrs. Cora Hill and Mr. Will Nelson. These useful presents were all her own work and are highly appreciated by the recipients. Each son and daughter also received $15 in gold. She also received many little tokens of affection both useful and ornamental, among which was a very handsome easy rocker, the gift of her children Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. L. A. Nelson, Mr. A. L. Stearns and J. M. Stearns. Mrs. R. Hannah then read an original poem written for the occasion. After singing "When shall we meet again" the guests began taking their departure, wishing she would live to see many more birthdays.

Syracuse Art Club.

The Syracuse Art Club will hold its first annual exhibition at the Decorative Art Rooms in that city commencing May 5th and continuing until the 19th. It is the intention of the Club to make their annual exhibitions a noteworthy event for the esthetic enjoyment of Central New Yorkers, and they have succeeded beyond their expectations with the exhibition. The exhibition will be representative of many of the best American painters, and will far exceed in merit any exhibition ever held in this part of the State. It will afford an opportunity for the art lovers of this vicinity to post themselves upon what America is doing in art—an opportunity which has hitherto been within the reach of those only who were able to leave business and home to attend the New York or Boston exhibitions.

In Peculiar Circumstances.

As a well known young gentleman of Oswego Falls the other evening, was almost prepared and about to retire, his father hearing a noise in the parlor and supposing it to be a cat, called the young man and requested him to drive the animal from the room. He entered the parlor with lamp in hand and with considerable less wardrobe on than he generally wears in public. But he was somewhat taken back however, when looking around he espied a young lady visitor comfortably seated on a sofa enjoying a tete-a-tete with a gentleman friend. At this sight the young man quietly made his exit, concluding that his father was mistaken as to Thomas O'Cat's intrusion in the parlor.

Our New Book Store.

Nothing looks more attractive on First street than the new book store. The doors were thrown open at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and from that time until late in the evening a throng of people could be seen passing in and out, each one receiving an elegant opening card. We can vouch that no handsomer book store can be found in a village of this size in the State. The interior of the store is very handsome and The Times compliments the gentlemanly proprietor, Mr. John Hadcock, on his truly artistic manner of arranging his goods. Mr. Hadcock is assisted by Mr. George Sylvester, a pleasant young gentleman who is well known to our Fulton people.

The Baldwinsville Gazette boastingly speaking of the economy in their village expenses says: "We would like to know of another village of this size which supports a paid fire department, lights the streets, keeps in repair eleven miles of road, with all the other expenses of the village on a tax of $2400."

Early Sunday morning the barber shop of Milton Craine, under the Lewis House, was plundered by thieves and all the valvable contents taken, consisting of razors, shears, straps, etc. They gained entrance by breaking a window in the door. The loss is estimated at $30.

Electric Light in Fulton.

Oswego Palladium: A company is being organized in Fulton for the purpose of putting in an electric light for lighting stores, streets, dwellings &c. The matter is in charge of Dr. I. C. Curtis, and Dr. W. A. Hall, who appeared before the village board of trustees last evening and were granted a permit to erect the necessary poles, wires &c. in the streets. A stock company is being formed for the purpose, and capitalists have signified their willingness to take stock and put money into it. A water power has been secured and it will be in operation in a few months. An incandescent light will be used for indoor use, probably the Edison or Maxim.

Drowned in the Canal.

Last Sunday morninig about 1:30 o'clock Wm. Patterson, keeper of lock No. 9 in the lower part of the village discovered the body of a man floating in the lock. He was poorly clad and was about 35 years of age. On his person was found a bottle containing whiskey, part of a plug of tobacco and two pieces of combs. Mrs. Wm. Barrett, cook on the State scow, heard the splash and aroused her husband and Patterson. A physician was immediately summoned but the man was dead when taken out of the water. Coroner Marsh held an inquest Monday morning and the verdict was that he came to his death by accidental drowning while under the influence of liquor. The body was identified as that of a tramp named John McKinley of Skaneateles Junction, a paper maker, who had been in town several days. A telegram was sent to Skaneateles Junction by Coroner Marsh but the man has no friends there now. He was interred in Mt. Adnah yesterday under the supervision of undertaker Cole.

Mrs. Grundy's Gems of Thought.

Who is rich? He that is content. And who is content? Most assuredly the man, youth or boy who wears a suit of Kent & Miller's clothing.

Who is wise? He that learns from everyone. Even from Mrs. Grundy one may learn that the wise man buys his spring clothing at Kent & Miller's.

The strength and safety of a community consists in the virtue and intelligence of its youth, especially of its young men; and nothing contributes more to the virtue and intelligence of young men than elegant apparel, such as all may obtain at Kent & Miller's, 18 and 20 South Salina street.

The Teachers' Institute.

The Oswego County Teachers' Institute which was held at Hannibal last week was largely attented and was one of the most interesting and instructive sessions ever held in the county. The instructors were Prof. Bouton, of Albany, a graduate of Yale college, and Prof. Barns, Superintendent of Schools in Little Falls. E. G. Blakeman of Constantia and Lillie M. Pease of Oswego were elected Secretaries. Miss Jessie Griswold of Scriba was organist. The teachers of Fulton and Oswego Falls were present. Excellent music was furnished by the Brewster Silver Band during evening exercises. The people of Hannibal were very generous to the teachers and furnished them with very comfortable accommodations. Prof. Bouton's lecture Thursday evening on "Beauty" was grand and the delivery without fault. Prof. Boothby of this village made several short and interesting speeches.

A Strange Disease.

VOLNEY, April 21.—A short time ago a number of farmers of Volney sent to Castle Garden and hired German Emigrants to work. Fred Petrie secured two of them. The men were afflicted with some disease unknown here and have communicated it to the family and both Mr. Petrie and his two children are down with it. The physicians do not understand the nature of the disease.—[Oswego Times and Express.

This item has appeared in several papers greatly to the annoyance of Mr. Petrie who says the statement is false. He acknowledges that he has in his employ two German emigrants, but that neither of them have been sick, to the contrary they are strong, hearty fellows. His two children were sick for a few days, but with no puzzling disease, as their physician readily understood the cause. Mr. Petrie thinks the report has been currented for the purpose of deteriorating and doing away with this emigrant labor hiring.

New supply of Hosiery at the BONANZA.

[illegible] J. T. Lockwood [illegible] S. N. Dada of this village made arrangements for the body and secured a lot in the cemetery. The maiden name of Mrs. Putnam was Carrie Watson and she was the daughter of the late Asa Watson of this place who died in the war. Mrs. Putnam's mother was buried here about three years ago. The only living relatives of the deceased is her sister, Mrs. Thompson of Meridian, and a cousin Jay Watson of Hannibal. Mr. Watson was present at the burial yesterday. The lives of both Mr. and Mrs. Putnam were insured and Mrs. Thompson always forwarded the money to pay the policies and will probably receive the insurance. The following is a brief account of the tragedy: The victims of the double crime had been married less than a year. They had lived together but a few months before the wife became the object of violent abuse. Her husband was addicted to drink and possessed a jealous and tyranical disposition and an ungovernable temper. Through irregularities in his accounts he lost his position in Syracuse, and was unable to secure another. His wife offered to work and support both herself and her husband but they had a disagreement and Mrs. Putnam went to J. T. Lockwood of Syracuse, in whose employ she had been before her marriage and secured a position to canvass for books. Immediately after her appointment she went to Utica and while there she boarded with Mrs. Haight at No. 39 Blandina street, giving her name as Marion Gray. When the husband heard what his wife had done he promptly took steps to learn her whereabouts. Upon learning that she was in Utica, he at once went there and insisted that she should return to Jordan with him. This was on April 20, and on the day following they left that city, going as far as Meridian the first day, and reaching Jordan on Tuesday. About this time Putnam changed his mind again, and telling his wife that he was going to Kansas on business, he left her. On Wednesday Mrs. Putnam returned to Utica, and again stopped with Mrs. Haight. Friday night Mrs. Lockwood, the wife of Mrs. Putnam's employer went to Utica and called on her. Mrs. Putnam was then in her room, and as she afterwards explained to Mrs. Lockwood, Putnam was there also, and compelled her with a drawn revolver to write a note stating that she could not see her and requesting her to go home. The message was handed to the visitor by a servant and a request to be allowed a moment's conversation with Mrs. Putnam was positively refused. Mrs. Putnam, however, wrote her another note, worded as follows:—

"If I had not told you to go he would have shot me. Had a revolver at my head. I had to say so."

Mrs. Lockwood and Mr. and Mrs. Putnam left the house together and took the train for Syracuse. While on the train the wife wrote another note to Mrs. Lockwood, requesting her to refrain from conversation with her as her husband would be angry. When the train arrived in Syracuse at 2:18 p. m. Mrs. Lockwood left Mr. and Mrs. Putnam, who took the next train for Jordan. Upon arriving there the woman was left at the station and the man went to the Clinton House and hired a horse and carriage. After returning for his wife he drove toward Meridian. About two miles from that village and in front of the dwelling of William Sturge, they met a man driving from Meridian. Mrs. Putnam told the man that she was afraid of her husband and wanted the man to go with them. He refused and Mrs. Sturge, who weighs 200 pounds, volunteered with the consent of her husband, to go with them. Putnam seemed willing to have her go. After they had driven a short distance and when between the houses of Newton Davis and Albert Keeler, Putnam drew a revolver and fired two shots at his wife. One ball entered her right arm and the second entered near the right clavicle. Both women screamed, and Mrs. Sturge begged to be let out of the wagon. Putnam helped her out and then fired the third and fatal shot. The ball lodged behind her left ear. Mr. Sturge, who had followed with a horse and carriage, was ordered to keep back. Putnam who was in the road when he fired the third shot at his wife, walked to the side of the road where he swallowed the contents of a paper which he took from one of his pockets, and immediately afterward shot himself three times in the left breast. He died instantly. Coroner Cole and Dr. Cooley arrived soon after the shooting, and the bodies were taken to Mrs. Thompson's. In Putnam's pocket was found this note:

We wish to be sent to Adrian, Michigan, to our sister, Mrs. S. B. Smith, for burial, where our expenses will surely be paid. We wish to be laid out in these clothes. This horse belongs to Niles. OSCAR AND WIFE.

How Putnam obtained a knowledge of his wife's presence in Utica remains a mystery. It is supposed, however, that it was through the correspondence passed between Mrs. Putnam and her sister, Yet how this occurred can not be determined unless some one having access to the mail should have assisted. Mr. Lockwood had taken such pains to conceal Carrie's whereabouts, that he had directed nearly a package of envelopes for her when she went to Utica so that her handwriting should not be seen. One of these envelopes postmarked Utica, April 26, 9 p. m., and contained these words written with a lead pencil, was received by Mrs. Lockwood Monday morning.

Dear Mrs. L.: You saved my life by going. Will explain when I see you.

On the back the same had been begun with ink but the last words on the line blurred, as though hastily wiped off by the hand, probably at her husband's approach.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know he Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

The many great improvements introduced in the manufacture of the Jas. Boss' Gold Watch Case, have led to similar improvements in the making of silver cases.

Under the old methods, each part of a silver case was made of several pieces of metal soldered together, requiring a great amount of cutting and soldering, which softened the metal and gave it the pliability of lead rather than the elasticity of silver.

Under the improved methods, each part of the Keystone Silver Watch Case is made of one solid piece of metal hammered into shape. The advantages are readily apparent, for every one knows that hammering hardens the metal while soldering softens it.

To test the superiority of the Keystone Silver Watch Case, take one of 2 oz. weight, press it squarely in the center when closed, and it will not give, while a case of equal weight of any other make will give enough to break the crystal. The Keystone Silver Watch Case is made only with silver cap and gold joints. [illegible]

[illegible] Rich and showy costumes are made of repped, victorious silk in changeable colors that have sombre effects, such as brown with dull red, and gold with green.

Black lace dresses will be largely worn during the summer, instead of grenadine dresses.

Figured materials whether in wool velvet or satin, continue to be but part of the costume, and the rule applies to evening as well as morning, promenade and visiting dresses.

A novelty in fashion imported from Paris is a spring tailor made dress, made of alpaca in styles as severe as those of cloth costumes, and with simple stitching for trimming.

The mantles worn with spring suits match the polonaise instead of the underskirt, so that the disagreeable effect of three different stuffs superimposed on one another is avoided.

The light weight of alpaca will commend it for spring and summer dresses, and it is made up on silk foundation in long coats and straight folds that do not require soft and flexible fabrics.

For summer afternoons are very dressy toilettes of white veiling, or albatross cloth, or other sheer wool, with the basque and very finely pleated skirt ornamented all over with pink rosebuds and green leaves embroidered with silk.

For the sea side and the mountains are dresses of white bison cloth made up with accessories of golden brown velvet, and trimmed with a white worsted lace that is new this season, and is especially suitable for light wool stuffs.

The French jersey webbing is now made up into very pretty two piece suits, with a blouse waist and a skirt simply finished with tuck just above the hem and a very slight apron drapery sewed into the belt. These dresses are used for mountain and seaside costumes.

For mornings in the summer and for short summer journeys there are dark Virginie cloths of the very sheer wool that is sometimes called wool China crepe; these are plain for part of the dress, while other parts have silk embroidered figures upon them such as are seen on the silk China crepes.

Dressy house jackets to wear with black or gray silk skirts are made of white crotcheted piece lace of a new kind, and are trimmed with a border of black lace, that may be of barbes or scarfs, folded in soft puffs around the neck, armholes, down the fronts, and around the hips. Jet ornaments catch these lace borders at intervals, and a box pleated scarf gives slight back drapery, which is held by loops of poppy red satin ribbon. These jackets are without sleeves, but lace sleeves without lining may be added to them, or else they can be worn over a basque that matches the skirt.

The Hop Plasters have a wonderful sale and why! Because they cure Back Ache, Stiff Joints, Pain in the Side, and all soreness in any part. People appreciate them. Any druggist 25 cts.

RELIGIOUS READING.

The Presbytery of Lehigh, recently in session in Bethlehem, Pa., selected as its moderator for the ensuing year the Rev. W. R. Templeton, a colored man and pastor of the Washington street Presbyterian church of Reading. This is the first instance of a colored pastor being chosen moderator in Pennsylvania. But if he is qualified for the position why not?

The Methodist Episcopal Board of Church Extension has been in existence for twenty years. During that time $3,500,000 have passed through the treasury, and been used in erecting 4,500 houses of worship, with 1,000,000 sittings, worth to-day, $8,000,000. There is now in the hands of the Board a loan fund of $510,000, which legacies and subscriptions already made will swell to nearly $1,000,000.

William H. Vanderbilt has deeded to the Moravian church society in New-Dorp, Staten Island, ten acres of land adjoining the Moravian Cemetery, in which the Vanderbilt mausoleum is to be replaced this summer by a new one designed by Mr. Richard M. Hunt, which is to cost $90,000. The land has lately been improved and laid out in driveways, walks and grass plots, and contains a pretty miniature lake.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the New York Annual Conference celebrated its fourteenth anniversary recently at the Madison Avenue M. E. church. The Society has had a prosperous and fruitful history. It was organized in 1870 by seven women, and has now a membership of 90,000, of whom 20,000 belong to the New York branch. Last year the expenditure for mission work reached $25,000, and the intention is to raise $30,000 the present year.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organ. At times, symptoms of indigestion [illegible]

[illegible] shattered in nerve, and melancholy in mind the poor girl had lost interest in her own fate. To her vision that loomed up but one end to all her sufferings, and its insensible stillness looked almost inviting, after so many days of languor and pain.

But who may know his fate—either for good or evil? By the earnest advice of friends in Peekskill, Mr. Howell tenderly conveyed his daughter—all there was left of her—to the office of Dr. David Kennedy, in Rondout, N. Y. Dr. Kennedy perceived that she was suffering from heart disease, and also from an advanced stage of a complaint common to women.

Having given some minor directions in reference to diet and clothing, Dr. Kennedy prescribed his FAVORITE REMEDY as his young patients only medicine. Not long after the threatening symptoms vanished, the light returned to her eyes, the bloom to her cheeks and happiness to her heart, an example of a recovery which is as wonderful as the medicine that effected it.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three years of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞ For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞ But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made,

☞ And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞ BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a

For Man & Beast thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. The thermometer, barometer and hygrometer will at an early day be found as essential on the farm, as the plow, cultivator and thresher.

If your hens lay soft-shelled eggs you may take it as a warning that you are not providing a sufficient supply of egg-forming food, such as broken bone, oyster shells, etc.

An Ohio farmer washes his apple trees every spring and fall with strong lye that will float an egg, and finds it to be sure death to the borers. He claims that he has not lost a tree since beginning this practice, although he had lost several previously.

If seeds are to be kept over they should be placed in a cool location and should be exposed to the light and air. Keeping them in darkness weakens vitality, perhaps from a tendency to grow which darkness incites, but unaccompanied by moisture enough to put forth leaf and root.

Fatten stock in the stall. Turn them out for exercise, but never feed in the yard. The animal that is obliged to fight for its food among the herd and eat it after it has been fouled an trampled, can not thrive up to its fullest capicity. There is also an enormous waste of food when given in this manner.

In feeding calves by hand great care should be exercised to have the food of the right temperature, as nearly as possible that of milk fresh from the udder, and to feed often enough to prevent the calf from getting too excessively hungry, and then over-eating. By the neglect of these precautions promising calves are often seriously injured, if not killed outright.

The lazy, careless farmer is now being generally regarded as a bad neighbor. He who spreads rust and smut, disease germs and weed seeds that involve his neighbors extra outlay, labor and loss, can never be called a good citizen. He may be sober, kindly and obliging, but with all these qualities he may be a source of continual danger to all around.

To kill grubs in cabbages or cauliflower, to one part of well-slacked lime add four parts of fresh wood ashes, together with a small handful of fine salt to about every peck of the mixture. Mix well together, spread over the surface of the ground, rake in well and mix with the soil at the time of sowing seed or transplanting into frames. Where geraniums are injured by a grub worm, at the time of planting out, put a handful of this mixture around each plant.

If you do not get as good a price for your butter as some one else does you may count that there are nine chances out of ten that the fault lies with you and not with the purchaser, remarks an exchange. Really choice butter is not so plenty but that any one who makes a really first-class article can easily obtain the highest market price. It is very natural for one to think that their butter is just as good as their neighbor's, but if their neighbor's brings a higher price it will pay to try and improve the the quality a little.

Higher Prices for Butter.

All dairymen who use Wells, Richardson & Co's., Improved Butter Color, agree that it increases the value of the butter several cents a pound. It is pure and harmless, convient for instant use, has no taste or odor, and gives a clear golden richness to the butter. It is the very best butter color obtainable, and is not expensive. In every state in the Union the demand for it is increasing.

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to a lady patient who had been complaining of her continued health and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for the joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would take a man confined to his bed for a year and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from liver and kidney trouble!" 47t4

[illegible] Brother,
[illegible] will [illegible] the last.
[illegible] from the pathway of duty,
[illegible] fade;
[illegible] best beauty
[illegible] betrayed.
A father may [illegible] and coldly
If his son has wandered astray;
But mother will stand forward boldly
And help him regain the lost way,
And speak to him kindly, in warning
In just as tender a tone
As she did in childhood's pure morning,
Ere sorrow and crime he had known.

Ah, no! there is no love like a mother's
So noble, forgiving, and true;
[illegible] may trust to many another's
And value it that it is new,
To find, when life's sun is shrouded,
And our pathway enters the gloom,
Their love for us, to will be clouded,
While hers follows us to the tomb.

JANET'S MISTAKE.

BY MABEL AUSTIN.

For this one day Janet Sydney might rest and face her sorrow. She was only Mrs. Denison's seamstress, whom nobody noticed; the housekeeper was a far grander personage, and Lydia Denison's maid completely outshone quiet little Miss Sidney.

A year ago, in her father's home, she had been the centre of attraction; here no one spoke to her, except to say, "Sew this lace in my sleeve," or "Mend my glove."

No one, did I say? Yes, there was one person who always showed a kindly sympathy for her.

Janet sometimes fancied, though she banished the thought sternly when it would come, if he had met her in her own home before her father's death, that kindly sympathy would have been something deeper and stronger; but she was a seamstress, and he Mrs. Denison's only son, so she was sure that it was merely a chivalrous instinct that prompted him to treat her as he did.

Then came the dreadful time of his illness, when he lay for days at death's door, and Janet's sickening anxiety had no relief in ministration on the sufferer. She must still perform her dull tasks, while others cared for him she would have given her life to save.

At last he died.

Mrs. Denison was crushed with grief; Lydia went into a chronic state of hysterics; the housekeeper moaned and lamented over the young man she had known from a baby. But Janet Sydney who loved him—yes, loved him—better than any of them, must show no signs of grief as she superintended the making of the mourning wardrobe, careful that no hot tears dropped on the crape.

During his lifetime she had been sure of one friend, at least; now she was entirely alone. The only brightness for Janet through this sad year had been when he dropped a flower in her work-basket, or left some new book on the machine.

Now, on the day of his funeral, she could stop her work at last, and think of all his kindness.

Early that morning she had stolen into the room where he lay to place some snowdrops on his bosom. No one would notice her few poor buds in the wealth of lilies and roses about him.

Softly, almost fearfully, she pushed open the door and entered.

He lay in his coffin—her idol—but, instead of the peaceful expression on Janet had learned to associate with death since her last lingering look at her father, Hermann Dennison's face wore a vague, indefinable air of horror that filled her with dismay.

For a moment she stood gazing at him; then, with a sudden burst of tenderness, she stooped and tenderly kissed the cold lips, whispering:

"Oh, my dearest, you never guessed how I loved you!"

The sound of her words frightened her. With a hot blush, she dropped her flowers and fled to her own room, to give way to a passion of sobs.

The house was very still—so still that one might fancy Janet's stifled grief could be heard from cellar to garret. Suddenly the silence was broken by piercing shrieks, followed by smothered exclamations, suppressed sobs, hastily whispered commands, a subdued hubbub very unusual for a house of grief.

The little mourner heeded it not. Exhausted by the weary days which had preceded this, she lay on her bed, brooding over every well remembered look and word.

It was not till late in the afternoon that any one thought of her; then she was aroused by the clatter of heels and rustle of silks that always announced Lydia Denison's approach.

That little lady rushed into the room with even more than her usual impetuosity, as she exclaimed:

"Oh, Miss Sidney, you actually haven't heard—he's alive—alive—don't you understand—not dead, but alive!"

Janet started up with a wild cry.

"Who—alive. What—what do you mean?" she gasped.

"He isn't dead at all," cried Miss Lydia, dropping into a chair. "Oh. I [illegible] I was dreaming; and to think, after parting with him and nearly dying [illegible] sorrow, and putting on mourning, and everything else, and he not dead at all [illegible] — Oh, dear, I suppose I ought [illegible] down on my knees and saying my [illegible] but I'm so happy I can't keep [illegible] it does seem as if it really [illegible] be true, and that doctor ought [illegible] State's prison, I'm sure; but he [illegible] was the only physician dear, [illegible] Hermann ever had; and to think [illegible] It would do your heart good [illegible]

All this Miss Lydia said without pause of any kind, while Janet sat on the side of the bed pale as death, her hands tightly clasped.

"Do you mean that he, Mr. Denison is alive?" she gasped, not daring to believe such joy. "I don't think I quite understand you."

"I'm sure I don't either, and if I hadn't pinched myself I'd think I was crazy and they all say so, too, and if this isn't bedlam it must be so."

"Then he is alive?" Janet whispered. "Thank God! Thank God!"

A happy mist swam before her eyes, a glad song of thanksgiving rang in her ears. She could not listen to Lydia Denison's excited chatter; what cared she for the how and why. He was alive, her friend, and that was enough for her.

Suddenly these words caught her attention.

"He says he was perfectly conscious all the time he was in the trance—no, not all the time, but after twelve o'clock last night, and he knew he was in a coffin and thought they would put him on ice, and we never can be thankful enough that mamma wouldn't have it done, and he tried so hard to cry but he couldn't; and he was afraid they would shut down the lid and it would have been murder. But everybody knows how dearly we love him, and this morning they left him all alone, and he said you came in."

"Was he conscious then?" cried Janet.

"After twelve o'clock last night he heard every word that was said, even when I was crying so, and declared I'd keep his room just as he left it, and, oh, dear! I am so happy I must do something. I'd just like to rush into the street and shout, 'He's alive!—alive!'"

So saying Lydia tripped away and left Janet to her own thoughts.

* * * * * * * *

Three weeks passed, and she sat in her same quiet corner in the sewing-room, unnoticed as usual. Mr. Denison had not yet left his room, and the very thought of meeting him was dreadful to her.

He had heard her confession, of course, and what would he think of her? The bare idea overwhelmed her with shame, and she determined never to see him again. As soon as she knew he was strong enough to go from one room to another she would leave the house.

Once or twice Mrs. Denison had asked Janet to relieve the nurse and watch by him, but she had always managed to excuse herself under the plea of other work.

But what did this mean? There was a shuffle of feet in the hall, the sound of Lydia's voice, and, behold! the nurse and the butler entered, carrying Hermann Denison. Miss Lydia followed, smothered in pillows and shawls.

"There!" she expostulated, as he was laid on the sofa, and she began to arrange the pillows about him, "I know mother will be furious when she comes home and finds what I have done; but if you kill yourself you will be satisfied. The doctor said you were not to stir out of your room for three weeks more, and why you will insist on coming to this room of all others, I can't imagine. Of course it will make you sick, and I will have to bear the blame. Nurse you can go now and take a rest, for you do look worn out, and James, too. Now, Hermann Denison, are you contented?"

Hermann smiled faintly and closed his eyes, but did not notice Janet.

As Lydia's back was turned, and she was absorbed in her own, ceaseless chatter, Janet ventured to steal a long, wistful look at the handsome face, so thin and white now.

Suddenly opening his eyes, Hermann met her gaze with a triumphant smile, that brought a blush of bitter shame to the poor girl's face; then he turned to his sister, and said slowly, with long pauses between every few words:

"I wish you would—read to me. Get my copy of—'The Princess,' please. It's either in the left hand corner—of my bookcase—or in my under drawer—or somewhere in the billiard room."

"It will take me all day to find it," said Lydia, rising to obey.

"Don't come back without it," was his answer.

Why had he sent her away?

Janet longed to make her escape; but to reach the door she must pass him, so she sat sewing as composedly as she could while her heart was beating so wildly.

Soon he spoke.

"Janet."

"Sir!" Janet exclaimed, haughtily.

"Come here, please."

"What do you want? Shall I call the nurse?"

"Oh, it's not fair to take advantage of a sick man. I can't go to you, please come here."

There was no resisting such an appeal. Janet complied, though her whole face flashed defiance.

Herman closed his eyes, with a mischievous expression lurking in the corners of his mouth.

"Do it again," he whispered.

"Mr. Denison! how can you be so ungentlemanly, so—so cruel. Let my hand go. You have no right to take advantage of—let me go, I say!"

"Janet, Janet, it is you who are cruel. You have been so cold and proud to me, even when I showed you by every means in my power how I loved you, that I thought you hated me, my dearest; but there is no use trying to deny it now, for I know—yes, I know the truth, my own sweet, precious one. Your kiss brought me back to life. I could not die with such happiness before me. "Oh, why did you treat me so unmercifully?"

"But, you forget," sobbed Janet, kneeling by him, and not struggling to release her hand now. "My position is so different from yours. What will your mother say?"

OUR CHICAGO LETTER.

Some National Conventions to be Held in the Lake Side City—The May Musical Festival—The West Shore.

[Correspondence of The Times]

CHICAGO, April 30.—A National association of candy manufacturers completed their organization last night at the Palmer house with officers distributed between Boston, Chicago and other cities. One of the best things of the convention was an agreement to suppress the use of adulterants in the manufacture of candies. Some ninety firms engaged in this industry representing three-fourths of all the trade in the United States were represented, the session lasting two days. The place for holding the next annual meeting will be Philadelphia. The association "sugared off" with a banquet at the hotel last evening, great good feeling prevailed and the session may be said to be one series of linked sweetness.

INDUSTRIAL CONGRESS.

The National Industrial Congress will meet in Chicago, May 21. The convention will consider national questions of undeveloped resources; idle persons needing employment, idle capital waiting investment; overstocked industries and professions; neglected trades; and the possibility of producing in America everything that is needed or used by Americans; delegates will be present from a number of the states. Mexico will send a large collection of fibres for exhibit, accompanied by a delegation of Mexican gentlemen. Pennsylvania will be represented by her foremost wool growers and a full line of exhibits. Massachusetts will be represented by Mr. Chas. Tappan who announced that he would be present with his fibre-bleaching process. Many of the extreme Southern States will be represented. Among the names of resident managers are George M. Pullman of palace car fame, W. P. Nixon, editor of Inter Ocean, J. V. Farwell, N. K. Fairbank, Marshall Field, F. W. Palmer, O. W. Potter and other well known business men of this city.

MAY FESTIVAL.

Theodore Thomas' Musical Festival opens May 27, and continuing five days. It will consist of a series of musical performances that will have an educating value that can hardly be estimated. Christine Nilsson will appear on the opening night in the "Creation." The leading music will be Wagner which has already created an intense desire to hear this great master's works. The celebrated "Wagner trio" from Vienna, Materna Winkleman and Scaria have just arrived in New York to take part in the festival. A chorus of 900 voices have been training for nearly one year and will add greatly to the entertainment. The orchestra will be the largest ever got together in the West and will number fully 170 men, all of them artists, and including the full orchestra of Mr. Thomas, in New York. Next to Mr. Thomas there is not so good a voice trainer or chorus master as Mr. Tomlins of this city, who will have charge of the chorus. The exposition building now being fitted up and used first for the festival, will have seats for some 9,000 with stage capacity for 1,000 in addition. All the interior changes are rapidly going forward and the decorations will be very elaborate and costly, $15,000 have been appropriated by this festival and the two National Conventions, each to pay one-third of the cost. Mr. Adams, manager of Central Music Hall has entire charge of the decoration and the sale of tickets, the price for full course is $15. Of the coming

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

it is perhaps too early to speak. There will be between eight and nine hundred delegates and an equal number of alternates. The tickets are being engraved and printed in this city and will be exclusively under the control of Hon. John C. New, formerly U. S. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. A given number, eight hundred will go only to money subscribers who have furnished the money for convention expenses. The tickets will be intricately engraved to prevent counterfeiting, and will have coupons for the various days of the convention. Two of the largest bands of music in the city have been engaged.

THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

convenes in this city July 8 and will assemble at 12 m., in the grand exposition building. The number of delegates for No. 2 will not be less than No. 1, while it is thought the attendance will be even larger. Whatever is lacking in outside attendance can easily be made up in this city. Carter Harrison, our third term mayor is a candidate for Vice-President with either Tilden or Cleveland from New York, and his myriad of friends will be present to boom his chances and shout his name. He feels confident of giving the electoral vote of Illinois to the Democrats, should he be given second place on the National ticket.

NEW YORK WEST SHORE AND BUFFALO.

Much satisfaction is expressed by the friends and patrons of this new road in the rapid growth of its passenger traffic. So great has been the increase in through business that on and after the 4th of May next, two more trains will be put on at Buffalo for New York, running in connection with the roads out of this city, and making the time in 26 hours. The passenger equipment, furnished by the Pullman car company is said to be the finest between Chicago and New York. The Buffet sleeping and parlor cars are of the newest, handsomest and best design. G. K. Lambert of the Hoosac Tunnel Road, is the general western passenger agent at 75 Clark street where all needed information can be obtained.

FASHION NOTES.

White petticoats are only worn with full dress evening toilets.

Short jackets of gray, tan, dark red, or black lady's cloth are to be worn with spring dresses.

Some new basques are edged with a cord of passementerie in one color, or in two twisted together.

The sleeves of new dresses are only slightly bouffant at the armhole, but all are quite high on the shoulders.

High standing collars of dresses have a small throat bow of velvet ribbon just beneath them—not on the collar.

Gold, silver, and silk gauzes, with raised and shaded velvet figures, are the most superb fabrics ever yet produced.

Crape veils are coming into fashion and are soft-looking and becoming to the complexion in cream and pinkish white shades.

Bonnets with soft crowns in the shape of a bonne's cap are further trimmed with large gold-headed pins stuck across the crown.

Some of the prettiest white wash dresses will be made of the old-fashioned white Seirro muslin covered with small raised figures.

The novelty in black lace mantles is the full Moliere fronts tied with ribbons, and extending lower across the sides to form paniers and back drapery.

Yoke waists are on percale and gingham dresses imported from Paris, and their trimmings are scallops overcast with the prevailing color in the material.

Pretty little mantles to wear with any dressy costume are shown in mushroom shades, in olive green, and sapphire, and are partly of cloth and partly of velvet.

Wash dresses to be worn at Newport and Saratoga the coming summer will be made of figured Swiss muslins, percales without glazing ecru, baptistes, chambery and Scotch ginghams.

The newest long cloaks illustrate the present tendency toward full dress skirts as they are made of a closely fitted basque, to the edge of which is gathered a full straight skirt of several breadths of material.

Surah skirts to wear under Maria Antoinette polonaises have the front and side breadths tucked to the waist with tucks two inches deep, while the back fullness is held in two large double box pleats that are not tucked.

The sunflower, daisy, marigold, dandelion, and hedge roses with leaves are the flowers most in favor for colored outline embroidery on pongees and on pongee, gray, and mushroom-colored cashmeres and woolen stuffs.

Lace will be the trimming for spring and summer toilets. Exquisite new patterns of Chantilly and Spanish laces are brilliant with fine jet, and the fawn colored and champignon laces will be used instead of the washed-out ficelle lace.

There were 23,310 houses built in London and the suburbs in 1882, forming 508 new streets and one new square, covering a distance of 75½ miles.

CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough of cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should arrest it while it is in the germ. Two or three doses of Dr. Bosanko's Cough and Lung Syrup will relieve an ordinary cough or cold. It does not dry up a cough like many preparations, and leave the disease behind it, but acts directly upon the throat and bronchial tubes, removing all the phlegm and morbid matter that accumulates in the throat and lungs. It allays all irritation, and renders the voice clear and distinct. Trial size free. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

An illustrated series on "Recent Architecture in America" is begun in the May Century. Mrs. Van Rensselaer says of the Brooklyn bridge: "It is not because the towers of the Brooklyn bridge are plain that they are not works of art. It is because beauty was not considered in planning their masses, and because their constructive features do not properly explain their purpose. If an architect had fashioned them, he would very likely have left them as simple as they are to-day; but he would have built them beautiful in outline, and would not have fallen so far short of expressional design as to make the opening for the cables—the very why and wherefore of the tower's existence—mere casual holes cutting the cornice through. And there is no reason, save our apathy or artistic weakness, why every factory or grain elevator in the land might not be made, in its simple and humble way, a work of architecture, too."

SOLID COMFORT.

Every one likes to take solid comfort and it may be enjoyed by everyone who keeps Kidney-Wort in the house and takes a few doses at the first symptoms of an attack of Malaria, Rheumatism, Billiousness, Jaundice or any affection of the Liver, Kidneys or Bowels. It is a purely vegetable compound of roots, leaves and berries known to have special value in kidney troubles. Added to these are remedies acting directly on the Liver and Bowels. It removes the cause of disease and fortifies the system against new attacks.

"Shine yer butes?" shouted a bootblack yesterday to an oil citizen on Main street. The man addressed made no reply. "Shine 'em up; only five cents?" Still no reply but a gaze into vacancy. The bootblack looked at his victim a moment to make sure he was alive, and then said in a disgusted tone: S-a-y, mister, ef ye can't tolk vy jess make signs, will yer?"—[Bradford Sunday Mail.

Officeholders.

The office held by the kidneys is one of importance. They act as nature's sluic-way to carry off the extra liquids from the system and with them the impurities both those that are taken into the stomach and those that are formed in the blood. Any clogging or inaction of these organs is therefore important. Kidneywort is natures efficient in keeping the kidneys in good working order, strengthening them and inducing healthy action. If you would get well and keep well, take kidneywort.

A man may forget home, kindred, friends and almost everything else, but he never forgets the first time he went to a barber's shop to get shaved.—Birmingham Owl.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

CHAS. FORD, brother of the slayer of Jesse James, shot himself in the heart yesterday morning. No cause is assigned.

GOVERNOR CLEVELAND last week appointed William H. Bowman of Rochester fish Commissioner in the place of Edward M. Smith, deceased.

THE Hon. Thomas I. Chatfield, State Senator from the twenty-fourth district in 1872-3, died at his home in Oswego, N. Y., last Thursday, aged 64 years.

IT is surmised that nitro-glycerine has been conveyed to England in American spirit flasks, the customs officials having been hoodwinked by that method of conveyance.

GOVERNOR CLEVELAND heard arguments Friday afternoon for and against the general street surface railway bill. A large number of railway men and other interested parties were present.

GENERAL Butler having been offered $20,000 by some Western publishers to write a book, to be entitled "The Ups and Downs of Political Life," declined on the ground of being unacquainted with the downs.

THE largest book ever made at the Government Printing-office, in Washington, has just been finished. It is bound in sheep-skin and Russia leather, is 1 foot 4 inches in breadth, contains 10,000 pages, and weighs 140 pounds.

GOVERNOR CLEVELAND has commuted the sentence of John B. Griffen, the Pawling dynamiter, to imprisonment for life. The Governor thinks that Griffen should have received the same sentence as the others convicted with him.

THE New York Herald says that Boss Kelly has changed his mind. He is almost a Tilden man. His organ in an official delivery on the subject of the Presidency says that he "will support Mr. Tilden heartily should he be nominated."

THE Presidential prospects of Grover Cleveland are brightening every day and indications multiply that he will be the Democratic candidate. His independence and manliness as Governor have very greatly strengthened him before the people.—[Syracuse Sunday Times.

THE Morrison tariff bill was killed in the House of Representatives yesterday. Several speeches were made during the day for and against the bill. On motion of George L. Converse, an Ohio Democrat, the enacting clause was stricken out by a vote which stood 156 to 151. Only two Republicans voted for a horizontal reduction of the tariff. Thus ends the great tariff discussion. More time can now be devoted to the coming campaign.

THE New York Sun says: "While others are working like beavers and struggling like acrobats to attain more or less prominence in the Democratic National Convention, General Hancock keeps the even tenor of his way, taking no part in any intrigues, asking nothing of the people or the party, but performing his whole duty with wisdom and dignity. A tribute of hearty admiration is due to this eminent and patriotic public servant."

THE Thetis, flag-ship of the Greeley relief expedition, left New York last Thursday for the Arctic. The crew are a robust, manly-looking set of men and they have been carefully selected. They were in excellent spirits. These men go to the relief of their countrymen who have been imprisoned in the ice for nearly three years. They go prepared to meet all hardships and even death. The New York Graphic of last week has the portraits of all the officers and crew, about 26 in number.

THE Cleveland Herald publishes reports of the wheat crop from all sections of Ohio. The area sown last fall was 2,600,000 acres and it is estimated that the crop will aggregate not far from 34,700,000 bushels. The present condition is put at 88 per cent. The largest crop reported in Ohio was that of 1880, when it reached the high point of 48,500,000 bushels. The value of thorough drainage is shown by the fact that freezing did great injury upon wet soils, while the drained portions of the same fields escaped.

A BILL has been passed in the Assembly having for its object the transfer of insane criminals from any asylum, to the asylum for insane criminals at Auburn. The order for removal may be given by a justice of the supreme court upon application of the superintendent of any asylum. The county from which any insane criminal is committed shall defray all expenses of such person while at the asylum, but the county may recover the amount from his own estate or from any relative, town, city or county that would have been bound by existing laws to provide for and maintain him elsewhere.

The cheese factory is doing good business. The cheese is engaged to a firm in Syracuse for this season. It is uncolored and made to suit the American taste. The patrons pay $1.00 per hundred for making the cheese.

The Greenbackers of this town rejoice greatly on account of the recent decision of the Supreme Court declaring the issue of greenback money constitutional. It is a great victory.

Quite a large amount of acreage will be set to tobacco this season in the vicinity of this village, and probably less ground than usual will be devoted to potatoes in this town. Winter grain looks well, and the meadows have started finely.—[Hannibal News.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, [illegible]

[illegible] as a continuous [illegible] popular site form a large [illegible] and the many shouts of happy people. All this [illegible] is raised by the devotees of the roller skate who worship every day and evening at this new shrine. The Olympian Skating Club is at the head of the enterprise and so of course everything is conducted on a large scale. I spent the greater part of one evening last week at the rink and must say that I enjoyed it. After I had accustomed myself to the roar and rotary motion of the rushing crowd I began to pick out individuals and watch their style and action. Speaking of the "poetry of motion" I saw people who, with their ease and grace, like a beautiful poem seemed to lift one above the earth, and float you away in the beautiful realm of nowhere; and others, like the effects of a would-be poet, in the pring time, bringing discord to your mind, and chaos in the world of poetry. Tall people, short people, short people, thin people, fat people, good looking, homely poor, bad, good, rich and indifferent, all melted into one whirling mass, two thousand five hundred strong. I could liken it only to the life we are all leading. Every one rushing on, faster and faster, grasping at, and struggling for something not obtainable, only in the end, to give up and in this case go home. The floor is as smooth as glass and is the finest and largest surface of the kind in the country. The band occupies the centre and all around the sides of the building are terraced seats, and private boxes. Booths for the sale of refreshments are scattered through the building and the front part is used for ticket offices, skate and cloak rooms, and the room for learners. I watched the scene for about an hour and then gave myself up to the fascination, took my place on the floor, and soon joined the whirl. My first effort, and it pleases me to say that I escaped without a fall. I saw plenty of others that did fall, however, and also saw some funny incidents. In the shadow of one of the pillars stood a man, minus one leg. He knew how much out of place he was and his face plainly told the thoughts that were passing within him. A six footer fell prostrate and tripped five other people. Before they could recover they became the centre of a kicking, laughing mountain of humanity, that was struggling to regain its feet. This occurred several times during the evening. I noticed several lady skaters decorated with medals telling of victories won on the spinning wheels; also a couple of little girls scarcely ten years of age each with a gold medal flashing from their dress fronts. They were both blondes, were dressed in Mother Hubbard suits of dark red and their golden hair was confined with jaunty red zouave caps. Everything was in harmony and in executing the most difficult movements, they were the embodiment of grace. Children seem to excel in this pastime, but I suppose that this is due to the practice they have, and the natural elasticity of the body. The entertainment came to a close with an exhibit of fancy skating and some trick bicycle riding.

THE GREAT SIX DAY WALKING MATCH.

To look at the crowds of anxious people who covered the sidewalks in front of the newspaper offices this week you would think that some great question of state was involved, or that reports came from some great battlefield. There was a battle but it was one of leg endurance. Fourteen men started at Madison Square Garden last Sunday at midnight to walk six days for money and what fame could be gotten from the title of champion. To-night seven men were on the track at nine o'clock at which time the race was declared finished. Below is the score:

Fitzgerald	610 miles
Rowell	602 "
Panchot	566 "
Noremac	545 "
Herty	539 "
Elson	525 "

Fitzgerald (now champion) and Rowell beat Hazell's score of 1882—six hundred miles and the score shows what a machine a man can make of himself by the right kind of training. The champion is to be received at his home, Long Island City, and will be given the freedom of the town, over which he has ruled as alderman. Financially the walk was a success, both for the managers and the men who covered the coveted five hundred and twenty-five miles. Nitaw-Eg-Ebow was, as an Indian walker, a dismal failure, but as a go-as-you-please eater and smoker he was ahead of his pale faced rivals. Dakota will soon gather her son to her bosom, and sporting circles will know him no more. He was a great card, however, but he thoroughly demonstrated that although "he could run down a deer in the forest" he could not hold his own on a saw dust track amid a dense volume of tobacco smoke. Verily, the Indian does degenerate.

Politics, spring investigating committees and Bock beer have sprung into our midst. Soon the dogwood trees will be in bloom, Coney Island season will begin, and New Yorkers will be happy. "The Jumbo Hotel" at the Island is being pushed to completion and the first time I visit the place I will try to describe it for your readers. It is a mammoth hotel built in the form of an elephant and will be one of the many attractions at this favorite resort.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

UTICA, N. Y. May 5, 1884.

A clean market in New York makes a strong one in the country. A very little competition was sufficient to make prices higher to-day, and altho' buyers feel that it is a little risky they seem willing to take the chances. So long as the cheese is taken it is all right, but even a small lot left over would prove a drag on the market at this time of year when every one wants to see the fodder cheese consumed as fast as it goes forward. To day's sales are all full milk stock and come down about to April 14. Cheese is said to be very good in quality this spring. The transactions of the day are as follows: 3 lots 78 boxes, 12¼ cents; 4 lots, 270 boxes, 12⅛ c.; 53 lots, 3,063 boxes, 12⅝c.; 4 lots 196 boxes at 12¾c.; 55 at 12⅞c. Sales 3,662 boxes; commissions 887; total 4,549 boxes, Ruling price 12⅝c. One year ago the transactions were 4,178 boxes, the ruling being 13c. Two years ago there were 3,500 disposed of, and the ruling was only 11¼c. Thus we are ⅜c under last year but 1⅜c., above the year before.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, May 5, 1884.

CHEESE.—Our market is a little stronger than last week, altho' the amount of stock that has changed hands is considerable less, while it was generally expected to be more. The reduction in the amount of sales is due to the fact that last week salesmen sold off very closely, many of them sending the last of their skims which they wish to be rid of as soon as possible. But as their stocks are now nearly all whole milk cheese, much of which is not quite well enough cured, salesmen, wisely made light offerings to-day. To-day's prices and general tone of the market also gave confidence to the factorymen to hold their fine goods. The advance to-day on each particular grade may be said to be about ¼c. per pound. Most of every other day cheese sold at 10½c. and below; every day stock generally sold at 11 to 12¼c., and that above these figures was whole milk cheese. Following are the transactions;

Lots	Boxes	Price
6	207	10c.
15	580	10½
6	277	11
4	130	11½
15	505	12
20	873	12¼
2	70	12⅜
7	301	12½
4	147	12¾
8	159	13
10	357	Com.
Farm Dairy	430
Total	4,096

FARM DAIRIES.—There were sales of 480 boxes farm cheese, at prices ranging from 6 to 12c., the bulk at 10 to 11 cents.

BUTTER.—Ninety-six packages of dairy butter sold. Prices ranged at 20 to 24 cents, only a very few packages at the latter price. Nearly all sold at 23c.

Rheumatic Syrup Co.:

Gentlemen—I desire to tell you what the Rheumatic Syrup has done for me after using it for three months. For the last fifteen years I have been one of the worst of sufferers with Rheumatism. My limbs arms and hands, in fact my entire form was drawn out of shape, and I have for years been unable to do any kind of business, or to wait upon myself. I have used up nearly all of my means in doctoring, put I grew worse all of the time until all hope had left me and I had fully decided I would buy no more so called remedies; but one of your company hearing of my case, came to see me, and had so much faith in Rheumatic Syrup, that he said he would cure me or furnish the medicine free of cost. I have taken it as he directed, and am to-day entirely free from all rheumatic pains, and have almost entirely regained the use of my limbs, and am able to be about and do my farm work, and I believe the Rheumatic Syrup has done what no other remedy on earth can do. I am, Truly Yours

JEROME McQUEEN,

P. S. Please bear in mind that for the last ten years I have been unable to walk a step without crutches, and much of the time could not walk even with them; was as helpless as a child.

Cruelty to Birds.

We wish to say a few words in regard to the cruelty done our domestic birds. It has been noticed by many who appreciate our Robins that since the Sparrows have become so numerous, the Robin-red-breasts are but few to what they were some years since. The Indian robin, Blue bird and Ground Thrush are disappearing very fast. But what makes one who loves these birds feel more sad is to see the havoc that is made on them with their air guns by a set of idle boys. Last Sunday we noticed four or five Robins lying dead on Rochester street, having been shot and thrown away. Had they been shot to stuff or for some such purpose it might be overlooked, but to kill these birds merely for the sake of sport is wrong and our good people should see that this shameful cruelty is stopped.

Board of Excise.

The excise board met Monday evening and adjourned until Tuesday at 11 a.m., at which time a number of licenses were granted. They adjourned again until last evening. The following licenses have thus far been granted: Hotels—Lewis house, Clark house and Mrs. A. Woodruff. At Volney Centre, Mrs. A. Keller. Store—J. V. Boomer. Ale and beer—James Elder, James F. The board adjourned until Monday, May 12, when Mr. Sharp will be present.

A Difficult Arrest.

George Clarence a tramp, was arrested in this village last Friday, by Officer Jones on a telegram from Baldwinsville, requesting his arrest charging him with stealing a quantity of gold from Dr. Perkin's dentist rooms at that place. He was found and after considerable manual labor was lodged in jail. After the struggle was over, (for he was a powerful fellow and determined not to go to jail,) he presented the appearance of a man who had braved a western cyclone. His wardrobe had apparently severed connections with his body. But other clothing was procured for him and he was taken to Baldwinsville, there to answer for his sins and transgressions.

Birthday Party.

Frank Connell, the popular dry goods clerk in F. E. Bacon's was honored by an enjoyable surprise at his home on Rochester street last Friday evening, it being the 32d anniversary of his birthday. About twenty persons, consisting of friends and fellow clerks assembled at his home to await his coming from the store. The evening was very pleasantly spent in visiting, during which refreshments were served. During the evening the company presented Mr. Connell with an elegant arm chair as a reminder of the event. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bacon.

Fine Poultry.

N. W. Ottman of this village has we think, the finest stock of fowls in this vicinity. He has several pure blooded Brahma, both black and white, and has been offered as high as three dollars a setting for their eggs. At the last Poultry exhibition show at Utica the black Brahams was given the highest scoring of any bird in America. Mr. Ottman's fowls are the same breed. He has had a great demand for eggs from parties throughout the State within a short time. Parties interested in poultry will enjoy looking over his stock.

Services were held in Zion church last evening. Bishop Huntington of Syracuse, delivered an interesting sermon and administered the rite of confirmation to Bertha North, Anna Holden and Mary Shaver. The church was well filled.

Quite a severe wind storm prevailed here last Friday doing some little damage. Several buildings were threatened to be unroofed, and a portion of the roof on the Johnson block was torn up. Chimneys were demolished and signs blown down.

One of the handsomest fronts in town is that in the Johnson block on the corner of First and Oneida streets. Mr. Johnson has spared no money nor pains in fitting up this store, and should certainly feel proud of it. The work is under the supervision of George Emeny. Each member of the circle read a choice selection from his writings, and to crown all Dr. Hewitt furnished us a complete copy of the Spectator covering its entire publication from March, 1711, until Dec. 1714, and containing more than two hundred essays by Addison, also a very fine steel engraving of its most distinguished contributor. Just received at the Bonanza a new line of Veilings. Also Knitting Cotton and Skein Cord.

[illegible] May, June and July. The work of re-modeling this vast interior covering acres of floors, and properly adjusting separate seats for 10,000 people, is no small job. The great audience room being 180 by 400 feet. It is doubtless well known that these are three parties interested in the use of and arrangement of this building. The Chicago Musical Festival Association for the Thomas May Festival, May 27, the Republican National Convention June 3 and the Democratic National nominating Convention July 8.

To accommodate the chorus of 900 singers the platform extends the entire width of the north end, and graduated seats have been made reaching a level with the gallery. In front of these on either side, will be the orchestra of 170 persons, and all so placed as to be readily seen from the 9000 numbered sittings in the centre from the side galleries, and from the rear third of hall which will also be gradually raised, the extreme reaching a height far above the gallery line. This is made in a semicircle and will give a good view of the stage even if too far away to understand the words of any speaker. There will also be most commodious side sittings, and boxes are being fitted up to the number of 75, which during the festival will be occupied by plethoric purses, and at the conventions by wives of the more distinguished delegates, and possibly by a would be mistress of the White House. The high arched ceilings are being painted, and the whole interior will be richly decorated by a Cincinnati firm. Not less than $15,000 will be expended in the improvements which will be paid by the three above mentioned parties. The building will be brilliant with electric light and by far the largest and most attractive audience room ever occupied by a National Convention. Generous accommodations will be furnished the press. Tickets for general admission will be furnished by the chairman of each State and Territory delegation, to whom application must be made.

THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG.

One of the standard attractions of Chicago—perhaps the leading one is the national panorama of the "Battle of Gettysburg." After more than six months display, with an average daily attendance of nearly two thousand people there seems to be yet the same desire manifested to look upon this wonderful work of art. The painting represents the decisive action which took place on the afternoon of July 3. 1863, the third day of the battle, and generally known as the "Charge of Picket." The scenes here depicted are full of life and the terrible battle-field is distinctly and clearly presented, and has every appearance of being real. The battle ground, with its dead and wounded soldiers, the smoke of cannon, the bursting shells, the blood stained ground are all drawn with a realism that is almost painful. The hills, ravines, farm houses and fields of grain can all be seen, while the charges by the soldiers are very realistic. The scenes are most interestingly described by a real soldier, Capt. G. B. Bancroft, who served under the intrepid Major Powell in command of the gallant 5th army corps from Central New York. The painter is a noted artist of Paris, who, after spending months on the battle field and with the living generals who fought there, devoted two years of time in the painting which in size is 50 by 400 feet. Mr. Emile Glogon is the gentlemanly manager.

DEKOVEN—FARWELL.

Yesterday wedding bells rang merrily for Reynold DeKoven and Anna Farwell daughter of Hon. C. B. Farwell, well known in Utica and Fulton and a relative of the Case family. There were present four hundred guests, dinner was served by Kinsley, the Chicago caterer. It being May day flowers ruled the hour. The bride and groom left by special train for the East and will spend the honeymoon in Itilia.

Oriental Owners of White Elephants.

The King of Siam and the King of Burmah are by no means the only possessors of those incarnate symbols of Buddah. Several of the rajahs of tributary States have sacred elephants. For instance, Mr. Bradley informs us in his book on "Sports in Burmah," that the rajah Tatson, in 1870 was possessed of a pair of small "white" elephants, the color of which he described as a "muddy drab." This rejah reigned with absolute authority over some twenty-three villages, and very proud he was of his two holy beasts, who, he said were never touched by hands of mortals save those of the priests who ceaselessly attend upon them, taking them out to bathe twice daily.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour, this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, ro of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In buying a silver watch case great care should be taken to secure one that is solid silver throughout. The cap of most cheap silver cases is made of a composition known as albata, which is a very poor substitute for silver, as it turns black in a short time. The backs of such cases are made much thinner than those of an all silver case, being robbed in order to make the cap thicker and get in as much as possible of the cheap metal. Another important point in a silver case is the joints or hinges, which should be made of gold. Those of most cheap cases are made of silver, which is not a suitable metal for that purpose. In a brief period it warps, bends and spreads apart, allowing the backs to become loose upon the case and admitting the dust and dirt that accumulate in the pocket. The Keystone Silver Watch Cases are only made with silver caps and gold joints.

[illegible] cooler in the summer.

A man who has given the matter some thought claims that a farm of 100 acres of good land should keep at least six work horses, twenty milch cows and twenty hogs.

Working horses while it is raining or snowing, as it is often during the plowing season in the early spring, generally does them much injury, and seldom if ever is there any time gained by it.

A good cow may be a first-class milker and give satisfaction with liberal feeding, but she can not fulfill the expectations required of her when all the conditions of food, water and shelter are unfavorable.

A variety of vegetables are used for filling silos in other countries. In France beet tops and the leaves of grape vines are employed, in England turnip leaves and vetches, and in India different kinds of wild plants.

Fowls appear to derive great benefit from eating grated horse-radish. Fowls are fond of highly seasoned food, and will eat large quantities of ginger, pepper or onions. Horse-radish is easily raised and appears to be as valuable as condiments that are somewhat costly.

Salt is being freely used by nurserymen in their pear nurseries for the purpose. If these remedies do not prevent the disease, they at least correct a disposition to blight.

Chickens when first hatched should not be hurried out of the setting nest. For 24 hours at least from the time the earliest commence to show themselves, it is better to leave them under or with the hen mother. They need no food for from a day to a day and a half usually. When they get strong enough to venture from beneath their mother's wings, it is time to move the brood.

An agricultural writer, speaking of the best method of feeding cornfodder and other coarse foods, calls attention to the fact that since these are in themselves incomplete foods, lacking the nitrogenous and fatty elements, they should invariably be supplemented with some food which will supply these. He regards cottonseed cake, or linseed oil cake as among the best as they not only supply the needed elements, but also greatly enrich the manure.

The high prices paid by dairymen for cows every spring suggests the inquiry among some farmers whether it would not be much more profitable to raise some of the calves which they now kill and dispose of for little or nothing, or winter over more stock than they now do. Every spring the dairyman's pocketbook is drained to purchase cows and very often he is compelled to borrow large sums of money in addition, to repay which, he has to depend on the sale of his butter and cheese. With high prices paid for stock, low prices received for butter and cheese is frequently ruination to the farmer, and a number are beginning to believe that the old style of raising their own dairy or the greater part of it, even though fewer cows are kept will in the end pay far better than the plan now commonly adopted. The chances are that the prices of cows will increase each year in the future, for the terrible waste caused by the slaughtering of so many calves can not fail to make the supply of milch cows scarcer.

Mr. Barnum offers a prize of $500 for the best poem on the white elephant. A Chicago editor who has fished up from his waste basket a recent poem eulogizing a Chicago girl's lovely feet, thinks he can remodel the effusion and gather in that $500 without a particle of trouble.—[Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

[illegible] Chemung Co., N. Y. [illegible] incurable disease of heart. When the train reached Peekskill it was evident that the almost dying girl could not be carried a mile farther with safety. Emaciated in body, shattered in nerve, and melancholy in mind the poor girl had lost interest in her own fate. To her vision then loomed up but one end to all her sufferings, and its insensible stillness looked almost inviting, after so many days of languor and pain.

But who may know his fate—either for good or evil? By the earnest advice of friends in Peekskill, Mr. Howell tenderly conveyed his daughter—all there was left of her—to the office of Dr. David Kennedy, in Rondout, N. Y. Dr. Kennedy perceived that she was suffering from heart disease, and also from an advanced stage of a complaint common to women.

Having given some minor directions in reference to diet and clothing, Dr. Kennedy prescribed his FAVORITE REMEDY as his young patients only medicine. Not long after the threatening symptoms vanished, the light returned to her eyes, the bloom to her cheeks and happiness to her heart, an example of a recovery which is as wonderful as the medicine that effected it.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

For Man & Beast

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle, Sold by dealers.

of them of the most wonderful cures, voluntarily sent us. It is our medicine, Hop Bitters, that makes the cures. It has never failed and never can. We will give reference to any one for any disease similar to their own if desired, or will refer to a neighbor, as there is not a neighborhood in the known world but can show its cures by Hop Bitters.

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to a lady patient who had been complaining of her continued ill health and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for the joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3.00, which would take a man confined to his bed for a year and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.

A LADY'S WISH

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from liver and kidney trouble!" 47t4

[illegible] money in my pocket. We two sat there in the library for a long while after this, mother dozing in the big chair, and I intent upon some fancy work which I was anxious to finish in time for a friend's birthday. I forgot altogether the package of money that lay at the bottom of my dress pocket.

"Joseph did not get back until after 10 o'clock, although it was only three miles to the junction, and he should have been home long before that hour.

We thought little of that however. He had been with us several years, and I learned that he had been recently led into bad company, and that father had several times had angry words with him about his habits.

Joseph slept in the house and for that reason it seemed to me quite unnecessary that Harry Randall should be there also.

When the clock struck 10 mother arose, declaring it was time to go to bed. She went into all the rooms to see if the windows and doors were all fastened, and then came back to the library for me.

But I did not feel sleepy and wanted very much to go on with my work, so I begged her to go up stairs without me, promising to come up in the course of an hour.

The clock struck 11 almost before I knew the time had passed. I laid down my work and counted the strokes without looking at the clock itself.

I was sitting at a little center-table near the lamp. At my left a little way off against the wall, was father's desk, with books and papers scattered upon it, and the battery a tone end.

Opposite me were two long windows that opened upon the side piazza. Over these were thick curtains, closely drawn, which did not shut out the sound of the pelting storm outside. Directly behind me was the hall door, standing as usual, wide open.

"Just then I heard, or fancy I heard, a low sigh or breath in the hall. I turned my head instantly, but did not see any person, and listening intently, heard no further sound. I felt a little uneasy, and smiled to myself at my nervousness, then took up my work again. I had not finished what I had set myself to do.

I had not taken three stitches when I laid the work down again. There was no use denying it or laughing at myself, For some reason there suddenly came over my a strong feeling of nervousness and dread. It seemed as if I realized as I had not before that evening the fact that I was sitting all alone down stairs in the house, at 11 o'clock at night, with a large sum of money in my pocket.

I glanced at the desk. Possibly Harry was still at work at the office. If he was a single sentence over the wire would call him.

I was just getting up to go to the desk to signal and see if he was at the mill, when something occurred to me that seemed to turn me cold and motionless in an instant.

Behind me, so close that I knew it came from the threshold of the hall door, a low, hoarse voice, that I knew, without seeing the speaker, must be that of a desperate and wicked man, broke the stillness, and bade me "Good evening."

For a moment, as I say, I felt as though I had been turned to stone. Then the voice, speaking again, seemed at least to restore the life in me, and to set my heart to beating violently.

The language that the man used was not even as good English as, as in attempting to reproduce, I find myself writing.

"Don't be frightened, miss. I beg of ye not to be frightened. All ye've got ter do is ter keep still, an' not a hair of yer pretty head shall be harmed."

Then I turned my head half-wheeling in my chair at the same time, and saw standing in the doorway a tall, brutal-looking man, altogether as ugly and ill-conditioned and fearful-looking a person as I ever had seen.

Naturally enough I opened my lips to utter a little cry, but he stopped me by a single threatening motion of a club he carried in his hand.

"S—h," he fiercely hissed. "If ye raise a single scream I'll strike ye as senseless as yer mother is up stairs."

The last word changed for the moment the nature of my fear and gave me strength to speak.

"What have you done to my mother?" I demanded excitedly. "Do you mean—have you killed her?"

He uttered a sort of low laugh.

"No, my dear; she was waking up, so we had ter use chloroform. An' you must keep still or you'll be served in the same way. You see, it's just here—"

He drew a step nearer and seemed disposed to explain matters.

"What we want is some money your father brought down from Palmer's yisterday. Maybe yer don't know about it; but we do, and we know he left it in the house when he went off to-night. My friend is up stairs lookin' for it this minute. All we want is the money. We don't mean harm to nobody. Ye [illegible] if ye behave yerself [illegible]

[illegible] and having [illegible] I was able to assume [illegible] calmness.

I [illegible] and went on [illegible] I think the [illegible]

Perhaps I had better give up the money at once and get rid of them. And yet father had confided it to my care and it did not belong to him but to the company. I ought not to give it to these men if I could help it. Oh, why could I not give an alarm in some way? What if I could open my mouth and cry out at any risk? Could I make Joseph hear away out in the [illegible] of the house as he was; "Alas, I knew that I could not, even had this man been sitting there by the door—he had taken a chair now—eyeing me fiercely as though he read my thoughts. Ah, if I had only done as father wished and telegraphed for Harry Randall to come up! And then with this last thought another thought came to me. Why could I not summon Harry even now, if perchance he was at the office?

I arose from my chair, mechanically grasping my work in my hand. My guard got up also, evidently suspicious of my slightest movement.

"I'll have to ask you to keep quiet, miss," said he, with a harsh, determined voice.

I turned upon him indignantly. "I suppose I may change my seat if I like," said I.

And without waiting for his permission, I walked deliberately over to the desk and sat down on the revolving chair that stood before it. At the same time I threw my work down on the desk in such a way as to cover completely the battery, which instrument my companion had probably not noticed at all. Perhaps he would not have known what it was if he had.

I sat there a moment, listlessly twisting the chair back and forth, and trying to make up my mind what it was best to do.

Just then there was a slight noise on the hall stairs and the man became uneasy, stood up and looked at the library door, as if he was about to go toward it. Then he turned again to me, and with a threatening gesture, said:

"You jest set there while I step into the hall a bit. And if you stir or make a noise it will be the worse for ye. Do you mind that!"

He went softly into the hall.

Feeling that now was my opportunity, I put my finger on the knob, and as silently as possible sent my signal over the wire into the night, down to the mills and Harry Randall.

"Harry, are you there?"

In another instant I was leaning back in my chair and moving an inkstand on the table to make a noise. How my heart was beating, and my ear was strained to catch the sound that—if I might in God's goodness hope it—might possibly come back to me!

Almost a minute—it seemed an age—I listened; and my heart sank as no answering signal was heard. Then—click! click! click! came the sounds, sweeter to my ears than the sweetest music, and I knew Harry was there. These sounds were to some extent covered by the drumming of my thimble, but to me were as plain as spoken words.

"Yes."

Instantly I sent back my answer. Two excited words, run all together:

"Robbers! Help!"

The total silence that followed assured me, after a minute's anxious waiting, that Harry had comprehended my message, and that doubtless he would come at once to the house. Fortune had favored me, for I had heard the man creeping up the hall stairs, and thus I had escaped the result of any suspicions he might have had had he heard the clicking of the instrument.

I did not look at the clock, and so cannot say how long I sat there in silence. It seemed to me that it was hours.

Then there was the sound of whispering in the hall. The next moment there appeared in the doorway a second stranger, rougher and more desperate, if possible, in appearance than the first; and close behind him, to my great surprise and indignation, was our man Joseph. They both advanced into the room, the one looking angry and disappointed, and the other with a sheepish air as he caught my eye.

"We have found the key of the safe," growled the second stranger. "But all for nothing. The money wan't in it, and we have looked high and low, and can't find it. But Joe here stick to it that it's somewhere in the house; and he thinks," looking fiercely at me, "you know where. It's no use, Miss——; we havn't any time to spare and we won't have no nonsense. I see it in your eye; you know where the money is. And you've got to tell."

He had advanced while he had been speaking and was now quite near. I arose from my chair, fearing he meant to lay hands on me. And at that instant—my ears painfully allert to any noise—I was certain I caught the sound of a footfall outside of the window, and I gained fresh courage.

"And why have I got to tell?" I demanded, purposely raising my voice so it could be heard outside the house. "What right have you to break into this house this way—"

The man suddenly caught me by the wrist, uttering at the same time a fearful oath.

"You make another sound above a whisper," he cried, in a voice hoarse with rage, "and I'll—"

He did not finish his sentence. There came a loud crash at both windows at once, and the next instant Harry Randall with [illegible] from the mills [illegible]

The rescue was complete, so far as saving our lives were concerned. [illegible] hoping [illegible] safe; and we were all thankful for that.

And I may say again that I am very glad that, at this time at least, the telegraph had not been superseded by the telephone.—Somerville Journal.

The Lime-Kiln Club.

[Detroit Free Press.]

By actual count there were forty-three members of the club coughing and sneezing at the moment the triangle sounded, and it was not until four minutes after the echoes died away that the President arose from behind his desk and said:

"If Socrates Spikeroot am in de hall I would like to see him out heah in front of de desk."

Socrates had just crowded himself in between the stove and the wood box, calculating to get warmth enough to last till the next meeting, and didn't look overpleased at being disturbed. When he had limped along to the desk, one hand in his pocket, the other digging in his wool, Brother Gardner continued:

"How long has you bin a member of dis club?"

"Bout six months, sah."

"Um! It has been 'bout three months since I fust had my eye on you, an' to-night you seber connexion wid dis club. Misser Spikeroot, it was understood when you jined dis club dat you was a barber. Has you barbed anybody or anything since dat date?"

"I—I—no, sah."

"On de contrary you has loafed aroun' saloons an' policy shops an' queer places, an' no man has knowed you to do an honest day's work. We doan' hanker arter sich members as you When a poo' man kin lib widout labor people have a right to be suspishus of him. Brudder Giveadam Jones, you will escort dis pusson to de doah. If, when he gits dar, he should utter any remark derogatory to de character [of Ledime Kiln Club, you needn't put de Bogardus kicker at work. Let him go in peace. What he kin say won't hurt us, an' you might kick too hard and break leg."

After the late deceased had been shown out and order restored the President said:

"Gemlen, if dar am any mo' agitators in de hall I want 'em to listen closely. Socrates Spikeroot used to be a hard workin' man. All at once he got de ideah dat capital was oppressin' labor. He quit airnin' $11 per week bekase he didn't want to be oppressed. In a month he became a deat beat. While it am a serious offense fur capitalists to oppress labor, it am all right for a kicker to go aroun' borrowin' money, runnin' in debt an' stealin' his wood. A few weeks ago Mr. Spikeroot got lonesome an' he began to agertate. He went to var'us laborin' men an' convinced dem dat de man who airns his $12 or $14 per week orto turn out and mob de capitalists who furnish him de chance. He am now an agitator. He has got facks and figgers to prove dat de workin' man who owns his cottage and kin airn a good support fur wife an' chillen am de most oppressed man on de face of dis airth. When a saloon turns him out he threatens to Boycott it. When a man refuses to lend him money he am called a bloated monopolist. When his wife wants shoes or his chillen cry for bread he comforts em wid de statement dat America am buildin' up an aristocracy to lord it over dee poo' people an' grind 'em to powder. If Misser Spikeroot hab left any friends behind an opportunity will now be giben 'em to pick up deir hats and feet and trabble."

There was a deep silence for a minute and as no one travelled the President signed for the Secretary to proceed with the regular order of business.

ELECTION.

The following candidates were then put through the bean box. Allgone Strong, Rancid Davis, Pardon Jones, Seekwell Smith, Salty Taylor, Jumbo Hastings, Judge Pulldown and Professor Emblem Stevens.

CHARTER WANTED.

Fulton, N. Y., 1884.

BRO. GARDNER—I own a meat market and in the back part is a shoe shop where people of our color congregate. Some are black as you are while others are lighter like myself. But what I want to say is this: Over my market is a hall; we want to dedicate it and name it Paradise Hall No. 2, and start a branch of the Lime-Kiln Club here. Will you or Bro. Pullback or Pickles Smith come and give the opening address? I will pay your expenses while here, or if none of you come can you deputise Chris. Powells to make the address? He is a particular friend of mine, and would do it you can't come. Hoping that you will present this letter at your next meeting I remain,

Yours anxiously waiting a reply,

CHARLIE X HITTLEMICKER.

The Secretary was instructed to ask for a list of proposed charter members, and to see if the postmaster of Fulton will furnish any of them a certificate of character. Since the newspaper statement that one colored man in Fulton had owned up to stealing 6,000 fowls in five years the club has been rather suspicious of that section of New York State.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. COUNTY COMMENT.

From Our Exchanges.

Mr. L. Miller of this village has invented an ingenious alarm attachment for accoustic telephones. It is positive in its action and its practibility commends it on sight. It will be of great value in operating that class of telephones.—[Phœnix Register.

If any of our readers are troubled this spring with their neighbor's hens scratching in their gardens, we would suggest that they try the New England farmer's plan. Take a lot of shelled corn and with a small wire heated red hot, burn a hole through each kernal and tie a horse hair some four or five inches long through each kernal. Scatter these in the garden and then watch the fun. The hens will swallow the corn and pretty soon the horse hair will tickle their throats, and they will forget what they came for and go home disgusted.—[Pulaski Democrat.

Many people believe they can reap a rich harvest by holding for a market the new nickels that were struck off without the word "cents." Their notion is that the issue was a very small one. The fact is that 5,475,518 were coined and none have been called in. Coin collectors are giving from 15 to 25 cents apiece for them, and it will be a great while before the price will be increased. —[Sandy Creek News.

A letter received by one of the Germans near here gives the information that the German who left Mr. Gregg's so suddenly is teaching in a school in Baltimore. He was a good French and German scholar. He is receiving $35 per month.—[Pennellville cor. Oswego Times.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, May 12,—The market to-day has been brisk with a strong competition of fine goods. At the opening of trade it looked as though last week's drices might not be quite reached and there are not as many sales at high prices the average is fully up to that of a week ago. Nearly all of the offerings were every day or whole milk cheese. Every other day stock sold at 10a10⅛c; we heard of none exceeding these rates. It will be noticed that the sales were not greatly increased in quantity, nor is it likely there will be until grass cheese is marketed. Buyers appear to consider it somewhat hazardous to buy very freely in the present state of trade, and some who usually take liberal amounts took light quantities to-day. Grass is coming forward nicely, being considerably earlier than last year at this time. Many have turned their cows in pasture and nearly all will have done so this week. Following is a list of to-day's transactions:

AT FULTON.

The opening sale of cheese at the Fulton board of trade was very satisfactory to buyer and seller. There were ten factories represented with 214 boxes of cheese which readily sold at 12 to 12½ cts. The leading price of cheese at Utica was 11½cts. The buyers were J. Hoose and S. Osborn.

Reports from Genesee county represent the present condition of the wheat crop as very far ahead of that of a year ago, and nearly if not fully up to the average at this date for the past eight years.

HARD TO BELIEVE.

It is hard to believe that a man was cured of a kidney disease after his body was swollen as big as a barrel and he had been given up as incurable and lay at death's door. Yet such a cure was accomplished by Kidney-Wort in the person of M. M. Devereaux of Iona, Mich., who says: "After thirteen of the best doctors in Detroit had given me up, I was cured by Kidney-Wort. I want every one to know what a boon it is.

NOTICE.

[illegible]

[illegible] their present positions through the various administrations since and even during the war. Mr. Pendel was President Lincoln's body-guard; saw him to his carriage the fatal night on which he visited Ford's theater, and he now has in his possession the blood-stained coat which Mr. Lincoln wore on that memorable occasion. There is not a public man in America to-day who does not know, and is not known by, these gentlemen, and the reminiscences of public and social life which they can recount would fill a congressional volume. During the weary yet exciting years of the war; through the more peaceful times of Grant's administration; while Hayes held the reins of government, and when Garfield was shot, it was these men who stood in the executive mansion, welcoming the advent of each new administration, bowing at its departure and receiving both martyrs through its portals.

During the long, hot and never to be forgotten summer which President Garfield lay between "two worlds," the nation became aware of the deadly malarial influence which hung about the White House. But all through that period these three men never deserted their posts for a single day, although each one was suffering intensely. In conversation with the writer, Colonel Densmore said:

"It is impossible to describe the tortures I have undergone. To be compelled to smile and treat the thousands of visitors who come here daily with courtesy when one is in the greatest agony, requires a tremendous effort. All that Summer I had terrible headaches, heart burn and a stifling sensation that sometimes took away my breath. My appetite was uncertain and I felt severe pains in the small of my back. I was under the doctor's care with strict instructions not to go out of the house but I remained on duty nevertheless. You would be surprised to know the amount of quinine I took; on some days it was as much as sixteen grains."

"And was Mr. Rickard badly of, too?"

"I should think he was. Why, time and again we have picked him up and laid him on the mantel, here in the vestibule, he was so used up."

"Yes," exclaimed Mr. Rickard, "I was so weak I could not rise after lying down without help, and could only walk with the aid of two canes, and then in a stooping position. Oh we have been in a pretty bad condition here, all of us."

"And yet you are all the embodiment of health," said the writer, as he looked at the three bright and vigorous men before him.

"Oh, yes," said Mr. Rickard, "we have not known what sickness was for more than a year."

"Have you some secret way of overcoming malaria and its attendant horrors.

"I think we have the most certain way," replied Colonel Densmore, "but it is no secret. You see, about two years ago my wife began to grow blind, and I was alarmed at her condition. She finally became so she could not tell whether a person were white or black at a distance of ten feet. One of her lady friends advised her to try a certain treatment that had done wonders for her, and to make a long story short, she did so and was completely cured. This induced me to try the same means for my own restoration and as soon as I found it was doing me good I recommended it to my associates and we have all been cured right here in the stronghold of malaria and kept in perfect health ever since by means of Warner's Safe Cure. Now I am not a believer in medicines in general, but I do not hesitate to say that I am satisfied I should have died of Bright's disease of the kidneys before this had it not been for this wonderful remedy. Indeed, I use it as a household medicine and give it to my children whenever they have any ailments."

"Yes," exclaimed Mr. Pendel, "I use it in my family all the while and have found it the most efficient remedy we have ever employed. I know of very many public men who are using it to-day and all speak well of it."

"I weigh 160 pounds to-day" said Mr. Rickard, "and when my physician told me over a year ago I could not hope to recover I weighed 122 pounds. Under such influences you cannot wonder that I consider this the best medicine before the American people."

The above statements from these gentlemen need no comments. They are voluntarily and outspoken expressions from sources which are the highest in the land. Were there the slightest question regarding their authenticity they would not be made public, but as they furnish such valuable truths for all who are suffering, we unhesitatingly publish them for the good of all.

[illegible] which he did, to take effect June 1. Under the circumstances the society reluctantly accepted his resignation. Mr. Benedict was appointed to attend and inform the assembly of Mr. Riggs' action. At the evening services in the church Sunday evening the house was crowded. During the four years of Mr. Riggs pastorate in Fulton he has made hosts of friends in every denomination who, although pleased with the honor conferred upon him, experience sad feelings at the thought of his departure. Through his instrumentality the new church was built which is a credit to the community. Mr. Riggs left to-day to attend the General Assembly at Saratoga, to which he is a delegate. He will preach his farewell sermon on his return, Sunday, June 1.

We take from the Troy Times the following. A high honor has been conferred upon one of our former citizens, the Rev. James S. Riggs of Fulton, N. Y., who Tuesday was elected adjunct professor of Biblical Greek in Auburn Theological Seminary. He was a member of the Second street Presbyterian church of Troy, graduated from Troy High School and then at Princeton College, studied Greek under Prof. Curtius in the German University at Leipsic, graduated at Auburn Theological Seminary, and for the past four years has been pastor of the Presbyterion church at Fulton, N. Y. He has been called to several important city pulpits but has turned from them all to give himself to the fascination of a professional life.

The Rev. J. C. Beaubien will close his services at Zion church with a farewell sermon next Sunday evening. During Mr. Beaubien's brief stay in Fulton he has won the admiration of many. He is an earnest and efficient worker, and his departure will be much regretted. Mr. Beaubien goes to Toronto, where he has been appointed assistant pastor of Grace church.

Amusements.

1,000 "Wrinkles."

Harry Watson in "Wrinkles" will appear at the opera House Thursday evening. The following are press comments:

The funniest comedy ever written.—[N. Y. Journal.

Last evening Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watson presented for the first time their inimitable comedy, entitled "Wrinkles," to a house that was literally packed from floor to ceiling. Fun reined supreme and the vast audience was fairly convulsed. We have seen many performers whom we thought funny at the time, but Watson can justly claim the title of "The Funniest Dutchman in the World." From his first entrance until the fall of the curtain peal after peal of laughter rent the air, every succeeding situation being more ludicious than the one before it.—[N. Y. Herald.

DUPREZ & BENEDICT.

Despite the inclement weather last Friday evening a good sized house greeted Duprez & Benedict's minstrels. The entertainment as a whole was a fair one. The singing was poor, though the dancing and jokes were very good.

Decoration Day.

This day will be fully observed in Fulton on Friday, May 30. A meeting was held at the G. A. R. hall last evening and the following committees were appointed:

M. C. Highriter, Sec. of Committees; J. F. Cooper, com. on Vocal Music; R. B. McCully, Martial Music; C. Hewitt, F. E. Goodjon and H. A. Harris, on finance; A. W. Laws, on marking graves; A. J. Osborn, on Carriages; G. V. Emens, T. T. Hart and D. M. Perine, on Fowers; Chase, Kellogg, Burk and Highriter, on flag decorations; W. J. Pentelow, J. F. Cooper, H. A. Harris and H. H. Kendrick, a general committee to act on matters not otherwise provided for.

Col. Geo. A. Cantine of New York, will deliver the Memorial address. Col Cantine is one of the most effective speakers in this State and his address will be well worth hearing.

The time and place of holding memorial services will be left to the general committee.

Friday Morning's Fire.

At about 3 o'clock last Friday morning the night watchman discovered the moulding department of the Ross foundry on fire. The alarm was at once given and the fire department was promptly on hand, but owing to a shed intervening between them and the canal they were unable to get a stream on for some time. The inside of the building was gutted but the brick walls left standing. Many valuable patterns were destroyed. The fire is supposed to have originated from the core oven of the furnace. The total loss is about $30,000. The building was owned by Beardsley of Auburn. The insurance was very light. The building will be temporarily rebuilt. About 20 men were thrown out of employment.

An exchange says a superstitious subscriber who found a spider in a copy of his paper, writes to know if we consider it a bad omen. Nothing of the kind. Dr. I. C. Curtis and Thomas D. Lewis, the committee appointed to investigate Electric lights, started to-day noon for Albany, Newburgh and New York. Slater Laycock was first appointed but not being able to go Mr. Lewis was appointed as his substitute. They will be absent two or three days.

The Syracuse Art Exhibition opened last Tuesday evening with an attendance of about 250. One hundred and fifty-seven works from some of the best artists in the state are on exhibition. Chicago is represented as is also Paris and other European cities. We were also pleased to notice that Fulton was represented by the signatures of Mrs. J. T. Sheridan and "Styles." The pictures will remain on exhibition until Monday, May 19. Lovers of art should improve this grand opportunity by attending the exhibition.

Wm. Costello, an old Fultonian, has our thanks for a late copy of the Thompsons Falls (M. T.) Frontier Index, which gives an extended account of Mr. Costello's visit to the gold mines. It gives glowing statements of his adventures and wonderful sights in the mines. In one instance it speaks of his seeing $30 kug out of a bed rock with a pen knife in fifteen minutes. It also says "He is one of the old west coasters who has familiarized himself through the last fifteen years with all the camps from the British line to Mexico, and he says he never saw anything that would bear favorable comparison with Coeur d'Alenes." Our readers will remember that we published a short time ago an account of his mining business. It is quite pleasing to note the prosperity of Fulton's old residents.

The New Bakery.

Among the various enterprises lately established in Fulton we notice in particular the new bakery on First street, opposite the "Bee Hive." DeWitt Lasher, the proprietor, a genial gentleman, kindly showed us through the bakery. The oven was built by John J. O'Connor of Albany, and he claims it to be the best one he ever put in. They also have a candy range, and will make fresh candy every day. The baker, John D. Lasher, is one of the best bakers in the State. He was employed at Albany for some time, but more recently in Oneida, where he is highly recommended.

The store has been nicely fitted up and an apartment has been divided off for ice cream parlors which will be opened at the proper time. The shelves and show cases are being stocked with pastry and confectionery of the choicest kind. Everything presents a neat and tasty appearance. Considerable time and money has been expended in making the business what it now is and they certainly deserve the patronage of our citizens. We believe the saying is true that "competition is the life of trade." The first batch was baked in the oven last night and it does excellent work. Mr. Lasher will open the store this evening for the first time.

Change of Time.

As a new time table went into effect on the N. Y. O. & W. road last Monday, trains will now run as follows: Leave Fulton going south, 6:00 p. m. 7:25 a. m., 8:55 a. m. Going north 9:28 p. m. 7:25 a. m., 5:10 p. m.

The train leaving here at 6:00 p. m. reaches New York at 6:50 a. m. After May 18 it is expected that new trains will be put on as the West Shore change time on that date.

The White Elephant.

Wherever the Forepaugh show exhibits the press is unanimous in its denouncement of the White Elephant fraud. It is branded as a gross counterfeiting device to decoy and cheat its liberal patrons. By carefully guarding your own interests you may avoid all possibility of making an unprofitable investment you can avail yourself of the only first, great and wonderful and in fact the colossal stock of boots and shoes now ready at H. Mr. Halpin is a gentleman in every respect and possesses many good qualities. He has fine musical talent and for some time has acted as leader in the Presbyterian choir, which has made great improvement under his leadership. Mrs. Halpin has presided at the organ. While in Fulton Mr. and Mrs. Halpin have moved in the best circles of society, and have made many warm friends especially in the church, who will deeply regret their departure. They intend making New York City their future home and will leave in about a week.

[illegible] dreds of citizens who have been drawn in the [illegible] in order to obtain a jury of twelve men who could answer all the requirements of the law and who had not formed an opinion so adverse to the prisoner as to be ruled out. All this week has been taken in obtaining a jury. The court room has been crowded to suffocation nearly the entire time, so much interest is shown in this peculiar trial. All the press of this city and several other places are present to report the proceedings. A New York city artist has taken full sketches of the room, the prisoner, his counsel, and of all that will be of interest for the illustrated papers of New York. So much difficulty has been experienced in impanneling a jury that defendant's counsel yesterday moved for an adjournment of the trial to next court, when the excitement of the populace should have died down somewhat, and men could be found who had not taken such strong grounds either for or against the prisoner. This the court could not allow. To-day the three remaining jurymen were found and twelve good men and true are now in the hands of two bailiffs ready to sit on this important trial Monday next, when the testimony will begin. The aged couple living in quiet ease and affluence left no children. A nephew quite noted as running through a large estate for his father, is looking after the case, and is in hopes a will may yet be found and that he may have been remembered. The circumstances attending this horrible murder and the mystery in which it is still shrouded makes it a case of peculiar interest. Some of the more striking features may be read with interest as the case proceeds.

FESTIVAL NOTES.

The sale of season tickets the past week has amounted to more than $15,000 a much larger sum than one year ago, while single tickets will fully equal this amount, and the financial success is fully assured. The guaranteeors met on Thursday and drew the number of his choice from Manager Adams' hat. Among the number was noticed a former Fultonian, and now one of the leading business men of Chicago, Mr. Murry Nelson.

The great building is now near completion; the vast ampitheatre and sounding board are finished; the chorus stage and orchestra platform is in position. The painters have worked the greatest change in the interior, to blue tint on the great arched roof, and soft maroon color of the girders are quite agreeable. Mr. Thomas is unwilling to have any flags and inside decoration to interfere with the best acoustic property of the wood, but the Cincinnati decorations already contracted for will be put in during Sunday and Monday, June 1st and 2d, and be in readiness for the Republican Convention which will be called to order at 12 noon, Tuesday, June 3. The Saturday Evening Herald, the leading musical and society paper of this city, gives in to-days edition a neatly numbered diagram of the exposition building. This discloses the enormous seating capacity of the hall, and indicates plainly the aisles, tunnels &c., and will be of use to the political conventions as well as the festival goers.

A BUST OF SHERIDAN.

Thousands crowded music hall to witness the unveiling of life size marble bust of Lieutenant General Sheridan. The bust is the work of a Chicago sculptor, and pronounced a most admirable piece of high art. Fitting speeches by Prof. Swing and Gen. White, an eloquent oration upon Gen. Sheridan by Bishop Fellows, a recitation of "Sheridan's Ride" by Prof. Lyman, with much music occupied the evening.

Your correspondent would recommend to Manager Stephens to secure as one of next winter's attractions, Mr. George Riddle, professor of elocution in Harvord University. His success in Chicago has been of the most unequivocal kind. As a reader he can draw larger audiences than any other man or woman in this country. His charming manner and emotional qualities impart the greatest interest and he captivates and holds his hearers spell bound to the close.

Chicago is noted for its newspapers, but lacks a strong Democratic sheet. Each paper at present booming some Republican candidate for the June nomination. We have tried to think that Blaine was ahead but are not satisfied that Arthur is the favorite, and if left to this city and press, he would get the nomination. His admirable course of late is fast making him the favorite. What was said of another "O that mine enemy would write a book" can now be repeated with growing meaning. everybody asks everybody else "who will get the nomination?" Perhaps the son of his distinguished and lamented father. Three weeks more and perhaps the wires will flash the name of the coming man the THE TIMES sanctum.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of The Sun have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, ro of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know he Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

Most persons have an ambition to carry a gold watch case, and yet few people know how a watch case is made, or the vast difference in the quality of them. In a Solid Gold Watch Case, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of the metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus is not only needless, but undesirable, because gold is a soft metal and cannot furnish the stiffness, strength and elasticity necessary to make the case permanently strong and close-fitting. The perfect watch case must combine gold with some metal that will supply that in which the gold is deficient. This has been [illegible]

The whole basis of improving stock is the keeping of the animal forces to the highest point, after a pure breed is secured. This, of course, must depend upon a full observance of nature's laws, regular and full feeding, shelter, water and a few minor details.

A Boston physician who has given much attention to the subject has come to the conclusion that the milk of spayed cows is the most suitable for children and invalids. Its superiority consists chiefly in the circumstance that its quality remains constant during many months.

Sudden and extreme changes in milk, cream or butter injure keeping. The same is true of iced meat. If two pieces of meat are taken from the same animal, and one placed in air at 60° and the other on ice for three hours, and then placed beside the first, the iced piece will spoil long before the one which has been kept at 60°.

The habit of eating eggs is most commonly learned early in the season, and generally from having frozen eggs on the nest which the fowls learn to peck at. It is good economy to use porcelain eggs, and unless the hen house is well protected, gather eggs twice a day in cold weather. If any fowl is caught eating eggs, its head should come of at once, as others will soon learn the habit.

Never place the perches in the hen house one above another, or one higher than another. Fowls usually keep going up till they reach the highest perch. If there should not be room enough for all the strong will crowd the weak ones off. Perches should not be more than three feet high. Heavy chickens often hurt themselves jumping from high perches. Round smooth poles with legs to them make good perches and are easily removed to clean.

It is now said there is no truth in the popular idea that vines allowed to climb against a house will make it damp. Keep them cut down below the roof, so that they do not choke the gutters, and there will be no trouble from this source. Besides the beauty they give to an otherwise unpainted house, the cottage covered with vines will possess the advantage of greater coolness in summer and increased warmth in winter.

Many wonder how Parker's Ginger Tonic can perform such varied cures, thinking it essence of ginger, when in fact it is made from many valuable medicines which act beneficially on every diseased organ.

RELIGIOUS READING.

At the recent disastrous fire in Glen's Falls, N. Y., the Presbyterian church, a large and fine building, was destroyed. This is the second time a misfortune of that kind has befallen that church, its house of worship having been burned in 1864.

In the Presbytery of Lackawanna, Pa., there is a church of only one member, and a woman at that. But she seems to be an efficient member, for the report is that during the past year that church has raised more money for the Lord's work than many churches with fifty male members.

He that would die well must always look for death, every day knocking at the gates of the grave, and then the gates of the grave shall never prevail to do him mischief. He that will die rich and happily must dress his soul by a diligent and careful scrutiny; a frequent examination of our actions will soften our consciences, so that they shall be impatient of any rudeness or heavier load. —Jeremy Taylor.

The Rev. A. P. Happer, D. D., the distinguished American Missionary in China, has issued a very elaborate pamphlet on the population of China. He reviews with great minuteness the grounds on which the late Professor S. Wells Williams reached the conclusion that the sum should be placed at about 380,000,000. And Dr. Happer is clearly of the opinion that the whole number is not more than 260,000,000. A census of the whole empire, very recently taken, is now in process of compilation and the grand result will soon be known.

BRANDETH'S PILLS

They are compounded of Roots, Herbs and Gums of the most healing and beneficial kind.

As a Family Medicine they are unrivalled, curing Head-ache, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia—clearing the blood of all impurities —acting on the Liver, Kidneys and other important organs, removing the waste tissue, and adding years to the lives of all who use them.

For fifty years they have been used by the American public, and their constantly increasing sales show how they are appreciated.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

Ashfield, Mass.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to Brandreth's Pills which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your Pills saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with Brandreth's Pills, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of Brandreth's Pills. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

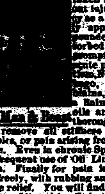
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment

Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Grey gloves will be very fashionable, whether of silk, lisle thread, [illegible] or [illegible] dressed kid.

White blossoms are much used with black bonnets, especially when white lace is part of the trimming.

Velvet retains its hold as a fashionable garniture for bonnets of the fancy materials, and for straws as well.

Crinoline is again coming up, or rather round, for it threatens to extend from the bustle all around the skirt.

There is no longer any one fashionable color; all colors are worn, but there is a taste for copper, champignon, blue grey and shot stuffs.

Lace bonnets promise to be very fashionable as the weather grows warmer, and those of ecru and of black lace are already worn to spring receptions.

The various kinds of colored crape, the English transparent crape and the thicker Chinese and Japanese silk crape are chosen for dressy bonnets to match rich toilettes.

All the pale shades of rose, lavender, blue and cream are made up for dress hats of crepe and the darker mushroom browns, violet and poppy red are used to match costumes.

A LOSING JOKE.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, jokingly said: "Try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Hop Bitters, from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient.

FEES OF DOCTORS.

The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in. We believe the schedule for visits is $3, which would tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and the years sickness.

A LADY'S WISH.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first. "By using Hop Bitters that makes pure, rich blood and blooming health. It did it for me as you observe."

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS.

"It is impossible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters, and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die, from Kidney and Liver trouble!"

"Will the coming man smoke?" was settled by Prof. Fisk in his charming pamphlet. He says, moreover, that the rational way to use tobacco is through the pipe. All agree that only the best tobacco should be used. Which is the best? That to which Nature has contributed the most exquisite flavors. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco fills the bill completely. Nearly two-thirds of all the tobacco grown on the Golden Tobacco belt of North Carolina goes into the manufactory of Blackwell, at Durham. They buy the pick of the entire section. Hence Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is the best of that tobacco. Don't be deceived when you buy. The Durham Bull trade-mark is on every genuine package.

A LITTLE TRICK.

"I was finishing," said Doctor A—— to me, "my fourth year of internal service at the Hospital Saint-Louis. My studies had been brilliant, but I do not make myself a merit of that. I had kept aloof from all the alluring pleasures of the young people of my age for the double reason that I was madly in love and that my love was not returned.

"I had refrained from casting my eyes on the grisettes of the Quartier-Latin because I was desperately smitten with my handsome cousin, Henriette B——, and I toiled like a slave to escape from the despair in which the young lady's disdain of my love plunged me.

"Her father, my uncle, Doctor B——, who dwelt in a town of the West, would have been happy to have me for his son-in-law; the fact that we followed the same profession and saw science and everything else from the same point of view had sincerely attached him to me.

"His daughter being very young when I had commenced the serious side of my medical studies, I had maintained an absolute reserve toward her, though my care, my attentions, my emotion at my arrival and at my departure were certainly visible enough to be noticed by a girl of 15 of intellectual development beyond her years.

"Meanwhile I was falling deeper and deeper in love with her, but, alas! the more I cared for her the less the cruel charmer cared for me. Hence it happened that the preceding year, a little before returning to Paris after five days' vacation passed at my uncle's house, the latter remarking my frightful sadness questioned me in regard to it.

"I plainly told him what was the matter.

"'Have you spoken to her of your love?' he asked of me.

"'Never, uncle; but a girl of eighteen divines such things, and if she refuses to notice the attentions of a friend of her infancy it is with the aim of preventing him from making an avowal of his love.'

"'Quite probable. I must make a closer study of the case.'

"'Do you think that she loves another, uncle?'

"'Unfortunately, no. I am afraid of something else. Leave the matter entirely to me.'

"The 'unfortunately no' of Doctor B—— was like a dash of cold water over me. I received the explanation of it a few months later.

"My uncle arrived in Paris one fine day. He looked fully ten years older than he really was; such also was the case with me. This is what he told me:

"'You know that my poor wife passed her too short existence in groaning over my incredulity. I am not a church member, but I am tolerant; I allowed her to devote herself to her piety and to bring up her daughter as she liked. When the poor dear creature died, Henriette was 14; she made me swear never to try to turn her child from her faith. I kept my oath, and thus little by little a wall of separation arose between me and my daughter. Accustomed to follow with her mother all the practices of the most severe devotion during the brief moments that we passed together no subject of conversation was possible, but the commonplace details of coun[illegible]

I took good care not to [illegible], preferring to leave [illegible] of success, for all is [illegible]

"My friend that would be stupid. There is yet another card to play.'

"'But what, uncle? It is a calling.'

"'Ah, bah! I don't believe in irrevocable callings of that nature in girls of eighteen, handsome, happy and beloved. All is romance in young girls heads. With the monotonous life of our town she has created the best romance she could; let a more brilliant one come along and she will drop the old one.'

"'I don't understand.'

"'Just so. If you had understood sooner matters would be quite different with us now.'

"'Explain yourself.'

"'Listen to me, then. It is strange—for a father—what I am going to propose to you, but I have not the choice of means. When I set out, she asked me what called me to Paris. Although I felt no inclination whatever to do so, I burst out laughing, as I replied that I was going to see her foolish cousin, adding the inquiry if you were not thinking of demanding her hand.

"'She uttered a sigh and said:

"'The poor fellow! he has loved me for a long time.'

"'He!' I replied. 'Ah! my poor child, I now bless the ideas that have prevented you from listening to him—a sad dog, who is leading a reckless life in Paris!'

"'You said that to her, uncle?'

"'Word for word; it is part of my plan. She stared at me with stupefaction as could appear upon her countenance; then she murmured:

"'That's strange—such brilliant studies—such a modest bearing!'

"'Yes,' I responded; 'his bearing—a comedy for country use; and as to his brilliant studies, he is one of those diabolically gifted persons who rush to excess in toil as well as in riot.'

"'I left her thoughtful under this impression. Now, listen. You must cast off those old doctor's cloths in which you have thrust yourself and order some new ones suitable to a dashing young man and of the latest style. You must shave off your beard and leave only your mustache. You are a very good-looking young man, my friend, and that is fortunate for us. You must cast aside your studies and arrive at my house within a week. You must surpass the utmost extravagances of our jeunesse doree. You must hiss a few actors at the theater, and you will not find motives lacking. You will ride on horseback. If you can get into a duel with an officer of the garrison, so much the better, even if you should receive a severe wound. You must court Henriette like a sous-lieutenant of hussars, and in face of my opposition squarely propose to her to carry her off.'

"'Oh, uncle!'

"'Listen to me, will you? I am her father, sacreblue! And you shall carry her off. I will give you the money necessary. You will go to Italy, where you will get married to her, and, after a wedding tour of two weeks, during which time you must be lavish with your cash, you can return with your bride.'

"My uncle's program was faithfully executed. The fourth evening after my arrival I overwhelmed with hisses the popular prima donna, which caused me to be challenged by a young captain of the lancers. To top off my good fortune I gave him a sword cut instead of receiving one myself. After all this my uncle declared before his daughter that I was compromising his house and must go lodge at the hotel.

"As to Henriette, she was radient, and after some little hesitation had consented to the elopement. There was no need of post-chaises, for the railway station was at the foot of the garden. We were to go on the 1 a. m. train on Thursday. It was then Monday.

"'But have you any money?' asked Henriette of me.

"'I have yet 6,000 francs,' I replied. My uncle had given them to me the previous day.

"'You bad fellow!' said she, you will get into some quarrel or adventure and lose them. Trust them to me: they will then be safer than in your pocket.'

"Everything was getting along splendidly.

"As was understood, I remained for two days without appearing at the house.

"On Wednesday I awaited the stroke of midnight, and stole furtively into the garden by the back gate. Not a glimmer of light at Henriette's window. I imitated the cry of a night bird, the signal agreed upon; but nothing stirred. I removed my shoes, made my way into the mansion, and ascended to her chamber, at the door of which I knocked discreetly. Not a sound. I entered. The chamber was empty.

"I waited until 1 o'clock. The train passed. The elopement had failed. Where was Henriette? I rushed into my uncle's appartment utterly overwhelmed.

"'What! you here?' he claimed, I thought you en route since 10:35.'

"'Yes I heard all the preparations that were made at 10 o'clock!'

"'But, uncle, then—'

"'What then?'

"'Henriette must have eloped with some one else?'

"We subsequently learned that my handsome cousin, with a true woman's wit, had plotted as deeply on her side as we had plotted on ours. She had installed into her service the [illegible]

A THRILLING EPISODE.

A Locomotive Engineer's Instinct—How he Saved A Train and How he Saved Himself.

One of the darkest and stormiest nights of the recent unusual winter, the express on one of the leading New York railroads was moving westward from Albany. The engine's headlight threw a strong reflection in advance, but the storm was so blinding it was almost impossible to distinguish anything even at a short distance. Under such circumstances instinct necessarily takes the place of sight. All seemed to be going well, when, in an instant, the engineer reversed his engine, applied the air brakes, and came to a full stop. Why he did so he could not tell any more than any of us can account for the dread of coming disaster and death, and to the wondering inquiry of the fireman he simply said: "I feel that something's wrong." Seizing a lantern he swung himself down from the cab and went forward to investigate. Everything appeared to be right, and he was about to return to this engine when his eye caught sight of a peculiar appearance at the joint of the next rail to him. Brushing the accumulated snow away, he looked a moment, and then uttered an exclamation of horror. The rails on both sides had been unspiked and would have turned over the instant the engine touched them. What inspired this attempt in train-wrecking is unknown, but it was presumed the confederates of some prisoners who were on the train hoped, in the confusion of an accident, to deliver their friends.

Engineer John Donohoe, of Albany, to whose wonderful instinct was due the salvation of the train, when asked by the writer why he stopped his engine, said:

"I can't tell why. I only know I felt something was wrong."

"Do you have these feelings often when upon the road?" continued the writer.

"No, very seldom, although for the past twenty years I have been in a condition to feel apprehension at almost anything."

"How is that?"

"Why, I have been a victim of one of the worst cases of dyspepsia ever known. I have not been confined to my bed, as like thousands of others, I am compelled to work whether able or not. Indeed, when it first began I had only a loss of appitite, a faint feeling that would not go away and a bad taste in the mouth, but I finally got those terrible craving and knawing feelings that make life so unbearable and are known as general debility."

"What did you do?"

"I tried physicians until I became discouraged. I gave eight different ones fair tests, but none of them benefited me. I then tried proprietary medicines, but they failed, likewise. It looked pretty dark for me so far as any more peace or enjoyment in this world were concerned and I became terribly discouraged."

"You certainly do not look that way now."

"Oh, no, indeed. I am in perfect health now," was the reply "and I propose to continue so. My nervousness is entirely gone; I can sleep nights; the aching numbness has disappeared; the pale, sickly appearance has given place to the color of health, and I have rapidly put on flesh. This is what has been accomplished by means of Warner's Tippecanoe. If I can be cured after a chronic illness of nearly a quarter of a century, I believe all suffering in a similar manner can be restored by using the same great remedy."

Such is the testimony of a man who could detect and remove unseen dangers from within his own system until brought face to face with the great preparation above-named which did so much for him and can do as much for those who require it.

"Why is your mouth like a woman's heart?" asked Farmer Furrow of Deacon Dewgood, as they descended the cellar to sample the granger's latest lot of applejack.

"Because it is winning?" timidly suggested the Deacon.

"No, sir," said the old man. "It is because it is always open to a smile."—[New York Journal.

It is calculated that there are now residing in the United States nearly a thousand Japanese, and of this number it is said that not one has ever been convicted of any criminal offense in an American court.

CONSUMPTION.

It is said that 50,000 people die annually in the United States alone from this disease. In some sections of the country one death in every three is from consumption. This can be and should be avoided; our people are too careless about an ordinary cough or cold and other symptoms of throat and lung affections that lead to this disease. You should [illegible]

Effects of Music.

[For The Times by Drexel.]

That a strain of music, either sung or played, will always call up in one's mind or intelligence, shadowy or dim perceptions of something unknown, mysterious and most beautiful, is a common and most delightful experience, and undeniable. The distinction between mind and intelligence, as applied to humanity, is opened to so varied differences that, in this article, we limit the discussion to the two unknown quantities of mind and intelligence to our subject. Music has the very same effect on each and all individuals, but in certain ways. The mellow tones of a horn heard at night, from a distance, caused an unspeakable sensation of sudden sorrow to burst forth from the heart. The hour, the far off echoing horn, conspire to make us sad. 'Twill make anyone melancholy, yet not unhappily so. Herein lies a phase of the intelligence, as the mind would at once proceed to erect a fortifications of abstract philosophy and demolish such sentiment as our intelligence gathers to itself and cherishes. Again the midnight hour, for another illustration of musical effect on every person. Take it when one has retired, very tired; just beginning to doze; when suddenly one is awakened by cats. Oh, what a flood of memories come thronging and flowing in upon ones brain. Of guns stacked in the neighboring sun shops, but so far, just then. Almost anyone would be similarly affected by these "songs without words." Is it not so? But so much has already been said on this topic that for the time being we forego further remarks. To return, then, to our subject. Why is it that music has the organic essentials of a known quantity, and at the same time can not be detected by but one sense, and then only as it acts upon the intelligence through this sense, is one of the profound mysteries compared to which the deeps of the ocean are but a ford. If one were to ask on what best known (but not understood) basis music rested we should answer "Upon the basis of beauty." This factor of musical art we can at best appreciate in a dim sense, and in a very limited quantity, but we can some and this is more than faith.

Centaur Liniment

An absolute cure for Rheumatism, Sprains, Pain in the Back, Burns, Galls, &c. An instantaneous Pain-reliever.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Bosanko's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, allaying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price 50 cents. Sent prepaid on receipt of price. Address the Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piqua, Ohio. Sold by M. M. Williams. tf

THE Grants will hereafter Ward off such foolish speculations.

Now "everything is lovely" and Gould "passes by" on Wall street.

NEXT Saturday will be the sixty-fifth anniversary of the birth of Queen Victoria.

THE Jefferson county Democracy is solid for Roswell P. Flowers for the presidency.

THE Dakota newspapers say that Dakota will raise about 40,000,000 bushels of wheat this year, against 18,000,000 last year.

PAUL DANA, the son of the editor of the New York Sun, will be married in the fall to the daughter of William Butler Duncan.

THE TIMES is under obligations to Senator Warner Miller for a copy of his able speech in the United States Senate on "The American Merchant Marine."

ITALIAN and French laborers have been rioting on the Lachine Canal, in Canada. The French attacked the Italians, who were brought there at cheap wages.

ALL the Democratic State Conventions for the election of the delegates to the National Convention in Chicago in July have now been called, with the exception of New York, Delaware and Ohio.

THE Governor-General of Canada received from Queen Victoria a cable dispatch requesting that the celebration of her birthday which comes on the 24th inst be postponed until June 25th.

DURING the past year over 1,000 persons came to an untimely end in Berlin. Of the whole number 414 committed suicide—182 of them by hanging, 45 by shooting, 105 by drowning, and 82 by poisoning themselves.

THE Legislature left 400 bills in the governor's hands which must be disposed of within 30 days. The governor will devote this week till Saturday to hearing on the bills, and without exception no hearing will be granted after Friday.

SENATOR D. M. Sabin, of Minnesota, intends to resign his post as chairman of the Republican National Committee in about two weeks. The New York Sun suggests, the name of the Hon. S. W. Dorsey, of New Mexico, who acted as secretary during the campaign four years ago, to take the place of Mr. Sabin.

IN conformity with the orders of President Arthur the Board of Representatives of Departments, created to prepare exhibits and represent the United States government at the World's Exposition in New Orleans, has met and organized with Colonel C. S. Eyford, United States army, as chairman.

THE New York Tribune says: "Mr. William H. Barnum, of Connecticut, yearns for the old ticket which he failed to elect in 1876. He isn't certain that Mr. Tilden would accept the nomination, but if he wouldn't Mr. Flower would. Moreover, Mr. Flower would carry New York by 50,000, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana, the Pacific coast, the solid South and probably Ohio."

THE Republican National Convention is drawing near at hand and things are waxing warm. The great question is repeatedly asked, who will be nominated? That is a question that no one can at present answer. Although Arthur's and Blaine's chances are very favorable, there may spring up in the convention one whom we least expect, as did Garfield in '80. Whoever the candidate is let every man who professes Republicanism do his duty.

FARMER has a little lamb; its fleece tariffed too low; and everywhere the farmer goes that wool is sure to go. It followed him to Washington, into the caucus school, which made Carlisle and Morrison say: "This is pretty cool." The speaker sagely shook his head, and wisely gazed about, and to his free trade pupil said: "Turn that strange creature out." But when that frightful lamb ba-a-ed, and round its eyeballs turned, that free trade caucus, badly scared, immediately adjourned. And now they fear this awful lamb, which terrifies [illegible], intends to sound its fearful [illegible] again at Chicago.—[Detroit Post.

OUR not very distant neighbor, the New Haven Evening Register, speaks of Gen. Grant, since his late noteworthy transactions in Wall street, as "our national pauper." This is far from the truth. Gen. Grant is far from being a poor man. He has still the income from the handsome fund of a quarter of a million collected for him by Mr George Jones. That is invested so as to amount to fifteen thousand dollars a year. The firm of Grant & Ward hypothecated nearly everything they could lay their hands on, whether it was theirs or not, but the bonds whose income belongs to the senior partner of the house were [illegible]

The boiler for the new steamer St. Lawrence, which is to run between Cape Vincent and Alexandria Bay in connection with Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg trains has just been built at Oswego. The case of Tillapaugh who was stabbed at Kasoag a week ago is a surprise to every one. While he has recovered speech he is visibly weaker and appears to be gradually falling away. The Cooking School.

The average girl at marriage is well instructed in sewing. To take her place at the head of a family without a fair knowledge of this household art, would be to disgrace her mother and herself in the minds of all their acquaintances. The average young bride goes to a home of her own with a few practical ideas on a matter which will have to come before her thrice a day, and one in which the health and general prosperity of herself and others most essentially depend. Then if ever she acquires even a passable skill in cookery it will doubtlessly be through much wasting and worrying and manifold non-successes. Meantime dyspepsia, or other evil angle, is lurking in the shadow of her table. To the young wife and housekeeper so circumstanced half the terrors of the kitchen are at once removed by the introduction of the ever-ready, always reliable, Royal Baking Powder. With its proper use there can never be failure in bread, biscuit or cake, while the perfect healthfulness of the food produced is likewise so well assured that all who pertake may defiantly snap their fingers in the face of old Dyspepsia. This point gained, the victory over inexperience and bad luck in other things is speedly won. The Royal Baking Powder, on account of its superior powers as a leavening agent, the great facility with which it may be used, its proved economy, and its thoroughly established wholesomeness and purity as established by the tests of government chemists and others, has become the general substitute for cream of tartar and soda in the making of nice, sweet, light, flaky, digestible bread, biscuit, ect. With its use the young mistress of the house may take a pardonable pride in the work of her hands.

New York Ontario & Western Ry.

The night lines of the N. Y. O. & W. Railway have again been put on making, however, much better time than they did last year. The train leaving New York at 7 p. m. arrives in Oswego at 7:50 a. m. and the train leaving Oswego at 5:35 p. m. arrives in New York at 6.50 a. m. These trains are equipped with Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars surpassing in elegance and comfort all cars hitherto employed in the public service. The first class coaches are models of beauty; the aisles carpeted; toilet rooms in each car supplied with all the toilet requisites found on parlor or sleeping cars. At Oneida connections have been made with the West Shore for the west. Since these trains have been running those west bound have carried on an average over sixty through passengers per day for points beyond Chicago. Connections are made at Jersey City in Union Station with the Penna, R. R. from and to Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore etc. During the summer season the palace steamer Ontario will run from Oswego to the Thousand Islands exclusively in connection with the N. Y. O. & W. Ry. forming a new line to this lovely resort. The steamer will leave Oswego at 8:15 a. m. upon arrival of the night line run across the lake to Kingston and down through the entire length of the 1000 Islands to Alexandria Bay. This cool delightful morning sail across the blue waters of lake Ontario adds a very attractive feature to this route. These night trains will be found very convenient for business men throughout the interior of the State.

[illegible] look for lower prices [illegible] increased make and the change from hay to grass. To-day has been the warmest of the season and toward evening a gentle rain set in which will stimulate vegetation wonderfully. The shipments of to-day will take all the April cheese and three or four days of May. Being apprehensive of further decline, the makers have sold all that was ready to go, as our quotations show there are very few consignments, everybody preferring to know what they are to get on a market that is falling. It is claimed that when we get down to the present make it will show quite an increase over last year altho' now the sales do not show it.

Transactions for the day are as follows: 140 boxes at 10¾c.; 95 at 11⅛c.; 76 lots, 4,530 boxes at 11¼c.; 6 lots 885 boxes, at 11⅜c.; 9 lots, 778 boxes, at 11⅜c.; 3 lots, 257 boxes, at 11⅝c. Sales—6,135 boxes; commissions, 415 boxes; total, 6,550. Ruling price. 11¼c. One year ago transactions were 6,418 boxes, ruling price, 11½c. Two years ago they were 5,213 boxes, ruling price 10⅞c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Little Falls, May 19.

CHEESE.—As had been anticipated, the market to-day showed a decline in price. The difference from last week is about one-half cent per pound, on the average. But our market a week ago seems to have been strained beyond its legitimate bounds, so that the decline is marked than would otherwise appear. Trade started off slowly, as usual under such circumstances, but as soon as factorymen became convinced that buyers would not vary from their position taken early in the day, trade became animated, and salesmen let their usual amounts go forward. To-day's shipments just about closes out the April cheese and there is now scarcely any every-other-day cheese left. In two weeks more fodder cheese will be all gone. Pasturage is now fine and cows are increasing largely in flow of milk. Altho' to-day's prices show quite a wide range, it will be noticed that all but quite a small amount is comprised within a range of one-half cent. Following is a list of transactions in detail:

FARM DAIRY.—There was a larger than the usual amount of farm cheese and the smaller factories offered upon our morning market and there was a spirited trade in this class of goods. 920 boxes sold at 9a12¾c. The Black creek was the only lot at the latter figure and were a fancy article and were wanted by several buyers. The bulk sold at 11¾a12c. several lots bringing 12¼c.

BUTTER.—The sales of butter are dropping off each week, to-day being 58 packages of cream dairy at a23c., bulk at 23c. and 20 packages of creamery at 24c.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalleled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment For Man & Beast will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

Try Dr Sawen's improved mandrake pills, they are mild and effective. Price 25 cents.

Our readers are also furnished with first-class general news of the day, though brief but to the point. THE TIMES' circulation is steadily increasing, thus making it a first class advertising medium. We heartily thank our readers for their patronage and appreciation of our labors.

The cost of the construction of this church was $14,000 and was furnished at at a cost of $1,200 by the ladies of the church. Subscriptions to the amount of $8,000 were signed leaving a balance of $6,000 to be raised. Yesterday the Congregational Aid Society raised $1,000, B. R. We are sorry we cannot give a more detailed account but our time is so limited that we have to abbreviate.

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watson, in 1000 Wrinkles, kept the audience in a roar of laughter at the opera house last Thursday night. They were very funny. A hearty welcome awaits their return to Fulton.

THE PLANTER'S WIFE.

The company that produces "The Planter's Wife" to-morrow night is the strongest company travelling. The celebrated emotional actress, Emily Rigl, and the young and talented actor, Harry Lacy have won an enviable reputation by their faithful performance of Edith Gray and Col. Albert Graham. Read what the press has to say about it.

Toronto Globe:—A play of absorbing interest from the opening of the first act to the close of the last.

Cincinnati News.—The play has many strong points, and not a slight amount of interest is induced by the new scene in which the plot is laid. Many of the situations are highly dramatic.

As this is the last chance Fulton people will have this season of witnessing a first class entertainment we advise you one and all to attend. Manager Stephens has taken great pains and has been very successful in securing for our people many of the best entertainments that travel and in justice to his cleverness there should be a good house to-morrow night. Reserved seat tickets on sale at Watson's.

About Street Sprinkling.

This is something that our merchants are all intrested in, or at least should be. David Webster commenced sprinkling the streets this season as usual until last week when he went to collect his pay a number of merchants refused to contribute anything so he, concluded that there was no money in it and quit. Business men cannot afford to wash windows every day neither can they afford to have their goods spoiled by dust and dirt. Some are willing and ready to pay for sprinkling while others are not. Harmony should be manifested by our merchants and business men in paying for this much needed and benificial work. A town of this size cannot very well do without such a thing. It is not very pleasant on the streets during such a cloud of dust as we had Monday. We hope this matter will be satisfactorily arranged and that the sprinkling will be continued.

Report of the Electric Committee.

At the meeting, last evening, of the committee sent to investigate the practibility of the incandescent electric lighting of the village, they reported that they visited plants at Syracuse, Albany, Newburgh, and New York, that it was practisable and would compete very favorably with gas both as to quality and cost of production. A committee was then appointed to make a diagram of the streets and number of lamps required in the business portions of the town and send this diagram to the different companies, obtain their estimates and report at the next meeting.

Thomas Cavanaugh of Fulton, and Miss Maria Burke of Oswego Falls, will be united in marriage at the Catholic church in this village at 4 p. m. to-day by Rev. Father Kearney.

The first ice cream festival of the season will occur at the M. E. church on Friday evening, of this week, for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society. Supper will be served from 6 to 10 p. m., A general good time is expected and a cordial invitation extended to all.

Miss Carrie Downer will lecture again at Whitaker's Hall Sunday evening. All are invited to attend.

The Rev. Mr. Jones of Massachusetts addressed the pupils of No. 2 school in the chapel last Monday morning.

A bill board in Lower Oswego Falls and one on First street in this village has been erected for the purpose of billing O'Brien's circus. It will exhibit on Mrs. Swan's lot in lower Oswego Falls June 2d.

Miss Grace Hawks and Clinton Haws, both of Hannibal, will be married this evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. J. Marvin, jr., formerly of Hannibal, now of Central Square.

The Standard's correspondent says: The Rev. W. X. Ninde, one of the newly-elected bishops of the M. E. church, will be pleasantly remembered here, where he found his wife, formerly Sophronia Falley, and where he was formerly a local preacher.

Edward Hudson, of the firm of Hudson Bros., Syracuse, Wm. Spaulding, of Phœnix Knife Works, A. L. Merrick of Syracuse, and C. E. Chadwick of the firm of Chadwick, Peters & Colt, also of that city, were in attendance yesterday at the dedicatory services in Oswego Falls.

An exchange says: It is over fifty years since observing orchardists have noticed that American apple trees bear their heaviest crops in the even years, as 1880 and '82, and their lightest crops in the odd years as in 1870, '81 and '83 and so on. Last year the crop was light, and consequently we may look for an abundant crop again the coming season.

About forty young people gathered at the home of Miss Grace Langdon in lower Oswego Falls last Friday evening to enjoy a May party. Dancing was the order of the evening and excellent music was furnished. Refreshments were served and at a late hour the company dispersed well pleased with as pleasant an evening as they had spent in some time.

Last Monday evening as the 5:30 train on the N. Y. O & W. was pulling out of the station, an intoxicated brakeman of the R. W. & O. road in jumping off, fell, striking against a car on the side track, inflicting an ugly gash in his head. He was taken to Michael Pomphret's saloon on Wall street where the wound was dressed. His name could not be ascertained.

Next Sunday morning there will be no services in the M. E. church. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Markham, will preach from the Presbyterian pulpit. In the evening at the M. E. church, he will preach a sermon to the G. A. R. Post Schenck of this village, whose members will attend in a body. All denominations are respectfully invited to be present.

Last Sunday evening the Rev. J. C. Beaubien of the Zion Church preached his farewell sermon to a full house, taking for his text, "The secret of the ways of God". Many of our people however will be pleased to learn that at the meeting of the Vestry last evening it was unanimously requested that Mr. Beaubien withdraw his resignation and remain here until August. On account of the very urgent desire among his congregation he has been induced to remain instead of going to Canada and is in hopes of building up the church.

That all is not gold that glitters; but that the most famous clothing comes from Kent & Miller's, 18 & 20 South Salina street.

That it is a sad commentary upon a gentleman that "he cannot be distinguished from a waiter;" but gentlemen and waiters both buy clothing at Kent & Miller's.

That some theatre parties conduct themselves as if they were the only people in the building; that is not good form at theatres but it is just what Kent & Miller's patrons are made to feel at 18 & 20 South Salina street.

That some very elegant and stylish suits—made by Kent & Miller of course—are displayed at the roller skating assemblies. They are mostly spring costumes as yet, but if the heat continues, summer goods will be in demand. Kent & Miller are ready to supply it.

A short time since Dr. Charles R. Lee successfully performed an operation on the eye of W. R. Browning of Caughdenoy. It was a very important operation as he was already blind in one eye, and had it not been for the doctor's skill in saving the other he would have lost his sight entirely.

We are in receipt of the second copy of the St. Louis Sunday Sayings which is published by the Sayings Company and edited by C. E. Mead, son-in-law of Goe. E. Williams formerly of this village. It has nine columns of well selected reading matter and is a neat clean looking sheet.

Best and Cheapest Hosiery and Gloves at Sackett's. 51w3

A gentleman returning to his house at this particular season, this exasperating house cleaning period, with many dire forbodings and dreary sessions of chaos, so soon to develop into reality, was wonderfully surprised on entering the house to find everything in order, his wife meeting him with a smile said I have accomplished all this work on account of those perfect fitting, flexible bottom shoes I bought last night at Collins'. They are the most complete shoe I have ever worn. I am satisfied it is the best bargain I ever made in a pair of shoes.

We have received a lot of Jerseys, in all sizes, which we are selling at less than regular price.

—A[illegible] Notes.

CHICAGO, May 17.—A joint meeting of the National Republican sub-committee, and the local committee on arrangements was held in this city yesterday afternoon. All the members were present. John C. New, chairman said the arrangements made by the local committee were more than satisfactory to the sub-committee. He thought the auditorium of the exposition building was splendidly arranged and constructed. The vast sounding board and wood ceilings overhead—built more expressly to bring out the best effects at the May Musical Festival will make it far easier for the speakers to be heard through this vast building. Tickets to the convention Mr. New said, would be distributed May 31. The member of the National committee for each state will have charge of tickets allotted to his State delegation. Of the prominent visitors who are expected, Mr. New said he would do all in his power to accommodate. Of the hundreds of thousands who will be in Chicago, and will ask admission only some ten thousand can be accommodated. Seats for the members of the National Committee in the front portion of the platform, immediately behind the officers will be plainly lettered with names of each state. Among the hall decorations will be silken banners placed on brass stands to designate each delegation, also that the quarters of the state delegations at the hotels would be designated by a banner provided by the committee. Mr. New said that he had already received nearly 2,000 letters asking for seats at the convention, one from a postmaster who wanted to know if the committee had made arrangements for seating the postmasters in a prominent and comfortable part of the hall. Tables for the press will be placed with accommodations for 1,880 newspaper reporters. Each delegate will have furnished him but five tickets, which it will be readily seen, will not go far toward satisfying his anxious friends, and as it is, Oswego county will have to send over into Wayne or Cayuga for tickets not having any delegates. In this sad plight your correspondent will do what he can to keep your readers informed of the doings at, and before the conventions.

THE COMING MAN.

That President Arthur is to be his own successor there is not longer much reason to doubt. The "business men" of New York, Buffalo, Chicago, and many other cities are rising up as one man and asking for his re-nomination in this city June 3. President Arthur has made himself particularly strong with the business men, and it is getting to be the opinion at least in the West that he is the only man who can carry the State of New York. He is thought to be safe and conservative and at this time just the kind of man to have at the head of affairs. One of the leading importers in this city, a man of Democratic predilections, said he would vote for Chester A. Arthur in preference to any other candidate yet named on either side, because he was a prudent financier, and a true civil service reformer. The signs of the times surely point to the nomination of President Arthur as the coming man.

BEN BUTLER NOMINATED.

Wednesday last a National convention of anti-monopolists met in Chicago numbering between one and two hundred delegates, representing 19 States. After rather a stormy afternoon meeting and a more wearisome evening session, Benjamin F. Butler was nominated for President, upon a platform made up of glittering generalities and common place views: a minority report received full one third of the votes of the delegates. Senator Boyd of New York, tried to have the convention recommend the names of several candidates to the Democratic convention. He was ruled down and left the hall in disgust, with the delegates from Maryland and District of Columbia. They were hooted and hissed as they went out. This gathering seemed anything but an intelligent reform convention. A woman delegate from Nebraska made the nomination of Butler. Mrs. Severance presented the report of the committee on permanent organization. Mrs. Marian Todd of California made the leading speech of the evening. The non-voting women seem to be for Butler.

END OF A GREAT MAN.

The noted inventor of the McCormick grain reaper—which so revolutionized the raising and gathering of the wheat harvest in the great West, and throughout the world, was laid at rest on Thursday last. The obsequies of the late Cyrus H. McCormick were attended by a large concourse of friends from his palatial residence, while many hundreds, employees of the deceased lined the sidewalks and joined in the procession to Graceland cemetery. Few men have done more for benevolent and religious purposes than the deceased, and while his inventions have enriched the agriculturist the profits have been given to the support of the church and educational purposes in a princely manner. His last words full of significance were—"It is ended here; It is Heaven now."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

More than six thousand persons gathered last evening to participate in the opening of a Roller Skating Rink, an elegant new structure built for fashionable entertainment of Chicagonians. It is spacious in dimension. The balconies above extend the entire length of the rink. At either end are numerous private boxes, handsomely draped and furnished; and the whole view is one to command admiration. The star of the evening was a Miss Harvey of Massachusetts, said to be the finest and most expert roller skater of her sex in America. Her evolutions equaled any that an expert performer can secure on ice. Not less than 1,500 pairs of skates were in use.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

How Watch Cases are Made.

This process of manufacture was invented by James Boss, who started in business in 1854, and the methods and tools used in making these watch cases are covered by patents. This is the only watch case made under this process. For many years the introduction of these goods was slow, owing to popular prejudice against "plated" goods, but gradually the public learned that the James Boss' Gold Watch Case was not a cheap gold-washed or electro-plated article, but was made of genuine gold plates of standard quality and thickness. Conscientious adherence to the determination to make the best watch case ever put on the market, and the adoption of every improvement suggested has made the James Boss' Gold Watch Case the [illegible]

Black lace capotes are worn as much by young ladies as by matrons.

Among other pretty shades of yellowish creamy [illegible] comes apricot.

Flounces, when narrow and not too full, [illegible] skirt.

Dove, steel and mouse gray are the fashionable shades of this popular color.

Velvet and velveteen skirts are the correct wear under lace dresses and lace polonaises.

Japanese paper and silk and satin fans are not entirely out of vogue, but feather fans are the favorites.

Fashionable and dressy parasols are very gay, very large, and very much trimmed with lace and flowers.

The jacket or casaque opening over the waistcoat or gathered or pleated plastron is a feature in early summer suits.

Shot bison cloths, changeable in color and wiry in texture, canvass woven and very durable, are made up for serviceable seaside suits.

Fashionable parasols come in the bright fashionable colors—champignon, flamingo and crab red, pheasant blue, and chaudron or copper.

Brocaded and embroidered silks, cashmere d'Inde, and other fine wools and velvets are correctly combined with effete glace shot or plain.

The short mantelets with long fronts and dolman sleeves of pleated lace, reaching to the elbow only, are the most graceful wraps introduced for years.

The nobbiest of seaside suits is composed of a red serge skirt of accordion pleats, worn under a polonaise of gray blue serge, with parements, cuffs, and a collar of red and blue shot silk.

Big gilt darning needles and big gilt pins are the latest fancies for bonnet and hat decorations. Two are thrust through one side of the crown diagonally and at right angles, forming a cross.

MERITED PRAISE.

The universal praise bestowed upon Kidney-wort as an invaluable remedy for all disorders of the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, is well merited. Its virtues are universally known and its cures are reported on all sides. Many obstinate cases have succumbed to it after they had been given up by all the doctors and a thorough treatment will never fail to cure. Sold by all druggists. See adv't.

FARM GOSSIP.

Two inches is said to be the right depth for covering wheat.

Salt around the roots of blackberries is said to be a cure for rust.

Brood sows should have nice, warm, dry pens, and should be kept quiet and well bedded.

Horse nettles may be destroyed by pouring kerosene on the stalks and letting it run down the stems into the roots.

Pigs in portable pens moved about in fields after haying, help fit the land for corn by pulverizing the sod and destroying grubs.

Seeding old pastures does not always thicken the sod, as the old roots do not allow the younger grasses an opportunity to take hold.

It has been well demonstrated that in case of all live stock a clean and open condition of the skin is conductive to health and economical feeding.

Beet, parsnip, onion and dandelion seed are said to be among those which must be used when fresh, while cucumber and squash seed are better when old.

You can tell a poor farmer by the bones and shells in the roadway. Planted at the roots of trees and plants they would furnish manure of desirable kind.

Those who are accustomed to using the hoe for the garden will find the wheel hoes excellent for many crops, thereby saving labor and work can also be done as well.

Keeping food constantly before poultry, as some recommend, is wasteful, as it clogs their appetites, and keeps them scratching, when they ought to be sleeping on their roosts.

The color of eggs for sale in the market of the country, being now darker then twenty years ago, simply proves Asiatic blood has been largely introduced through the country and has had its effect on the eggs.

Collect the droppings as often as possible, and compost them with dry dirt. If dry dirt is inconvenient on account of the earth being frozen, use ground land plaster instead. The mixture of ground plaster and poultry droppings is better than either alone, and the ammonia is thereby saved. A good dusting of plaster over and under the roosts, and plentifully scattered all over the floor of the poultry house conduces to the health of fowls and destroyes foul odors.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

TRADE MARK

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty-five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalleled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

STONY LAKE, CANADA, Aug 20, '83.

After cruising through hundreds of miles of Canadian lakes and rivers I met by appointment, at the Thousand Islands Mr. L. Gifford, of Hamilton, New York, and a party of his friends, including Mr. E. S. Gardner, of Morrisville; L. Goodenough and J. P. Alds, of Hamilton, and E. D. Manchester and J. L. Knox, of Knoxboro.

We camped together in tents on Maple Island near Clayton, and for a few days enjoyed ourselves thoroughly; sailing among the little green islands in the doctor's handsome yacht, the Fairy Queen, fishing and boating and living that enjoyable outdoor life which comes from contact with genial companions and a love of nature. From thence I returned here by steamer and rail, stopping at Picton to paddle in my canoe to the Lake of the Mountain, five miles away. This Lake of the Mountain is a natural curiosity. It is a lake about half a mile in breadth, situated on a bluff rising out of the Bay of Quinte to a height of 180 feet. The lake begins at but a few yards from the edge of the steep face of the bluff, and one can almost toss a stone from its waters down into the Bay of Quinte, which stretches away in all its beauty of rippling, glistening water and curving shore nearly two hundred feet below. The source of this lake up on the bluff, the most elevated position within a radius of twenty-five miles, is the subject of much controversy. Some claim it is only surface water, but its coldness and purity, and the fact that it neither rises or falls, summer or winter, disproves this theory. Others believe that it is connected by a subterranean duct with Lake Erie, but this is hardly probable. It is evidently the product of springs, but how it is forced up to this height is a mystery not yet solved. Whatever its origin, it lies there flashing its pure waters in the sunlight as though a bird in flying over had dropped a diamond on the mountain top.

THE AMERICAN CANOE ASSOCIATION

Are holding their annual camp and meeting here in Stoney Lake on an island purchased of the Canadian Government for that purpose.

Canoeing has flourished in the Dominion and in the eastern part of the "States," as the Canadians call our country, for a number of years, but its delights are only beginning to be appreciated in the West. He who can leave the cares and requirements of business and social life behind and paddle out into a world of rest with only nature about him, knows a new delight and experiences a supreme pleasure to be reached only by the canoeist. He is his own motive power and carries with him his house and his provisions, and can afford for the time being to despise the railway train and the hotel. His craft, only 14 feet long and 26 inches in breadth, furnishes him storage for provisions during the day and a sleeping chamber by night. Where no one else can venture the canoeist travels. The little streamlet, with bare three inches of water in its channel, and the restless waves of the mighty old ocean, alike furnish him a pathway for his canoe. Alone and unaided he can run the rapids, or portage his light canoe over logs or dams or through the forest. The sunshine and the rain are welcomed by him as friends, and, when seated in his miniature cabin with his water-proof apron drawn about him, he welcomes the winds and laughs at the storms. When not wielding the paddle, he sits at his ease and floats with the current, or with favorable winds hoists his sail and scuds along with the very poetry of motion, with an ever changing panorama of delight before him. His passion is indeed a genuine re-creation, for in the exercise, the resting of the mind and the breathing of a pure atmosphere he becomes a new man, physically and mentally.

Realizing the benefits to be derived from canoeing, a few New York gentlemen some years since formed a Canoe Club. An account of one of their cruises published in book form reached an extensive circulation, and gradually new devotees to this comparatively new sport sprung up over the country. Other clubs were organized in various places, and in the summer of 1880 a call for a Canoe Congress, to be held at Lake George, New York, was made which resulted in the formation of the American Canoe Association, which now numbers more than four hundred members scattered all over America, and from the [illegible] of Canada to the everglades of Florida, consisting mostly of professional men. Ladies are admitted as honorary members, and some of these [illegible] their own [illegible] husband or [illegible] and friendly regatta [illegible] on Juni[illegible] lake dotted [illegible] gathered [illegible] half [illegible] New York [illegible]

[illegible] from that of the poorest. The attraction seems to be the pleasure of meeting two or three hundred good fellows and lounging about with them on land and water—principally the latter—for a fortnight. Canoeists are mostly physicians, lawyers, clergymen or journalists. A boat that holds but one person is a capital medium for combining recreation and freedom from interruption or annoyance, which is perhaps the reason why the Canoe Association sometimes enrolls scores of new members in a week." And the editor knew whereof he spoke, for he himself is a practical canoeist and has paddled and sailed over many waters.

To-day, on the island in the wilderness, the tents are gleaming whitely among the foliage. High up on the two great staffs float side by side Britain's flag and the stars and stripes, while in front waves the symbol of the American Canoe Association—a red burgee with a white stripe in the center bearing the letters in red A. C. A. The different clubs haave their own private banners and devices.

Over yonder, by the side of a large tree, is a heavy-set young man closely watching a steaming vessel upon an oil stove. It is Frank H. Pullen, city editor of the Lowell, Mass., Courier. Just beyond him is a grey-haired man of sixty-five years, his hands clasped behind him, gazing intently at a couple of canoes which are having a little spurt upon the waters. This is Rev. G. L. Neide, of Schuylerville, New York, an enthusiastic camper and canoeist. On the other point of the island, half hidden by the bushes, is a sandy-whiskered, large boned man in a blue flannel suit, with the collar of his shirt thrown back, giving free play to the muscles of his broad bronzed chest, as he wields an ax upon a contrary stick of timber—another Reverend gentleman, C. A. Cressy, of Minnesota. We miss from our camp this year a piratical-looking fellow with fierce moustache and gayly-decorated, broad brimmed straw hat, who was wont to command the members with sonorous voice—Hon. Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati. Darting around from point to point, giving a pleasant word here and lending a helping hand to put up a tent there, is a tall, light-complected gentleman, active and energetic, the Commodore of the Association, E. B. Edwards, barrister, of Peterboro, Canada. A millitary-looking gentlemen, straight as an arrow, dressed in a grey suit and skull cap, comes climbing over the rocks from where his canoe lies by the waterside, and we greet General R. S. Oliver, Inspector General of Militia for the State of New York. Passing him with a bound comes a tall man with a light moustache and a laughing, truthful eye; the man who never walks but is always on the run, always ready to go on an exhibition in mountain climbing, to paddle the ladies out in his shapely birch bark canoe or to aid in kindling the nightly camp-fire; Colonel Kensington, of the Royal Military Academy, at Kingston. That hungry-looking fellow with brown overalls, straw hat and red nose, who is engaged in the arduous duty of cleaning his gun and smoking a cob pipe at one and the same time, is William Whitlock, editor of the foremost art journal of America.—The Art Interchange, of New York. He carries such heavy sails on his canoe that it used to be said of him that he would always win in a sailing race, provided he did not capsize, which latter was of frequent occurrence. Near him is a quiet man with whiskers beginning to show the grey, a kindly and yet determined countenance, Accustomed to camp life, he seems to enjoy it. It is Rev. E. A, Hoffman, President of the Drew Theological Seminary, an institution which is known the world over. Coming up the slope is a large man, well proportioned, with full whiskers, red belt, woolen shirt, and pants rolled up to avoid the wet grass—R. J. Wicksteed, member of Parliament for the Dominion. Reclining under the shade of a tree is a large man with drooping moustache and hair cut as short as though he had been through a planing mill—C. L. Norton, formerly of the Christian Union, now editing Tourgee's "Our Continent." By his side is a slender built man of medium height, greyish side whiskers, a helmet-shaped cap upon his head. It is J. B. Alden, the funny man on the staff of the New York Times. Mr. Alden may be said to be one one of the fathers, if not the father, of canoeing in America, as he was the organizer of the earliest canoe club in this country, and the inventor of a popular model of a canoe. He has also taken numerous cruises, and is the author of a number of articles and works on canoeing which have served to encourage the sport greatly. He invariably carries with him on his cruises a feather pillow and a paper collar though no one has ever seen him use either. It seems that there is no breeze whatever upon the water just now, and yet there is a canoe out in the channel moving along at a good rate, for she carries 185 square feet of canvas. With his hand on the helm is a thin-faced, blue-eyed man with sandy moustache, who is known as Hugh Neilson, Manager of the Bell Telephone Company, in Ontario. That handsome young fellow arranging the rigging of his canoe is F. H. Seymour, Secretary of the Detroit Brass and Copper Works. The one further to the right, who is pitching a small tent, and who wears a moustache and has a hardy look upon his face, as though accustomed to outdoor life, is G. K. Monroe, the owner of the canoe, Psyche, who has cruised for two winters on the waters of Florida and was once [illegible] shadows. The great ball of fire [illegible] below the horizon, and the stars come out, and the full moon sends a flood of light from her broad, shining face straight across the rippling waters to where they break upon the rocky shore at our feet. And the camp fire is lighted and the bright blaze leaps high in the air, and crackles and throws glittering sparks far above the tops of the towering pine trees; and canoe after canoe lands its freight of ladies at the wharf, and soon a semi-circle of hundreds of people are gathered upon the rock above the fire, and song and story enliven the evening until a late hour, and then the guests depart and the campers retire to their rest, and as we peep out of the opening of our tents at midnight, the white tents gleam like ghosts in the moonlight, and a silence broods over the camp, unbroken, save by the cry of a lone whip-poor-will from out the neighboring thicket or the rippling of the waters 'gaint the shore.

[illegible] nance of E. J. Willis, Superintendent of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The man who is cooking on a little stove in the shade of a tree is Dr. C. A. Neide, of Schuylerville, New York, who has traveled in his canoe 4,000 miles since last we met him, one year ago. He is the Secretary of the Association. The slender fellow with the black moustache, military cap, oiled duster and laughing eye, who is dishing out porridge for the mess, is Arthur Brentano, publisher, New York and Washington. Colonel Rogers, Postmaster at Peterboro, Canada, is superintending the erection of a tent. A black-haired, black-bearded, red-faced, sun-burned, quiet young man is C. H. Farnham, an experienced journalist in the employ of Harper Bros., and an enthusiastic amateur photographer as well as practical canoeist. A fatherly old gentleman is Rev. C. E. Woodman, of New York, who has gained celebrity by having run the rapids of the St. Lawrence in his canoe a few days since. The man with the keen, bright eyes, moustache and hair beginning to turn grey is one who has changed the appearance of many an ennuied or care-worn countenance. If, as has been said, he who causes a smile to come to the face of a human being is a public benefactor, then the name of John Habberton should be respected and revered in many a household in the land, for who has not laughed over the pages of "Helen's Babies" and the other works of this author. He is on the staff of the New York Herald. The man with the closely chopped hair, who is so full of mischief and has such a strong appetite that when he is not playing a practical joke he is seeking what he may devour, is L. L. Condert., designer for the United States Bank Note Company. The one with the sailor cap and nautical air is Robert Tyson, official reporter for the Courts of Ontario. Yonder is a slender man in dark blue clothing and a stiff-brimmed cap and with a sandy moustache, walking along the water's edge, carrying a double-bladed paddle in his hand—a gentleman, in the truest sense of the word genial, pleasant and kind-hearted. When he was a boy he took passage on a vessel bound for South America, and on landing he concluded to travel on foot across the continent. And so through tangled thickets and over rough roadways the lad pursued his way, taking a few notes as he went, and when the journey was finished he collected his notes in shape and the result was the book entitled, "The Pampas, or a Thousand Mile Walk Across South America," which has been translated into five different languages, and on the first publication of which the young author received a highly complimentary letter in regard to its contents from the Emperor of Brazil. Afterward he traveled from the St. Lawrence river, via. the Atlantic coast to Florida in a canoe made of paper, a very entertaining history of which trip he published under the title of "The Voyage of the Paper Canoe," which has had an extensive sale. Another book of his, which is very popular, is "Four Months in a Sneak Box," in which he describes his cruise in a small boat from Pittsburg down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, and across the Gulf to the mouth of the Suwanee river. Some time since his brothers offered to guarantee him $25,000 a year if he would enter a business partnership with them in the Indies, but he prefers his pleasant summer home at Lake George, his winter residence in Florida, and his canoe cruising which has been extensive, to the absorption in business in that unhealthy climate. He was the originator of the idea of an American Canoe Association, and it was mainly through his efforts that the organization was formed. He is frank and outspoken, with a kind word for everybody who deserves it and there is no member of the canoe fraternity who has met him but is ready to ejaculate, "God bless him" when he hears the name of N. H. Bishop spoken. And so the list of members might be continued up into the hundreds, for here are men who have journeyed from Colorado and Manitoba on one side and Massachusetts on the other, solely for the purpose of attending this meeting. Most of the states within these limits are represented, though I am the only Ohio member present. New York furnishes the heaviest quota after Canada. There is no caste here or distinction on account of wealth, and the man with the bare feet and unkempt hair may be the most faultlessly dressed when at home. The doctors and judges and colonels are all lost here and it is "Jake, pass the butter," or "Pete, can you reach the pickles?" or "Jim, get up, its your turn to wash the dishes," and for the time rank and profession are lost sight of, and fashion and society conform to the wild life which we lead. Suspenders, white shirts and collars are entirely dispensed with. Any man found guilty of combing his hair oftener than once a day or of putting a polish on his boots, would be dealt with severely and without mercy. At the landing float canoes of every variety, the aboriginal birch bark, the dug out, those made of tin, of paper, of canvas, and of all models and makes. The day is spent in fishing, sailing, paddling, preparing meals and lying at ease in the shadow of the trees; and as we sit here at the doorway of our tent in the cool of the evening, with the lake and the little green islands spread out before us like a picture, one of those glorious sunsets [illegible]

Verses Repeated at a Wedding.

The following verses were repeated at a wedding some 50 years ago after the ceremony by the officiating minister also a teacher in the academy, who was called on to marry a couple of his students. Repeated from memory and copied by request by a man over 80 years old.

As you have been my scholars,
I've taught you both to read.
And what I now rehearse
I pray you both give heed.

When Adam was created
He dwelt in Eden's shade,
Before a bride was formed
Or any help was made.

When Adam saw his bride

* * * * * *

He spake as in a rapture
I know from whence you came.
From my left side extracted,
And "woman" is your name.

As woman was not taken
From Adam's head you see,
This shows she should not rule him
The meaning seems to be.

As woman was not taken
From Adam's feet you know
This shows he should not abuse her,
'Tis evidently so.

As woman she was taken,
From under Adam's arm,
This shows she should be protected
From injury and harm.

As woman she was taken
From near to Adam's heart
This doth plainly show us
That they should never part.

CHILD labor is one of the overshadowing evils that curse our land that will sap the foundations of our social structure unless it is speedily put an end to. And, in combination with the employment of women and young girls to do men's work for boy's pay, it is doing more to reduce labor to the status of machine serfdom than all other things combined.—[Rochester Truth.

JAMES D. FISH, late president of the Marine bank, was arrested Sunday afternoon charged with appropriating $1,634,000 of the bank's money. He was allowed to remain at his residence in the custody of two officers until Monday when bail to $30,000 was procured for him. He says he has letters from Gen. Grant stating that the transactions of the firm were all straight and the profits genuine.

THE New York Times says: "The home organ of that eminent patriot and statesman, Mr. DeWitt C. Littlejohn, of Oswego county, complains of the criticism which has been passed upon him for his effort to defeat legislation for the preservation of the Adirondack forests. It sees no reason why he should be singled out for attack. The reason is that he led the forces of the lumber vandals of the North and organized the log-rolling through which they gained their point. If his opposition to effective measures for protecting the forests had stood alone it might be attributed to worthy motives and an honest belief that he was doing a public service, but he was conspicuous throughout the recent session of the Legislature for the readiness with which he favored jobbery and opposed measures of reform. He more than justified the suspicion with which his return to the Assembly was greeted. So far as the Adirondack business is concerned, he did his best to prevent anything from being done, and supported the final measure for the purpose of bringing to a minimum the action which could not be wholly prevented.

bined for the season of 1884. This potential exhibit of resources of the establishment creates a delightful public holiday, congregating tens of thousands to line the streets and drink in the splendor of the scene with open eyed wonder and amazement. Martial bands of music fill the air with sweet sounds.

Jubilee Singers and camp-meeting shouters, the happy darkies of way down South in Dixie, the minstrels of nature and the children of melody sing in high glee most quaint and numerous refrains, belonging to no other race, redolent of the plantation, the cotton-field, the cabin and the camp-meeting.

"Oh, where shall we go when de great day comes,
Wid de blowin' ob de trumpets and de bangin' of de drums.
How many po' sinners will be kotched out too late,
En find no latch on the golden gate."

Equally unique is the cry of the peculiar instruments, maniplated by the Band of Scottish Bagpipers, the national music of the bonny Scotts and the same welcome sounds that reached the ears of Jessie Deans, the heroine of the seige of Lucknow. Ornate and gold mounted tableau cars and elaborate chariots of rich design, lend variety to the pageant. A long line of dens and cages contain the wonders of the geological kingdom.

To-day's sales take off the most of the fodder make, and next week the sales will be mostly of grass cheese. Weather is much more favorable than it had been and a continuance of this cool temperature through the week will do much toward steadying prices. The advices from New York to-day were all contrary, but the steam was on and buyers could not resist the pressure. Following are the quotations for the day: 175 boxes at 10¼c.; 180 at 10½c.; 70 lots, 5,563 boxes, at 10⅝c.; 10 lots, 723 boxes at 10¾c.; 3 lots 156 boxes, at 11c.; 3 lots, 380 boxes, at 11⅛c.; and 3 lots, 210 boxes, at P. Two years ago they were 9,849 boxes; ruling price, 10⅞c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, May 26, 1884.

It was obvious to everybody here to-day that prices paid here a week ago were too high by considerable; and none realize the fact so well as buyers, most of whom lost money on their purchases. A decline was looked for to-day, but nothing like what the trade shows, amounting to about 1¼c. a pound. One reason for so great a decline is due to the transition from hay cheese to grass cheese, which most factories are now making. A good share of the factories send forward the balance of their hay cheese to-day, and all will doubtless be taken off next week. Trade was considerably depressed for a while to-day, but toward the close business commenced in earnest and all factories we believe let all stock go forward that was sufficiently cured. Buyers complain very much of the stock known as half-skims and are pretty well disgusted with their attempts to handle it to any advantage. It is becoming more and more apparent that the dairymen of Herkimer county can not longer afford to continue the practice of making skim cheese during the spring months, whatever may be done in other sections. Dairymen owe it to themselves to look into this matter and determine whether all that is said and written on this subject is mere talk or whether it is not greatly to their loss, in the long run, to continue the use of the skimmer. Following are the transactions of the day:

FARM DAIRIES.—Some of the fine lots of farm cheese were eagerly sought for by the home trade and went at pretty full prices; 950 boxes sold at 10 a 11c.; a half dozen or more lots brought 11c.; and the bulk went at 10½c.

BUTTER.—Sales only about 50 packages. Dairy butter sold at 20 a 22c.; the bulk at 12c. Two lotsof creamery sold at 23c.

AT FULTON.

The market was quite lively here Monday night. There were seventeen factories represented with 869 boxes of cheese, which readily sold at 10½ to 10⅝ cents. The price one year ago was 11¼; two years ago, 10½; three years ago, 8½; four years ago, 12½; five years ago, 7¼c.

Raid on a Gambling Den.

Detectives Moorehead and Todd of New York assisted by deputy sheriffs McNulty and O'Neil in a raid on a gambling room in the Larned block, Syracuse, Monday night. Fifteen persons were in the room, five of whom were arrested. The names of those allowed to go were taken and they will be used as witnesses. Those arrested were Andrew Hammill, James Holohan, Harry Hirschfield, J. B. Johnson and John N. Sharp of this village. Mr. Sharp is a member of the excise board and also run for the office of Police Justice at the last election and was defeated. The men were taken before County Judge Northrup, Tuesday, where they pleaded not guilty, and waived an examination on the charge of keeping and exhibiting gambling devices. Sharp, Holohan and Hirschfield each gave $2,000 bail. Charles Crippin, who with two others jumped thro' a window when the officers made the raid, fell upon a stairway and broke one of his legs. His companions took him to a hospital. The raid was worked up by District Attorney Lewis.

"Good temper is like a sunny day; it sheds its brightness everywhere." Nothing so much can attribute to good temper as an elegant, nice fitting, comfortable suit of light summer clothing from Kent & Miller's.

"It is a secret known to but few, yet of no small use in the conduct of life, that when you fall into a man's conversation, the first thing you should consider is, whether he has a greater inclination to hear you, or that you should hear him." While setteling this question, just listen while while we tell you of the choice clothing for men and boys to be found at very low prices at Kent & Miller's, 18 and 20 South Salina

A Fine Lumber Yard.

Having a little spare time a few days since, we strolled down First street until we reached the lumber yard of Schenck & Swan. Noticing that the yard was unusually full of lumber we turned in at the gate and spent some little time in looking over their stock. We noticed large quantities of fine pine and hemlock shingles also a large supply of pine and white hemlock plank which they informed us they were selling at a bargin Flooring, seiling, lath and in fact everything which makes up a first class lumber yard can be found there at remarkably low prices. We would advise any one who intend purchasing lumber to visit the above firm and be convinced of these few facts.

Side Glances.

We are pleased to note the interest taken in horseback riding. No less than nine of our health loving people have been seen bounding over the roads. It is a most charming, exhilarating and healthful exercise. If more of our business men would ride horses they would find worried brains and tired bodies made new with life. Miss Howe's graceful riding on her spirited horse, elicits much admiration. We learn also that Miss Gilmour and Mrs. Butler also take an occasional outing in the saddle and many other ladies are getting anxious to follow the example of the famous Austrian queen. So call out the steeds, for the horse and saddle are this season destined to be "the thing." As our quill scrapes along we hear the clattering of hoofs and as we look out of the window and see the well known forms of our townsmen, Drs. Emens and Haviland and Rev. Markham riding by on their horses and and watch their happy looking faces, papers, pens, dusty tables, rooms and close atmosphere are transformed into green fields, waving grain, gliding waters, the pure air of pleasant country roads and I cry "My Kingdom for a horse,"

Thousand Island Park Notes.

The project of putting up a telephone line from Watertown to Thousand Island Park, Alexandria Bay and other points down the river is now being agitated.

Two hundred acres of land on the sides of Sunrise mountain, T. I. Park have been cleared of underbrush, logs, &c., making a nice shady place to ramble.

Among the attractive services to be held on Thousand Island Park, the canoe convention and the gathering of Odd Fellows will be notable occasions down the river this season.

The new tabernacle to be built on Thousand Island Park will be 100 by 140 feet on the ground. It will have a framed roof and open sides. The front portion of the structure will be so enclosed as to form a comfortable room for meetings during cold weather. The tabernacle will be dedicated July 14th.

Serious Accident.

Last Saturday afternoon Will Hefron, for more than a year one of Larimore's best barbers and one of the most highly respected young men in town, had a large portion of his left hand torn off by the bursting of a gun. He was out on his claim, about twenty miles west of town, but was brought in as soon as possible, arriving during the night, and has been attended by Dr. Rounsevell. He loses his thumb and two fingers, about half the hand, and four of the carpal bones from the wrist. He is doing as well as could be expected, and keeps up his courage well. Though he will have a maimed hand for life, his friends hope to see him soon recover. The gun that did the mischief was an old one, and had been loaded for geese.

The above we take from the Larimore Pioneer, Dakota. Will Hefron formerly lived in Fulton, and was the son of Anson Hefron, and will no doubt be remembered by many here.

G. A. R. Sermon.

The M. E. church was literally packed last Sunday evening to listen to the sermon delivered by Rev. W. F. Markham to the G. A. R. Post of this village, which organization attended in a body. The pulpit was prodigally decorated with fragrant flowers and directly behind hung the American flag with the words "G. A. R. of Fulton," stamped on in gilt.

Mr. Markham took for his text the third verse of the 46th chapter of Jeremiah, "Order ye the buckler and shield, and draw near to battle." The sermon was an eloquent one and very appropriate to the occasion and was listened to with deep interest.

Oliver A. Hess of Oneida, and Miss Nellie Baker of this village were married at the home of the brides' parents on Rochester street to-day at 2 p.m. by the Rev. J. P. Simmons.

Ontario & Western, is still agitated, and its consummation in the near future is believed to be a thing that will certainly occur. The enterprize is a worthy one and will pay largely.

The Oswego papers have of late been criticising the condition of the Oswego river between Fulton and Oswego and claim that the shavings and sawdust from Herrick & Emerick's box factory at this place are preventing sportsmen from catching any fish. It is a question whether it is illegal or not. However. Messrs Herrick & Emerick have made arrangements to dispose of the refuse and hereafter sportsmen will not be troubled from that source.

CHICAGO, May [illegible].—Chicago is a large town and like other great cities has an [illegible] number of [illegible], and each separate interest pays very little attention to and cares less what the other is doing. If there is any one thing upon which a majority are agreed it is getting what money they can in business during the political conventions of June and July. The railroads all over the country will bring people here at reduced rates and still realize handsome fortunes. The hotels, great and small, have added largely to their accommodations and can easily care for some 15,000 guests. This leaves at least as many more to be fed and housed, which can be done at the eight or ten hundred boarding houses, each accommodating from ten to twenty. Besides quite extensive preparations are being made by parties interested in restaurants in hiring rooms and placing cots therein. A few will doubtless be cared for by the police. The opportunities for this latter class are said to be unequalled in any other city. Here are three or four thousand saloons sandwiched between nearly every kind of business unless, as in some streets, they monopolize the first story of every block.

But if Chicago is cursed with too many saloons, it can boast of its fine restaurants. Perhaps no city can surpass it in its really elegant eating houses and cafes. Noticeably among these is Kingsley's who seems to have made a conscientious and intelligent study of catering to the public until he has gained a world wide reputation and his cuisine is not surpassed in America. The elaborate bill of fare is served in the most unquestionable style and the choicest delicacies of the season are always on call. Many other well kept places will furnish visitors with delicious food at very moderate prices. Chicago is the great storehouse of the west and its hundreds of thousands of people both resident and visiting, have the benefit of its great markets in first selections. Everything will be done by Mayor Harrison and the citizens generally to make the stay of visitors during the convention pleasant and profitable. Chicago has a pride in being a great, growing and generous people, who never do anything by halves, and she proposes on this occasion to make good her claim.

THOMAS' MAY FESTIVAL

will open on Tuesday evening with a chorus of 900 voices and orchestra of 170 pieces and a number of distinguished soloists, the leading one, Christine Nilsson, whose career in Chicago as well as New York has ever been brilliant. After a symphony in G. minor by Mozart, "The Creation," the last and greatest work of Haydn will be given. A large audience is assured and the immense sounding boards placed high over either end of the hall add greatly to the acoustic properties and the numerous rehearsals have already shown that the hearer is to be delighted with this grand and inspiriting music. This will be followed every evening during the week by the best compositions from the masters and for the first time Wagner music will be given, the principal parts being interpreted by that wonderful trio of artists from Beyreuth, Materna, Scaria and Winkleman. In Oratorio these Singers are pronounced the greatest now living. Among others pieces will be given from Tannhauser, Lohengrin's Parsifal, Handel's TeDeum, Weber's Jubilee, Mozart's Aria, and Gounod's Redemption. In this last it is said the author spent twelve years in writing the musical score. It aims to give the fundamental facts of the Christian church, the passion and the death of the Savior, His life while on earth, His resurrection and ascension. It is a work of inspiration and altogether is a musical picture of rare beauty and effect.

THE MILLERS' ASSOCIATION

of which W. G. Gage of Fulton is a prominent member, was expected to hold its annual session in this city about June 1st, thereby giving the members an opportunity to attend the Republican Convention, but a letter received a few days since from the President, J. A. Christian of Minneapolis, says if called it will not be until the latter part of June, and adds: "Possibly there will be no necessity for convening a general convention." Millers interested will take notice.

WEST SHORE ROUTE.

The New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railway issue a circular to-day announcing that on and after May 25 two trains will leave Chicago daily with Pullman, Buffet and sleeping cars attached running through to New York via the Grand Trunk and West Shore & Buffalo. All lines out of Chicago connect at Suspension Bridge and Buffalo with the new West Shore Route. C. E. Lambert, Gen. Western agent, office at 75 Clark street, whose ability and efficiency have made his services invaluable and this new road so popular in the west.

THE OUTLOOK.

There is a general impression here that President Arthur is gaining strength, and as the day of the convention approaches his friends become more confident and eager for the battle. It will be a pleasure to make a clean fight with a clean candidate. The New York Sun is credited with saying that with the single exception of Abraham Lincoln, Chester A. Arthur is the best Republican President the country has ever had, "one of the strong points in favor of nominating Mr. Arthur is that he has never asked for it, nor has he done anything to secure the nomination, and his strength has grown out of this fact in this section where he was once set down as a scheming politician. The business interests of the country call for a safe tried man, and all signs point to him as a natural leader and the choice of all this class. The next issue of THE TIMES will probably give the name of the nominee. Will it be Chester A. Arthur?

THE SUN.

NEW YORK. 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Suns printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

The several editions of The Sun are sent by mail postpaid as follows:

How Watch Cases are Made.

A plate of SOLID GOLD 14 2-10 karats fine is soldered on each side of a plate of hard nickel composition metal, and the three are then passed between polished steel rollers. From this plate the various parts of the cases—backs, centers, bezels, etc. are cut and shaped by dies and formers. The gold is thick enough to admit of all kinds of chasing, engraving, and engine-turning. The composition metal gives it needed strength, stiffness and solidity, while the written guarantee of the manufacturers warranting each case to wear twenty years proves that it contains all the gold that can possibly be needed. This guarantee is given from actual results, as many of these cases have been worn perfectly smooth by years of use without wearing through the gold.

DUBUQUE, IA., Dec. 14, 188[illegible].

A mixture of sulphur and lard is a safe and harmless remedy for the extermination of lice on cattle. Rub it along the back and brisket and anoint parts here and there wherever necessary.

The mixed breeds can be constantly increased by the use of thoroughbreds. Every addition of thoroughbred blood elevates the quality to a higher standard, and the improvement is permanent.

Pruning a fruit tree while dormant will tend more to promote the growth of wood than the production of fruit. Pruning after the tree has become in full foliage promotes fruitfulness, by giving a check to the growth just as root pruning does.

About 350 pounds of mangels are equal to 100 pounds of hay. The hay would have to yield nearly three times the average amount in order to produce an equivalent of the nutritive matter contained in an ordinary crop of beets from one acre.

Do not turn stock on pastures too early; give the grass a chance to get started. After months of winter feeding there is nothing like fresh green food to quicken the action of an animal's system; but it better to give a ration of bran and flaxseed meal occasionally for that purpose than to injure the pasture when grass is starting.

In feeding oats to horses during the season of hot weather, remember that the best are not always those which look bright and are free from mustiness or other odor indicating previous dampness or heat; weight of oats determines value, if their condition is good. Light oats contain little nutriment. It pays at this hard working time of year to feed good grain and good hay.

When transplanting the strawberry, an expert forbids the removal of the runners, and recommends leaving six inches of them attached to each side of the plant. The ends of these runners are then to be bent down and buried with the roots. Plants thus treated are provided with means for drawing nourishment at once and will thrive in adverse conditions which prove fatal to plants stripped of their runners.

Emory's Little Cathartic is the best and only reliable Liver Pill known, never fails with the most obstinate cases, purely vegetable, sugar coated, tasteless, harmless, no gribing or unpleasant effects. Druggists sell them.—15 Cents.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalleled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

The whole difference, says a recent writer, between the Christian and the moralist lies here. The Christian works from the center, the moralist from the circumference. The one is an organism, in the center of which is planted by the living God a living germ, the other is a crystal, very beautiful it may be, but only a crystal—it wants the vital principle of growth.

PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or some neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Eminent Testimony.

[N Y Witness, Aug 15, 1880]

"I find that in addition to the pure spirits contained in their composition, they contain the extract of hops and other well known and highly approved medicinal roots, leaves and tinctures in quantity sufficient to render the article what the makers claim it to be, to wit, a medicinal preparation not a beverage—unfit and unsafe to be used except as a medicine.

From a careful analysis of their formula—which was attested under oath—I find that in every wineglassfull of Hop Bitters the active medicinal properties aside from the distilled spirits are equal to a full dose for an adult, which fact is in my opinion, subjects it to an internal revenue tax as a medicinal bitter. Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles: the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

THE LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER.

Saul Rundlett and his little daughter Phœbe kept the plum pudding lighthouse. Saul had been a sailor half his life, but two or three narrow escapes from shipwreck had convinced him that it was desirable to have something solid beneath one's feet, and he had, with some difficulty—for there had been suspicion that Paul was not quite steady enough for lighthouse keeper—obtained the position on Plum Pudding rock. Phœbe was born there, and her mother dying when she was very small, had grown there almost as wild and untrained as the sea gulls that built their nests in the crevices of the rocks. Quite as untrained, she might have been, if it had not been for Aunt Huldah Maria, who lived on Mouse Island.

There was a school on Mouse Island for six months in the year, and Phœbe went to it sometimes; she could not go regularly, because—well, although it is very sad, it must be told—because it was not always safe to leave her father in charge of the lighthouse. He had been steady ever since he assumed the position of lighthouse keeper, fifteen years before, until the last year. Even after that long period of successful resistance his old enemy, the love of drink, had falled upon and conquered him. And nobody knew it but Phœbe.

Captain Saul, as everybody called him, had always been the habit of going to Jim Bowling's shop, at Pondunquit Harbor, which was a sort of sailors' "snug harbor," to smoke his pipe and spin yarns with his old cronies, but he never drank anything there. And it was only within the last year that he had brought anything home from the harbor to drink. Now he did it often; indeed it was seldom he came home without it, and, all by himself he would have a drinking bout, growing merry at first and singing old sea songs and cracking jokes, and poor little Phœbe who did not know the cause thought his mood delightful; and wished he would always seem as happy; but soon he began to drink more heavily, and would pass from the merry stage into a cross and irritable one, and then become stupid, sleepy and utterly helpless. And, besides, her grief and humiliation were constantly anxious lest her father should lose his situation. They had no money and where in the world could they find another home if they had to leave the Plum Pudding!

This was the sorrow and care that had changed Phœbe's face from the round and rosy and dimpled little one so that it was now pinched and wan, and had a careworn look that was sad to see. There were several men who wanted Captain Saul's position at the lighthouse and would be glad to report anything that they could discover to injure him. Every day Phœbe expected that the blow would fall, and they would be obliged to leave their home.

There was to be a great merry-making on Mouse Island. Phœbe oldest cousin, Marie Cordilly, was to marry Jed Collins, who was soon to sail as mate of the flying scud, the finest ship that ever sailed from Pondunquit. But when Phœbe said "she didn't think she could come; she would rather stay home and let her father come," there was a terrible outcry.

Aunt Huldah Maria said Phœbe should come or she would know the reason, and that was just what Phœbe didn't want—that Aunt Huldah Maria should know "the reason why." So she said if she possibly could she would come, She tried to persuade her father not to go to Pondunquit Harbor two or three days before the wedding, but on that very day he had an errand that could not be delayed, he said. He came back only just in time for Phœbe to get off to be at Aunt Huldah Maria's as early as she had promised. But he seemed very kind and affectionate and told her not to worry; he would take good care of the light, and kissed her, which had become quite unusual, and said "it was a great pity if the mate couldn't go off on a lark when the captain waf left behind to take care of the ship." He always called the lighthouse a ship, and Phœbe had been the mate ever since she was five years old.

Aunt Huldah Maria rejoiced, even in the midst of her labors as hostess, at Phœbe's bright face. Perhaps the child had only been a little overworked or ailing, and there was not so much trouble at the Plum Pudding as she had fancied. But even while the fiddler was playing his most entrancing strains and the wedding cake was being passed in most generous slices Phœbe heard a whisper that made her heart stand still. David Judkin, the son of a man who wanted her father's place, was talking to another young man.

"It isn't such a very thick fog, and I never saw a fog so thick that you could not see some light of Plum Pudding light from Mouse Island; and if it can't be seen to-night it isn't on account of the fog, but because the light isn't there."

"And the Advance is up in the harbor," said the other. "Captain Saul is at the end of his lighthouse keeping if you are right."

"We might skirmish around a little and see," said David Judkins. "It would be a pity for the officers not to find it out, you know."

The two young men went out. Phœbe knew well where they were going. The Advance was the government steamer, whose office was to supply the lighthouses and see that they were kept in good condition.

David Judkins was going to give information that there was no light on Plum Pudding Island. Phœbe slipped [illegible]. The fog [illegible] lously in the direction of the Plum Pudding. But she looked in vain; there was thick darkness everywhere. The lamp on the plum pudding was not lighted. Phœbe listened, and heard the steady plash of retreating oars. David Judkins and his friend were rowing vigorously to Pondunquit Harbor.

She ran down to the shore to the place where the row boat was fastened. She got in and rowed swiftly out in the thick darkness. She had not her compass, which she usually carried in her pocket, and if she had it was too dark to see it without a match. Could she find her way to the island? Phœbe rowed swiftly in the direction of where the Plum Pudding ought to be. Presently she felt that she had gone far enough. But where was the island? Why did she not get there? The bow of her boat seemed to be pointed toward the open sea. Had she been rowing toward the open sea instead of Plum Pudding? And then suddenly it seemed to her that she was going back toward Mouse Island.

Stout hearted as she was, Phœbe felt her courage failing. She let the oars slip from her hands into the bottom of the boat, and uttered a faint cry of distress. It was so faint a cry that only the sea gulls could have heard it, but an answer seemed to come; the sharp shrill sound of a horn. It could be nothing but the great horn of the lighthouse, although it seemed to come from the direction of Pondunquit Harbor. The sound was repeated. It was the lighthouse horn. Phœbe rowed with might and main, and very soon a dark shape loomed up before her through the darkness, and her boat grazed the rocks of Plum Pudding. It was at the very steepest part of the rocks, but Phœbe could not delay to row to the landing. Up she scrambled, never heeding that her clothes were torn and her hands scratched and bleeding.

It was difficult to find her way to the lighthouse in the thick darkness, and now there came no sound to guide her. Never before in Phœbe's lifetime had night found that lighthouse with darkened windows. And what had that horn meant? A terrible fear lest something than she had thought of had happened to her father made Phœbe's steps falter upon the very threshold. She pushed the door open, but only to find that the living room, where her father always sat was empty. Phœbe seized a light which was burning on the table and ran up the lighthouse steps. At the top she almost stumbled across her father lying in a heap, the great horn fallen from her hands, his red face and heavy breathing showing his sad condition.

Phœbe sprang to the lamp. The great dazzling light flashed out. There was a few moments of complete silence and then there came a shout from the water below. Phœbe seized the great horn and blew a blast in answer.

"Light ahoy!" shouts a voice again.

Phœbe seized her father's arm and shook him with all her strength. He opened his eyes and tried with her help to stand upon his feet.

"Put your head out of the window and shout 'Ahoy!' Oh, try your best to do it, father!" begged Phœbe. He did try but it was only a stammering whisper that came. Phœbe lowered her voice to the gruffest bass notes of which it was capable, and shouted "Ahoy!" herself.

"All right" shouted the voices below. "We thought there was no light. The fog is so thick that we could not see it ten rods away. Never saw such a fog even in this place. Advance will be here to-morrow with supplies."

"Aye, aye, sir," shouted Phœbe, still in gruffest tones.

And then to her great relief, she heard the sound of retreating oars.

Then she helped her father down stairs to his bed. She did not go to bed herself, because she knew that her aunt would discover her absence and send some body in search of her, and it was not long before her cousin Augustus Algernon appeared.

"Tell Aunt Huldah Maria that I wanted to come home," was all that Phœbe would say.

"I don't see how you found your way," said Augustus Algernon. "The fog is so thick I couldn't get a glimpse of the light till I got half way over. Folks over on the Island thought it was not lighted. But they may be sure you could have got here without any compass if it hadn't been."

The next morning Captain Saul came to Phœbe and laid his hand on her head.

"I tried to light lamp, Phœbe; I didn't think I'd got so far that I couldn't, and blew the horn twice; that was all I could do," he said.

"I might never have got here but for that, father," said Phœbe, taking his other hand in hers. She did not reproach him; she never thought of doing that.

"It was the mate that saved the ship last night," continued Captain Saul, in a voice that trembled. "But with God's help the captain will never be off duty again! He'll never dowse his peak and let that black pirate aboard again!" pointing to a bottle which Phœbe had seen many times before—"if not for his own sake, for the sake of his little gal—he swears that before the Lord."

If you should see how plump and rosy Phœbe had grown you would know that Captain Saul had kept his word. Aunt Huldah Maria had her suspicions about the doings of that night, but she never expresses them. And there are no signs that Leander Judkins will ever keep the lighthouse. The fog that was "so thick you couldn't see Plum Pudding light ten rods away" is still famous.

H. G. Geisler, writes [illegible]

HIS FIRST SHAVE.

The First Time a Young Man Enters a Barber's Shop.

Some writer has given the following description of "the first shave:"

"The first time in a barber's shop is an event of importance in every young man's life. He will wait in some cases, three weeks after determining to do it, and on the eventful day he has been known to sneak by the shop seventeen times, summing up his courage for this trying ordeal. On entering the door he feels that every one in the room knows that this is his first appearance, and that they are microscopically searching for his beard. The barber gives him a hard look when notifying him that it was his turn.

But he is determined to put on a stiff upper lip, as worldly people say, and go through the operation with the stoicism of a veteran. He is remarkably sensitive to ridicule, and not for the world would he have the barber know that this was his first shave. So he sits on the arm of the chair, instead of on the seat, and in getting down lies too far back. When told to bring up his head, he hastily does it, and knocks over the stool in the operation. This causes the blood to rush to his face, and the embarrassment which produces it is not at all modified by detecting the barber exchanging significent glances with the operator at the next chair.

When the lather is being put on, he cannot control the working of his imagination, and he finds himself possessed of an irresistable desire to smile sheepishly. This proneness to grin is inexplicable, but it is inseperable from the first shave, and the victim is obliged to resort to every facial artifice to overcome it, and then doesn't succeed."

The above is true to nature, but it is not nature enough. The writer should have gone on to state how the young fellow feels for about six months before he gets up courage to go to a barber shop, and how he looks at that caterpillar looking, mouldy complected stuff on his upper lip.

He sees the fuzz on his lip before anybody else does, and he wonders that all the world is not on to it. He goes closer to his girl, on the way home from school, hoping she will see it, and if she does, and speaks of it, before he has called her attention to the phemenon, he is very happy, and votes her one of the most discerning women in the world, and he resolves to make her his wife, if he lives. After his girl has spoken of the hair on his lip, the boy feels better, and when he goes into the presence of grown people, he expects they will at once stop all conversation and call attention to his lip, and when they go on talking about something else, he feels hurt, and when some one tells him to go to the door and let the dog in or bring in some wood, he feels crushed, and thinks such remarks should be addressed to children, and not to men who have hair on their lips.

From the time a boy first notices the dew on his upper lip, to the time the moustache is unmistakable, which is about a year and a half, he is miserable. He does not go to a barber at first, but confides in his father, if he has one, and and the father finally gets out his razor and shaves the boy's upper lip, for a joke, partly because he was a boy once himself. But during the operation the father makes the boy feel small by telling him that the razor is spoiled, the edge all taken off, and finally paralyzez the youth by showing him the lather in which there is not a sign of a hair. After this operation the boy rubs his finger on his lip and he can feel the beard, and it is harsh, and pricks his fingers, and he wants to go right off and rub that lip against the cheek of his girl, to show her that the world moves.

Then he waits weary months for it to grow out again, and wonders how it is that people recognize him with his moustache cut off. When it comes out again he takes his father's razor, while the folks are at church, and shaves himself. His parents know what he has done, when they come home by the blood on the towel, and the court-plaster at the corner of his mouth, where he has gouged himself while trying to look cross-eyed in a mirror, and shaved himself left handed. The next time the beard comes out he calls up all his resolution and goes to a barber, and this is where above quoted remarks are pertinent to his case. But the writer above has not told half of the annoyance the barber gives the boy. The first thing the barber does is to put a cloth around the boy's neck, and take down a pair of shears.

Though the boy's hair may be as short as pie crust, the barber pretends he supposes the boy wants his hair cut, and the poor boy has to struggle with his voice, and bring it away out of his throat, and say he wants to be shaved. The barber lays down the shears, comes up to the trembling boy, laid out in a chair, looks at him, and says, "Where?" That is the trying time for the boy. He feels that he would like to murder that barber, and he would give all that he has got if he could get out of that shop, but he has to put his fingers on his upper lip, and in a firm voice that sounds says, "There!" though he feels more like crying. Then the barber says "Oh," in a voice that sounds as though it was all he could do to keep from snorting right out laughing.

In about two seconds the barber has the boy shaved, and says "next," and and the boy gets out of the chair in a profuse perspiration, though it may be the coldest day of winter, and when he pays for the shave he [illegible] hates the barber that shaved him first, and treated him so disdainfully, and always patronizes a rival shop.

SATISFACTION FOR TEN.

In our family of ten for over two years Parker's Ginger Tonic has cured headache, malaria and other complaints so satisfactorily that we are in excellent health and no expense for doctors or other medicines. Chronicle.

FARM GOSSIP.

An asparagus bed may be made to last twenty or thirty years. the plants are never infested with insects, and the crop never fails.

Sliced carrots and oats figure largely in the food given to sheep in Vermont. The sheep of that state are said to eat more of oats than of any other grain.

In working wet soil the most injury results from letting it alone, after plowing, until it dries out. When this is done the soil "cakes" and is difficult of pulverization so as to make it a good seed bed.

For growing plants a weekly application of diluted manure water will work wonders, but those in the state of rest are better without it; and, in fact they need little water of any kind until growth begins.

The best orchardists agree that the orchard should be cultivated and croped occasionally, believing that it is better that the land should be exhausted a trifle that the orchard should become what is termed hidebound.

To exterminate cabbage worms: Take a heaping tablespoon of saltpetre dissolved in hot water, added to a gallon of cold water and applied the centre of the plant is a sure preventive. Three applications are usually sufficient.

Strawberries like the Wilson can remain standing three or four years, if kept clean. If kept clean of weeds the first year it is not a difficult job to cultivate strawberries. If the runners are cut the first year, they may be allowed to run after that as long as the bed remains productive. Deep, mellow soil, if it is not too dry, is the proper place in which to plant the strawberry.

The best way to apply salt to paths, to destroy weeds, is as follows: Boil the salt in water, one pound to one gallon, and apply the mixture boiling hot with a wattering pot that has a spreading nose; this will keep weeds and worms away for two or three years. Put one pound to the square yard the first year; afterward a weaker solution may be applied when required.

An agricultural writer, speaking of the best methods of feeding cornfodder and other coarse foods, calls attention to the fact that since these are in themselves in complete foods, lacking the nitrogenous and fatty elements, they should invaribly be suplimented with some food which will supply these. He regards cottonseed cake as among the best, as they not only supply the needed elements, but also greatly enrich the manure.

The practice of throwing soft feed directly on the ground should at once be abandoned by every farmer and poultry keeper. It is extremely wasteful, as well as filthy to throw their food on the ground when it is soft or covered with poultry droppings. Whole grain, however, may be scattered on clean ground or, prehaps, better, if the hens are confined, it might be slightly covered with the soil, if it is dry, or with some other clean, dry material, and let the fowls scratch it out, as it will give them exercise. Feeding troughs should be constructed in such a way that the fowls may eat soft feed without being permitted to get into it, to scratch or foul it any manner. These troughs may be easily and cheaply made by the exercise of a little ingenuity, and the use of a few pieces of boards, lath and a few nails.

A CRUCIAL TEST.

The severe chemical tests to which the various baking powders have from time to time been placed have demonstrated clearly to the public the relative merits of the different brands from an analytical point of view. For instance, Dr. Love the eminent Government Chemist, in his analysis made the comperative strength as follows:

	Cubic inches Gas Evolved.
"Royal" (absolutely pure)	127.04
"Hanford's None Such," fresh	121.6
"Hanford's None Such," old	84.35
"Cleveland's" (short weight ¾ oz.)	110.8
"Sea Foam"	107.9
"Hecker's"

The Royal Baking Powder was found, besides being of absolute purity, to evolve the highest amount of leavening gas of any of the powders tested, and hence it was placed at the head of the list and recommended for Government use.

But the crucial test of the kitchen is, after all, the most satisfactory to the housekeeper. A baking powder that never fails to make light, sweet, wholesome and palatable bread, biscuit, cake, etc., upon all occasions, is the one that will be placed at the head of the list by the practical housewife, and received into her kitchen for continuous use. This test the Royal Baking Powder has stood for over a quarter of a century without a single failure, and hence its reputation as the best baking powder made has spread from house to house, until its use has become as universal as [illegible]

AT THE CONVENTION.

BLAINE AND ARTHUR IN THE LEAD.

Sherman Withdraws—Arthur and Edmunds Join Hands.—Adjourned till 7 p. m.

CHICAGO, June 3.—The largest national convention that ever assembled in this or any other city was called to order in the Exposition Hall to-day. The delegates only occupied a small part of the immense auditorium, the remaining portion being densely packed with a miscellaneous audience. The speaker's desk rests on the platform twelve feet above the delegates and the press occupies the intermediate space, midway in height or about on a level with the heads of the delegates. Back of the chair, ranged in a semi-circle and on the level space are seated the remaining officers of the convention, and the members of the national committee and their friends. Back of this circle on a sharply rising incline are 1,000 seats occupied by persons of national repute. Swinging over the desk of the chairman and fairly touching the arches is a wide-spreading sounding board and embracing the side extremes of the building. Delegates and alternates occupy the dead-level space bounded by the square lines. They are hemmed in on two sides by tiers of boxes, occupied mainly by the guests of the delegates. The section of the hall occupied by the working body of the convention is broken by four wide aisles, from the edges of which rise Roman standard pendants with blue silk banners imprinted in gold with the mottoes of states and territories.

About half-past eleven the delegaces began to arrive, and by noon all were in their places. Chairman Sabin called the convention to order and and it was opened by prayer by Rev. Frank Bristol of Chicago.

The convention then voted for temporary chairman. Gen. Clayton received 387 votes and John R. Lynch 431. The latter was declared elected.

The convention then at 4:45 adjourned to meet at 11 o'clock to-morrow.

Some of the Edmunds men to-night held a consultation with the Arthur people, and the bond between the two appeared binding enough to cause them to join hands against the Alaine people.

Some hopeful delegates affect to believe that balloting for president will be reached to-morrow.

CHICAGO, June 4.—It is not thought that ballots will be reached to-day owing to the contest on Virginia delegation.

General Sherman has telegraphed Ex-Senator Henderson that he will not accept the nomination if offered or serve if elected.

The opinion is that neither Blaine or Arthur will be nominated is growing stronger than ever while a few venture opinions as to the prospects.

[Special dispatch to THE TIMES.]

June 4,, 2:40 p. m.—First blood for Arthur yesterday. The test vote for chairman makes it more uncertain who will win. Blaine against the field. A dark horse will probably win. Henderson of Missouri, was elected permanent chairman. There will be no vote for for President to-day.

The convention adjourned till 7 p. m.

Gentlemen—You will please send me [illegible]

It was [illegible] altho, as no one expected that [illegible] be more than ⅛c or ⅝c at the most. Even buyers early in the day thought that the ruling price might be 10¼c, but later advices from New York changed their views and made them more conservative. The heavy production of the season, exceeding that of any year since 1878, causes a feeling of great caution among the buyers. The sales of to-day were about half hay and half grass cheese, altho' some had really nothing but grass cheese. There were but little complaint of damage from the frosts last week. Clover was somewhat injured but aside from that crops do not seem to have suffered much. One man said there was plenty of pasturage, but he did not think it was producing as good milk as it ought to.

The marketings of the day have been as follows: 215 boxes at 9⅞c; 3 lots, 190 boxes at 10c; 76 lots, 6,178 boxes at 10⅛c; 16 lots, 1,839 boxes at10¼c.; 58 boxes at 10⅜c; 2 lots, 109 boxes at 10⅛c, 75 of them being small cheese; 2 lots 370 boxes, at 10⅝c; and 2 lots, 130 boxes at p. t. Sales of 8,079 boxes; commissions 1,066; total, 10,145 boxes. Ruling price 10⅛c. This compares with 8,180 boxes on the corresponding day last year, ruling price 11c; and with 6,370 boxes two years ago, ruling price 10⅝c. On the same day in 1878 transactions were 11,318 boxes at an average price of 8c, although the season opened with an average of 12½c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Little Falls, June 2, 1884.

The market is about ¼c lower than last week corresponding with the closing of the week in the New York market. No grass cheese has as yet been delivered, but it is thought that some will appear on the market next week. It is estimated that the yield of the herds is greater now than even in the most flush times of last year. The transactions of the day are as follows:

[illegible] how they had chafed the [illegible] of the teacher. There were tattling lads and giggling lasses; gawkish youth and chattering maidens; the mother with the babe nursing at her breast while the sun poured its hot rays on the little unprotected face; clerks swinging on awning ropes and business men who had come out to see "what fools these mortals be."

What is this great event—some Wendell Phillips whose winged words shall pierce deep into the heart and tell the scourging of a great national curse; a Beecher to proclaim the existence of the Invisible kingdom and point out the glories of the hereafter? Oh no, this beautiful day is not to be made one of war against flesh or spirit. Mysteries soon disappear as slowly, poor tired horses drag by a gilded wooden frame in which questionable looking men were said to have made music. We thought they belonged to the orchestra of pandemonium. Then came between long intervening spaces an elephant, "Empress" of the babies; the weaklings back burdened by the weight of three human figures; a camel whose pitiful face ought to have awakened sympathy in any man's heart; jaded beasts with male and female riders, their hard faces betokening the life they live; a few painted boxes put on wheels, a two wheeled cart, a man riding a horse. The scene was ended. The pageant had passed by.

For this, was this great gathering from near and far—people of extreme youth and of extreme age. The people seemed satisfied. There doubtless arose in their minds scenes of grandeur and excitement; hard and skillful riding, wonderful tumbling, incomprehensible feats of strength in mid air, the crack of the whip, the blast of trumpets, the leap for life;—a thousand pairs of eyes are turned toward the dirty ring.

I watched the people as they went to the circus; men who might better be learning the "old, old story"; children who should have been on bended knees whispering "now I lay me down to sleep"; people who left debts behind them. (Did they realize that in putting money into a circus till they were stealing from creditors?) People who are supported by the church. Why did they all go? Was it because man in nature is similar to the beast and goes there to give vent to that nature under the apology that it is a mind training, a study of the brute creation, of physical development of man's power over animals and that such an institution ought to be supported? Shame for such an apology.

Decoration Day.

Last Friday, May, 30, was ushered in clear. The morning was very cool but as the day advanced it grew warmer and about noon was as beautiful a May day as one could wish for. The streets were lined with people who had gathered to observe the day in honor of our soldier dead. All business places in our village were closed during the services. A flag pole was hoisted on the Opera House Thursday and a flag half masted could be seen floating in the breeze all day Friday. At 2 p. m. a large concourse of people assembled at the Opera House and listened to an eloquent oration by Col. Geo. S. Cantine of New York City. The music consisted of playing by Cornet Brass band, and the S. of V. drum corps, and singing by the Post choir; also solos by N. H. Gilbert and J. F. Cooper who led the choir. Miss Florence Markham presided at the piano. The parade under the auspices of Post Schenck and lead by Commander Pentelow was a complete success and deserves special mention. The programe of the day was fully carried out. A large abundance of flowers was furnished and the graves were appropriatly decorated.

Kensington Painting.

There is nothing the ladies of the day delight in more than fancy work. A lady takes pride in ushering her friends into the parlor and hearing the complimentary expressions made upon the fancy work that she has whiled away days and weeks upon. Imagine the time and labor spent upon Kensington embroidery. Now we wish to say a word right here in regard to Kensington painting. Every lady should have a knowledge of this art. It is very simple and easily learned. You use stamped Kensington patterns with oil paint on velvet. Work that yould would spend weeks upon with a needle, can be done in a day by this art. Mr. and Mrs. Tabb, of Chicago, who for the past three weeks have been teaching a class at Baldwinsville and met with wonderful success are at the Lewis House in this village and they earnestly desire that the ladies of Fulton call at parlor No. 6 and examine their samples. Mrs. Tabb, who is a very pleasing and talented lady, will give the instructions. Mrs. Tabb teaches the only true Kensington method. Their samples are not exhibited about town but are on exhibition at their rooms in the Lewis House. We would advise all the ladies to call and examine their specimens as they are fruits of fine art.

Cusick was elected temporary chrirman. The following delegates were chosen: Patrick Doyle, John Dorsey and Philo Wheeler. Resolutions were passed approving Governor Cleveland's administration and saying it is one of the main aids in the canvass upon which the party are just entering, and to redress the wrong of 1876, it becomes the paramount duty of the party. Following are the delegates from the Second District: C. W. Avery, J. B. Laddington, G. K. Harding.

A Romantic Marriage.

The Oswego Times Fulton correspondent speaks of a romantic marriage in which an Oswego Falls girl is connected as follows: "There was quite a romantic affair connected with a fair damsel of Oswego Falls. She saw an advertisement in a newspaper soliciting a correspondence with some lady, with a view to marriage if all was agreeable.

After about a year's correspondence and exchange of photographs the gentleman sent for the lady to visit him in his home in Montana. She left here about the first of May for the far west. He met her for the first time about 200 miles this side of his home at the town of Billings in Montana. She would not then marry him until she had visited his home and learned more of his character. She found in his home his mother and two nieces who cordially received her. Suffice it to say that this daring orphan girl two weeks later fully determined to remain and grow up with the country. The agreement was that if she did not like him or he her enough to marry, he was to pay her expenses back to this place. She paid her fare out to him. The young lady was a member of the Baptist church and bore, we believe, a good reputation. Mr. Hundley, her husband, is said to be a well-to-do herdsman. The following is taken from a Montana paper:"

Married, May 13th, 1884, in Stillwater, Mr. Alexander Hundley of Stillwater, Montana, and Miss Nellie Bradt of Oswego Falls, N. Y.

[illegible] settlement, I live in one of the most [illegible] villages in the state. It is situated in Valley county, in the southwest corner of the county, on section thirty-one, 17 16 in the fourth one hundredth meridian, what is now known as the great grazing belt swell, one of the finest valleys in the state. Our valley is called Lee's Park, in honor of the man who first settled it. His name is James Lee, he is a native of Ireland. Our settlement is made up of all nationalities; Our park as it is generally known is entirely surrounded by high bluffs or hills. We have the name of raising the best small grain in our valley of any in the state. Corn averages eighty bushels to the acre and potatoes yield as high as three hundred and fifty bushels to the acre, wheat last year yielded as high as thirty three bushels to the acre. Last year I sowed two acres of common white oats and harvested 118½ bushels from the same. When I came into this valley six years ago I established the first postoffice in our town and was postmaster for four years, then my wife's health got very delicate and I gave up the business.

The people in the East have a queer idea of this part of the country, they think that they are all cannibals. Such is not the case although there are some roughs in some of the remoter parts of the country. A great many have a great horror of the Cow Boys as they are generally termed, but I have never got with a nobler set of men in my life. When this country first began to settle up, after the grashopper terror the inhabitants were nearly all in very menial circumstances and it was hard work for them to get along and procure the comforts of life for themselves and families, and those ranchmen have gone into their herds and killed good fat cattle and brought them down to the settlement and given them to the hardy pioneer. I don't write this from any heresay but from personal observation and what I know to be the truth. We have people here from nearly every state east of the Mississippi River. There are Polanders, Danes, Sweeds, Germans, Scotchmen and Americans too. We live in a good Christian community, have Sabbath schools and day schools. There is hardly any timber here in this part of Nebraska but old mother earth furnishes most of the material for building our houses which are cheaply made of sod. They are very warm and comfortable and I would not exchange my sod cabin here for all the frame buildings in the East. We live seventy-five miles north west from Grand Island in what is known as the Middle Loup Valley. If you will take the United States map and find the state of Nebraska, then look north from Grand Island you will find Loup City, the capitol city of Sherman county, thence north about thirty miles you will find Ord, the capitol city of Valley county, then in line twenty-five miles southwest of Ord you can tell the inhabitants through the columns of your paper that they need not be afraid to come to Nebraska on account of Indians for I have been here six years and have not seen one in all that time.

Since coming here to Nebraska I have broken out one hundred acres of raw prairie although I am a cripple. There is no need of people going without the comforts of life after the first year if they are only a mind to work for they can raise enough to live on if they only have a mind to work. Sometime when I have the leisure I will write another item for your paper. Wishing you and your paper success I will close my present letter subscribing myself yours fraternally,

Thomas J. Johnson.

The Oswego Times correspondent says: Quite a little excitement was occasioned at the funeral of Mr. A. Scott of Hannibal Centre, Saturday, by the movement of the muscles of the corpse. It was thought he was returning to life and consequently the interment was postponed for a short time and an investigation was made by physicians who pronounced the man dead. It was only a movement caused by gases from the body. The coffin was opened at the grave.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Sun printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

The several editions of The Sun are sent by mail postpaid as follows:

DAILY—50 cents a month, $6 a year; with Sunday edition $7.

SUNDAY—Eight pages. This edition furnishes the current news of the world, special articles of exceptional interest to everybody, and literary reviews of new books of the highest merit. $1 a year.

How Watch Cases are Made.

It is a fact not generally known that the James Boss' Gold Watch Cases really contain more pure gold than many "solid" gold cases The demand for these watch cases has led to the manufacture of a very poor grade of solid gold watch cases—low in quality, and deficient in quantity. These cases are made from 4⅜ to 10 karats, and a 5 or 6 karat case is often sold for 12 or 14 karats. It is NOT economy to buy a watch case so poor in quality that it will soon lose its color, or one so soft that it will lose its shape and fail to shut tight, thus letting in dust and damaging the works, or one so thin that a slight blow will break the crystal, and perhaps the movement. It IS economy to buy a James Boss' Gold Watch Case, in which NONE of these things ever occur. This watch case is not an experiment—it has been made nearly thirty years.

HAZLETON, PA., Oct. 24, 1882.

I sold two James Boss' Gold Watch Cases thirty years ago, when they first came out, and they are in good condition yet. One of them is carried by a carpenter, Mr. L. W. Drake, of Hazleton, and only shows the wear in one or two places; the other by Mr. Bowman, of Cunningham, Pa.; and I can produce one or both of these cases at any time.

Fresh Oysters,

[illegible]

[illegible] changeable dress stuffs.

Pale gray tints bid fair to take the place of ecru and cream for evening toilets.

Feather borders and feather fringes appear on dressy silk and satin parasols.

Tucks are not now confined to woolen or wash goods, but are now used on satins, silks and grenadines.

Many new basques are simply pointed waists, fully whaleboned in back and front, to rest upon the full upper draperies.

The poloinase or redingote or simulations of these garments are the popular style of dress for street costumes this season.

Gold braid, gold lace, gold beads, and a variety of yellow flowers, from daffodils and buttercups to dandelions and yellow asters, occupy a large place in bonnet trimmings.

The back widths of new walking skirts are very full and bunchy over the hips, and are worn over a cushion bustle or with flounces of pleated crinoline inside to support them gracefully.

The blending of many colors in the same fabrics give an antique grace to many costumes, and also permits latitude of taste in the selection of the colors of the ribbons and other accessories of the toilet.

Blue promises to come into favor again in such shades as zinc blue, telegraph-blue, peacock, Indienne and marine. It is especially stylish when contrasted with deep, copper browns and dull red shades.

Two kinds of dress draperies are in style this season, first, those with long straight effects suitable for stout figures; second, those festooned in many wrinkled curves that add to the breadth of slight figures.

The draperies of fashionable dresses are now invariably made to form part of what was formerly called "a trimmed skirt," as they are attached to the belt of the lower skirt instead of being a separate over skirt.

One stylish design for dress draperies nearly conceals the lower skirt, and consists of a soft puff falling below the belt in the back, beneath which are two very full broad box pleats that fall to the bottom of the skirt, and indeed form its entire back.

An attempt to introduce high English darts in the front of dress waists has not been successful here, as the small drooping bust made by low corsets and low darts is more becoming to the slight figures of American women.

Gold net, thin tissues and embroidered materials are employed for the soft cap crowns of capotes. Lace in fluted ruffles or velvet shirrings, cover the brim. Fowers in large and fanciful designs, butterflies, fruits and mushrooms are the garniture.

The lower skirts of dresses remain very narrow, measuring only about two and a fourth yards for ladies of medium size. Its shape is not changed, except that it is less sloped at the top, but its greatest fullness is still confined to a very narrow space at the back of the belt.

Scarf drapery, plain turned up cuffs of lace or velvet, and the puff that imitates under sleeves, made either of lace or of silk, are the trimmings most used on dressy sleeves, while for simpler woolens many rows of soutache are put on quite straight around the close wrist, or else to imitate a square cuff.

Slang and Its Consequences.

A dudish young man was talking with a number of old gentlemen when one of them suddenly remarked:

"Garfield is dead!"

"Is that so?" asked another.

"Yes."

"Well, blame me! if that ain't a sad occurence," exclaimed a third.

"Slap my jaws!" cried the dude, and he began laughing immoderately.

The first farmer took him at his word, and gave him a stinging blow.

"What did you do that for?" howled the dude.

"Cause yer tole me to."

"Well, bang my head if I did!' and the farmer banged his head. "Ouch oo! Kick me if you ain't—" the farmer's boot collided with his trousers instantly. "Oh! Shoot me if I—" the farmer drew a pistol and the young man began to howl. "Oh! don't! Slice my ears if I don't—" a knife was instantly wipped out, when he pleaded. "Don't! Don't! Tear my clothes if I stand it," and his clothes began to rip, and he bawled: "Let up! Let up! Cut my hair if—" and the knife got in its work on his curly locks. "Cheese it! Cheese it! there the farmer was stumped. He did not know how to cheese it. "Bust my ear if I don't call—" his ear received a sound punch immediately, and the young man went to grass. He arose and asked the farmer what he meant, when the latter replied:

"I mean ter be 'commodatin' like, an' I'll do anything I kin fur ye whenever ye ax me."

"Well, down me if—"but he was down in short order. As he ran away, he cried:

"Well cuss me if I don't let up on slang if it cramps my racket," and as the farmer swore at him, he bawled: "Chese it! Chese it! I'm going to chop it off right here. I've fired slang through my hash-hopper long enough. I,m rattled if I don't chuck it."—Through Mail.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD. MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

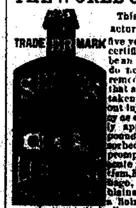
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparalled success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

RELIGIOUS READING.

There is a great dearth of Protestant theologians in Germany. Very few young men choose the church as a profession, and according to a recent account, several country parishes are vacant literally for want of a pastor.

The colored church at London Grove, Chester county, Pa., is in the midst of a warm quarrel with the pastor. As the latter declined to hear numerous requests for his resignation, he was dragged from the pulpit and assaulted by a number of his flock. He has now entered suit against them.

The report recommending an equal representation of ministerial and lay delegates in the General Conference was called up. It was decided that the Bishops should appoint a Commission to inquire into the matter during the next four years, and report to the next General Conference.

How the Scotch people treat their minister is told in the story that St. James'place United Presbyterian church, Edinburgh, at a recent meeting resolved to accept the resignation of their pastor, Dr. Morton, to give him an annual retiring allowance of £150, to present him with £1,000 and to continue payment of the premium on the insurance policy for £1,500, which had been previously effected upon his life by the congregation, for the benefit of his family.

Eminent Testimony.

[N Y Witness, Aug 15, 1880]

"I find that in addition to the pure spirits contained in their composition, they contain the extract of hops and other well known and highly approved medicinal roots, leaves and tinctures in quantity sufficient to render the article what the makers claim it to be, to wit, a medicinal preparation not a beverage —unfit and unsafe to be used except as a medicine.

From a careful analysis of their formula—which was attested under oath—I find that in every wineglassfull of Hop Bitters the active medicinal properties aside from the distilled spirits are equal to a full dose for an adult, which fact is in my opinion, subjects it to an internal revenue tax as a medicinal bitter. Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

SINGLE COPIES THREE CENTS

LOVER'S REWARD.

The year 1860 there lived in the Alamo, Mexico, a miser named Lapuerta, who held the position magistrate of the place. In appearance Senor Lapuerta had no indication of gnawing avarice, but those were so unfortunate as to become debtors soon found that a skinflint's heart throbbed under his rich dress.

Besides two servants there resided with him the orphan child of his dear and, by the instructions of her father's last will, Senorita Toches large estate was to be managed by Senor Lapuerta as long as she should remain unmarried.

Although very wealthy, Senor Lapuerta found it so much to his interest to administer Florentia Toche's income, that she had reached the age of twelve without having mingled with companions of her own age or station. Lapuerta might have presumed to become the life guardian of the estate and owner, had he not easily discovered that day by day Florentia's dislike increased toward him after she emerged from girlhood to womanhood, 'but more especially he dared make no proposal of marriage because he dreaded that his wife, deserted many years before might be alive still. But, despite all of his efforts he suddenly discovered that his ward had captured the hearts of two young men, neither of whom was liable to falter in his suit until Florentia herself should command. These were Senors Monez and Gonzales. The ardor of the former was stimulated by both wealth and beauty; that of the latter wholly by pure and disinterested affection.

Yet Gonzales was poor and an artisan, while Senor Monez was reported rich.

One evening in July, when affairs were as above, two persons in the garb of gentlemen were strolling in a pretty park near the residence of Lapuerta. One—Senor Monez—was a tall, handsome young man, with slender and foppish exterior, yet with eyes as expressive of fierce and strong passions, and of a nature that would not shrink from a crime because of its nature. The other whom he addressed as Senor Ravello, was many years older, short in stature, and extremely slight in frame. He wore a broad brimmed, slouched hat, drawn down far over his face, and his heavy mustache and beard, as well as massy curls, shrouded his features to the eyes and nose.

"You say she fancies this artisan," said Ravello, as they sat down on a rustic bench at the foot of a large tree.

"Fancies!" said Monez, with much bitterness. "She loves him mady."

"Does Lapuerta know this?" asked Ravello, stealing a glance at his companion's burning visage.

"Does the will not say that Lapuerta shall administer the estate while Florentia Toche is unmarried, and is he not sharp enough in watching his golden fleece?"

"He knows it, but the girl is infatuated."

"I wish I had arrived here before the girl uad met Gonzales. But until your letter reached me in Madrid, I was ignorant of Lapuerta's residence here," said Senor Ravello. "But he shall second your suit or be ruined."

His naturally shrill voice grew keen as he spoke, and Monez whispered a warning.

"True, Monez, but there are no listeners here," said Ravello. "But since this Gonzales will not fail, remove him."

"Kill him?" said Monez, starting.

"Or have it done," replied Ravello, unmovedly. "You have done such things before now. I tell you, Monez, our purse does not weigh over heavy, and you must marry Florentia Toche, or a fortune, or back to our old trade of robbing. Gambling does not pay—luck is against us."

"Why do you not use your secret against Senor Lapuerta?" asked Monez.

"Because it might be my ruin, and not his," answered Ravello. "He has money, is a magistrate, and we are almost penniless and outlawed."

The sound of voices from the other side of the tree sealed his lips.

"It is Gonzales and Florentia Toche," whispered Monez. "Look!"

"Hear is a seat, dear Florentia," said one of tge new comers on the other side of the rustic arbor, and unconscious of other hearers beside the one whose hand rested so confidingly on his manly arm. "Your guardian has forbidden me to visit you at your house, and these stolen interviews are all the more pleasant, but ere this week ends we shall have placed it beyond his power to prevent our meeting when and where we please."

"You hear," whispered Ravello to Monez, "they intend to elope."

"But," said Florentia, blushing to the temples, "what if I tell you dear, that wedding me, you will wed one who nothing but her heart to give you."

"heart and herself," exclaimed s, "more value to me, Florentia, the world beside. With health industry—and I have both—any rich, far richer than the shrivel miser. Your guardian may you if he wishes—and you he can—but he cannot cut for you."

"ed you, dear Gonzales," said placing her soft hand in his and honest one. "My guardian's had mine cases with I have sought to be lov and have gained I give you with a [illegible]

Ravello leaned toward the lean and nervous form of the miser as he roamed toward them, and pulled the slouch of his hat almost to his chin.

Senor Lapuerta spied not his ward and her lover, but took no further notice of them than to pause for an instant, flash a look of deadly hate at Gonzales, and then, wheeling quickly upon his heel, hasten homeward.

Senor Lapuerta sat in his private room that night plunged in iniquitous thought and every brain throb beating with murderous resolve.

"Senor Gonzales must die, but how—how?"and his long, lean foot stamped with furious perplexity.

"Senor Monez desires to see you," said a servant entering timidly, for Lapuerto with a violent and abusive master.

"Show him in a fool!" snarled he, and as the servant departed, "Another? I shall have more work. Why not make one slay the other, or encompass the end of each? This Senor Monez, is already rich, they say; but his eye is the eye of a devil, and to win Florentia he will not scruble at any deed."

Senor Monez entered the room, and the quick glance of the miser noticed that his cheek was bruised and swollen.

"You have come to receive my answer to your proposal to marry my ward," said Lapuerta. "I will make short work of it. You will never become her husband while Senor Gonzales lives."

Senor Monez started to his feet. Twice within a few hours the same wicked counsel had been given. His dark and effeminately handsome face grew pale, and he seemed to hesitate. At length he said;

"You who have murdered a woman do not hesitate counsel me to assassinate a man."

Lapuerta sprang to his feet and glared in dismay at the dark and scornful face above him.

"The proofs!" he stammered, when his speech lifted his tongue. It had grown thick and dry in a second.

"Here," said Monez, tapping his breast with a meaning gesture. "And here," he continued producing a pocketbook, the deathbed affidavits of Senora Raquez."

"Your price for the packet!" said the miser.

"First the hand of Florentia Toche, with her consent or by force. Second, well, we'll settle the final terms" said Monez.

"Let me examine the affidauit. Doubtless you have the original elsewhere,and the copy with you," said the cunning Lapuerta.

"To copy and keep the copies would be too dangerous. The original and only affidavit is in my hands. Your agitation only proves its truth, nor shall I give it up until Florentia Toche is my wife. She intends to elope with Senor Gonzoles who struck me this evening. You hinted to me to assassinate him. Now I command you, Senor Lapuerta, to prevent this elopement—use any means—but Florence Toche must call me husband ere Saturday next. Remember the hangman's halter awaits you in my hand."

Senor Lapuerta gazed keenly at the hard and cruel lips that addressed him. He saw nothing save iron resolve.

"Call here to-morrow morning at ten. I will persuade Florentia," said Lapuerta.

"Persuade or force, I care not; but do one or the other. If you seek to deceive me, Senora Raquez shall be avenged,"

"You alone possess the secret, Senor Monez?"

"I alone," lied the villian, for the secret had been imparted to him by Senor Ravello.

"Call at 10," said Senor Lapuerto, and the next moment he was alone and plotting again.

"I have it; it must be done at this hour. They have quarreled. Gonzales blow is on his face. Gonzales cloak and gloves are in the parlor where he forgot them when I ordered him from the house. When Florentia first saw him he was repairing my bookcase and that day left my hatchet there. Here it is, covered with cobwebs. Come—all is now in my hands. Monez must pass through the dark alley near his home. He may. I will await him there."

He threw on Gonzales cloak and drew on his gloves. Grasping the hatchet he hurried to the spot where he hoped his intended victim would pass.

Groping his way slowly, for the night was dark and stormy, Senor Monez entered the alley to shorten the distance to his house. Crouching in his lurking place Lapuerta saw him pass, felt him brush by him, and then his hatchet, aimed by guess, but which was true to its murderous intent, clove the skull and brain of the miserable young man.

To secure the packet, dabble the gloves in the warm blood, and speed away, dropping the cloak as he ran, were the rapid deeds of the murderer.

The next morning found Senor Gonzales in prison under charge of premeditated murder. His cloak, marked with his name, had been found near the body; his gloves, stiff and red with blood, had been found in his bedroom, and his hatchet—bloody, too—in the street. He was arraigned for preliminary examination before Senor Lapuerta, the magistrate. Florentia, pale, beautiful, but confident of her lover's innocence, was summoned as a witness to the quarrel between Gonzales and the murdered man the day before, for Monez, after parting with Ravello, had again met the lovers and stared stared so insultingly at Gonzales that the young man had lost his coolness, and struck him having then the with open palm, upon his face. Senor Ravello, [illegible]

"I must commit the prisoner under a clear and undoubted murder upon the person of Senor Monez."

Then Senor Lavello advanced, and in his shrill, ringing voice, said:

"His true name is not Senor Mones. Register the dead man as Juan Raquez, the son of Senor and Senora Raquez of Madrid."

Senor Lapuerta turned as white as the sheet upon which he had been writing, his lips grew purple, and his eyes, now terribly wide open, stared at the speaker.

"Who says this? Your name, sir?"

Senor Ravello showed his white teeth under his black mustache as he replied:

"Senor' Raquez deserted his wife years ago, when the dead man was an infant. The wife died cursing him. The child fell into the hands of a woman whom Senor Raquez had ill treated; her name was Marie Lopez. Raquez had attempted to murder her—left her for dead and fled to Mexico. She recovered, afterwards got possession of his son; reared him to crime as a scheme for revenge; grew attached to him as he grew to manhood; sought to gain a fortune for him in New York. The tale is ended now, for the youth is dead; but Lapuerta is Senor Raquez and I," he continued, tearing off a false wig and beard, "am Mario Lopez."

"Great God!" said Lapuerta, rising in his chair, "I have slain my own son."

He staggered and fell heavily, living not more than an hour, but long enough to confess his crimes and to exculpate Senor Gonzales.

When the astonished populace sought for Marie Lopez she had disappeared, nor was she ever seen again in Mexico, though Senor Gonzales and his wife Florentia received a letter some months ago from California, and enclosing money with a request that a monumental stone should be placed over the grave of him we have known as Senor Monez. Having loved the father, the wretched Marie Lopez had hated and loved the son.

UNCLE SAM'S STRONG BOX.

Inside The National Treasury Building At Washington.

A Washington correspondent of the Cleveland Leader has written an interesting account of the United States Treasury building. We quote; The government, you know, requires each national bank to deposit $100,000 in United States bonds as security for every $90,000 of circulation issued to them. These bonds of the national banks are kept in the bond vault in the second floor of the treasury facing the building where the attorney-general has his office. The vault is entered by massive doors, and the bonds to the amount of four hundred million dollars are kept in thousands of big envelopes, each blank being separate. These envelopes are arranged on shelves like those of a book case around the walls of the vault from the floor to the coiling. Each envelope has a seperate division or pigeon hole for itself, and many of them contain hundreds of thousands of dollars. The vault is bound with iron and is the size of an ordinary parlor—twenty feet long and fourteen feet wide. Its only light comes from a solitary gas jet in the center, and a black whiskered clerk stands guard over it while you are admitted only with a special card from the treasurer of the United States.

One morning—it was several years ago—one of the national bonds was missing. Great consternation was the result. The whole treasury was in trouble, and a score of employes were brought up and examined. Still there was no clew to the loss; and so it continued up until evening when an old fellow who had been in the department for years came down from his office in the attic with the missing bond in his hand. Though it was known he had handled the bonds in the morning he was of such an honest reputation that no one had suspected him of stealing it. He was a very methodical old fellow and was accustomed to take off his boots as soon as he came into the office in the morning, set them beside his desk and put on his slippers. This morning he had looked over the package of bonds in which the missing one was, and had left it on the corner of his desk, not noticing that one of them had fallen off into his boot. Another office having to deal with the bonds, they were gathered up hurriedly and the mistake was not discovered until they had passed through several hands. The old man was in consternation, but he protested he knew nothing of the loss, and the result was the treasury was wild for a day. When he went to put on his boots he discovered the bond and returned it.

On the floor below the bond vault is the redemption bureau of the treasury. It is shut off from the main hall by iron grated doors which are always locked. The people within, fair girls and withered men, move about noiselessly and mysteriously with big bunches of greenbacks in their hands, and now and then the great vault in the center is opened for the storage of more silver. Only a written permit from the treasurer will admit a stranger to this place where millions are daily handled and where fortunes are cut to pieces with one stroke of a great knife.

The great iron vault of silver is an iron room, twelve feet wide and eighteen feet long. Its walls are a foot thick, and it now holds ninety tons of silver dollars. [illegible] divided into two parts by these great vaults at the center, all the greenbacks of the country are redeemed. Behind office desks several score of women, many of them good-looking sit counting package after package, day by day year in and year out. Their wages average seventy-five dollars a month, yet each in that time handles hundreds upon hundreds of thousands. At one side of each one, on the table, lie great piles of greenbacks, done up into packages as they come from the banks. A strip of paper is around each one hundred bills, stating where they came from and who counted them in the country. The young lady takes this off and counts the bills, moistening her dainty fingers with a wet sponge in a glass on the table. If it is not right she reports so to the chief, and the bank stands the loss. If, however, she makes a mistake or passes a counterfeit she must make the mistake good. These girls become the most expert of detectives, and they can tell a bad note by feeling it. They seldom make mistakes, and the national banks average a hundred errors to their one.

Some years ago one young lady when counting had been throwing the straps in which the packages were tied on the floor beside her after verifying the count. While she was counting a package she would lay the strap marked with the name of the bank who sent it, beside her on the table. The packages were all of one hundred dollar notes. At last she came to one that contained only ninety-nine notes, and looking for the strap was terrified to find that it had fallen among the others. She thought she knew the name of the bank but could not prove it. The bank on being notified, refused to acknowledge the mistake, and she was compelled to pay the one hundred dollars.

The most careful system of counting is here employed. After these girls count a package of notes they wrap them up in a wrapper and put duplicate statements on the top and bottom of this. The package is then taken and two holes are punched in it with a great steam punch, destroying its value. Then it is put under a big knife for all the world like a meat-ax. This knife works by a lever, and it cuts the package of notes in halves lengthwise, leaving one of the memorandums of contents on each half. These halves are then counted, one goes to the secretary of the treasury, and the other to the register. If they are wrong the girl loses. if right nothing is said, and thus cut notes are packed into a great machine, tightly sealed, which grinds them to pulp. This machine has a series of knives running through one another. It looks like two mamoth washbowls, ten feet in diameter, turned face to face, and it grinds millions in a day. A million dollars ground up makes a mush of dirty grey color, in great demand at the paper mills. After grinding, it is dried into boards and sent off to these places. Some of it is made into little images and paper weights which are sold at the capital as mementoes. I understand there are now in the market images made of other paper sold in Washington—paper which never saw the government money vaults, and which is made of old rags.

In this counting of greenbacks the counters sometimes contract diseases from infected money. Only a few months ago a lot of money came in which had been taken from a corpse after it had been buried some weeks. The result was, that every one who handled the money became sick. The arsenic used in printing the notes has sometimes the same effect, but this has been exaggerated.

The bureau of redemption returns full value for all mutilated notes three-fifths of which remain, one-half value for notes of which three-fifths and one-half can be shown, and rejects all of less than one-half. If all of the note be destroyed except a corner or small piece of it, and the sender affixes his affidavite and swears to the fact that this is all that remains the full amount of the note is paid him. Such cases come in daily and are allowed. The benefit of all the doubt is always given to the people. All kinds of notes are redeemed. Some charred and burnt, as in the Chicago fire; some which have gone through the careless man's pocket, and others which have been chewed to a pulp by some dog or calf. The fractional currency comes in very slowly, and there is still $15,000,000 of it outstanding.

THE Republican Convention at Chicago nominated for the Presidency James G. Blaine, of Maine, and for the Vice-Presidency John A. Logan of Illinois.

SEVERAL weeks ago "whole trains full of emigrants from Silesia and Posen," says a local paper, were passing through Berlin intending to sail from Hamburg and Bremen for America, Texas and California being their ultimate destination.

THE Utica Herald says that James G. Blaine is nearer to the hearts of the people of this country than any other living American. The National convention has given them the man they want they will take good care that James G. Blaine is the next president of the United States.

THE Democratic party must choose well their platform. They must advocate the question of revenue reform. They must also nominate a man that will carry New York state. They have a number of excellent men to choose from and if they do not make a blunder as they generally do, victory awaits them in November next.

THE state superintendent of public instruction has ordered that examinations of applicants for state certificates be held at the high school buildings in Albany, Rochester and Watertown, in the rooms of the board of education, corner Grand and Elm streets, New York city, and in the grammar school building, corner of Washington and Hawley streets, Binghampton, beginning July 1, at 2 o'clock.

THE Buffalo Evening Telefram is one of the best papers in Western New York. The Telegram gave the first news of the recent bank panic, issuing six or seven editions daily. During last week's Chicago convention it had two representatives there and a special wire and an operator on the platform. It is always first to announce any important news to the public. It also has two columns of well selected state news.

THE New York Times will not support James G. Blaine. The TIMES will take the position of a friend and physician in the coming canvass. It says: There will be nothing ambigbiguous about the defeat of Mr Blaine. He who runs may clearly read the verdict in advance. A candidate unworthy of confidence and a party to careless of its own honor to be longer trusted with the nations."

He was arrested there while at work in a hop field. A reward of $100 is offered for his capture.

The railroad commission has rendered its second decision in the case of Sandy Creek vs. the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railroad, as follows: On April 21st. this board rendered a decision herein and with its transmission to the road sent a notice under section 6 of chapter 253 of the laws of 1882, that a further hearing would be given the road if desired. Such further hearing was asked and has been given. While conceding the general legal principles to be as stated by the board, the road urges that the board made a mistake in holding either as a matter of fact or law, that the old route abandoned and the new route adopted constituted an abandonment or change of route within the statute fairly construed. After duly considering the arguments presentel, the board fails to see any reasons for a modification of its decision. The same therefore affirmed without change or modification.

Special Strawberry Train.

During the season of the strawberry trade the D. L. & W. Express Company are to run a special train leaving Oswego at 11:40 a. m.. and Fulton at noon reaching New York at 1 o'clock and Philadelphia at 1:30 the next morning. It is the intention of the company to use the double deck car, with springs, so that the fruit will receive the least possible jar and arrive in the market in the best condition, a consideration that is of great importance to the shipper when it is remembered that the condition of the berry adds or detracts enough from its price to pay the expense of transportation. The time at which the fruit will arrive is the most desirable hour. The rate to Philadelphia and New York will be 75 cents per crate and return empty crates free. The large experience the Company has had in handling strawberries ought and will no doubt be of much benefit to shippers and enable them to secure better prices as well as putting their fruit into market in a superior condition.

Now [illegible] typical [illegible] and [illegible] might have been seen in [illegible] of her dwelling apparently in a condition of complete exhaustion. Her efforts to meet the [illegible] of her household had been [illegible] unsuccessful, while the care of a sick child, whose wails could even then be heard, was added to her otherwise overwhelming troubles. Nature had done much for her and in her [illegible] days she had been not only [illegible] but the possessor of health such as is seldom seen. But home and family duties and the depressing cares which too often accompany them had proven greater than her splendid strength and she felt at that moment not only that life was a burden but that death would be a grand relief. This no unusual experience. It is, in fact, a most common everyday occurence, and a great prayer is constantly ascending from thousands of homes for deliverence from the deadly power which is enslaving so many wives mothers and daughters. And yet these duties of life must be met. No woman can afford to turn aside from the proper care of her home and the ones who are committed to her care, although in doing these duties she may sacrifice her health, and possibly life itself. The experience of one who successfully overcame such trials and yet retained health and all the blessings it brings is thus told by Rev. William Watson, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church, residing at Watertown, N. Y. He said:

"My wife became completely run down through over work and care of a sick member of our household, and I entertained serious apprehensions as to her future. She was languid, pale, utterly exhausted, without appetite, and in a complete state of physical decline. And yet she did not, could not neglect her duties. I have seen her about the house, trying courageously to care for the ones she loved when I could tell, from the lines upon her face how much she was suffering. At times she would rally for a day or two and then fall back into the state of nervous exhaustion she felt before. Her head pained her frequently, her body was becoming bowed by pain and all hope or enjoyment in life seemed departed. What to do we could not tell. I resolved, however, to bring back her life and vitality if possible and to this end began to treat her myself. To my great relief her system has been toned up, her strength restored, her health completely recovered and wholly by the use of Warner's Tippecanoe, which I regard as the greatest tonic, invigorator and stomach remedy that has ever been discovered. I was led to use it the more readily as I had tested the health-restoring properties of Warner's Safe Cure in my own person and I therefore knew that any remedy Mr. Warner might produce would be a valuable one. I have since recommended both Warner's Tippecanoe and Warner's Safe Cure to many of my friends and I know several Doctors of Divinity as well as numerous laymen who are using both with great benefit."

If all the overworked and duty driven women in America could know of the experience above described, and act upon the same, there can be little doubt that much pain, and most of the depressing influences of life might be avoided. Such truths are too valuable to remain unknown.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

Utica, N. Y., June 9, 1884.

Inquiry among factorymen to-day showed that the flush of milk with the majority of the factories has already passed and cows are begining to shrink. Until this afternoon, there has been no rain in this section since the frost, over two weeks ago, and not as much cheese is now made from the same amount of milk as there was before the frost. Cows are still coming in in some localities, but they do not increase the amount of milk.

Buyers are finding fault with the boxing of cheese. In a number of cases cheese has been put into boxes that are too small for it so that it stands up above the edge of the box. It is claimed that this will injure a cheese for shipping at least two cents a pound. Makers should be careful to guard against this.

Factorymen assert that in two weeks' time the heaviest receipts of the season will be on the market, and after that there will be a gradual shrinkage. The season was so early that the heaviest part of the make came in May and early June, thus flooding the market before the trade was ready to take care of it. Later on they believe that receipts are going to decrease perceptibly, and they hope for a corresponding improvement of prices.

Transactions of to day are as follows; Five lots 550 boxes, at 9⅛c; 96 lots, 8,582 boxes, at 9¼c; 14 lots, 857 boxes, at 9⅜c; 8 lots, 1,071 boxes, at 9½c; 120 at 9⅝c; 165 at 9 13 16c; 3 lots 210 boxes, p. t. Sales 11,473 boxes; commissions, 2,062; total, 13,535 boxes. Ruling price 9¼c. This compares with 12,749 boxes one year ago, ruling 10½c, and with 8,593 boxes two year ago, ruling 11c. Sales to-day were all grass cheese.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

Little Falls, June 9, 1884.

CHEESE.—Dairy men are begining to ask if there is to be any stop to the decline in price of cheese. To-day shows a further drop on the average, of about one cent below last week's figures. As cheese is continually improving in quality, so great a decline each succeeding week is some what surprising, and perhaps to some disheartening. But buyers plead losses in their dealings and to-day set right back, and except in a few cases could not be moved from their figures named early in the day. Factorymen are wisely selling close to the hoop, but the extreme hot weather causes them to be careful about sending forward any stock not sufficiently cured. Feed in pastures continues good, but factorymen deny the statement that more cheese is being made in the dairy districts of this state than was produced last year, and say it is certainly is not the case in this section. Buyers were of different minds as to prices that could safely be paid to-day. Following are the transactions:

[illegible] Republican Club.

From the time the convention was called until the vice-president was nominated the bulletin boards in front of the Western Union Telegraph office in this village, were eagerly scanned as soon as the dispatches were posted. Not much concern was felt by the Arthur men on the first ballot, but when the second and third ballots were reached their faces assumed a sober expression and there was a far off look in their eye. The third ballot caused intense excitement and at this point a number of young Republicans were so confident that Blaine would secure the nomination on the next ballot that they painted the words "Blaine and—" on a flag and at the announcement of the final ballot it shot forth from the window of Mead & Strannahan's law office. Soon other banners were flung out to the breeze. It was then decided among the Republicans to raise a certain sum of money to defray the expenses of a celebration which took place in the evening. About 8:30 a cannon was stationed near the canal bridges and boomed for some time in honor of the result. Roman candles and sky rockets were fired off momentarily. The band came forth voluntarily and did much to make the celebration a success, Two large bonfires loomed up First and when the name of Logan for vice-president was received enthusiasm was again aroused and more fuel was added to the fires.

The balloting was a surprise to every one here. Of course Blaine men were jubilent over his nomination, but there was a murmer of dissatisfaction among a few of our prominent Republicans for a time. But they soon saw their mistake and immediately went over to the support of Blaine. It was generally expected here as in many other places that a "dark horse" would recive the nomination. There is probably not a Republican in Fulton who will not vote for the "Plumed Knigut" whether he be their choice or not.

REPUBLICAN MEETING.

The young Republicans of the towns of Volney and Granby held a meeting last Monday night in the law office of Mead & Stranahan for the purpose of organizing a Blaine & Logan club. Those present displayed an earnestness of purpose only seen in a gathering of this kind.

The meeting was called to order by S. B. Mead. Arvin Rice was elected chairman, and N. N. Stranahan, Secretary. Mr. Mead then stated the object of the meeting.

It was moved and seconded that the secretary enroll the following names: H B Rose, J F Herrick, J W Youngs, Fred Bennett, F E Goodjon, F C Mosher, Silas A Buel, F A Lampson, W P Hillick, Jeff Bailey, S F Case, H L Lake, N H Gilbert, J H Case, S B Mead, James Carr, Wm Ellis, G V Emmens, F A Gage C R Willard E P Cole, W J Watson, F A Emrick, T D Lewis, Frank Willard, W V Poole, A Bristol, Arvin Rice, N N Stranahan, G S Dada, H E Nichols, Slater Laycock, Joseph Sheridan, Ed Waugh, E M Derusha, Henry A Harris, Newell Cole.

H. E. Nichols was then elected president of the club. N. H. Gilbert and F. A. Gage was appointed a committee to escort the president to the chair. Mr. Nichols thanked the meeting for the honor conferred and made a pretty little speech. G. V. Emens was elected 1st Vice-President, S. B. Mead. 2d. Vice-President; Frank Willard, Secretary; Jeff Bailey, Treasurer; S. B. Mead, Capt. of the club; N. H. Gilbert, 1st. Lieutenant, J. H. Case 2d. Lieutenant, James Herrick 3d. Lieutenant.

Arvin Rice, Slater Laycock and F. A. Gage were appointed an executive committee.

The President and Secretary were instructed to act with the finance committee.

S. B. Mead, J. H. Case and Arvin Rice were appointed a committee to draft resolutions and by-laws and report at the next meeting of the club.

The executive committee were instructed to procure a place for drill, and also that they correspond with makers of uniforms and report at next meeting. Adjourned until Thursday next at the same time and place.

They Did Pay.

The Patriot of last week in chronicling the Memorial day exercises says: "At 1;30 p. m. Post Schenck G. A. R. and the Sons of Veterans filed out of their rooms and promptly forming marched to the Opera House, the use of which in accordance with custom in other towns had been generously donated to the Post."

The Patriot was mistaken in regard to the free use of the Opera House. A subscription was taken up by a member of the Post previous to Memorial day and a certain sum was paid for the use thereof for which this member has now in his possession a receipt.

A Grand Excursion.

A grand excursion picnic of the employes of Conde's Knitting Mill to Fulton will be given Friday, June 27. The excursionists will picnic at Oswego Falls fair ground. [illegible]

Chicago, June [illegible], 1884.

All day yesterday and [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] politicians who remained in the city, were busy discussing how it was done. After a close watch during the sitting of every session of the convention it is not a difficult matter to determine why the "Plumed Knight" of Maine was put in nomination by a majority of the delegates to the Republican Convention. In fact Blaine's nomination was secured by the strength of popular call and perfection of organization. At the opening of this convention a leading eastern journalist remarked "Blaine has twice the chance of success that he ever had before, he has always had behind him the voice of the people, but with that he barely failed in 1876 and 1880. This time he has the popular call, re-enforced by the political organization and many of the leading newspaper family against him, if he cannot win with those he never can win." One of the men who help organize the Grant Campaign of 1880 and founded the guard of 306 was a leading spirit here last week. Thomas C. Platt of New York, familiarly known as "me too" very many other able men and farseeing politicians assisted him. While on the other hand there was literally no leader for the Arthur forces, they lacked leadership and a knowledge when to combine with the Edmunds and Sherman votes. The Edmunds men under the lead of George William Curtis miscalculated from the the beginning and were so determined to kill off Artnur simultanously with the killing of Blaine that they frittered away even their own strength and cut a sorry figure in the convention. They had so impressed the Southern delegates with this dislike of President Arthur; even before balloting began, that the first vote conceded him by almost every body of 360, was reduced by small defectations from many states to 278. While Blaine was increased from 325 allowed him to 334. Had Edmunds men as a body came to him at this stage, the second ballot would not have shown the increase of 15 for Blaine, and the third would have been nearer a tie, but there was no yielding of the opinionated reformers, their motto was evidently "Rule or Ruin" The real friends of Arthur behaved splendidly and have won for themselves and for their great leader Chester A. Arthur imperishable renown. Their manly course throughout the entire convention and the hearty manner they responded to the inevetable together with a quick response from the President that he would do all in his power for the election of Blaine has placed him and them on a high plane and never was the administration more popular than during and since the convention. But there had gathered a great body of the friends of James G. Blaine. They tried hard for their loved leader in '76 and were bitterly disappointed again in 1880. They came up to Chicago and were out genereled by the brilliant manovering of New York. This time such changes had occurred in New York and Pennsylvania and other states they felt certain of their man, and they called to their aid an army of five to eight thousand strong lunged men who shouted themselves hoarse every time his name was mentioned or the least possible reference was made to him, the audience seemed determined to have Blaine the atmosphere was full of him, it settled down over the delegates and the south who so much wished to go with the tide, or keep with the powers that be, saw which way the current was sitting and divided a number of delegations, always going to Blaine with Logan for second place. No convention has ever been more tumultuous or determined to win. It took fewer ballots than others had for the heat was intense it melted the delegates as the fire passed over, in the same manner the massive iron and marble blocks fused during the great Chicago fire. In this city and throughout the west and south the ticket will enthuse a feeling of patriotism and of old time enthusiasm and when the flames shall here become fully lighted they will be driven eastward over the land and carry every thing before it.

A good many of the friends of Prisident Arthur will be dissatisfied. His unequal management during the last two years have made it seem best to try it still longer, but his friends must bow to the united wisdom of the great majority. It is now certain at least that the sober, average conclusive opinion of the Republican party is not only that Mr. Blaine is the most fit and deserving man, all things considered, who could be put into the field but that he can and will be elected. It is the verdict of the best thought and feeling, asperation and conscience of the American people. H. N. G.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of The Sun have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Sun printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In 1875, thirteen men comprised the entire working force used in the manufacture of the James Boss' Gold Watch Case. Now over five hundred are employed, and the number is constantly increasing. The reason of this increase is this: In the James Boss' Gold Watch Case all the metal in sight and subject to wear is solid gold, while the remainder, which only lends strength to the case, is of stronger metal than gold, giving gold where gold is needed, and strong, elastic metal where strength and elasticity are needed, a combination producing a watch case better than solid gold and at ONE-HALF the cost.

Over 200,000 of these cases have been sold, and every jeweler in the country can testify to their quality and merit.

LUDINGTON, MICH., Dec. 8, 1882.

E. W. Marsh, of the Democrat, bought a Jas. Boss' Gold Watch case 18 years ago, and carried it until a short time ago, when I purchased it, and sold it to a customer. The case showed no signs of wear, except that naturally to any case, and I am satisfied can be safely guaranteed for at least ten years more. I have sold the James Boss' Gold Watch Case for many years, and the parties who bought the first ones are carrying them today. [illegible]

Singing birds on every tree;
Grain a-growing in the meadows
Just as green as green can be.

Violets in shady places,—
Sweetest flowers were ever seen!—
Hosts of starry dandelions,—
"Drops of gold among the green!"

Pale arbutus, fairy wind-flowers,
Innocent as smiling flocks;
Coolest ferns with the hollows,
Columbines among the rocks;

Dripping streams, delicious mosses,
Tassels on the maple-trees;
Drowsy insects, humming, humming;
Golden butterflies, and bees;

Daffodils in golden borders,
Fiery tulips dashed with dew;
Crocus-flowers and, through the greenness,
Snow drops looking out at you.

FASHION NOTES.

The polonaise is the favorite garment for midsummer utility suits.

Heavy mohairs and alpacas are most fashionable for traveling dresses.

Rough goods are verp popular for seaside, mountain and traveling wear.

Combinations of pale grey blue and dark navy blue make stylish seaside suits.

Turbans of large English shapes with velvet trimmings are worn by young ladies.

Percales collars, of dark porcelain blue shades, with small figures, are much worn.

The lap standing bands of linen are still used as collars, also those that meet without lapping.

For long journeys through varied temperatures a wool dress unmixed with silk or linen, should be worn.

The flat cravat like those worn by men are now of very light silk or satin, with a pretty scarf pin stuck in them.

The neck is dressed severly at present with street and travelling dresses, and for morning dresses in the house also.

Small bonnets and round hats of compact shape are chosen to match the dress or the long wrap used for traveling.

Instead of strings to bonnets, a bow of velvet under the chin is attached to the strap or band that does duty for strings.

A dog collar of black or dark velvet tied in a small bow on the left side is worn by young ladies with a standing linen collar.

Plush covered handles are used for parasols, and are shown in light blue, red, or brown plush to match the satin of the cover.

A fresh novelty in Jerseys is that of Jersey silk beaded in liner or stripes, and made up with all the seams that are in ordinary basques.

House dresses for country wear are made of linen lawn, printed and white cotton lawn, batiste, white and printed and zephyrs and ginghams.

Clear gray mohair with black velvet bands is the most stylish choice for a spring suit for traveling, walking, and for any use that the taylor suits have hither to been put to.

Stripes, checks, cross-bars, and dull plaids are the designs of the English rough cloths most used for traveling cloaks, and there are also mixtures of many-colored threads without any special design.

A new cravat worn with English costumes is of checked ribbon two inches wide, fashioned into a narrow standing collar by being doubled over a stiff lining, and closed in front by a pretty bow of three loops and three ends.

The most popular round hats have high crowns that may be either square or tapering, with a narrow brim curled alike on each side, and much narrower behind, or else it may be slightly widened on one side, and rolled up to show the velvet faceing.

Imported parasols are made upon almost flat frames somewbat in Japanese shape, but are of black thread put on in two soft puffs passes around the center stick, which holds a boquet of flowers, and the lining is also puffed in three or four smaller puffs, and is made of popy red, old gold, or salmon tinted surah,

Gray hairs often cause annoyance, which Parker's Hair Balsam prevents by restoring the youthful color.

A horse is constantly urged when ridden by an Irishman, because he always has a Pat on his back.—[Yonkers Gazette.

RELIGIOUS READING.

One-half of the Presbyterian churches contributed nothing last year to the support of disabled ministers and impoverished ministerial families.

The Methodist Protestant church in this country has 1,409 itinerant preachers, 977 local preachers, 135,811 members, and 83,232 scholars in the Sunday schools.

Since the Women's Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian church were established, fourteen years ago, they have contributed to the cause $1,707,484.70. The receipts for the past year amounted to $203,754.74.

Among the 150 Roman Catholics who have united with the Presbyterian church in Valparaiso, South America, one-third have said that the turning point in their religious experience took place while witnessing the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

Mr. A. W. Miner, a generous Baptist layman, has proposed to the Grand Army Post of Friendship, N. Y., to erect at his own expense a soldiers' monument costing $5,000 in that pleasant village. The offer has been accepted, and a committe appointed to carry it into effect.

The demand of the Virginia Methodist Episcopal Conference for compensation for several churches destroyed in the early part of the late war has been reported upon favorably by the Committee on Claims of the United States Senate. [illegible]

"The art of medicine did not fail. Only the doctors failed. I stumbled over a proprietary medicine manufactured at Rondout, N.Y., called Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. The package was small, it cost only one dollar a bottle—not that I thought of that though. I was hopeless of help, it could not hurt, and I bought and tried it. When the third bottle was empty my appetite and flesh began to return, and the pain and inflammation was gone, and have not come back. ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhœa; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle, Sold by dealers.

Tarred paper wrapping injured and killed young trees in western orchard.

Let your horse stand loose, if possible, without being tied up to the manger. Pain and weariness from a continued position induce bad habits and cause swollen feet and other disorders.

Do not, in feeding calves, change too sudden from one food to another; and give no more than is readily eaten. Calves, like all other young animals, need frequent, rather than large, feeds.

It is settled for awhile, perhaps, that the common striped bugs of our cucumber and melon patches are the winged form of the squash borer—that is, the grubs which infest the roots of so many squash plants and kill them just as they are beginning to run.

People who have plum trees will do well to get their curculio traps in order. Sheets upon frames to jar the insects upon are used by orchardists, but coops of lively chickens will help pick the vermin on the hard trodden ground of the back yard. June is the month for action.

Have you whitewashed your poultry quarters. If not do so at once. A day's work now may save two in July, and secure your flocks from the evils of coop lice, which may save you several hens and many chickens and a large number of eggs. Clean quarters is the prime factor in egg production.

If there is anything neglected about the average farm, it is sure to be the garden. The head of the farm doesn't like the idea of putting men at work there when the weather is suitable for the more extensive operations of the farm. Part of a rainy day may be devoted to the planting of a few hills of sweet corn or a variety of common vegetables. The cultivation of even these is left almost entirely with the "women-folks," who may possibly able, occasionaily, to get a day's work out of the boys. It will pay for the farmer himself to work in the garden occasionally and to see that it is well taken care of throughout the season.

Boats, Bicycles and Hay Fever.

With the opening of the season of outdoor sports comes the time of trouble for the poor victims of Hay Fever. For them flowers have no odor, and the summer little or no beauty. To snuff, sneeze and wipe their weeping eyes for three or four successive months:—this is their pitiable portion. There is no help in sea voyages, there is no help in high mountain air. These only lighten the pocket and leave the disease unabated. But there is a positive cure in Ely's Cream Balm. Try it. If you continue to suffer it is because you neglect a remedy as it is cheap and pleasant.

No girl in Norway is allowed to have a beau until she can bake bread. Over there when a fellow gets married he don't often find that his cake is dough. —The Hoosier.

Eminent Testimony.

[N Y Witness, Aug 15, 1880]

"I find that in addition to the pure spirits contained in their composition, they contain the extract of hops and other well known and highly approved medicinal roots, leaves and tinctures in quantity sufficient to render the article what the makers claim it to be, to wit, a medicinal preparation not a beverage —unfit and unsafe to be used except as a medicine.

From a careful analysis of their formula—which was attested under oath—I find that in every wineglassful of Hop Bitters the active medicinal properties aside from the distilled spirits are equal to a full dose for an adult, which fact is in my opinion, subjects it to an internal revenue tax as a medicinal bitter. Hardened Liver.

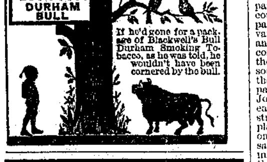
Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism. Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave.

J. W. MOREY, Buffalo, Oct. 1, 81.

Poverty and Suffering.

"I was dragged down with debt poverty and suffering for years, caused by a sick family and large bills for doctoring. I was completely discouraged, until one year ago, by the advice of my pastor, I commenced using Hop Bitters, and in one month we were all well, and none of us have seen a sick day since, and I want to say to all poor men you can keep your family well a year with Hop Bitters for less than a doctor's visit will cost, I know it." A WORKINGMAN.

Durham is historic. It was neutral ground during the armistice between Sherman and Johnson. Soldiers of both armies filled their pouches with the tobacco stored there, and, after the surrender, marched homeward. Soon orders came from East, West, North and South, for "more of that elegant tobacco." Then, ten men ran an unknown factory. Now it employs 900 men, uses the pink and pick of the Golden Belt, and the Durham Bull is the trade-mark of this, the best tobacco in the world. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco has the largest sale of any smoking tobacco in the world. Why? Simply because it is the best. All dealers have it. Trade-mark of the Bull.



If he'd gone for a package of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco, as he was told, he wouldn't have been cornered by the bull.

AN AMERICAN HEIRESS.

Lady Francis Trimston was charming. e was also clever, wonderfully well served, had a natural complexion, a derate joinure, a good milliner, was widow and had only one—a son.

he had experienced little care or sor-, for her husband was an old man en she married him and he was gathd to his fathers before he became ry disagreeable. He was the younger n of a duke, and moderately well .

Lady Francis' life—or at least, her idowed life—had been strewn with es and although she could have setd down comfortably again, she preerred to retain, as she said, her freem.

"It is so nice to marry an old man; u are a widow quite young, you ow," she murmered to her dear end, Clare Melton.

"I suppose it is, dear," sighed Clare, ose husband was a young scamp.

Few of us are perfectly content with r lot, and Lady Francis had a grievce that marred sadly her happy buty existance. Do what she could, r son Jack would not marry.

"Dear Jack is so poor and so extravant, I wonder what will be his end ?" e sighed.

"He will marry a rich girl, of urse," said Clare.

"s his duty to do so, as I tell him, t he only laughs at me," sighed Lady rancis.

"Where is he now ?"

"Shooting Indians or Buffaloes, or me other wild animals in America."

"When do you expect him back ?"

"I am sure I don't know—in a month two, perhaps."

Jack Timson had been out West, ting Buffaloes, shooting prairie ickens, racing Mexican mustangs and ying "poker" with the miners. He d had a pleasant time of it, for he ed America and Americans, and he s sorry to have to return so soon to gland.

But life in America is so expensive, d Jack who had extravagant tastes a knack of getting through money, spent in two months the sum he culated would have lasted him four. was in the middle of the Atlantic, board an Inman Liner when his ther told her friend that he was ting Indians and buffaloes. The engers on board weer chiefly Amerns who were going to Europe on a ure trip There were one or two y girls among them, and Jack, who a dangerous lady's man, commence hot flirtation with one of them re he had been two days at sea.

ttie C. Brown was a nice girl, and a pair of soft, brown eyes that al did great execution—when they ed fire—and they did now upon . The Brown party consisted of ee, for, besides Kittie C. Brown, was Mary L. Brown—a fine, hon American girl, with no pretense to uty, but with a look of strength and racter about her homely face—and uel Washington Brown, who had e money in 'Frisco in the good old s of gold mining in and wild specu. He invested a part of it in a er mine in Nevada, which turned out antic success, and Samuel was worth his good $5,000,000.

ck Timason was pretty deep in the cies of a hard flirtation with C. Brown before he heard who was. It was his friend General who enlightened him.

[illegible]

"Any girl would fall in love with him, my dear," she said, complacently to her bosom friend, Clare Melton.

"He can be very nice when he likes,' murmered Clare.

Jack, who wanted money badly, was very nice just now to his mother. He described to her his experiences of Americam girls, and Lady Francis was deeply interested in everything relating to her sex.

"They are really pretty, and not at all bad style, but their accent is abominable," she sighed.

"You get used to it after a time," said Jack. "I know such a nice Amergirl, who will be in London next week."

"What is she like, dear?"

"She is pretty enough—good eyes, good figure, good carriage, good feet, clever, a dangerous flirt, she will have half a million of money."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed Lady Francis, springing to her feet intensely excited. "Half a million of money ! Oh, Jack, what are you about ?"

"Why, what is the matter, mother? You are quite excited."

"Oh, dear, dear Jack, do be sensible, said his mother caressingly. "You know you are very poor, and are always in difficulties. It cannot go on. You must feel this yourself. Now tell me all about this American girl and her family."

"There are two sisters—Kitie and Mary; no mother. The father is worth at least a million and is not a hard sort of a fellow."

"Of course I must call on them. When do they come over?"

"In a few days, I believe. I said you would look them up, and I think you will like Katie; she is great fun."

"And you, Jack, have you any chance, do you think—I mean——"

"Chance? I think I have," said Jack, interrupting. "Chance, indeed! Why I have to keep the girls away from me at the point of my stick."

Now, Jack, dear, do be serious. I am so interested in all this. Are you sure about the money ?"

"I believe it is all right."

"And, dear, would you really marry her?"

"If it is a case of coming 'a cropper or marrying her, I shall select the latter," said Jack.

Lady Francis was in a flutter of excitement during the ensuing week. "Fancy, dear! a nice girl with five hundred thousand pounds," she remarked to Clare Melton.

"American girls are quite the rage now ; the men are all wild after them," said Clare.

Lady Francis face assumed a serious expression.

"We must take care that dear Jack has pleatny of opportunities. It will be shocking if all the men run after her,' she answered, gravely.

"The best thing that you can do is to give out that Jack is engaged," said Clare.

"You can do that for me, dear."

"Of course, but you will have to entertain and make much of them—Americans are mad after society and our set."

"It will be very expensive, but I suppose there is nothing else to be done," sighed Lady Francis.

The Browns arrived at London and put up at the Langham Hotel. Lady Francis called on them immediately after their arrival. She was delighted with Katie, and told her friend Clare that, with the exception of the American accent, "she was just as good style as any one else." "They are so quaint and original, my dear. Fancy, they call their father 'Uncle Sam.'"

"They will soon settle down to our ways. Look at Lady Wilton; who would imagine that she was an American?" said Clare, soothingly.

"That's true, dear. I assure you Katie will create quite a sensation. She is really very pretty and graceful, and full of vivacity."

"If she be so nice, Jack will have to be careful, and you had better not introduce her to any one until all is arranged."

"So I told him, but he won't listen to me. He says he must give a dinner to them next Thursday, get all our set to call, and give a ball next week."

"I don,t think it wise," said Clare Melton, seriously.

"Perhaps not dear ; but what can I do? Jack is so obsinate, and I positively believe he is serious at last."

Lady Francis had half a dozen of her relatives to meet the Browns. The dinner was. of course, perfection, and the guests well chosen—two lords and a duke with their respective wives—and as there were no young men Jack had Katie all to himself. Samuel W. Brown did not appear at all abashed in the presence of the old nobility. He was a shrewd man, who had studied human nature and had seen many phases of life, and his anecdotes of America were most interesting. He described graphically his experiences of California life in the old days of gold mining and wild speculation, and his his noble listeners, who had never met a character like Samuel, were deeply interested in his narratives.

Next day, when Lady Francis was talking over the dinner with her old friend she said ;

"Oh, I am so nervous and excited about it all. Fancy! the Dutchess praised her most warmly!"

"Her position then will be assured," added Clare decisively.

"And Lord Oldin wants to get the elder sister for his son," continued Lady Francis.

"It will be such a nice connection."

"But when is Jack going to propose?"

"I'm don't know. Perhaps at the dance dear, it was all arranged, for it will be more expensive it lasts long, and I really can [illegible]

[illegible] for Jack got [illegible] ond son, had a pleasant time of it, "running the heiresses," as Jack expressed it, at her expense.

The ball was a great success, and Katie C. Brown created quite a sensation. Jack was most attentive to her, and she actually danced six times with him. He allowed, however, the opportunityto press without proprosing to her much to Lady Francis' indignation.

Jack and the Browns once more relapsed into the same pleasant Bohemian life. One day they went to Windsor, the next to Hampton Court or Sandown Races and so on. Lady Francis was nervous and shocked, for Samuel Washington Brown allowed the girls to do exactly as they liked, and seldom accompanied them.

"I calculate young people like being left to themselves. You and I did long ago Lady Francis," he used to say.

"Yes, but it is not our custom," she protested.

"I don't believe English girls are half as wicked as you think. Why don't you trust them a little more?" he asked.

She did not exactly know what answer to make, so she muttered something incoherently about society.

"All artificial, Lady Francis, all humbug. It is a great pity it is so. Society spoils you all. Do you know that Duke of yours would make a good fellow if he were not a Duke, and Lord Oldin has his head as well screwed on as any man in the States? You, too, are a clever woman yourself, Lady Francis," he continued. "I like you and I guess I like your nobility, too—when they thaw."

Lady Francis could not altogeather understand or appreciate Samuel W. Brown. Indeed, she was growing quite concerned about him. He had a habit of calling on her at all sorts of strange hours, and give as an extuse that the girls were "away with the boys," and he was lonely.

"I really believe," said Lady Francis with a shudder, to her friend Clare—"I really believe that wretched man is making love to me."

"Good gracious my dear, how terrible! It will spoil it all, if you have to repulse him." Exclaimed Clare Melton.

By this time Samuel Washington Brown and the Miss Browns were colebrites. Every one knew or heard of the great American heiresses, but Jack Trimstone did not seem a bit nearen marriage. Lady Francis was in despair.

"They will ruin me between them." she moaned. "Why, I have actually overdrawn my account at the bank."

"It will be all right, mother, when I marry Katie. Old Sam will 'stump up the dollars,' as he expresses it," laughed Jack.

"I wish you would propose at once.' We really cannot go on living in this extravagant manner. I am postively ruined!" moaned Lady Francis.

"Fancy half a million of money, mother! Why you can have as much as you like when it,s mine."

Matters, however, gradually became desperate. Every one was talking of Jack and the heiress, and was wondering why the engagement was kept a secret: "for surely," they reasoned, "they must be engaged, or they would not be going on in this manner." And by degrees they also began to associate Samuel W. Brown's name with that of Lady Francis.

"Fancy the old tabby going in for that rich savage!" said her dear friend Lady Oldin, to her husband.

"He is worth a million of money,' said his lordship, dryly, "and Lady Francis is not rich."

At last the crisis came. Lady Francis received an intimation from her banker that he could not cash any more of her checks. Nothing could save her therefore, but Jack's immediate engagement.

On his arrival home her ladyship explained the startling news to him.

"I will propose to-morrow," he remarked, "but perhaps I had better write and get an appointment first with the old gentleman and sound him."

He accordingly disqatched the following epistle :

"MY DEAR SIR—Can you give me an interview to-morrow morning at 11 a. m. at the Langham? I wish to speak to you on a delicate subject and hope to see you alone.

Pray remember me very kindly to your daughters, and believe me, yours, very truly. J. TRIMSTON.

"S. W. Brown, Esq."

"There, mother!" he remarked. "The die is cast. To-morrow will decide my fate."

The next morning whilst he wasseated at breakfast with Lady Francis, a letter was handed him by the servant. He read it quietly, and then, after a little hesitation, passed it to his mother. It ran :

MY DEAR SIR : I shall be most happy to see you, as suggested, at 11. If however, the delicate subject you refer to has reference to the absured rumors connecting my name with that of your mother's, I hardly think you need trouble to call as I am happy to say that my wife is still alive. Yours is indeed a strange country. Just because your good mother took a kindly interest in me, her friends immediately put it down that she was about to become Mrs. Brown. I am sure there has never been anything in her conduct to justify such an assumption, and I venture to offer her, through you, my most sincere sympathy that her considerate attention to me should have been so misunderstood. Believe me, very truly yours.

SAMUEL W. BROWN.

P. S. I see by your note that you send kind remembrances to my daughters. They are at school at B You mean, I presume, my niece Katie. Poor girls! they will, I fear, find it difficult to settle down, as governesses, after all the gayety you have so kindly shown them."—London Truth.

Vanderbilt's Poverty of Riches.

The public journals are embellished now and then with reports in advance of a hundred thousand dollar ball to be given by Mr. William H. Vanderbilt, and a detailed account of the gorgeous occasion is furnished the newspapers after the fact. Indeed, public notice in advance of the cost of the Vanderbilt balls with details of the price of flowers, of the caterer's bills, of the dresses to be worn, etc., are as much a part of the Vanderbilt balls as the balls themselves; and the rather intelligent public that Mr. Vanderbilt sometimes hastily consigns to damnation, is not in any degree misled by the sorry spectacle of a man who possesses only great riches trying to buy social esteem—about the only commodity that is never in the market. The Vanderbilt balls come along as regular as do the seasons, but the same medley of speculators, politicians, shoddyites and social strugglers come and go all the time.

It must be evident to a sensible, practical business man like Mr. Vanderbilt, that no measure of extravagant expenditure of flowers, suppers, silks satins and diamonds, will make the New York social public regard him as any other than William H. Vanderbilt, the son of his father ; with much clustering about the family name and fortune that it would be genernously charitable to forget. He knows how to buy or wreck a railroad, and how to draw the ribbons the fastest horses, and how to compel Wall street to pay homage to his financial power ; but he can neither drive nor lead that often obsinate and ever capricious element of humanity that assumes to be the society of the period. It will frown or smile at will, and even the wealth of a Vanderbilt knocks at its doors, clad in all the trappings of the old and the new world, without responsive welcome.

Mr. Vanderbilt is the richest private citizen of any nation of the world. His annual income reaches half a score of millions, and he has houses and lands and railways, and horses and paintings and statuary and fine raiment until they must pall upon his taste ; but what good ? He will die just as other men die, and who will keep his memory green ? We have yet to hear of a church, a school, a library or a charity that owes its existence to his generosity, and the poor and friendless do not lisp his name with the gratitude that cheers the benefactor, Hard by his grand palace is the unfinished Cathedral that if completed by the donation of half his legitimate income for a twelvemonth, would be a perpetual monument of the usefulness of his life, and it would stand a faithful sentinel against the mob that sometimes turns to destruction in the fruitless hunt for bread. There are a thousand channels in which the rapidly accumulating wealth of Vanderbilt could be made to pay a much larger and better interest to its owner. It would not be in added millions to the already uneeded millions of the richest citizen of the world ; but it would brighten the evening of his life with consolation and gather about him the only sincerity he can find to bless his name while living and embalm it in grateful memories when dead. Mr. Vanderbilt can well afford his hundred thousand dollar balls to gratify the love of display that usurps the better social attainments of life, as that would be wasting not more than three days' income ; but if he would make the shadows of the gathering night resplendent with golden lining, let him make the world better and happier because of his existence, and leave at least some few of the poor and friendless, to keep his memory green, when those who revel in his shoddy gifts shall have speeded his parting into forgetfulness. —Agents Herald.

The Sham and the Real.

Every good article has its host of imitators; every genuine article its counterfeits. Bad manners and wicked habits have theirs also ; but he who shams the bad never boasts of it, while they who are the virtues of the good or simulate the genuine never hesitate to place the counterfeit before the public in their most alluring tones. When these people imitate they always choose a pronounced type or popular subject to copy from ; and when they claim to be as good as "So-and-So," or to sell an article equal to "So-and-so," the public may depend upon it that Mr. "So-and-so," and his article are always the best of the kind. Thus the sham is always proving the genuine merit of the thing it copies.

A firm of enterprising gentlemen produce and popularize an article of household use, such as the Royal Baking Powder, whose convenience, usefulness and real merit make for itself an immense and universal sale. A hundred imitators arise on every hand, and as they hold out their sham articles to the public, yelp in chorus. "Buy this; its just as good as royal, and much cheaper!" The Royal Baking Powder is the standard the world over, and its imitators in their cry that theirs is "as good as Royal" are all the time emphasizing this fact. In their laborious attempts to show by analysis and otherwise that the "Snowball" brand has as much raising power "as the Royal ;" or that the "Resurrection" powder is as wholesome "as Royal ;" or the "Earthquake" brand is "as pure as the Royal," as well as by their contortive twistings of chemical certificates and labored efforts to obtain recognition from the government chemists and prominent scientists who have certified the superiority of Royal over all others, they all admit the "Royal" to be the acme of perfection, [illegible]

BLAINE and Logan and who?

THERE were 203 failures in the United States last week.

IT is feared that Tammany Hall will bolt Cleveland.

WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT returned from Europe last Friday.

IRVING hall is for Cleveland while Tammany prefers Flower.

FIVE hundred mormans are on their way from Liverpool to Utah.

THE choice of the Democratic candidate now seems to be between Cleveland and Bayard.

THE Hewitt tariff bill was under consideration of the ways and means committee again last Friday.

THE next convention of the Workingmen's Assembly of the State of New York promises to be a very interesting one.

MANY Republicans in Fulton and other places are discontinuing the Syracuse Herald because it denounces Blaine.

CHARLES A. DANA, Editor of the New York Sun is mentioned as a possible nominee at the Democratic convention Who next?

THE Democratic State convention which convenes at Saratoga to-day will be largely attended. The hotels are all filled with delegates.

IT is stated that Sidney Dillion will resign the presidency of the Union Pacific railroad at a meeting to-day and that Charles Francis Adams will be chosen as his successor.

THE Governor has signed the bill appropriating $23,000 for the erection of a new wing to be built on the Oswego normal school. It is expected that it will be finished prior to the fall term.

IT is generally taken for granted that Tilden's letter declining to accept the nomination meant what it said. This was a wise act on the part of Tilden as it gives younger candidates a chance.

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, of Indiana, it is supposed will be chosen one of the delegates-at-large from that state and will present to the convention the name of Joseph E. McDonald to the convention for the Presidential nomination.

TAMMANY HALL Saturday night passed resolutions declaring Tammany entitled to equal representation at the state convention with the county Democracy. A large Tammany delegation left New York yesterday morning for Saratoga by a special train.

THE Philadelphia Press seeks to make a point by asserting that Governor Cleveland, notwithstanding his enormous majority, did not poll as many votes for Governor in 1882 as Hancock did for President in 1880. This is not quite accurate. Hancock's total vote in the State was 534,511; Cleveland's was 536,318.—New York Times.

IT has been definately decided to increase the capasity of the hall for the national Democratic convention by only about 1,200 seats. The platform will be removed to the west side of the hall, under the gallery. The boxes will be removed and the space filled with chairs. The space allowed for the press will be more private than during the last convention.

THE Democratic National Convention will consist of twice the number of Senators and Representatives from each of the States, and the Democrats of each organized Territory and the District of Columbia are invited to send two delegates, subject to the decision of the convention as to their admission. The votes of two-thirds of the delegates will be requisite for the nomination of the candidates for President and Vice-President.

THE Democarts do not want Roswell T. Flower as their candidate. They do not want a man that has simply money and ambition. Flower might poll a big vote in Jefferson, but that will hardly give satisfaction. He is not the kind of a man to run against James G. Blaine. They must nominate a New York man and a reformer, a man who is far seeing and one who will stand the critism of character which will be so prominent in this campaign fight, and that man is Grover Cleveland.

Possible Presidential Nominees.

The Baltimore Sun enumerates among the gentlemen whose names are likely to be mentioned at the Democratic National Convention are the following: Grover Cleveland, "with an excellent record as a reform Governor;" Roswell P. Flower, "whose "wealth seemes to be the main consideration in his favor; Abram S. Hewitt, "a man of broad views, experience and public spirit, whose nomination would command a a large support from the business men of New York;" Samuel J. Randall, whose "doubtful prospects require but little discussion;" Bayard, "a spotless gentleman, an able statesman and a veteran Democrat;" Thurman and Pendleton, each "good material;" Hoadley and Payne, "favorably regarded;" McDonald, Holman and Hendricks, "all of whom have merits that cannot fail to be regarded;" Morrison, "a centre about which the low-tariff opinion of the country would readily rally in a Presidential fight;" Justice Field, "a prominent [illegible], but for the opposition [illegible]

The prospect now is that the yield of strawberries will be very large. The berries begin to ripen a little, and by next week the girls will be earning from $1 to $1.50 a day. THE STAGE-DRIVER'S STORY.

How General Scott's Life was Saved and How His Driver Twice Escaped Death.

The traveler of the present day, as he is hurried along by the lightning express, in its buffet cars and palace sleepers, seldom reverts to the time when the stage coach and the packet were the only means of communication between distant points. It is rare that one of the old-time stage-drivers is met with now-a-days and when the writer recently ran across Fayette Hasskell, of Lockport, N. Y., he felt like a bibliographer over the discovery of some rare volume of "forgotten lore." Mr. Haskell, although one of the pioneers in Stage driving (he formerly ran from Lewiston to Niagara Falls and Buffalo), is hale and hearty and bids fair to live for many years. The strange stories of his early adventures would fill a volume. At one time while going down a mountain near Lewistown with no less a personage than General Scott as a passenger, the brakes gave way and the coach came on the heels of the wheels horses. The only remedy was to whip the leaders to a gallop. Gaining additional momentum with each revolution of the wheels the coach swayed and pitched down the mountain side and into the streets of Lewiston. Straight ahead at the foot of the steep hill flowed the Niagara river, toward which the horses dashed apparently to certain death. Yet the firm hand never relaxed its hold nor the clear brain its conception of what must be done in the emergency. On dashed the horses until the narrow dock was reached on the river bank, when by a masterly exhibition of nerve and daring the coach was turned in scarce its own length and before the pale lookers on could realize what had occurred. A purse was raised by General Scott and presented to Mr. Haskill with high compliments for his skill and bravery.

Notwithstanding all his strength and his robust constitution the strain of continuous work and exposure proved too much for Mr. Haskell's constitution. The constant jolting of the coach and necessarily cramped position in which he was obliged to sit, contributed to this end, and at times he was obliged to abandon driving altogether.

Speaking of this period he said:

"I found it almost impossible to sleep at night; my appetite left me entirely and I had a tired feeling which I never knew before and could not account for."

"Did you give up driving entirely?"

"No. I tried to keep it up but it was only with the greatest effort. This state of things continued for nearly twenty years until last October when I went all to pieccies."

"In what way?"

"Oh, I doubled all up; could not walk without a cane and was incapable of any effort or exertion. I had a constant desire to urinate both day and night and although I felt like passing a gallon every ten minutes only a few drops could escape and they were thick with sediment. Finally it ceased entirely and I thought death was very near."

"What did you do then?"

"What I should have done long before; listen to my wife. Under her advice I began a new treatment."

"And with what result?"

"Wonderful. It unstopped the closed passages and what was still more wonderful regulated the flow. The sediment vanished; my appetite returned and I am now well and good for twenty more years wholly through the aid of Warner's Safe Cure that has done wonders for me as well as for so many others."

Mr. Haskell's experience is repeated every day in the lives of thousands of American men and women. An unknown evil is undermining the existence of an innumerable number who do not realize the danger they are in until health has entirely departed and death perhaps stares them in the face. To neglect such important matters is like drifting in the current of Niagara above the Falls.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

Utica, N. Y., June 16, 1884.

There was a good deal of activity on the cheese market here to-day, competition for fine lots being strong and running the ruling price above what was anticipated, or what was considered prudent even by the most sanguine buyers. If the conservative feeling had prevailed prices would have been kept where they were a week ago. But when the steam is on it is hard to hold back; hence the advance of ¼c. over last week. Factorymen were very willing to sell at these prices. They report a slight improvement in the yield of milk with the cooler and damper weather, bringing it about up to the flush of the season. There will probably be no falling off for a time at least.

Transactions for the day are as follows: Five lots, 600 boxes at 9⅜c; 97 lots, 9,421 boxes at 9½c; 6 lots, 631 boxes at 9⅝c; 6 lots, 1,028 boxes at 9⅝c; 6 lots, 1,028 at 9¾c; 2 lots, 300 boxes, at 9⅞c; one lot, 200 boxes at 10c. Sales 12,180 boxes; commissions, 2,700; total, 14,880 boxes; ruling price 9½. Transactions of corresponding day last year 13,603 boxes; ruling price 10¼c; the year before, which was the year of the railroad strike, 3,678 boxes, ruling price, 10½c.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

The decline in prices took a sudden stop to-day, which was most agreeable all around. Rates are advanced fully one-half cent above last week's figures; this was not expected and had there been as much decline it would have surprised nobody. Buyers were ready to take their usual amounts at the advance and everybody was well pleased. Factories are not shipping as large quantities as formerly owing to the slowness of the cheese curing because of the cold weather. Production is now in flush of the season and factorymen are sending the stock forward as fast as they become cured; their anxiety to do this, however, should not be so great as to be caught with stock in transit that may suffer greatly from the sudden appearance of hot weather which is liable to experienced at any time. Following are the transactions:

ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Low Estimate—The Process—A Few Interesting Facts.

A postal received by Dr. I. C. Curtis of this village from a hardware dealer of Newburg, N. Y., a few days since, not connected with electric light in any way save as a consumer, gives the following astonishing low figures as regards cost. "My electric light bill for seven burners for month of May, 1884, is $2.67. My gas bill for May, 1883, was $4.05." This light is sixteen candle power per lamp. The cost of gas in Newburg is but $2.25 per thousand. The electric light proposed for use here not the Arc light used at Geneva which is from 1,000 to 3,000 candle power, dependent upon different kinds of lamps, but is the Edison incandescent system. Each lamp being eight, sixteen, or thirty-two candle power. Every lamp of a sixteen candle power is equal to a six foot jet of gas of the best quality. Consumers would require as many lamps as they are in the habit of using jets of gas. The Arc light used at Geneva and Syracuse is substantially the same as is used in the Oswego Falls factory and is seldom used except for street illumination and large areas like mills, factories, etc. The cost in Syracuse of street lighting and also to private consumers is fifty cents per lamp for each night. Therefore it can be readily seen that the incandescent system is the only practicable one for our village. With the Edison system the electricity used by the consumer passes through a meter the same as gas, each person paying only for the amount used. According to the above statement of J. D. Madie, the hardware merchant of Newburg, it costs him but one cent and a fraction per light using it about these hours each night.

Obituary.

The death of Frank C. Bullock, former editor of THE FULTON TIMES, although expected seemed to cast a gloom over his many friends and acquaintances in this village. He died at the home of his parents at about 10 o'clock Thursday morning, aged 27 years. About five months ago Mr. Bullock complained of a cold, which graduallly assumed the form of dreaded consumption. He continued to perform his duties until he was obliged to be conveyed to and from his place of business, but a few weeks since he realized his condition and gave up.

The deceased came to Fulton in 1870 with his parents. In his youth he longed to engage in journalistic work and at the age of 18 entered the office of the Jefferson County Journal at Adams, N. Y., where he served his time as an apprentice. From there he went to Syracuse where he was connected with the Syracuse Herald for a time, after which he removed to New York city, where he was employed upon the New York Times and the New York Mail and Express. While in that city he married Mrs. Anna C. Tedd and about a year ago he came to Fulton accompanied by his wife, to take editorial charge of THE FULTON TIMES.

Mr. Bullock was a young man of remarkable brightness and great ambition. He was beloved of his relatives and held in esteem by his friends. He possessed those natural gifts which gain respect and retain it. There were periods of sunshine which came during his sickness and many hopeful friends believed he would be spared after all. But the hope was deceiving. It was the mere brightening up of the spirit before it vanished forever. The few last weeks of his illness were very painful. The deceased leaves a loving mother, and an affectionate wife who patiently cared for and ministered to his wants during his illness, and who was obliged under distressing circumstances to return to her friends in Somers, N. Y., a few weeks since and was not early informed of his death. She has the sympathy of the community in her bereavement. The father also has the condolence of many. The deceased was a member of the Baptist church. He died with christian resignation and his bereaved relatives entertain a hope that his resting place is with God and that death was to him the beginning of a new and better life. The funeral services occurred Friday morning at 6 o'clock. Rev Mr. Golden, the former pastor of the Baptist church officiated assisted by Rev. Mr. Riggs, Rev. Mr. O'Dell and Rev. Mr. Roe. The remains were taken to Norwich, N. Y., via N. Y. O. & W. road for interment accompanied by parents and friends. It was necessary to take this train in order to reach Norwich in the day time. Newspaper men from the several offices at that place acted as pall bearers.

Mysterious Disappearance.

A rather singular affair was narrated by a South Hannibal farmer while in town last Monday in which he stated that the wife of "Nat" Shattuck who runs a store at South Hannibal, had, during Saturday night left her home without the knowledge of anyone. In the morning she was missed by the household and an investigation was made in which it was discovered that she had left the house by the way of the cellar in her night clothes with nothing on her feet. The neighbors were at once informed of her disappearance and between fifty and seventy-five men turned out to search for the missing woman. The search, he said, was continued all day Sunday and Monday and up to the time he left no discovery as to her where abouts had been made. Mrs. Shattuck is about 42 years old and has two children. She has been deranged for more than a year and has been closely watched. The affair has caused considerable excitement in the neighborhood. It may be possible that the woman has taken her life. Her maiden name was Nettie Thompson.

LATER—The report reaches us to-day that the woman was found under a neighbor's kitchen only a few rods from her home where she has remained during the search. She will probably be taken to the asylum.

Artist Styles to the Front.

In the Sunday Standard art column we notice the following noteworthy account of Artist Style's work. "There is at Hendrick's the best piece of work which Mr. Styles, of Fulton, has ever placed on exhibition in this city. It is called "The Gray Dawn," and deserves attention as being a very clever bit of ultra-impressionism. It represents a lake from which the morning fog is rising, half hiding a mountain in the back ground. The picture is painted in warm grey, the most difficult of all tints to employ successfully, and is far the best piece of coloring Mr. Styles has shown a Syracuse public. So simple is the theme that it would be as difficult to describe it as to catch in prose the spirit of one of Wadsworth poems. The picture depends almost entirely upon its "atmosphere" for its effect."

Election of Officers.

The annual election of offiers of the Young Peoples Literary Society occurred at the parlors of the M. E. church last Monday evening. The following are the officers elected: President, Rev. W. F. A brass band of seventeen pieces will accompany the Oswego excursion. There will be an admission fee of ten cents charged at the gate. Carriages free. The managers have spared no pains to make the day entertaining.

A Fine Painting.

We were permitted through the courtesy of Dr. I. C. Curtiss to examine a life size painting of his spaniel "Beppo" which he has just had executed from the brush of Mrs. John T. Sheridan. The work reflects much credit upon the artist not only as a work of art but in the correctness of the portrait. The Doctor may well feel proud of the picture.

Mrs. Grundy drops into Philosophy

The strength and safety of a community consists in the virtue and intelligence of its youth, especially of its young men. It will be readily seen how closely related are the strength and safety of the youth and community are to its business interests, particularly that of Kent & Miller, 18 & 20 South Salina Street, who clothe intelligently the virtuous youth of the country.

Take away from mankind their vanity and ambition and there would be but few claiming to be heroes or patriots. Kent & Miller are, therefore, again sound to be benefactors of their country. In gratifying the vanities of monkind as to seasonable dress, and at comparatively small cost, they incite ambition and make patriots. Young men! before leaving town, call at Kent & Miller's, 18 & 20 South Salina street, and select a summer suit.

The New Haven correspondent to Monday's Palladium says: Capt. Nichols has quite a number of guests at present, and they are having a grand time. I noticed with the captain this morning Mr. Giles Piper, the young lawyer from Fulton, who lately filled the office of police justice so acceptably that a large number of citizens of Fulton irrespective of party signed a petition askiug him to serve a second term.

Charles Dalley of Ithaca, who has made Fulton his home for the past two years during which time he has been in the employ of T. A. The happy couple started for New York on their wedding trip Monday. They both have many friends here who unite in wishing them a pleasant journey through life.

Children's day was observed at the Baptist and also at the M. E. church in this village last Sunday with appropriate ceremonies. Both churches were handsomely decorated with flowers. The exercises by the children at the M. E. church in the evening was very interesting, each one performing their part perfectly. At the conclusion of the services by the children Mr. E. R. Redhead made a short address to the young which was listened to with marked attention. The exercises were under Prof. Boothby's supervision.

This may possibly be the same one which from all appearances is enroute for the far west.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

The Buffalo Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument a Noble Work Achieved.—The Unveiling to Occur July 4.

[Correspondence to the FULTON TIMES.]

BUFFALO, June 14, 1884.

Ten years ago the women of Buffalo began to agitate the question. "Ought not the citizens of Buffalo erect a monument in memory of the fallen braves of Erie county, who had laid down their lives in defense of their country?" Just ten years ago a meeting was convened, a society organized and Mrs. Haratio Seymour was elected president, and Mrs. Maria M. Love named as secretary. They resolved to build a monument costing not less than $50,000 to be commenced when the sum of $15,000 had been secured. With energy and determination characteristic of women when enlisted in a good cause, they set themselves at work raising funds for this object; the first year, 1874, closed with over four thousand dollars collected. During 1875 dramatic and various kinds of entertainments were given, the veteran soldiers taking hold and largely aiding in the good work, and in March 1876 the treasurer announced that some $7,500 had been contributed. About this time the first plan for the monument was adopted and ground was broken July 4. 1876, with appropriate ceremonies. Considerable enthusiasm was manifested and money subscribed, but the large sum necessary grew slowly, and the years came and went with no lack of zeal, but not sufficient funds to induce any one to undertake the erection: in 1880 the Common Council took the matter in hand and a special committee was appointed and during 1881 they appropriated $15,000; later on they added to this sum $25,000 and resolved to erect the monument in LaFayette Square. This action changed the first plan of the ladies and the idea of an arch was abandoned and some other pet plans given up, but they have never lost their zeal or ceased to look forward to a time when a suitable monument in memory of the fallen brave should grace their lovely city. And to the ladies should be ascribed the honor of originating the enterprise and keeping it alive during all these years, with a steady increase of funds to show for their untiring work. During this time their honored president and four of the trustees have passed away, upon a few the work of the ladies association has rested and while much praise should be accorded to all, a few have been conspicuous for their zeal, energy and buisness tact. They have kept funds at interest and will hand over about one-quarter of the cost of the monument.

THE CORNER STONE

was laid on the 4th of July 1882 under the auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic, but by the Grand Master of the Masons, in the presence of the officers of the Grand Lodge. Your correspond sought out the resident architect Mr. M. E. Beebe, who is also the acting secretary of the building committee, and was shown the plans and given such information as he sought for. Soon after he visited the ground, a lordy spot in the angle of two streets, on the western front of LaFayette Square.

THE MONUMENT

is 95 feet in height surmounted by the the Goddess of Liberty chiseled in granite and lasting as time. The foundation is deep laid and formed of layers of concrete and huge blocks of granite from Maine, and is some thirty feet square. Upon this is laid the base of fine cut stone, furnished by the Mount Waldo Granite Company of Maine. The total height of the table for this monument is about thirty feet. This is formed of a number of solid blocks, making steps to the real base and affording entablatures for the soldier and sailor bronze figures The shaft consisting of three large circular granite blocks with a slight taper and each weighing some twelve tons, with a transverse diameter of about eight feet. Between these blocks are layers of granite ornamented with carvings of exquisite design. The joints are encircled with bronze rings or drums in bas relief. The figures upon the first one represent the opening of the war with Lincoln and his cabinet, the village blacksmith reading the first call for troops and waving his son to lay down his hammer and start for the scene of the conflict; also the welcome home after the war was over of a patriot husband and father. The whole is a masterpiece of artistic workmanship, cast at the noted bronze foundry of M. J. Powers in New York city. The bronze statutes are heroic size surrounding by the shaft representing a soldier and sailor and other figures. On the eastern side at a reasonable elevation, is the representative of Peace, science and agriculture and all the peaceful arts are drawn in heavy bas relief. It is conceded by all to be the finest wrought monument in the State, and will be unveiled to the public on the coming 4th of July, when at least a quarter million of citizens, invited guests and visitors will gain a view of it, most extensive preparations are being made to accommodate the people. The oration will be delivered by the Hon. Stewart L. Woodford, who in oratory wears gracefully the mantle of Wendall Phillips. The new and garndly equipped New York, West Shore and Buffalo railway will carry all eastern people at half fare, while the safe and reliable Michigan Central running over their Canti-lever bridge at Niagara Falls will bring great numbers here from the west. This will be a great occasion for Buffalo and the Democratic nominee whose home is thus honored. The nominee for vice on the Blaine ticket has been invited, as Gen. Logan was the founder of the Grand Army of the Republic.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Sun printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then, three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know he Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

The several editions of The Sun are sent by mail postpaid as follows:

DAILY—50 cents a month, $6 a year; with Sunday edition $7.

How Watch Cases are Made.

Imitation always follows a successful article, and imitation is one of the best proofs of real honest merit; and thus it is that the James Boss' Gold Watch Case has its imitators. Buyers can always tell the genuine by the trade-mark of a crown, from which is suspended a pair of scales. Be sure BOTH crown and scales are stamped in the cap of the watch case. Jewelers are very cautious about endorsing an article unless they not only know that it is good, but that the character of the manufacturers is such that the quality of the goods will be kept fully up to standard.

WILLIAMSPORT, PA., Feb. 13, 1883.

The James Boss' Gold Watch Cases go like hot cakes. Each one I sell sells another. Don't need to recommend them; they sell themselves. One of my customers has had a James Boss' Gold Watch Case in use for 20 years, and it is as good as ever. With this case I do not hesitate to give my own guarantee, especially with the new and improved cases, which seem to be everlasting. JESSE T. LITTLE, Jeweler.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Jan. 8, 1883.

This gold case, No. 6665, known as the James Boss' Gold Watch Case, came into my possession about 1858, has been in use since that time, and is still in good condition. The movement is the one which was in the case when I bought it, and its condition shows that the case has really out-worn the movement, which is played out. MARTIN A. HOWELL,
Of Board of Directors N. J. R. R. & Trans. Co.

FASHION NOTES.

Jet jewelry is fashionable.

Antique brooches in carved silver are in vogue.

Taffeta gloves in all shades are extremely fashionable.

The novelties in hats are the large English shapes.

Young girls now have low cut dresses filled in with lace.

Pale grey and fawn are the two most fashionable colors.

Lace collars in the sailor shape are worn with the morning costumes.

Puffed shoulders are seen on all dresses, both for house and street wear.

Princesses dresses are very fashionable. They are only becoming to straight, well-formed women.

Fan-shaped tabliers are much used both for overskirts that are part of the lower skirt and also for polonaises.

White parasols covered with lace are in fashion for the seaside; crimson parasols are used in the morning.

Dotted Swiss lawn with raised spots and colored printed figures is a showy fabric for young lady summer dresses.

Black lace dresses are worn by young women with red or golden hair. They are becoming to any style of beauty.

Lace mitts are fastened to the arm by ribbons that tie in a small bow. The ribbon must be the same shade as the glove.

Little silver buckets, suspended by a chain, are fastened in front of the dress. They are for holding small change.

The Langtry turban hats, with low long round crown, are still in favor with all young ladies who do not adopt the high coiffure.

Princess bonnets, made entirely of violets, with satin strings of the same shade, are pretty and becoming to decided blondes or brunettes.

Violets of several shades in a cluster or in a wreath are more fashionable for trimming bonnets this season than they have been for many years.

For ladies' summer wrappers and dressing sacques is the colored terry cotton, resembling Turkish toweling in its rough knotted surface on a thin porous ground.

A novelty brought out by hatters and tailors to match Cheviot and flannel dresses is the Chevoit Derby hat, stitched to shape precisely as men's traveling hats are.

The old-fashion challie—a light woolen fabric with which silk is woven—is revived for summer dresses; the ground is light in color, and is strewn with flowers.

The most dressy straw bonnets have beads of the color of the straw dotting the crown, or else small stars or diamonds of beads are arranged there, and a string of these beads edges the brim.

For garden parties, coaching, and dressy wear at the summer resorts are Leghorn flats of great size pinched into the shape of round top pokes and elaborately trimmed with white ostrich plumes, etc.

A midsummer fancy is for "rare pokes" which are very simple black or white straw pokes, with the front of the brim and sometimes the whole brim hidden by clusters or rows of pink or deep red roses without leaves.

White dresses of every kind are the most popular for young ladies. They are worn morning noon and night. Linen and pique are preferred for the morning; lawn and mull for the afternoon; and bunting silk and cashmere for the evening.

Gray hairs often cause annoyance, which Parker's Hair Balsam prevents by restoring the youthful color.

RELIGIOUS READING.

The statistics of the Presbyterian churches of Iowa show a membership of 21,613, a gain of 660 over last year.

The corner-stone of the First Presbyterian church, Auburn, N. Y., was laid with appropriate services, June 3d. Mr. J. W. Dunning was master of ceremonies, and addresses were made by Professor A. S. Coats, of Rochester, Rev. L. C. Queal, of the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. F. L. Wilkins, pastor of the Second church, Rev. Charles Hawley, of the Presbyterian church, Rev. T. E. Clapp, of Syracuse, and Professor T. H. Pattison, of Rochester.

The liberal Jews are becoming more emancipated from the ancient social and religious prejudice of their race. Many of them have totally abandoned the faith of their fathers, not to take on that of Christianity, but to join the rapidly increasing ranks of the skeptics and unbelievers.—New York Sun.

A negro impostor is making converts among the plantation negroes in the neighborhood of Gainsville, Ga. He asserts that he is the Christ, shows scars in his hands, feet and side, goes through a form of forgiving sins, requires his dupes to worship him, and tells them that he will soon ride forth on a great white horse and and subdue the world.

The Catholic Examiner says: J. Hyatt Smith, clergymen and lecturer, and ex-member of congress, is one man who does not over rate himself. Speaking of the strength of infidelity in the west, he said: Strong preachers are needed to combat it—fools will not do, I went west and came back in three weeks.

Fine writing on glazed paper will give one or two fair copies without calling in the assistance of the press or water if use is made of a writing solution of three parts of good jet black ink and one part of gelatine.

Two Conversations.

"Saratoga, I guess.

In June—"Mercy on me! "What are you doing in this barren waste?"

"Visiting with my uncle Jake who lives in the shanty across the creek."—[Phila. Call.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.

I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism for more than twenty years at times suffering most excruciating pain. I have used nearly every remedy I could hear of, or that was recommended by sympathizing friends, but I have never found any relief from their use until I commenced with the Rheumatic Syrup, which I have been using for a short time; but it is helping me so much that I now have faith that it will cure me. It has already done me more good than any remedy I have ever used. MRS. [illegible] J. [illegible], Over [illegible] Main St.

[illegible] "What chance had you if the art of medicine failed?"

"The art of medicine did not fail. Only the doctors failed. I stumbled over a proprietary medicine manufactured at Rondout, N. Y., called Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. The package was neat, it was only one dollar a bottle—not that I thought of that though. I was hopeless of help, it could not harm, and I bought and tried it. When the third bottle was empty my appetite and flesh began to return, and the pain and inflammation was gone, and have not come back. What I think of FAVORITE REMEDY is this; its discovery was an inspiration."

BRANDETH'S PILLS

They are compounded of Roots, Herbs and Gums of the most healing and beneficial kind.

As a Family Medicine they are unrivalled, curing Head-ache, Constipation, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia—clearing the blood of all impurities—acting on the Liver, Kidneys and other important organs, removing the waste tissue, and adding years to the lives of all who use them.

For fifty years they have been used by the American public, and their constantly increasing sales show how they are appreciated.

A Perfect Remedy in 20 Diseases.

ASHFIELD, MASS.

I am verging on eighty years, and deem it my duty to suffering humanity to say that my long life is due to BRANDRETH'S PILLS which have been my sole medicine for half a century. I know the last forty-three pears of my life is owing solely to their use. Your PILLS saved me many times after the best medical skill in several States had given me up as hopeless. I have had many converts to purgation with BRANDRETH'S PILLS, and have seen them perform almost miracles of cure. For children, a few doses have cured measles, scarlet fever, and whooping cough. In all female troubles and weakness I have never known them to fail. In adult males I have known them to cure the worst cases of dyspepsia, rheumatism, kidney diseases, dysentery and diarrhoea; even dropsy, paralysis, and appoplexy have yielded to a persistent course of BRANDRETH'S PILLS. In fact I have found them the true Life Elixir. They act as continual preventives against the effects of time, disease and labor.

THE WORLD CHALLENGED

This liniment has been manu actured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparall.l success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by ealers.

MORTGAGE SALE.—Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage upon real property situated within the State of New York, whereby the power to sell has become operative, notice is hereby given that said mortgage which is dated the 20th day of December, 1881, and recorded in the office of the clerk of the county of Oswego, N. Y., on the 20th day of January, 1882, at 4½ o'clock p. m., in Liber 130 of mortgages, at page 354, was given by Wray S. Littlefield mortgagor to Lewis Johnson, jr, mortgagee, and is still owned by him. The sum claimed to be due upon the said mortgage at the time of the first publication of this notice is one hundred three dollars and fifty cents, and the amount secured by said mortgage which is to become due thereupon is six hundred dollars and interest thereon from November 1st, 1882. HEALTH HINTS.

Exercise to the extent of great fatigue does more harm than good.

A hearty meal taken while excessively fatigued has often destroyed life.

Chilliness of body dampens the spirits, sours the temper and renders the whole man unlovely.

The best anodyne in all nature is moderate, steady and continuous exercise in the open air.

Never sit or stand with the wind blowing on you for a single moment, for it speedily produces a chill, to be followed by fever and then a bad cold.

In going out into a colder air keep the mouth resolutely closed, and walk briskly for a few minutes, thus preventing chilliness which is always the precursor of a cold.

A good cleansing of the entire body with soap and warm water once a week is all the bathing the human system requires for purposes of health in ordinary circumstances.

Nature is very much like a shiftless child, who, the more he is helped the more he looks for it. The more medicine a man takes the more he will have to take, whether it be anodyne, tonic or alterative.

The portion of the body which most requires protection against cold and wind is that between the shoulder blades behind, as it is at this point that the lungs are attached to the body, and the blood is easily chilled.

To spend two or three moments, on rising and retiring in rapid frictions of the whole surface of the body with the hand is a more rational treatment of the skin and a more health-promoting operation for most persons than a daily cold water bath.

Boats, Bicycles and Hay Fever.

With the opening of the season of outdoor sports comes the time of trouble for the poor victims of Hay Fever. For them flowers have no odor, and the summer little or no beauty. To snuff, sneeze and wipe their weeping eyes for three or four successive months:—this is their pitiable portion. There is no help in sea voyages, there is no help in high altitudes. These only lighten the attacks and leave the disease uncured. But there is a positive cure in [illegible]

Ask the same physicians

The Emperor Louis Napoleon smoked only the finest cigars the world could produce. Prof. Horsford says the Emperor's cigars were made specially for him in Havana from leaf tobacco grown in the Golden Belt of North Carolina, this being the finest leaf grown. Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is made from the same leaf used in the Emperor's cigars, is absolutely pure and is unquestionably the best tobacco ever offered.

Thackeray's gifted daughter, Anne, in her sketch of Alfred Tennyson, in Harper's Monthly, tells of her visit to the great poet. She found him smoking Blackwell's Bull Durham Tobacco, sent him by Hon. James Russell Lowell, American Minister to the Court of St. James.

MY BEAUTIFUL RUBY.

"And this is her picture, Miss Monna, the picture of the adopted daughter you loved better than all the world besides—and lost? How beautiful she was! oh, how beautiful!"

The speaker drew a long, long breath, and stood with clasped hands and blue eyes rivited upon the oil painting which hung in a curtained alcove in my pleasant sitting-room.

I was a lonely old waman, lonely and heart-broken since my child hand left me so mysteriously, with never a word of farewell or explanation, upon that handsome October evening, so long ago; and now I yield willingly to my fair young visitor's entreaty that I would tell her the story of that wonderful, pictured face, with its mournful dark eyes, forever looking out so sadly, so thoughtfully from the canvas; that ethereally pale face, with its frame of sun-gold hair, a perfect holo like that surrounding the pictured head of some saint.

"Take that low rocker, there, my dear, and sit here close beside me, while I tell you her story," I said to my eager young friend, who, somehow, reminded me of my child, in a subtile way that I never could just make out, but which made me like to have her near me.

"It was nineteen years ago that she came to lighten my dull life and cheer my loneliness, and it was like this: I was living quite by myself, in this great, roomy old place, excepting for Betty, my maid of all work, who was old and rheumatic.

I used to read a great deal in the evenings in order to make myself forget how lonely I was, for I hadn't a neighbor within five miles of me, and you may guess what sort of a life I led. But I had got used to it in a sort of way, for I had been living by myself ever since my parents died, a long lime ago. One night, it was a bitterly cold one in November, I sat dozing and reading in my big arm chair before a blazing fire of logs, feeling quite comfortable, while old Betty sat asleep upon the opposite side of the fire with her favorite cat curled comfortably upon her clean apron. I was only half asleep, and suddenly, mixed up dreamedly with the thoughts that always come to us when in that state between sleeping and waking, I hard a call for help. I started up to listen, broad awake; Betty still slept on tranquilly, and there was a half smile upon her aged features. The cry was not repeated, and, after listening intentedly for a few moments, I came to the conclusion that my imagination had been playing me a trick and I had been really sleeping and dreamed it. Accordingly I laid my head back upon the chair again in a comfortable position, and was soon in the land of dreams once more.

It could not have been ten minutes that I slept, at least so it seemed to me. I awoke again, and this time with a violent start, conscious that somebody was in the room. Hark! a heavy, labored breathing sounded near me! I raised my head, almost afraid to look or even [illegible], for in those days there were a great many idle tramps roaming about and I was never very courageous, especially at night; but Betty had courage enough for two. I turned my eyes in the direction of the door, and there [illegible] with her head upon the latch, as if she had just entered and was about to steal quietly away again, stood [illegible] unusually beautiful and yet [illegible] pitiful and abject young creature [illegible] had ever rested upon! She [illegible] look above 16 or 17, and [illegible] so lovely! But her [illegible] were painfully bright, [illegible] which peeped out the tiny, snow-white hand of a child.

I was no longer freightened now, though still astonished, for I could not imagine bow she could come in. I had thougt the door securely fastened, but plainly Betty had neglected to do this, as usual, being tired out with her day's work.

"For the pity of heaven, give me a night's shelter and something for my child to eat!" she gasped hoarsely, and her words ended with a racking cough, which awoke Betty instantly. She looked dazed and rubbing her eyes, thinking herself still dreaming, I suppose. I hastily assured her, however that what she beheld was not a dream, but reality, and that a human creature was in distress and needed our help, for instantly all my womanly sympathies had been aroused by the beauty and apparent misery of the young woman before me.

The crimson fires of consumption blazed in her beautiful cheeks, and there was blood upon her lips. She tottered as she stood with weakness when the violence of the coughing was spent, and had I not hurried forward hastily to her assistance I believe she would have fallen to the floor with her helpless burden. As it was I signed to Betty to take the child while I supported the mother to the comfortable seat before the blazing embers, which I had just vacated. She sank into it all weak and limp, and lay back with closed eyes, breathing painfully. And now the crimson in her cheeks had given place to a waxen paleness like that of a corpse. Only for her heavy breathing one could have imagined her dead. The infant raised a feeble wail of hunger where it lay in the dazzed Betty's arms, and she slowly opened her eyes at the sound.

"She is starving!" whispered the woman, and I started back in horror. The words were full of a hopeless, despairing languor. I hastily did what I could for her, and then—

"Betty give me the child" I said, "and go just as quickly as you can to the pantry, get some milk and bring it here to warm. Bring pleanty. Then set the table here by the fire and put plenty of good things on it."

At these words the woman in the chair fixed her eyes upon mine for the first time, and they were full of wild, eager anticipation, which was painful to look at.

"Food?" she murmured. "Food. It has been three or four days since I have had anything but a single crust." Then she relapsed into silence, out of sheer weakness, and I turned my attention to the puny beautiful bit of humanity that lay moaning in my arms. It was the handsomest baby I have over seen, in spite of its hungry, pinched look. Its eyes were very large and dark and velvety. You can imagine better than I can describe to you how my ruby looked as a baby by studying her portrait, for i was no other than herself. Well, we warmed and fed them both, mother and child, and when she was stronger the young mother told me her pitiful story, of a reckless marriage, against the express commands of a worshiping father, who, when he learned of her disobedience, cast her off, with his curse, forever; of a faithless husband, who deserted her when he found she would inherit none of her father's wealth; of the the painful struggle to keep body and soul together in herself and child by the use of the needle; of being turned out of her miserable garret because she had nothing wherewith to pay for it, and of her final wandering away and out into the wide country "where," she concluded, pitifully, "I somehow thoght people would not be so cruel and hard-hearted as they are in the city, for there they are cruel as death—cruel as the grave!" and she stopped, shuddering, with her thin hands covering her palid face.

"But you——"

"Yes, my dear, I will take care of you," I interrupted, stroking her beautiful hair and wiping away the tears which I felt were trickling down my face. I loved her from that hour like an own daughter. And as for Betty, she fairly worshiped the child, as I did myself, and between us both it did not suffer for lack of care.

They stayed with me. Day by day I watched the little Ruby unfolding new baby charms and her little cheeks growing rounder.

But as surely as the child was improving the young mother was fading—dying.

And when Christmas day dawned and the world was all over wrapped in peaceful quiet, the Angel of Death swept into the room with his merciless sythe and cut down that lovely human flower in the bloom of youth and beauty.

I mourned her as if she had been my own, and then my whole heart turned to my little Ruby. It was as if my very, very life were bound up in her, I loved her so.

She grew up into a lovely girlhood, as you see her there, and she was all my own. All the affection of her warm heart and pasionate soul was given to me. I was jealous of it. I kept her away from the gaze of people. When I went to town, taking her with me, I always made he go closely voiled, so fearful was I that some of her mother's former friends or relatives might see her, and, recognizing her wonderful likeness to her mother, wish to take her from me.

But one day I fell ill. My child ministered tenderly at my bedside, and one morning she came to my room to read the paper aloud to me. I remember she was reading a story about a beautiful young girl and her lover, and her sweet face was lighted up with childish delight as she read it all eagerly.

"Aunt Monna," she said suddenly, breaking off abruptly, "it must be de[illegible] to lose your [illegible] smiling at her enthusiasm. "and more than that!"

"But I mean—I mean—you are not a man, Auntie Monna," she stamered. laughing and flushing. too.

Instantly the "green-eyed monster" sprang up in my heart—jealousy, suspicion, I had been forced to let her go the city for me, not once but many times during my illness. Had she met someone there, someone who had fallen in love with her angel-sweet face and won her heart from me, even as her mother had been won by her faithless father? But almost as soon as these unreasoning suspicions entered my mind I dismissed them. Of course I was wronging Ruby by entertaing them for a moment; she never kept anything from me. But to my no little uneasiness I noticed that she seemed preoccupied and distrait all the rest of the day. And the next morning—but you have already guessed what I was going to say—she was gone; yes and I have never got a clew to her whereabouts since."

I ceased speaking because my voice trembled so I could not go on; my young friend was sobbing audibly.

Suddenly the brass knocker upon my door sent a loud clang all through the house.

Florine started nervously.

"Perhaps something is wrong at home, and they want me!" she said, with clasped hands; for it was very seldom that any other visitor save her own sweet self and Mrs. Bledsaw, her mother, visited my lonesome home.

"Betty!" I called. "Betty, go to the door, and if it is a tramp give him food and send him away. If it is any one come for Miss Florry come and tell me directly."

We sat listening breathlessly—we scarcely knew why—to her feeble footsteps along the hall.

The heavy door creaked slowly open. Then there was a pause, followed by a loud cry that made my heart jump and flutter like a frightened bird. It was.

"Oh! Miss Ruby! Miss Ruby! Have ye come back to us again?"

"Miss Monna, she has returned, your child. Go and receive her?" Florry was far more self-possessed than myself now, for I was trembling and shaking in the excess of my sadden joy, so that I seemed unable to move from where I stood. She took me by the arm and gently forced me to the hallway. but before I had reached the door there was a sound of flying footsteps; the next moment Ruby, my beautiful Ruby, unchanged, unless it could be said that she was more bewilderingly lovely than ever, dressed in the richest garments and leading a beautiful little fairy like child by the hand, was in the room; her soft lips rained kisses upon my face, her voice was whispering endearing names in my ears, and the little child was tugging at my dress, with her dimpled hands, and calling me "Aunt Nonny," and clamoring for a kiss, which, I assure you, she received with interest. And while I was holding my Ruby in my arms, scolding, laughing and petting her by turns, a dark, handsome man entered the room and stood looking at us with laughing eyes.

"Now it's my turn, my new-found aunt, don't you think?" he said, when I had released her.

"And now, Auntie Monna, I must explain it all to you. I have been very cruel to you all these four long years, haven't I? But I never lost sight of you, dear. For all Betty pretended to be so much astonished at seeing me, she knew I was coming—didn't you, dear, old, darling hypocrite? We corresponded all the time. I should have known if you were sick and come to you. Betty knew how I met Harold in the city: how he came and visited me here while you were ill, and she helped me to get away without your knowledge. It was a case of desprate love at first sight on both sides. Harold is wealthy, Aunt Monna, and was in Clinton on business when he saw me—and you know the rest. We have been traveling about a long time, seeing sights, which accounts for my long desertion of you. But I wanted my coming to be a complete surprise, so bade Betty keep silent. And auntie, dear, I have found grandpa. He lives with us at San Francisco, a broken old man, has made me his heiress. He is very old, and sometimes takes me for dear mamma. But what has become of that pretty girl who was here a moment ago? Betty told me about her too. And I was glad to know that you had a sympathizing friend who reminded you of your lost Ruby!" and my darling laughed the happy ringing laugh of former days.

"You know, Auntie Monna, you never would have consented for me to marry, though it had been a king who wanted me, if I had told you you were so jealous! So I had to elope. Didn't I Harold?"

I did not answer her; I only drew her to my heart, and held her there, silently thanking God for His safe keeping of my precious Ruby. I am an old. old woman now, and my home will always be with my darling, for she has made me leave the lonely house in the country, and go with her to fill an honored position in her house in San Francisco. All the little Rubies call me "Aunt Nonny," and I am happy.

FARM GOSSIP.

Never tolerate a farm hand that abuses your team.

Never buy farming implements on the recommendation of a stranger alone.

Impure air, foul water and untidiness—the three unpardonable sins for the dairy.

Charred corn, wheat, oats, rye, or buckwheat, are good for poultry once in a while.

Cows that are fed exclusively on hay, have a stronger desire for water than if fed on other kinds of fodder.

The wildest colts if properly handled, often become the quietest and safest, generally developing into the most enduring horses.

Raw eggs, shells and all are recommended as a remedy for scours in cattle. Pull out the tongue, crack the egg, clap it on the root of the tongue, and let go. Two or three are enough for a young calf; from that up to two dozen for a cow. It is also the best cure for loss of cud.

The first insect of importance that appears is the small black flea or jumping beetle, that attacks the cabbage, radish, turnip, etc. Dusting with Paris green mixed with one hundred times its weight of plaster will prove an effectual remedy. This must be done when the plants are wet and after every rain.

According to the best evidence obtainable on the subject there is more profit to the dairyman in medium and small cattle than in larger ones. Those who are now advocating the general purpose cow, claim that she must be large in order to make good paying beef. For my part we can not see why a large steer is any more profitable than a smaller one. Each animal sells by the pound and eats according to his size. Cuts from the carcass of large animals cost no more in market than cuts from small ones.

If Coal oil is whipped up with an equal quantity of sour milk it forms a sort of soap or elmusion which can be dissolved in water without separating from it, as clear coal oil does. One tablespoonful of this emulsion dissolved in a pailfull of water destroys slugs, worms, lice and beetles. It will destroy the large, stinking squash-bug but to destroy him it must be made much stronger and applied forcibly, which always increases its effiency, To apply this most successfully one should have a greenhouse syrange, atomizer or spraying machine.

THE State of Louisiana will probably appropriate $100,000 in aid of the New Orleans cotton exposition. A bill to that effect has passed the House.

SEVEN Democratic State Conventions are to be held this week—Arkansas, Florida, Indiana, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, and South Carolina.

THE State committee of the Greenback party will meet at Albany July 16, to fix the time and place for holding a State convention and transacting other business.

AT the Democratic State convention Hon. W. A. Poucher, of Oswego, was made member of the State Committee from this district, and Hon. J. A. Clark of Pulaski was made elector for this district.

GOVERNOR CLEVELAND refused to sign the Grand Army bill, which provided that none but members in good standing should wear the badge. The necessity of this law is well understood by all G. A. R. men.

EX-CONGRESSMAN William E. Niblack, now a Judge, of Indiana, is said to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Vice-President, provided McDonald fails to get that for the Presidency and it is given to an Eastern man.

THE New York Herald publishes the preferences of the Democratic delegates of this State as follows: Outspoken for Cleveland 28, known to be for Cleveland 7, non-committal 10, views not known or obtained 13, for Bayard 5, for Flower 4, for Hancock 10.

THE "assisted emigration" business, by which the country is being filled up with foreign paupers, is still going on uninterruptedly. Boston has just received another ship load of the beggars. It is time some action was taken to put a stop to this outrage.—New York Truth.

GROVER CLEVELAND will go to the Chicago Convention with the 72 voter of the Empire State behind him. Behind these stand the vast majority of the people of that great State, who will hail the nomination of the reform Governor of New York with great enthusiasm. And the indications are that the country will second the motion from New York with such good will as to make it practically unanimous.—[Detroit Free Press.

THE Saratoga convention, in its results, declares Governor Cleveland to be the choice of the democracy of the state for the president. The declaration is true. The facts which prove it to be true are revealed from a variety of sources. The democracy know New York to be a necessary state to carry. They know that neither political party has votes enough to carry it—but that the independents hold the balance of power.—[Albany Argus.

AT the Democratic State Convention at Saratoga last Wednesday the session was short and harmonious. The delegates to the Chicago convention were left uninstructed but a resolution was passed favoring Governor Cleveland for the Presidency. Tammany Hall was given equal representation with the County Democracy. There was better feeling throughout the convention than has been manifested at any previous Democratic State convention for years.

SOUTH SCRIBA, June 26th. [illegible] in the Fulton Patriot of the [illegible] last, under the head of Mt. Pleasant in regard to Mr. Edward Foster resigning his position as salesman of the Mt. His health has very much improved of late. Mr. Foster is a resident of this place and informed your correspondent that he had not resigned nor did he intend to, and the first he knew of the report was when he saw it in the Patriot.

The Central railroad proposes to erect an elegant station at Schenectady. A large pavilion will be erected where the present depot stands, to be connected with the station by bridges, so that passengers can reach all trains without crossing the tracks. The depot proper will be 125 feet long and 30 feet wide. The estimated cost of the brick work alone is $20,000.

The Rowell divorce case will not be tried at this term of court held at Batavia. It will probably come on at the next term but one. The defense put in by Mr. Morgan is regarded as very ingenious. Since the commencement of the action, at her husband's request and expense, Mrs. Rowell has been at Batavia. He was desirous of obtaining a settlement, but such a conclusion was not reached. The case will probably be tried, and if so, it will be stubbornly fought on both sides. The case will bring out considerable that never saw the light before.

Utica, N. Y., June 23, 188[illegible]

Our market must be getting near to the flush of the season, but whether it is to be this week or next would be a difficult question to answer. Notwithstanding the heavy sales, there was some holding back to-day, which may help to swell the transactions next week. Factorymen claim that the drought is beginning to tell on the yield of milk, and it is probably true that if this dry weather continues it will soon make a perceptible difference in the make of cheese. Meanwhile, however, we are forming a big record for the season, and beating every year since 1879. To-day we have the largest transacations of any single day since that banner year. But we can't as much for prices, which have been very weak in comparison with a week ago. Private advices from New York claimed that the best stock must be bought to sell at 9½c. This kept the ruling down, but did not prevent a considerable amount of the better grade of stock from selling above that point.

Transactions were as follows: 34 lots, 500 boxes 8¾c.; 3 lots, 400 boxes at 8 7-8 c.; 85 lots, 10,636 boxes at 9c.; 7 lots,579 boxes, at 9 1-8c.; 31 lots, 1,390 boxes, at 9¼c.: 110 at 9 3-8c.: 5 lots, 1,140 boxes, at 9½c.. and one lot, 130 boxes, at private terms. Sales, 14,915 boxes; commissions, 1,542; total 16,457 boxes. Ruling price 9c. Corresponding day last year, 15,856 boxes, ruling price 10 3-8c. Year before, 6,979 boxes; ruling price, 10 5 8c,

AT LITTLE FALLS.

CHEESE—From private advices, as well as from the published reports of last week's New York market, everybody was prepared for lower prices today. The average decline here is a little more than one-half cent per pound. There was a large offering, dairymen appreciating the fact that still lower prices are threatening; buyers appeared ready to take the stock and trade was active, and prices were firm at the decline. All realize that the extreme hot weather will be severe on cheese during transit, but it is believed that by far the greater portion is in such good condition as to arrive at its destination little affected by the heat. It was a question in much doubt till quite late which price, either 8¾c. or 9c., was to be the "ruling" rate or, as some term it, the "bulk price." As a large amount of cheese was bought at this "bulk price" it became a matter of much importance that this rate be fixed without question. But at the close the higher rate clearly had it, which will of course, 'please the dairymen. Following are the transactions:

Lots	Boxes	Price
9	634	8½
41	3,112	8¾
48	4,026	9
4	445	p. t.
16	1,127	Com
118	9,674
Farm Dairy	5,176
Total	11,250

FARM DAIRIES.—There was an unusually large amount of farm cheese offered, including the usual proportion of the smaller factories producing home trade cheese. There was a very active demand for this class of stock and prices ruled well up with factories, 8½ and 8¼ cents,' four lots at the latter figure; the bulk went at 9cts.

BUTTER.—There were 90 packages of creamery butter sold at 20c., and 40 packages of dairy at the same price.

AT FULTON.

The market was unusually dull Monday night. There was 26 factories represented with 1,890 boxes. The price paid was 8¼ Utica ruling was 9cts. The price one year ago was 10¼; two years ago 10¼; three years ago, 9¼; four years ago 6¼; five years ago, 5½.

The second largest source of revenue to the U. S. Government from any one branch of business, is derived from the production and manufacture of tobacco. Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co., of Durham N. C., claims to be the largest manufacturer of Smoking Tobacco in the world. The reputation of Blackwell's Genuine Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco is too firmly established to need any commendation at our hands. In another column our readers will notice their new announcement which is of interest to all lovers of the weed. The company are perfetly responsible, and when they announce that they will give away $11,950 in cash, it is an assured fact that they mean just what they say. Smokers will find an opportunity of combining business with pleasure by reading their announcement.

OBITUARY NOTES.

On Wednesday afternoon of last week at about 5 o'clock,(shortly after we ment to press), Mr. S. R. Spooner, who for the past year has been more or less confined to the house by sickness, and of late has been a great sufferer, departed this life at the age of 66. The deceased moved from Mexico to Fulton about three years ago. He was widely known in Mexico and vicinity having resided there 35 years previous to his removal here. His occupation during life was that of a contractor and was connected with many public works throughout the State. Mr. Spooner when in health was a portly man, weighing at least 200 pounds, but his illness had so greatly reduced him in flesh that at his death he would hardly weigh half that. The deceased had many friends and acquaintances, and was universally respected. His word was his honor. He leaves a wife one son and a daughter to mourn his loss. His funeral services were held at his late residence on Rochester street Friday morning at 8:30, and at Mexico at the Episcopal church at 1 o'clock p. m., Rev. Mr. Beaubien officiated at the house and also at Mexico.

Mrs. Martha Baulch died last Friday at the residence of her son, Eugene Cooke, of Oswego Falls, aged 76 years. The funeral occurred Sunday at 2 p. m. from the house. Rev. Markham officiated.

Katie, daughter of Frank and Mary LaVick, died yesterday morning aged 8 months and 10 days. The burial will take place from the house to-day at 2 p. m.

[illegible] Graduating Class—His Address to the Class.—Exercises at School No. 2, Lower Oswego Falls.

The Presbyterian church was well filled last evening to listen to the annual sermon before the graduating class by Rev. W. F. Markham. The discourse was an able one and fitted for the occasion. The text was taken from Prov. 24-3, "Through wisdom is a house builded." At the conclusion, Mr. Markham made a short address to the class his subject being "Life Building" in which he said:

In our day the advantages of the student are great. It is not surprising that so many do well. You have been enjoying some of the privileges of preparation, as you leave them there must needs come to you a sense of loss. But your real work lies before you and there is room and call for you to work. Remember the higher plains of living and doing are never crowded. There was never a time in the world's history when life had more meaning than now or when there was greater need of care in its handling. The forces that effect character and destiny and are very subtle and not easily recognized in their full importance. Race barriers, cast barriers and sex barriers are being broken down and the individual is coming into prominence, so that all of high opportunities belonging to the noon-time of our civilization belong equally to each member of this class. You have come to a cross road of life. Take the right hand it leads by the sunny ways of virtue into a wide peaceful land, full of light and of harvests. Remember this in the day of Christ and so the day of divine help. To hear and heed Christ's words is to build wisely and well. Under his leadership let me exhort you to high purpose, definite plan, and careful construction in your life building.

The closing exercises of the graduating class of '84 take place in the Opera House on Friday evening of this week. Music will be furnished by Andelfinger's Orchestra. Admission 10 cents. Mrs. Grundy's Perspiring Mood.

A sign of the time is the large number of "desirable country seats" for sale or to let by real estate agents. Another sign is the refreshing coolness that pervades Kent & Miller's great summer clothing house, 18 and 20 South Salina street.

A visit to the various physician's offices reveals the fact that very few cases of pneumonia have occured recently by reason of imprudent doffing of overcoats at Kent & Miller's, over coats have given place to the thinest of alpaca, and other diaphanous goods.

It is reported already from some of the rural resorts that boarding house keepers are asking why their boarders do not pay their bills. The fact probably is that the extreme heat has required a light expenditure for the latest styles of ventilated clothing. Kent & Miller can explain where money can be made to go farthest in the purchase of their goods for men and boys.

O. & W. at Oswego, are casting about to retain the summer travel, and it is now rumored that they will build a branch from Watertown to Clayton in order to get their New York passengers to the Thousand Islands in time for the Rothesay and the trip to Montreal.

Fulton was well represented at Conde's picnic last Saturday. There was all sorts of amusements and excellent music by the Oswego City band. A very interesting match game of ball was played between an Oswego club and a picked nine from Oswego Falls and Fulton which resulted in a score of 17 to 19 in favor of Fulton. L. & W. depot in that city yesterday forenoon where he paid a freight bill from a package of bank notes, taking therefrom ten dollars. He had a package of ninety dollars left which he placed in his vest pocket. On reaching Wallace's grocery, he discovered that the ninety dollars had disappeared.

The Johnson house was never in a more prosperous condition than at the present time. The proprietor, Mr. J. C. Dresser has enlarged the capacity of room in his hotel by fitting up the room adjoining him on the ground floor. He has elegantly furnished this apartment which will be used as a general parlor or sitting room. A door has been cut through into the dining-hall while there is an entrance from the street thus making it very convenient. A suit of rooms have been fitted up in the rear of the parlor for the use of the family. This improvement denotes prosperity.

Alumni Banquet.

Last evening a rare treat was enjoyed by a select few. The class of '83 of Fulton Union School gave a supper at the Clark House to the Principal and teachers of the Academic Department and to the class of '84.

In the early part of the evening the party assembled in the hotel parlors and listened to the following class exercises conducted by the president, Chas Young:

Class prophecy—Chas. Howe.
Class poem—Zuilee Hubbard.
Class oration—Edward Hill.
Class songs—Class.

At the close of the exercises the President arose and delivered a brief address of welcome, extending a hearty invitation to those present to partake of the bounteous repast set for them in the dining room. The tables were loaded with choicest delicacies of the season and beautiful bouquets graced the board and filled the room with fragrance. Elysian dreams and joy and laughter filled the fleeting hours, when at last nature cried "Hold, enough." The toast-master, Chas. Young, called upon the following members to respond to the toasts named:

Our Alma Mater - Prof. Boothby.
"The bubbling fount from which the the Gods do drink."
Fulton - - Chas. Howe
"The home of the mermaid and the land of the petrified snake."
Class of '84 - Frank Boothby
"The sun ne'er shone on such as this."
The professions - Clarence Hall
"I teach, I say, I heal—trio of the world's goods."
The teachers - Miss Lawrence
"The bulwark of the nation's greatness."
Our Alumni - Miss Fuller
"At whose sight the stars hide their diminished heads."
The future - Frank Waterman
"The proof of the past is the prophecy of the future."
The members of the scientic course of '84. - Mr. Hoff

About 1 a. m. the company dispersed feeling that their host and hostess were second to none. Six courses were served and Mrs. Clark added one more brilliant gem to her crown of success.

Cornell Graduates.

D. H. Decker, H. P. DeForest and H. E. Case of Fulton were graduated at Cornell university on Thursday last. Mr. DeForest was graduated in Science and Letters, Mr. Case in History and Political Science. Mr. Decker was one of the six whose theses were counted worthy of being presented to the public. He was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Philosiphy and a diploma in military science. His subject at the commencement was "The mythological views of nature revived in Wordsworth." The Ithica Democrat says: Mr. D. H. Decker portrayed the relationship between nature and the soul of man. Tho' spiritual feeling for nature and the power of siritually interpreting it are found in the greatest purity in poetry of Wordsworth. He has most successfully exhibited nature in connection with some internal passion or moral thought in the heart and mind of man. The poems which best portray his strength are spontaneous and unconcious in acknowledgement of the granduer of the universe in its relation to the soul. The primitive man felt and showed in his allegorical mode of expression the effect which the phenomena attending them had upon his internal being. Wordsworth at an early age discovered in nature the true means of studying the will of his Maker and proclaimed nature itself to be "the breath of God."

The Hon. George M. Case, wife and daughter, and Miss May French were present at the commencement exercises.

Some years ago Mr. Douglass carried on a photograph business in Fulton and is well known here by many.

The man who wants his name kept out of the paper is just the one who don't believe in the virtue of advertising. Ask him for a local notice and he will tell you that no one reads the paper, but just let him be found flirting with another man's wife, walking off with funds not his own, or trying to hold up a lamp post some dark night, and he'll climb seven pair of winding stairs, and beg on his bended knees that the item should be suppressed. It makes a difference in the minds of some whose ox is gored when an article is to appear in public print.—Ex.

"THE LOVELY VILLAGE BY THE RIVER SIDE."

What a Former Fultonian Sees on His Return.

If any one doubts that Fulton is growing let him go away from this pleasant village and remain but for one single year, and he will then see such marked changes that he will readily admit that the improvement and prosperity is apparent. As your correspondent alights from the train coming from Syracuse, the first thing he noticed two busses instead of one and passengers enough to nearly fill both. As we neared the village on the west side, and took in the outlines hundreds of new dweillings met the view, some of them really pretentious and of handsome build. The new Congregational church so prominent and so tasty in its artitecture attracts the most attention from the passer by. It is an ornament to the town and a lasting honor to the few energetic and persistent citizens who projected and pushed it to completion. Opposite this is the new and really beau i'ul Johnston block (not Johnson) but the young tradesman of Fulton, with branch business in Oswego Falls, and by whose energy and good management he has built this neat and substantial brick block with its conveient public hall, and adjoining the old, stately Howe block with its new paint etc, showed thrift and live ownership. Accross from the great factories—that they can be constantly overlooked—is fast approaching completion the fine Queen Ann residence, built for the new superintendent, Mr. E. Maertin. This will be a little gem so charicteristic of the accomplished architect, Asa L. Merrick of Syracuse, and close by the grand foundations of the celebrated "brown stone of Oswego River" are being laid for a long dining hall and reading room and library, built by the factory company expressly to accommodate their 1,200 operatives where they can all repair to take their noon meal and receive hot coffee and enjoy a happy nooning. This fine dining hall above the basement floor will be provided with all the modern improvements and will be large enough to accommodate a thousand people. This company never does things by halves and is constantly adding to the appointments for more complete srcial, literary and sanitary improvement of their "village full" of operatives.

The buider of this rapidly growing town is Mr. George J. Emeny, whose push and readiness to help has extended clear across the river into Fulton and nearly every street in town shows the pleasing work of his hands. We ride down First street and the neat residences show nicely kept lawns with a number of new blocks of modern style. The Lewis house with its rejuvenited entrance; its newly decorated halls and reading rooms—all inviting rest and comfort. The new fronts of massive plate glass, cased with handsome cherry woods give First street a metropolitan look, while the display of wares quite reminded one of State street, Chicago or Broadway New York. The names of several new business firms was noticed. John Hadcock dealers in books and stationary, and Mead & Stranahan, attorneys at law. The entrance to the latter is that of Nichols hall at the top of the stairs, turn either to right or left and, and, in time you will wish you had taken the—other perhaps. Soon we shall be able to read our TIMES in the street by electric light, for young America's blood has it in charge, and soon too, the never ceasing fall of the grandest river in the world will turn the wheels and force its clear waters into every home in Fulton, and hold itself in readiness to extinguish any fire. Improvements are making on every side and the beauty and freshness of the shaded streets, the sweetness and fragrance of the grand public park, and the many elegantly and well kept lawns so suggestive of "Sweet Home" makes the return to our former home pleasant indeed and proves more than ever that his early christening was correct, "The Lovely Village by the River Side."

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

About sixty million copies of The Sun have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of The Sun printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon then back to Printing House Square, and then three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of this earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or grandfather has spent another hour this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know The Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

TERMS TO MAIL SUBSCRIBERS.

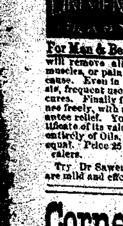
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

For Man & Beast.

How Watch Cases are Made.

The many great improvements introduced in the manufacture of the Jas. Boss' Gold Watch Case, have led to similar improvements in the making of Silver cases.

Under the old methods, each part of a silver case was made of several pieces of metal soldered together, requiring a great amount of cutting and soldering, which softened the metal and gave it the pliability of lead rather than the elasticity of silver.

Under the improved methods, each part of the Keystone Silver Watch Case is made of one solid piece of metal hammered into shape. The advantages are readily apparent, for every one knows that hammering hardens the metal while soldering softens it.

To test the superiority of the Keystone Silver Watch Case, take one of 3 oz. weight, press it squarely in the center when closed, and it will not give, while a case of same weight of any other make will give enough to break the crystal. The Keystone Silver Watch Case is made only with silver cap and gold joints.

Send 3 cent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factories, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how James Boss' and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

RELIGIOUS READING.

The last birthday of Queen Victoria was fitingly celebrated in Berlin by the laying of the corner-stone of the first English of that city. The ceremony was performed by the Princess Royal of England, asisted by her husband the, Crowned-Prince of Germany. The occasion is said to have been a very interesting one, alike suitable and picturesque.

An English newspaper records the astonishing fact that the guardians of a workshop not far from Southampton had resolved, at the instance of the chaplain, to suppress a meeting for prayer and Bible reading held by a few Non-conformist inmates in one of the rooms of the instution. One of the guardians, a general in the army, protested against the suppression, saying he had been connected with the army for over fifty years and had never known such intolerance.

Governor Robinson of Massachusetts in a recent address in Boston said: "Yesterday I visited the South Boston the South Boston House of Correction, and as I passed around through the shops and looked the men in their faces, and as I went into the female department and saw the inmates there, I said to the master, 'Rum has done about all this work,' 'Yes,' said he; nearly all is the harvest of intoxicating drink.'" "On the contrary, I find the animal very convenient."

"How so?"

"To chew boarding-house beefsteak for me."—Paris Beacon.

"No, not in the way of any special pain. I had up to that time enjoyed even unusual good health. The best physicians in the city told me the neck of my bladder was terribly inflamed; still they said there was no traces of calculus or stone. At times I could scarcely walk so great was the pain caused by the inflammation. Tried to obtain relief? To be sure. Every sense of self-preservation drove me to that. I paid one physician [illegible] just to examine my case, and he recommend little and did less."

"What chance had you if the art of medicine failed?"

"The art of medicine did not fail. Only the doctors failed. I stumbled over a proprietary medicine manufactured at Rondout, N. Y., called Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. The package was sold, it was only one dollar a bottle —not that I thought of that though. I was hopeless of help, it could not harm, and I bought and tried it. When the third bottle was empty my appetite and flesh began to return, and the pain and inflammation was gone, and have not come back. What I think of FAVORITE REMEDY is this; its discovery was an inspiration."

FIGURES WON'T LIE.

The figures showing the enormous sales of Kidney-Wort demonstrate its value as a medicine beyond dispute. It is a purely vegetable compound of certain roots, leaves and berries known to have special value in kidney troubles. Combined with these are remedies acting directly upon the Liver and bowels. It is because of this combined action that Kidney-Wort has proved such an unequalled remedy in all diseases of these organs.

Rheumatic Syrup Co.:

Gents:—I feel it my duty to recommended your wonderful medicine—"Rheumatic Syrup"—to all who are suffering with rheumatism neuralgia or kidney difficulty.

I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism caused by kidney difficulty, and have been treated by our best physicians, but they failed to reach my case or benefit me in the least.

I saw in the Auburn papers the names of a number who had been permenently cured by the use of Rhenmatic Syrup, and, being acquainted with many of them, I was induced to try it, and to my surprise I found all pain had left me and before I had finished the first bottle. I continued its use for a time and to-day I am as well as ever and feel no more pain or trouble with my kidneys. It has been several months since I discontinued its use, so I know it is a mermanent cure in my case.

I can testify that Rhenmatic Syrup will do all yes more than you claim for it.

I am yours truly,
MRS. HATTIE PADDOCK.

LOWELL, Mass., March 25, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: I think it is due to you that I should make the following statement, and I make it voluntarily and willingly: On the 4th day of June, 1881, I was taken with what was called paralysis of the bowels. The seizure was unexpected and terrible. The stomach and other organs seemed to sympathize with it and to have lost all power of action. For a long time my life was despaired of, but at length I recovered so far as to be able to ride out. By the advice of my phisician I visited Poland Springs (Vt.) hoping to benefit from the waters. But they did me no good. Neither were the best physicians of Lowell and Boston, whom I consulted, able to afford me more than transient relief. I gained no strength and my case appeared almost hopeless. In the Fall a friend advised me to try KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, and although opposed to patent medicines, I made the trial. To make a long story short—FAVORITE REMEDY, in my opinion, saved my life. I consider it the best preparation in the world for stomach difficulties, as well as of the Liver and other organs. I am glad to say it is in general use among the R. R. men in this vicinity.

Yours, etc., A. J. GIFFORD.

Mr. Gifford is the Master Mechanic of the Lowell division of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, and his illness and recovery are known to many who can testify to the facts in his letter.

Use this medicine for all diseases of the Blood, Kidneys, Liver, Stomach, Bowels, and Skin. It may save you or yours from pain and death.

What He Said.

I'll tell you the story—
...ery words that were said.
... the supper was cooking,
... I was slicing some bread,
... Richard came into the pantry;
... face was exceedingly red.

... opened his half-shut fingers,
And have me glimps of a ring;
And then—oh, yes, I remember,
The kettle began to sing.
And Fanny came in with her baby—
The cunningest bit of a thing.

And the biscuit were out in a minute—
Well, what came next? Let me see—
Oh, Fannie was there with the baby,
And we all sat down to tea.
And grandma looked over her glasses
So queer at Richard and me.

But it wasn' till after milking
That he said what he had to say.
How was it? Oh, Fanny had taken the baby and gone away—
The funniest rogue of a fellow—
He had a new tooth that day.

We were standing under the plum tree,
And Richard said something low,
But I was tired and flustered,
And trembled, I almost know;
For old Red is the hardest of milkers,
And Brindle so horribly slow.

And that—let me see—where was I?
Oh! the stars grow thick o'er head,
And we two stood under the plum tree
Till the chickens flew up to bed—
Well, he loved me, and we are to be married—
And that is—about what he said.

MISS GLYNN'S ADVENTURE.

Many years ago there stood at the crossroads between Brixton and Crampton county an old farmhouse, built in a style that few of remember, with large, cheerful rooms and windows that opened on to a carefully trimmed lawn. Roses and honey suckles grew there in rich profusion, and in the fall bright yellow chrysanthomums decked the garden beds.

A long, shady avenue of trees so obscured the house that in the summer it seemed like "a lodge in some vast wilderness," and so lonely that in spite of its beauty a timid person would have hesitated to buy it.

But Miss Glynn was not a timid person. She had lived thirty-five years in this vale of tears without encountering either ghosts or burglars, and she pursued the even tenor of her way through seed-time and harvest, without any apparent desire for companship or relief from the monotony of her existence.

People said that she had a romance early in youth which ended in cruel disappointment, and that when her father died and left her sole prossessor of the old homestead she had decided to keep on living there, hiding from a curious world the one sorrow of her life.

However, that may be, Miss Glynn kept her own secrets. The door of the closet which contained her skeleton was never open, and when any one from the the neighboring village did call on her they found her cheeriedly at work, the the house was as neat as wax-work and every sign of a well regulated household.

One night (I have this story from Miss Glynn's own lips) there was a wedding at Brixton, a hamlet some five miles distant, and her cook and housemaid, being related to the bride, desired to attend it.

There was no way for them to get there unless John Thorne, the farmer, drove them over and stayed to bring them back.

Now Miss Glynn, as I said before was no coward, and she was moreover, very indulgent to her farm hands, so she said: "You may go; I am not at all afraid to be left a lone; be sure to return in time for the morning's work."

In a wing of the old house slept Jim Sanford, the chore boy, a half-witted fellow, maybe 15 years old who would have been no use as a protector; but Miss Glynn laughingly unchained Don, the great watch dog, more to satisfy the servants, than from any nervous fears of her own. And when the usual time came for retiring she went up to to her lonely room with as little dread of the shadows of night falling on the old house as if a regiment of mounted dragoons kept guard out side her window.

She said she had fallen into a slight doze when something, she never knew what, awakened her. No moon shone in through the old-fashion gablet windows, and every thing was plunged in that profund stillness and intense silence which can be felt.

A peculiar consiousness of another presence in the room came over Miss Glynn. It oppressed her she tried to shake it off, to think of something else —to go to sleep. The distant bark of a watch dog fell on her ears. She endeavoured to weary herself by counting the barks—in vain; above and beyond all other ideas was the persistent and haunting one—that in her chamber somewhere another human being was concealed.

Mrs. Glynn was an energetic woman, her resolves were but the prelude to immediate action. All of a sudden the darkness became intolerable to her, and without any actual fear, but more for a longing desire for a ray of light, she stretched out her hand to reach a match from the little table beside her bed, only to feel it gently but firmly grasped.

Not a cry escaped her, all her wonderful power of self-control came to her aid, and, without struggling, she merely asked:

"Who is there?"

A man's voice answered from the curtain beside the bed:

"... Am sorry to disturb your ... but I should be much obliged ... show me what valuables ... the house. As my time is ... [illegible]

"Sir," said she in the same polite tone he had adopted, it is embarrassing for me to rise and dress myself in the presence of a gentleman. I will accommodate you but I must request that you will step outside the door while I make my toilet."

With a bow her visitor left her, having glanced cautiously around the chamber to assure himself that she had no other means of exit, and took his post just outside in the old-fashioned hall, whistling softly to himself or humming an air from one of the operas.

And she—?

During the five minutes in which she made her hasty toilet Miss Glynn had not only hidden in her bosom a bunch of bank notes, but had laid her plans for checkmating the gentlemanly burglar.

"I am ready," said she, throwing open the door, and looking as trim and neat as if she had prepared herself for congenial company.

He glanced admiringly at her as she stood there, the flicker of the candle casting a glimmer of light and shadow over her white dressing gown. Affable and smiling she met him, not a quaver in her voice, not a bit less color in her healthy cheeks.

Having produced a large sack, requested, with many appologies, to be shown the silver with which he filled his bag. Nothing excepted—not even an old knife and fork given her when a baby by her godfather and which she valued as a relic.

One thing after another disappeared into the capacious sack—all her bric-a-back, little ornaments, bits of vertu, and last of all her mother's watch. "Oh, if he only had left that," cried Miss Glynn to herself, "but shaking her fist behind his back, I will be even with him yet."

All this time the man had kept up a running fire of small talk, very complimentary, indespersing it now and then with apologies for disturbing her rest.

Having at last obtained and crammed into his sack nearly every thing but a four post beadstead and the grand piano, he smiled and suggested "refreshments."

Now was Miss Glynn's chance. She acceded to his request, offering him all the dainties the larder afforded, adding that he was "welcome to what wine he could drink."

"We will finish with that, madam," said he, sitting on a flour barrel and dangling one leg, while he deliberately and daintily picked a chicken bone, helping himself now and then to some pickled olives, which he pronounced "excellent."

"Madame," said he, puasing to glance at her, "you are a very charming person. I am proud to have met you; it is seldom in the paths of my profession that I have met your equal in pluck, eligence or manner, beauty of expression and delightful convercation. What do you say to a union between us? I am poor but honest, with a deilious appreciation of his joke, and you are too fair a flower to waste your sweetness on this desert air—yum, yum, yum, he mumbled "these olives are like yourself—admirable."

"I feel honored" said Miss Glynn, 'Your proposal is flattery, but I should like some references."

"References! Madame, I have thousands of them. I have killed two men, broken into ten banks, served in Sing Sing six years for stealing a watch, and——"

"You are undoubtedly a remarkable person," said Miss Glynn, with an unpleasant conviction that he would add the "murder of one woman" to the "two men" in his next adventure if her wits failed her.

"We will talk of matrimony when our appetite is satisfied," said she. "We can then chat at our ease."

"And you can soothe my savage breast with melody on that piano" added he, with a bow. "And now for the wine, the the wine, sparkling wine! I was once a poet, in the days of my youth," he remarked. "Would you have thought it?"

"I would not!" answered Miss Glynn, opening the door to the wine cellar. "Will you walk down with me and help yourself?"—turning round with a smile, made all the brighter by the flickering of the tallow candle she carried.

"Ah!" cried he, smacking his lips, for down a flight of stone steps he beheld bin after bin of bottles, and in imagination he already tasted their fragrant juices. No fear of the weak woman by his side entered his brain; no memory of Jael occurred to him. Down these stone stairs he tripped, and went from one bottle to another, examining their labels as a bee sucks honey from a flower, she holding the light.

"These," said Miss Glynn, leading the way to the far end of the cellar, where there was one big bin larger and deeper than the rest, in which were two bottles, "these," you will find in excellent condition. My father had them direct from Spain in —80, and they must be in magnificent order.

"What is the label?" he inquired, bending over, with the eye of a connoisseur, to examine it.

Like lightning she tipped up his heels and in he fell, head first, right into the bin, and blowing out the candle she ran for her life to the cellar steps, up which she went quicker than she had ever ascended them before.

Breathless and panting she reached the top and shut the door, which closed only with a key. Her senses told her that she was now doubly in danger; he had been in good temper but if he got out she would have to contend with a desperate ruffian. This frail door would be nothing for such a man; he could break it down like a reed.

With her frail strength the dauntless ... [illegible] —on which she could lay her hands, he meanwhile cursing down stairs and trying to fumble his way to the top'

She said that in all her life she never worked so hard, or possessed so much strength as when constructing that barricade between herself and utter destruction.

At this crisis she thought of Don, the great watch dog and wondered at his silence.

Running to the back door, which she found wide open, she saw him stretched dead at his post.

No time could she waste in sentimental regret, but as she returned to guard her fortress the tears rushed to her eyes as she remembered the many lonely evening she and Don had watched the dancing firelight in the old sitting room together and how he had never failed to show her the most untiring and unselfish devotion.

A weaker woman would have run away, but Miss Glynn was made of no such metal. The servants would be home at four o'clock; it was then two, and during those intervening hours she proposed to remain and protect her property.

Seizing an old gun of her father's, which had always stood in the hall, she took her post at the cellar door, waiting for what might come.

It was not loaded, "but an empty gun has done wonders before, and may again," she said to herself.

It was not long before the man found the steps and his way up them, and then began such battering at that door, such volleys of abuse, oaths and curses, as nearly curdled her blood, and which, she declares, rang in her ears for many a day afterward.

Think of those two hours for that woman, alone, and with only an unloaded gun to protect her against the ruffian!

But she lived through it. Providence and that dining table protected her.

He was a strong man, but he had taken a deep draught of wine before he came up and he was more unsteady than when he want down, so when the the servants came home, tired and sleepy from their junketing, they found her there, white as death, but firm as ever.

John Thorn took a horse, saddled it and rode furiously to a neighboring farm-house, and in twenty minutes three strong men opened the cellar door and pinioned the hero of the night.

And Miss Glynn?

Oh, she got over the effects of her adventure though she never afterward allowed her servant to leave her alone at night, and she told me that she always kept a loaded revolver by her bedside. And I know this story is true, for Miss Glynn was my aunt.

And the burglar?

Oh, he added another six years' dissipation at Sing Sing to his former list of "references."

A Public Benefactor

Wm. H. Steiner, Member of the Editorial Staff of the New York Herald; also Ex-Commissioner of Excise New York City, 48 Ann S., Says:

Dr. M. M. Fenner, Fredonia, N. Y.—Dear Sir—I have been a great sufferer from biliousness, nervous irritation, and dyspepsia for years. My friend, Hon. H. C. Lake of New York Custom House, induced me to try your Blood and Liver remedy and Nerve Tonic. By the use of two bottles I have realized a complete restoration to health. I look upon it as the greatest remedy of the age, and upon you, as the compounder of the same as a public benefactor"

Effects of Music.

Uncultivated and neglected ground soon partakes of the vagrant atmosphere and its concomitants. Precisely so with a dormant emotion. It is not necessary that one's intelligence must be cultivated before an effect may be produced by a combination of time, place, circumstances, and natural or artificial music.

For an illustration, the reader of the following can judge of its effect on their own poetical and musical intelligence, as it is not intended to appeal directly to the intellectual faculties. or the mind mathematical. After a careful reading of the whole aloud close the eyes and for an instant imagine it as read and an exquisite effect follows akin to one produced by actual music.

In this mood the Earl entered the superb precincts of the pleasance, then illumined by the full moon. The broad yellow light was reflected on all sides from the white free-stone, of which the pavement, balustrades, and architectural ornaments of the palace were constructed; and not a single fleecy cloud was visible in the azure sky, so that the scene was nearly as light as if the sun had but just left the horizon.

The numerous statues of white marble glimmered in the pale light, like so many sheeted ghosts just arisen from their sepulchers, and the fountains threw their jets into the air, as if they sought that their waters should be brightened by the moonbeams, ere they fell down again upon their basins in showers of sparkling silver. The day had been sultry and the gentle night-breeze, which sighed along the terrace of the pleasance, raised not a deeper breath than the fan in the hand of youthful beauty. The bird of summer night had built many a nest in the bowers of the adjacent garden, and the tenants now indemnified themselves for silence during the day by a full chorus of their own united warblings, now joyous, now pathetic, now united, now responsive to each other, as if to express their delight in the placid and delicious scene to which they poured their melody.

SCENE FROM KENILWORTH.

Now bring the reasoning forces to bear upon this, and it is apparent that Sir Walter Scott, who drew the sketch we have quoted, has eliminated every tone, either vowel or consonant, that would in the remotest imagining call for any combination of words, which might evoke aught, except a full and powerful exercise of one's emotional intelligence. Observe the anatomy of the drawing—moonlight, music, love and flowers—A combination of beauties calculated to wake the wish and melt the heart of almost any one.

As our bark stems the billows of the ocean of illusions, darkness swaths the brow like cerements. Hoarse and hollow alarums smite the ear. The shrieking waters drench and engulph. The polaric blasts roll each portentious cloud forth and faster away. All conspires against the frail and helpless. Roar on, Waters! Blow, ye Winds. The dawn approacheth! Now we are in port—Here we anchor, and here we abide—safe for our anchor is secure on the solid foundation of Art, in its sublimest character.

THE Cholera is raging in Europe.

BOOMS will soon be a thing of the past.

ONLY two failures occurred on Wall street last week.

THE organization of Democratic campaign clubs will soon be in order.

IT seems that Samuel J. Tilden is yet a possible presidential candidate.

AT a boiler explosion at Stryker, O., last Friday night eleven men were killed.

THE name of Payne was hissed in a Democratic District Convention last Friday.

THE New York Times estimates Governor Cleveland's strength at the National convention as receiving of the 802 votes 398 of them.

IF the Democratic Convention puts in its platform a plank for free trade or tariff for revenue only, they will certainly be defeated. This will give the Republicans good ground to fight on. They should choose well their platform.

PRESIDENT DARLING of Hamilton College is asked to resign, but refuses to do so. From the rumors which have found their way to the public ear it appears the President has been too independent to truckle to the senior class, and hence the trouble.

HON. WILLIAM A. POUCHER of Oswego is among those appointed to investigate and report upon the system of forest preservation. The appointees are to serve without compensation, as the disbursements and press work are likely to consume nearly all the appropriation.

THE Tammany delegates to the Democratic National convention, together with a numerous following, will leave New York by the New York Central road Saturday morning, July 5, at 9 o'clock. A special train of fifteen cars and four locomotives has been chartered. There will be 449 persons in the party.

THE New York Times in speaking of the Ohio State Democratic Convention favoring Mr. Tilden says: "The formal declaration in favor of Tilden may be regarded as a temporary cover for the position, of the delegation, but as Cleveland is distinctly Tilden's political legatee there is little doubt that it can be easily swung to his support."

HORATIO SEYMOUR declares for Cleveland. He says Governor Cleveland's course has been an admirable one for the best interest of our state, and he commands the approval of all fair-minded men without regard to party. In the present condition of the Republican party in New York Governor Cleveland would be voted for by many Republicans."

IN the Board of Trade inquiry at Glascow, last Monday, into the loss of the steamship State of Florida and the bark Ponema it was decided that Thomson, the chief officer of the State of Florida was to blame for the calamity. The court advised the suspension of Thomson's certificate as a master for six months, he, meanwhile, to be allowed a mate's certificate.

THERE will not likely be any improvement in the trades this summer. The experience of Presidential election years is that business remains in a slumbering mood until the heat of the political campaign has subsided. In the late fall there will probably be the beginning of revival with steady and fair trade and prices for some time thereafter.—[Labor Tribune.

THE Post Office Department has completed the annual readjustment of the salaries of postmasters. The number of Presidential post offices is 2,285, and 38 third class offices went into operation July 1, making a total of 2,323. Because of the decreased receipts 72 offices have been relegated to the fourth class. The salaries of postmasters under the readjustment amount to $3,831,000 against $3,707,000 under the previous readjustment.

THE National Democratic State Convention will be held at Chicago next Tuesday July 8. It is very difficult to state with verocity who the choice will be. The cry for the "old ticket" is heard on every side despite the candid refusal of Mr. Tilden to accept. While Governor Cleveland's chances look as favorable as any it would not be surprising if he was defeated at Chicago. Tammany seems inclined to bolt him. The New York Sun does not come out openly for him, but the independant voters throught the country will support him. He is without doubt the strongest candidate in the Democratic party with the exception of Mr. Tilden and he is that gentleman's preference. If it is Mr. Tilden's request that Governor Cleveland be tendered the nomination the Democratic party will feel honor bound to grant it.

OUR CHICAGO LETTER.

One Week to the Convention and no Candidate Decided Upon. Exposition Hall to be Enlarged. All Want to see General Butler.

CHICAGO, June 30.—In one week the Democratic National Convention will be in full blast, and yet at this late day all is in doubt as to who is the strongest candidate. A month before the Republican convention the first choice of most of the delegates was known and published to the world and the lines were drawn much as they appeared during the last few days of the preliminary canvass, and at the battle at convention hall in this city. And some pretty good predictions were made on the result of the first ballot. As the readers of THE TIMES will remember the failure to nominate Arthur came from a determination on the part of the independents to nominate Edmunds or nobody—unless it might be Curtiss. But he would be a rash prophet who should attempt to forecast the votes that Cleveland or Bayard, Randall or McDonald will receive next week. No great surprise will be manifested if there should be a popular call for the sage of Grammercy Park. Tilden's nomination will be received with great enthusiasm by the southern Democrats and by a majority of the northern. He will be the Blaine of the Democrat party. The common people are for him and if he was in any other hands but those of the Democratic machine manipulators, he would be unanimously nominated. But there was one strong name omitted, Ben. Butler. He is to be here headed by a band. Ten thousand portraits will be distributed early in the week. All the labor organizations in this city are to march in parade and the great notable will receive one of the grandest ovations of his life. Excursion trains will come to see him and the city will be filled with excited and interested sight-seers and Barnum's circus advertized later will be eclipsed. Some think Gen. Butler will be a strong candidate. Up to this date no one can tell who will win the race. Yesterday the sub-committee of the national committee were in session nearly all day, though no work was done. Work on the enlargement of the hall was commenced and will be prosecuted with vigor. The tickets will contain ten coupons. Fearing that New York may not come united for some candidate in which case it is thought a big fight may occur over the nomination. It here takes two-thirds to nominate and the successful one will require 567 votes—not an easy thing to obtain. Sergeant-at-arms Bright of the U. S. Senate is here selecting his assistants, door keepers and ushers. From each he requires a pledge that he will work for no candidate in or out of the convention. He is determined that door-keepers shall not admit "whoopers-up" for any particular candidate. This is what the Blaine forces said at the Republican convention but to carry it out would nearly have depopulated the convention. The prairie fires had set in and swept over the convention. The Blaine men are very active in this city and nearly every ward has already formed a strong club and of nearly every nationality under Heaven.

Yesterday arrived at the Palmer, Col. N. A. Plimpton of Boston, Butler's trusty lieutenant. He is very zealous and would labor unceasingly for his favorite. Ben. Butler will be put in nomination by ex-Mayor Palmer of Boston, an orator who had but one peer so long as Wendall Phillips lived. Colonel P. is for Butler and he looks a fine representative of the Hub.

FRANCIS MURPHY

A great number took part in the farewell demonstration last night at Farwell Hall tendered to Francis Murphy, the great apostle of temperance. During his stay 11,000 names have been enrolled on the temperance records as an earnest of his work. A number of speeches were made by his friends and a collection of over $300 was taken to help him in his good work. Mr. Murphy intimated that he might make Chicago his future home. H. N. G.

COUNTY COMMENT.

From Our Exchanges.

Sandy Creek is to have an oleomargerine tub factory.

R. C. Burton, of Watertown, publisher for the Davis Sewing Machine Co., will, in the course of a few weeks issue a publication called the "Lewis County Historical Review," embracing a history of the county and of the several towns compiled from authentic records, and to younger readers, very instructive and entertaining. In parallel columns with the historical part will be brief accounts of the present business houses of the villages of the county. Mr. Charles Chase, of Watertown is now canvassing for the same. The Watertown Post says: "Mr. Burton is a fair and square dealer, his word and promises may be implicitly relied upon. He and two or three helpers are now engaged in Oswego county, working up matter for a similar historical and business review of that county."—[Lowville Journal.

Pulaski has organized a Blaine and Logan club.

The Oswego Center cheese factory was destroyed by fire Thursday. A number of cheese, and all of the household effects of the cheese-maker were burned. There was a total insurance of only $800.

Parish.

PARISH, June 28.—Our crops are sufferers by the drouth. We have had but little rain for some time. Grass will generally be light, likewise oats. Corn appears well. Farmers are hoeing their corn and potatoes.

The office seekers have put in their appearance this season. It is said that Parish will furnish its quota—a sheriff and a school commissioner. The candidate for sheriff is a Republican, and the candidate for school commissioner a Democrat.

The Greenbackers here will support Ben. Butler with zeal for the Presidency.

The Geneva Gazette says that the many apple orchards between Phelps and Canandaigua show that terrible ravages are being made upon them by the cankerworm. The trees affected present the appearance from the car windows of blight or heavy frost, the leaves looking brown. The old bearing trees are thus far most seriously the objects of attack, but few young trees seeming to be affected. Over how wide an extent of country this pest of the apple crop is working we are yet to learn.

CHEESE MARKETS.

[From the Utica Herald.]

AT UTICA.

Salesmen were disappointed at the heavy decline to-day—½c.—but it was explained by a drop of a shilling in the cable quotation and the fact that the occurrence of the fourth of July on Friday will virtually make three holidays in the week. A few parties held back one or two days' make, but if any further decline takes place there will be a general holding back next week. Many parts of the country are exceedingly dry, and another week without rain would cause a heavy shrinkage. We hear of one factory that has been making 27 cheese, that has shrunk to 23 during the past week, and others are off in nearly equal proportion.

The marketings of the day were as follows: 8 lots, 774 boxes, at 8¼c.; 79 lots, 9,300 boxes, at 8½c.; 150 at 8⅝c.; 13 lots, 1,589 boxes, at 8¾c.; 106 at 8⅞c; 6 lots, 1,200 boxes, at 9c.; one lot, 250 boxes, at 9⅛c. Sales 13,369 boxes; consignments 2,784; total 16,153. Ruling price 8½c. This compares with 15,214 boxes a year ago, ruling price 10c., and with 10,922 boxes, ruling price 10½c., two years ago.

There was some discussion among the members of the board of the proposition made in New York to have the day of sale changed to Saturday. Most of them seemed willing to make the change, providing Little Falls would do the same. Saturday was formerly the market day, but it did not work satisfactorily to have the two markets held on separate days, and a change was made to Monday. There will have to be some agreement before a change can be accomplished in checking the decline. A trial of this policy throughout the country for a week or two can certainly have no bad effect, while it may succeed in stopping prices just where they are, without further decline. Following is our usual table of quotations:

AT LITTLE FALLS.

The market to-day has been difficult to report. The strife of the bulls and bears to influence prices in their respective interests was very apparent, and an absolutely correct report was difficult to make. There has been a large trade, which started off quite dull, but at the close business picked up and was quite brisk. Conditional sales were most common and the number of salesmen who went home without knowledge of what they will be paid for their cheese is without calculation. Although it seems to be the general opinion that prices have touched about their lowest figure, factorymen are not holding back stocks at all, so far as we could learn. All are crying halt to these low prices. There is a considerable shrinkage in milk, which must soon affect the production of cheese. But there is a wide difference in opinion among dealers as well as producers, and one guess is as good as another. Following are the sales of to-day:

Lots	Boxes	Price
1	90	7¾
9	480	8c
60	4,157	8¼
43	3,230	8½c
1	140	8¾
12	1,380	p. t.
6	371	Com
132	9,848
Farm Dairy	970
Total	10,818

FARM DAIRIES.—Nine hundred and seventy boxes of farm cheese sold at 7½ and 8¾c., the bulk at 8¼c.

BUTTER.—Fifty packages of creamery butter brought 19 and 20c.; 35 packages farm butter sold at 18 and 10c.

AT FULTON.

Two thousand and seventy boxes of cheese registered from 24 factories. The market was dull with ½ cent off in New York with the extreme warm weather and Fourth of July week takes the pluck out of buyers. The prices one year ago was 9¾; two, 10½; three, 9½; four, 8½; five, 5¼.

COMMENCEMENT.

The Class of '84—Interesting Exercises at the Different Schools.

The graduating exercises of the class of 1884, of Fulton Union School and Academy were held in Stephen's Opera House on Friday evening of last week. The attendance was prodigious. Every seat was taken and many were obliged to stand, while some were unable to obtain admittance although there was a fee of ten cents charged. The audience was composed of intelligent and appreciative citizens, those interested in educational matters, and entertain that respect which is due this flourishing institution of learning.

The stage was profusely decorated with rich and fragrant flowers which cast a pleasant odor about the vast assembly of hearers. Upon the platform were seated the Board of Education, village clergymen, donors of prizes and others. Boquets in various designs were presented to the graduates by younger members of the school as each retired from the stage. Elegant programmes printed for the occasion were distributed among the audience. We are not exagerating in the least when we say that these exercises can be classed as among the best which have been given in Fulton in a long time. In the orations and essays which were excellent both in composition and style of delivery many instructive sayings were uttered. The orations by Messrs Frank L. Boothby and Herbert E. Hoff, and the essay by Miss Julia A. Kimball deserve special mention. All the graduates deserve praise and none criticism. It was evident that the class motto, "He, who conquers self, conquers," was thoroughly instilled in their minds. The able work and rapid advancement of the class of '84 reflects great credit upon the teachers in the Academic Department. The music by Andelfingers orchestra of Oswego was fine.

The graduates numbered fourteen, namely: Herbert E. Hoff, Hattie L. Whitaker, Hattie E. Schenck, Carrie P. Jennings, Anna E. Bogue, Julia A. Kimball, Lillian R. Kellogg, Albertine L. Case, Dana A. Highriter, May L. French, Willard W. Rowlee, Frank L. Boothby, Fannie M. Lake, and Ada F. Thayer.

The exercises opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Olmstead, of Oswego Falls, after which the following programme was carried out:

Presentation of Diplomas—Awarding Prizes
Polka,—"Invincible," Jul. Bernstein.
Benediction.

The diplomas were presented by Prof. Boothby, principle of the school with a few appropriate remarks to the class. At this point Mr. Herbert E. Hoff stepped foreward and with a few well chosen words presented in behalf of the class a beautiful and costly album which contained a cabinet picture of each member of the class. This was a genuine surpriseand before the Professor had time to more than simply thank them they retired.

The awarding of prizes which proved a very interesting feature of the evening's entertainment was next in order. The first was the spelling prize, which was was awarded to Herbert Howe and honorable mention made of Arthur Emerick. The two physology prizes given by H. E. Nichols, were presented by Rev. Mr. Riggs to Louis Emerick and Edith Emmens. The Zoology prize, donor, Mrs. C. S. Eggleston, and presented by same to Edwin Harvey. The Botany prize donated by Mrs. Dr. G. V. Emmens was presented to Miss Hattie Schenck. Mr. Fred Lasher was the recipient of the prize in Chemistry, donated by J. W. Pratt. Mr. Lasher will compete for the State prize. The two prizes on oratory were given by the Board of Education. The chairman of the committee, Dr. Hall, presented one to Willard Rowley and the other to Miss Hattie Schenck. The receivers were worthy of the gifts.

Mr. A. Hanna, President of the Board of Education made a few remarks in which he expressed the satisfaction of the Board with the present management of the school. Rev Mr. Riggs then pronounced the benediction and the evening's entertainment closed.

The senior and primary departments of Union School in this village held their closing exercises at the schools in in the afternoon, where excellent programmes were carried out before a large number of the patrons of the school. These departments are under efficient management as is plainly seen by the rapid advancement of the pupils.

The closing exercises of School District No. 2, occurred Friday, June 27, in the presence of a large number of the patrons of the school. The exercises consisted of readings, declamations, vocal music, and awarding of prizes. The improvement shown by the pupils in all the branches was very pronounced and reflects credit upon Prof. Cooper and his assistants, Miss Frankie Connor and Carrie Willard. It is to be desired that whoever may be chosen trustee for the coming year will retain this unusually able corps of teachers. The exercises were concluded by brief remarks by Orlando Howell, A. P. Bradt of the Observer, John E. Parker, Esq., and S. B. Mead. The pupils then united in singing and the school and audience were dismissed. The following is a list of the prize winners:

Deceased was born in Fulton and was the son of the late Hubbard Church, one of the first settlers of this town. The deceased at one time carried on an extensive mercantile business in this village but long since retired from active life.

Mr. Church has been in poor health a considerable period, visiting Florida and and other places, hoping to restore his health, but it was not until within a few weeks since that his family was apprehensive that the end was near at hand. The deceased was very successful during his business life, and accumulated plenty of this world's goods. He was the owner of a large amount of real estate. The deceased was liberal with his family and generous doner to religious societies. The announcement of his death among his friends will be received with bitter feelings of a personal bereavement. He leaves a wife and two daughters, who have the sympathy of many in their sorrow. The funeral will be held from the house at 3 p. m.. to-morrow. Rev. Mr. Brunning of Oneonta will officiate.

Mrs. R. H. Tyler, wife of the late Judge Tyler, died at her residence, on the corner of Fourth and Buffalo street, Saturday afternoon at about 5 o'clock. The deceased was aged 57 years. She has been a sufferer for several months. Mrs. Tyler was a lady of culture and refinement and possessed great generosity which won for her the love and esteem of all who knew her. She leaves an invalid brother whom she has loved and cered for many years, never tiring of her task. Many are the friends who mourn her departure. The deceased made an extended trip through Europe with her husband before his death. Mrs. Tyler was a member of the Presbyterian church and an earnest worker in any good cause. The funeral was held yesterday at 6 o'clock at her late residence and was largely attended. Rev. J. S. Riggs officiated. The remains were interred at Mt. Adnah.

Mrs. L. Richards died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Osborne, last Saturday, aged 74 years. The deceased was a sister of the late Lewis and Alanson Loomis. The funeral was held at the house Sunday at 5 p. m., Rev. Mr. Markham officiating.

INTER-ACADEMIC UNION.

The Meeting at Waterville—Creditable Showing of Fulton Contestants—Next Union in Fulton.

Prof. Boothby accompanied by several members and graduates of Union school went to Waterville, N. Y., Monday to attend the State Inter-Academic Union and some of the scholars to contest for prizes. We take from this morning's Utica Herald the following mention of Frank Boothby and Edwin McCully in yesterday's programme who were contestents for the oratory prize:

"Belshazzar was again disturbed at his feast by Edwin McCully. His selection was in verse and hence more difficult to render well. He acquitted himself creditably in behalf of Fulton academy.

"Room at the Top" was the subject of Frank Boothby's declamation. Suiting his voice to the subject, he spoke foribly and in a high key, of the struggle for the top. While Mr. Boothby was not the successful prize man, he made a courageous struggle for the room at the top. He is from Fulton."

The Herald also says that the next meeting of the Inter-Academic Union will be held in Fulton.

Rather Serious Accident.

As Miss Flora Hartson and Mrs. Weed of Mexico, who had been in attendance at the graduating exercises, and also the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Herrick, were driving home Saturday morning their horse became frightened near Volney Centre and ran quite a distance, throwing both ladies out of the buggy. Miss Hartson's shoulder was broken and Mrs. Weed received a severe cut over the eye. A doctor was at once telephoned for and upon his arrival did much to relieve the sufferers. They were both conveyed to Mexico in a hack and at last report are doing nicely.

THE SUN.

NEW YORK, 1884.

Some sixty million copies of THE SUN have gone out of our establishment the past twelve months.

If you were to paste end to end all the columns of THE SUN printed and sold last year you would get a continuous strip of interesting information, common sense wisdom, sound doctrine, and sane wit long enough to reach from Printing House Square to the top of Mount Copernicus in the Moon, then back to Printing House Square, and then three-quarters of the way back to the Moon again.

But The Sun is written for the inhabitants of the earth; this same strip of intelligence would girdle the globe twenty-seven or twenty-eight times.

If every buyer of a copy of The Sun during the past year has spent only one hour over it, and if his wife or his grandfather has spent another hour, this newspaper in 1883 has afforded the human race thirteen thousand years of steady reading, night and day.

It is only by little calculations like these that you can form any idea of the circulation of the most popular of American newspapers, or of its influence on the opinions and actions of American men and women.

The Sun is and will continue to be, a newspaper which tells the truth without fear of consequences, which gets at the facts no matter how much the process costs, which presents the news of all the world without waste of words and in the most readable shape, which is working with all its heart for the cause of honest government, and which therefore believes that the Republican party must go in the coming year of our Lord, 1884.

If you know The Sun, you like it already, and you will read it with accustomed diligence and profit during what is sure to be the most interesting year in its history. If you do not yet know the Sun it is high time to get into the sunshine.

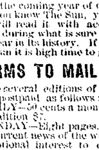
THE WORLD CHALLENGED



For Man & Beast

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

How Watch Cases are Made.

In buying a silver watch case great care should be taken to secure one that is solid silver throughout. The cap of most cheap silver cases is made of a composition known as albata, which is a very poor substitute for silver, as it turns black in a short time. The backs of such cases are made much thinner than those of an all silver case, being robbed in order to make the cap thicker and get in as much as possible of the cheap metal. Another important point in a silver case is the joints or hinges, which should be made of gold. Those of most cheap cases are made of silver, which is not a suitable metal for that purpose. In a brief period it warps, bends and spreads apart, allowing the backs to become loose upon the case and admitting the dust and dirt that accummulate in the pocket. The Keystone Silver Watch Cases are only made with silver caps and gold joints.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Feb. 17, 1883.

In our long and varied experience in handling watches, we cannot but acknowledge and give our testimony that the Keystone Solid Silver Watch Cases are the best made to our knowledge. Having no soldering they remain homogeneous, harder and stiffer than they would be were they heated for soldering, and have more resisting power against pressure than any other cases in the market. FASHION NOTES.

A pretty fancy is for using red velvet on golden brown dresses, and bright poppy red is sometimes seen on blue or gray India silks.

The "Falka" is a novel mantalet. It is straight across the back, and with its long ends seems to presage the coming back of the street scarf.

The muslin dress is an ideal summer toilet. This season exquisite figures are placed upon dotted grounds in lovely leaf, flower and fruit designs.

The "Clarice" is a pretty independant waist, very much in the style of the "Spencer" of thirty years ago. It looks well made in plain pongee, with velvet yoke.

Plain skirts gathered at the waist are considered stylish, and charming dresses of cream satins have been make in this way trimmed with cream lace and cream satin ribban.

Morning dresses of red or blue cambric have velvet collars trimmed with cream or copper colored lace. They are also effective for lawn tennis. Bed-ticking is discarded for lawn tennis.

In Paris, percales and ginghams are so deftly mixed with laces and embroideries that neither the one nor the other predominates to boldly, but each blends its beauties in a harmonious whole.

Among the newest laces which reproduce exactly the old church point, with its raised figures, are cream and beige oriental laces. They are made in flounces from a half yard to three-quaters in length.

Girls of fifteen wear their back hair curled, braided in one or two long, loose, torsades, or rolled in a neat but not tight knot or coil in the back, while the front hair is banged and waved, or slightly curled; not frizzed.

A pretty handkerchief is of fine linen lawn of a delicate blue shade, with a scalloped edge, and border formed of white polka with the edge finished in cardinal, with cardinal polka dots and white embroidered daisies.

A new white worsted insertion and lace is imported in Guipure and Smyrna designs, that is used as trimming on black and bison cloths. White camel's hair vests are braided across the black soutache and worn with black cashmere dresses, and the collar and cuffs are of the same black and white. White duck vests are also worn with black dresses, made with cutaway basques.

A novelty in black and white combination is to trim black surah, China crape or India silk with pure white valenciennes lace. Three scalloped flounces of the silk are across the front of such dresses, with a frill of the lace two or three inches deep set under each scalloped flounce. On the corsage a full valenciennes jabot is placed on each side of the buttons from the collar as low no the bust as is becoming to the figure. Embroidered black China crape dresses are elagant made with festooned flounces and draperies edged with valenciennes lace. A gathered vest of valenciennes piece lace is used. The large flower designs that were so taking in hand-made valenciennes lace are now copied in the machine, and this is adopted by the most fastidious ladies.

TEMPERANCE NOTES.

Governor Cleveland is thus complimented by the National Brewer's organ: The Governor has done an unwise thing, having, on March 10th signed the bill requiring the study of physiology and hygiene in the public schools, with special reference to the effects of alcoholic drinks upon the humon system. Temperance ideas are thus to be popularized in the public schools.

Two of the recently elected bishops of the M. E. Church, Drs. Walden and Fowler, are pronounced Prohibitionists. They are in the prime of life, energetic, and will largely mould the future policy of their church on the temperance question. There is a probility that both will be present at the Temperance Camp Meeting at Silver Lake, N. Y., held under the auspices of this Church, which opens August 1.

The German and American Brewers' Journal for June says editorally: "The New Yerk Legislature has adjourned. The two bills affecting the trade, namely, the High Licence bill and the Label bill have died in the hands of their promoters. This was accomplished by the unwearying efforts of the Association. The only bill affecting the trade, passed by the Legislature that has become law is the Hop Tare bill. When its proisions become operative it will be proved not to do any practical harm to the trade," Elsewhere the editor explains that the latter law will be a "dead letter," as the brewers will pay no attention to it.

Matthew Arnold's son is engaged to an American girl who is the very embodiment of "sweetness and light."

Liver, Kidney, or Stomach Trouble. Symptoms: Impure blood, costive bowels irregular appetite, sour belching pains in side, back and heart, yellow urine, burning when urinating, clay-colored stools, bad breath, no desire for work, chills, fever, irritability, whitish tongue, dry cough, dizzy head, with dull pain in back part, loss of memory, foggy sight. For these troubles "Swayne's Pills" are a sure cure. Box (30 pills) by mail, 25 cents, 5 for $1. Address, DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Druggists. 36y1

Captain James B. Eads received $10,000 for an hours speech before a committee of the House of Lords against the proposed ship canal between Liverpool and Manchester.

CRUE FOR PILES.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. [illegible]

FARMERS' FOLLY.

Some farmers adhere, even against the full light of fact and discovery, to the old fashioned folly of coloring butter with carrots, annato, and inferior sutstances, notwithstanding the splendid record made by the Improved Butter Color, prepaired by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington Vt. At scores of the best agricultural Fairs it has received the highest award over all competitors.

I paid one physician $80 just to examine my case, and he recommend little and did less."

"What chance had you if the art of medicine failed?"

"The art of medicine did not fail. Only the doctors failed. I stumbled over a proprietary medicine manufactured at Rondout, N. Y., called Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. The package was neat, it was only one dollar a bottle—not that I thought of that though. I was hopeless of help, it could not harm, and I bought and tried it. When the third bottle was empty my appetite and flesh began to return, and the pain and inflammation was gone, and have not come back. What I think of FAVORITE REMEDY is this; its discovery was an inspiration."

The Churchman is in favor of more unity among the churches in the rural districts. Speaking of the great divisions caused by the multiplication of seperate congregations, it says: They work disastriously in two ways. In the smaller communities, each organization is usually struggling to hold its ground and absorbs the strength of its members in efforts for self existence. The great aim is to collect enough money to pay the minister's salary, and the parish is cheifly a money gathering affair on a small scale.

Last year the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland voted that "there is nothing in the word of God, or in the constitution or laws of this Church, to preclude the use of instrumental music as an aid to vocal praise." This was a very mild deliverance; but there were some 80,000 persons belonging to that body who took umbrage at it, and this year demanded a reversal of the Assembly's action. It was decided however, to let the matter stand as it is, by the vote of 251 against 101.

"You see," replied Plunkett, gravely, "I called on my girl last night and stayed rather late: and her pa gave the oldest son orders to turn me out of doors, which he did in splendid style."

Popularity and usefulness of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—A Thrilling Letter from a Master Mechanic.

MASTER MECHANIC'S & SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, LOWELL REPAIR SHOPS OF BOSTON & LOWELL R. R.
LOWELL, Mass., March 25, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: I think it is due to you that I should make the following statement, and I make it voluntarily and willingly: On the 4th day of June, 1881, I was taken with what was called paralysis of the bowels. The seizure was unexpected and terrible. The stomach and other organs seemed to sympathize with it and to have lost all power of action. For a long time my life was despaired of, but at length I recovered so far as to be able to ride out. By the advice of my phisician I visited Poland Springs (Vt.) hoping to benefit from the waters. But they did me no good. Neither were the best physicians of Lowell and Boston, whom I consulted, able to afford me more than transcient relief. I gained no strength and my case appeared almost hopeless. In the Fall a friend advised me to try KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, and although opposed to patent medicines, I made the trial. To make a long story short—FAVORITE REMEDY, in my opinion, saved my life. I consider it the best preparation in the world for stomach difficulties, as well as of the Liver and other organs. I am glad to say it is in general use among the R. R. men in this vicinity.

Yours, etc., A. J. GIFFORD.

Mr. Gifford is the Master Mechanic of the Lowell division of the Boston & Lowell Railroad, and his illness and recovery are known to many who can testify to the facts in his letter.

Use this medicine for all diseases of the Blood, Kidneys, Liver, Stomach, Bowels, and Skin. It may save you or yours from pain and death.

CHASING A FORTUNE.

Both at school and at college Bernard Hooker had been one of the wildest and most dare-devil youths imaingable. He had been the terror of meek companions, the aversion of order-loving dominies, the triumphant outwitter, on more than one occasion, of even that great man, the proctor.

But these halcyon days were past. Any particular exuberance of spirits, in Bernard's present position, would have been phenomenal and as incongruous with his surroundings as the presence of English hedge-blossoms in Eastern desert. He was chained to the oar of daily toil as tightly and as hopelessly as any galley-slave. The sturdy symmetry of his figure, the humorist cast of his frank and open countenance, the twinkle of his light blue eyes, were all that outwardly remained of the idiosyncrasies that had made him the idol of his comrades in class and on college walk. The pleasure of adverse circumstances had put an iron curb upon his vivacity, if it had not altogether crushed it.

He had looked forward to reading for the bar, with the prospect, if he displayed ability, of a capital start in his chosen profession by reason of his father's position and influence. Instead of this Bernard Hooker found himself, at the age of two-and-twenty, merely an insignificant unit in the already over-crowded ranks of professional quill-drivers.

His father had become the dupe of an unprincipled business partner, and had lost everything. Even Edwin Hooker's hitherto fair fame had suffered aspersion for it had been hard to persuade the great careless world that the villany, which had made the trading name of Hooker and Glenning a byeword in the city, was the work of Archer Glenning alone. Yet it was so, and the criminal trial which followed the crash told a tale of forged signatures and stolen securities which set the elder and victimized partner free, and would certainly have regulated the junior to the keeping of prison-wardens for a long term of years, had he remained to face the storm. He had fled and carried with him Edwin Hooker,s fortune.

Thus it came about that the son was earning his daily bread in the Fembury branch bank of Kenworth & Co. That he was located in the country, with open skies above him and pleasant fields around, was that one mitigating circumstance of his hard and dreary lot. In other respects even the average London bank-clerk was better off. Mr Hollis, Messrs, Kenworth's Fembury manager, was an irascible little man, who believed, as firmly as an Egyptian taskmaster, in getting the very utmost in the way of effort out of his subordinates. The bank hours might nominally be from 9 to 5, but he had a trick of piling on extras, which materially lengthened them.

It would be, "These letters cannot be left, Mr. Styles," or "This letter requires attention, Mr. Hooker." To have refused, or even expostulated, was to court instant dismissal, for Mr. Hollis was as passionate as he was haughty, and knew himself to be invested with plenary power within the bank precincts. There was no resource but to obey.

It was a bright May morning, fragrant in the Fembury lanes with the scent of early wild-flowers and vocal with melody of birds. It was market-day, in the little country town, and the clink of gold in consequence frequently resounded on the bank counter. As a rule Bernard Hooker paid little or no attention to the fitful processions of clients that passed the door on the right. He was not cashier, and the burden of his own duties was sufficient for his oftentimes weary shoulders. But as the surly office-clock announced the quarter before the luncheon interval the sound of a voice he surely knew mingled with its dull bass. An instinctive tremor ran through every fibre of the young man's body. He looked sharply up. What he saw for the moment puzzled him and seemed to refute the evidence of his ears.

The voice was emphatically that of Archer Glenning; the outward presentment of the speaker was that of an absolute stranger. But a closer scrutiny and the recollection of the fact that the accomplished swindler was of necessity a fugative, explained the phenomenon. Edwin Hooker's absconding partner was of a truth there in the flesh before Bernard's eyes, but so cunningly disguised that the cleverest Scotland Yard detective might have been pardoned for a blunder. The shapely mustache and heavy beard had both vanished; the light auburn locks of the "Hue and Cry" description were now raven-black; the very eyebrows had discarded nature and applied for protection to the artist in flesh and hair tinting.

In carriage and in attire the revolution was equally striking and equally complete. The stately, upright gait of the Lombard-street merchant was exchanged for a stooping shamble that would have provoked the ridicule of many a clodhopper. The trim dress—invariably on the model of the latest mode in past days—was superseded by a hybrid make up of turf and stable costume.

And yet Bernard was sure of his man. That crisp, metalic utterance was in itself a well-nigh sufficient clew. It awakened bitter reminiscences with the enunciation of every syllable.

"Will you be good enough to cash this check, please?"

The cash was shoved out on the gleaming mahogany, and an instant later had found a new resting-place in the stranger's purse. He turned, and for a second caught the half-stupefied glance of the young clerk. The effect was magical—a scared, terror-stricken expression leaped into the furtive, shifty eyes, and every vestige of color forsook the sallow cheeks. Bernard Hooker was recognized in his turn.

With the sharp click of the closing [illegible] Bernard's senses returned to him. [illegible] was expected, was the op[illegible] [illegible]. The rumor that the scoundrel had sailed for South America was plainly false. He was still within reach of British justice, and if captured, might be compelled to disgorge his plunder, or at least such portion of it as was yet unsquandered. He must be followed, tracked, and that instantly! The faturity that had brought him on some casual errand to Fembury and to Messrs. Kenworth's bank must be translated, by immediate enterprise, into a manifestation of that Nemesis which, by the logic of the story-books, treads inevitably on the heels of wrong.

A decision was reached in far less time than it takes to recount the fact. Bernard seized his hat, and with a muttered incoherent apology, pushed his way past his scandalized superior, and literally ran down the stone steps into the street.

"What is the meaning——? Is the fellow mad?" gasped Mr. Hollis, a portentious frown gathering upon his brow. It was certainly mysterious behavior, and the fellow clerk to whom this query was presumably addressed was taken nearly as much aback as his chief. He had no explanation to offer.

Careless of the consternation which his abrupt proceedings had occasioned, Bernard's steps were toward the railway station. This was clearly the aim of the pursued.

To be thirty seconds too late is, under all circumstances, abundantly annoying. This was Bernard Hooker's lot on the present occasion. He reached the platform of the Fembury station just in time to see the up train steam into the yawning gulf of the north tunnel, and to know that in one of that train's compartments sat, in regained security, his father's foe and his own. There was nothing to do but to confess failure, and to return, after dining, to the drudgery of the bank desk. He did not even know the alias of the rogue, and, after all, his evidence of identity, if sufficient for himself, might fail to convince another. It would be useless to appeal to the local police force for these reasons.

"An impudent and a madcap freak, Mr. Hooker, whatever may be your excuse,", growled Mr. Hollis. "If you want to leave the office in a hurry again to overtake anybody—anybody, sir!—be good enough to ask leave."

Bernard was compelled to promise that he would. For the rest of the afternoon he went on his way with the tedious columns of figures in a state of mental agitation and chagrin unparalleled since the days on which he had first learned that his parent's bankruptcy was unavoidable.

"Those scraps of paper, Mr. Styles, had better ornament the waste-basket than the floor."

The manager's accents were harsh and querulous; his temper seemed to have been soured for the day by Bernard Hooker's escapade.

"I have not dropped them, sir," replied the inculpated junior, resenting as much as he dared the implied charge of untidiness. "One fell from your own desk, and the other was left behind by the gentleman whom Mr. Hooker tried to catch."

Bernard's ears tingled anew. What if the last-mentioned fragment should bear upon its surface some clew to the villain's assumed name or whereabouts! By easy strategy he gained posssssion of the slip, and found it to be half an envelope, with the letters "Joyn——" on one side, and the postmark "Iekford" on the other. This might or might not lead to a discovery.

In the solitude of his own apartments that evening Bernard Hooker searched out the name of Iekford on a Bradshaw's map. He found it to be that of a small town in the north of England.

"Whatever the consequence, I'll run down there and make inquiries. If I win, the game will be worth the candle," he soliloquized.

And the next day a note in the bank letter box accounted—though hardly satisfactorily to the critical judgment of Mr. Hollis—for the the second clerk's absence.

At Iekford the trail was unmistakably struck. Skillful investigation showed that a Mr. Joynson—whose outward man appeared to tally precisely with Bernard's sketch-description—had been staying at the chief hotel for several weeks, and had posed as an individual of position and wealth. Alas! it showed also that he had decamped with both bag and baggage a few hours before Bernard's arrival.

"Foiled a second time!" moaned that young man in bitterness of spirit. "The scamp has smelt danger, and probably will make for South America or some other safe hiding place in earnest now."

With hopes sinking rapidly below zero again, Bernard took ticket for London. He would put a professional detective on the track and then return to Fembury. If Mr. Hollis dismissed him for his pains, he must just recommence his weary fight with fortune in some other arena.

"Why, Bernard! This is an agreeable surprise indeed! I was wondering not above a day or two ago what had become of my ancient ally. So many pranks as we've been guilty of together! Ha, ha!"

The speaker was Frank Allerton, Bernard's dearest college chum, and a young Northern squire, whose sister Amy—— but this was a romantic dream which had faded into an absurdity in the thick gloom of environing disaster. Why recall it?

The new comer had joined the train at Cotchley Junction, and, like Bernard, was bound for the metropolis. As the friends were alone in the compartment, Bernard's story was soon told.

"And you are hunting the rascal down?"

"I have attempted it, and he has beaten me."

"What sort o' a fellow is he—in personal appearance, I mean?"

For the fourth or fifth time Bernard ran glibly over the salient characteristics o' that figure which fate, rather than any [illegible] effort, had photographed so minutely upon his memory.

"It is he exactly!" cried Frank Allerton, with an almost ludicrous combination of amazement, disgust and wrath mirrored upon his countenance. "Why, the fellow has been living at Beckham, within a stone's throw of our own manor house, for eight or nine months. Mr. Joynson——"

"Yes, that is the name he is using."

"Is reputed in the village to be worth half a million of money, more or less. He is the resourse of all the amateur mendicants in the district, and, figuring as a well-to-do bachelor, he has even dared to make certain proposals for my sister's hand. Amy refused his hand solely on that ground, of disparity of years."

Not solely on that ground, Bernard took leave to hope, in despite of his friend's dogmatism. But he had no word to answer at the moment. And there was excuse for his temporary bewilderment in the presence of so strange and unlooked-for a revelation. In the hour of his darkest despair the fair promise of contingent victory had come.

"What a reckless and daring hypocrite the man must be!" Frank continued. "I'll admit I never liked him from the first, but I had no idea of such a sword of Damocles being suspended over his head. Amy has had a lucky escape, and she will think so."

At last Bernard regained his power of utterance.

"I'll go on to London now," he said, "apply for a warrant, and acquaint my father with the facts; and then, in company with a police officer, seek out Mr. Joynson at home."

This program was fulfilled, and success crowned the enterprise. A few weeks later commercial circles were discussing everywhere a new cause celebre, and the strange change of events —as unfolded in the speech of counsel for the prosecution—by which not only had a notoriousswindler been inmeshed in the net of the law, but stolen bonds had found their way back into the coffers of the rightful owners.

But not the least happy result to Bernard Hooker was that he learned from Amy Allerton's own sweet lips that at least one reason beyond that of age had existed for her refusal of Archer Glenning's suit. She had already bestowed her heart upon her brother's friend.

Her hand soon followed. And now Bernard Hooker—a rising and popular barrister—sometimes tells his wife with a smile that on a certain memorable May day he chased a fortune in two senses.

Laughing Children.

Give us the boy or girl that smiles as soon as the first rays of the morning sun glance in through the window, gay, happy and kind. Such a boy will be fit to "wake up" in a man—at least, when contrasted with a sullen, morose, crabbed fellow, who snaps and snarls like a surly cur, or growls and grunts like an untamed hyena from the moment he opens his angry eyes till he is confronted by his breakfast.

Such a girl other things being favorable, will be good material to aid in gladdening some comfortable home, or to refine, civilize, tame and humanize a rude brother, making him gentle, affectionate and lovable.

It is a feast to even look at such a joy-inspiring girl, and see the smiles flowing, so to speak, from the parted lips, displaying a set of clean, well-brushed teeth, looking almost the personification of beauty and goodness, singing as merry as the birds—the wide-awake birds—that commenced their morning concert long before the lazy boys dreamed that the sun was approaching, and about to pour a whole blaze of light and warmth upon the earth.

KITCHEN ECONOMY.

Interesting Tests Made by the Government Chemist.

Dr. Edward G. Love, the Analytical Chemist for the U. S. Goverment, has made some interesting experiments as to the comparative value of baking powders. Dr. Love's tests are made to determine what brands are the most economical to use, and as their capacity lies in their leavening power, tests were directed solely to ascertain the available gas of each powder. Dr. Love's report gives the following:

Name of the Baking Powders.	Strength: Cubic Inches Gas per each ounce of powder.
"Royal" (absolutely pure)	127.4
"Patapsco (alum powder)	125.2*
"Rumford's" (phosphate) fresh	122.5*
"Rumford's (phosphate) old	132.7*
"Hanford's None Such," fresh	121.6
"Hanford's None Such" old	84.35
"Redhead's"	117.0
"Charm" (alum powder)	116.5*
"Amazon" (alum powder)	111.9*
"Cleveland's" (short weight¾ oz)	110.0
"Sea Foam"	107.9
"Czar"	106.8
"Dr. Price's"	102.6
"Snow Flake (Groff's St. Paul)	101.88
"Lewis's" Condensed	98.2
"Congress" yeast	97.5
"C.E.Andrews & Co's" (contains alum)	78.17
"Hecker's"	92.5
"G.Let's"	84.2
"Bulk	80.5

*In this report the Government Chemist says:

"I regard all alum powders as very unwholesome. Phosphate and Tartaric acid powders liberate their gas too freely in process of baking, or under varying climatic changes suffer deterioration."

Dr. H. A. Mott, the former Government Chemist, after a careful and elaborate examination of the various baking powders of commerce, reported to the Government in favor of the Royal Brand.

How to Live Cheaply.

One of the subjects talked and written about a good deal at the present time is how to live cheaply. Prices of all the great staples of life are high. Rents are enormous, fashions are exacting. Wants multiply, while resources diminish. How to make strap and buckle meet is the problem which presses on hundreds of housekeepers of the middle-class. The difficulty in the problem is to reconcile the irreconsilables. The middle class generally wants all the fine things, all the style and display of wealthy neighbors. The problem would simplify itself at once would the middle class family cease trying to appear what it is not, and be content to appear and be thought just what it is. It is what is done to keep up appearances that destroys the equilibrium between outgo and income, and makes life a drudgery and vexation. How to live cheaply is a question easy enough to answer if one will be content with a cheap living. Substitute comfort for show. Put convenience in the place of fashion. Study simplicity. Refuse to be beguiled into a style of living above what is required by your position in society and is justified by your resources. Set a fashion of simplicity, neatness, prudence and inexpensiveness, which others will be glad to follow and thank you for introducing. Teach yourself to do without a thousand and one pretty and showy things which wealthy people purchase, and pride yourself on being just as happy without them as your rich neighbors are with them. Put so much dignity, sincerity, kindness, virtue and love into your simple and inexpensive home that its members will never miss the costly fripperies and showy adornment of fashion, and be happier in the cozy and comfortable apartments than most of their wealthy neighbors are in their splendid establishments. It does not follow that in order to live cheaply one must live meanly. The great staples of life are not costly. Taste, refinement, good cheer, wit and even elegance are not expensive. There is no trouble about young people marrying with no outfit but health and love and an honest purpose, provided they will practice the thrift and prudence to which their grandparents owed all their succes, and make their thought and love supply what they lack in the means of display. Those who begin life at the top of the ladder generally tumble off, while those who begin at the foot acquire steadiness, courage and strength of arm and will as they rise.

Very Considerate.

"Well, John," said old man Jordan to his young friend. "you have just been married, hear."

"Yes, sir," he answered, with a Spring-morning smile; "just a month ago, and I want you to go up to dinner with me to-day."

"Have you got a cook?"

"No."

"Well, my boy, s'pose we go to a restaurant this time. You must remember I had a young wife once myself."—Merchant Traveler.

CONVENTION.

Cleveland in the Lead.—Gov. Hubbard of Texas for Chairman.

CHICAGO July 8.—At 12:40 p. m. the convention was called to order by Senator Barnum, chairman of the national committee.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. D. C. Marquis of the Northwestern Seminary.

The chairman by the unanimious vote of the committee named Gov. R. B. Hubbard, of Texas, for permanent chairman of the convention.

Mr. Hubbard was unanimously elected.

The chair appointed Senator Jones of La., Geo. I. Barnes of Ga., and Abram S. Hewitt of New York, to conduct Mr. Hubbard to the chair.

The chair introduced Mr. Hubbard.

Mr. Hubbard then accepted the chair with a long speech which was loudly applauded. Other speeches followed.

The unit rule question was brought up at the New York delegation which was in session Monday which Mr. Kelly sternly opposed. After considerable flopping around it was agreed that the state should vote as a unit, the anti-Cleveland men insisting that an explanation of the vote should be given to the convention. This was conceded and a vote was taken upon the final motion that the chairman shall announce that 49 delegates of New York are for Cleveland, and 23 for Bayard, Flower and Slocum, but that under instructions of the state convention, 72 votes are cast for Cleveland. This motion was adopted, 61 to 11, 9 Tammany delegates and two others voting against it.

It was decided to adopt the rules of the last Democratic convention.

Mr. Grady moved an amendment that the chairman of the delegation shall when a poll is called, give expression to individual vote.

The secretary announced the New York State vote on Grady's amendment as follows: Total vote cast 795; for the amendment 332; against 463; not voting 7.

The convention then adjourned unt l 11 a. m., to-morrow.

It is predicted by many that Cleveland will be nominated on second ballot and that McDonald will secure second place.

WHY don't Tammany give their pet, John Kelly, the nomination. He may vote for Blaine if they don't. You can't trust Tammany Hall's leader.

The Canadian marine and fisheries department reports millions of dead fish now floating on Lake Ontario. They are young shad hatched at Seth Green's establishment at Rochester and placed in the stream tributary to the lake. COUNTY COMMENT.

From Our Exchanges.

Charles Kathern an old and much respected citizen of Cleveland died last Monday aged 82 years.

F. E. Mungor of the Sandy Creek News and B. G. Seaman of that town contemplate starting a newspaper at Copenhagen, Lewis county.

Saturday some Oswego parties took 75 bass at Mexico Point. The largest tipped the beam at five pounds.

A family named Lewis, who occupied the Porter House about a mile east of Mexico, went to Syracuse the 4th, closing the house. About noon it was discovered to be on fire and was entirely consumed. A small portion of the furniture was saved. There was an insurance of $1,000.

A meeting was held at the Baptist church at Hannibal last Monday evening for the purpose of raising money to help punish certain parties who sold liquor on the Fourth. The village was the scene of much drunkeuess and disorderly conduct during the day. Over two hundred dollars was raised and action will be at once taken in the matter.

The Caughdenoy correspondent to the Palladium says: Our little village was thrown into quite a surprise just a few days before the 4th, on account of a circular that some one had taken pains to have printed and circulated through the surrounding vicinity, that Caughdenoy was to celebrate the 4th. It has caused much indignation among some, whose names appeared on the circular, and innocent parties have been censured to some extent. It was a perfect insult on our community from the beginning to the end. It is feared that trouble will follow if the parties who caused them to be printed can be found and the act proven against them and teach them a lesson long to be remembered.

The Cause Which is Destroying Our National Prosperity.

[Written for THE FULTON TIMES.]

Way back in the prehistoric age, this decree must have been given. "Let man's face be adorned with beard," for a growing beard is one of the characteristics of man and we say that it is one of nature's gifts.

How rare to find one who has obeyed this decree of nature's law, either, as you please; and when you do see one, then you see the silken moustache, the full, wavy, glossy whiskers, vastly more noble is the facial appearance of such an one, than half bare physiognomy of men in general, cut and backed, with the other half a reminder of second growth oak scrubs.

Did woman ever look at a more beautiful face than that of a living man when covered with nature's gorgeous robe untouched?

To argue against the wickedness of shaving is useless. No one dares deny that nature intended that men should have baboon faces, stiff bristling beards; a porcupine chin and a smooth lip; a flat broadside of face and cushioned cheeks and so on through the whole list of combinations worked out by imaginative beard trainers. One readily sees the folly of thus distorting nature, but it is the fashion; that word that closes the mouths of would be reformers.

Let us look at a more practical phase of this question of the barber, the barbous, the barbed. In the United States there are 10,000 barbers to every 1,000,000 of people. Counting the population at 50,000,000 we have 500,000 barbers. At a low count every barber shop has three men who hang around to pass away time, to play games, to read, to talk. We all know of the time consumed in waiting for the call of "next." If we give any estimate to this element of waiting, we must allow for each barber shop at least 20 hours per day lost in waiting, or in other words the labor of two men, (ten hours per day.)

To recapitulate, we have 500,000 barbers, three men hanging about each shop, 1,500,000 resorters, two men waiting 1,000,000 waiting, making a total of 2,500,000 men who are in and about barber shops. These are all able bodied working men. The figures are appauling for we only have 5,000,000 able, working men, the rest are women and children.

One half of our able, working men devoting their time and energy to the breaking of the old decree—the disfiguration of men's faces. O, Moses! O, tempores! Patriotic citizens, awake to the danger, and stop the growth of the cancer that is destroying the life of the working few in our land.

Stop the Decline of Cheese.

A gentleman writes to the Utica Herald as follows in regard to the present condition of the cheese market: We have read with interest the article on "The Late Cheese Market," in yesterday's issue of the Herald, in which the point is made, that it would be good policy on the part of factorymen to refuse to sell their cheese at the current low prices.

We feel as tho' we ought not to let the opportunity pass to express our commendation of the good sense displayed by the writer of the article in question, and to indorse it every way.

We have never yet been able to sell cheese to the exporters cheap enough to suit them; even in 1879 when prices reached 5 c. per lb. on this market, cheese, in their opinion, was "dangerously high." The same condition of things will rule here again, if the supply is not checked until the market can steady itself.

There are always periods during the flush of the make, as every factorymen knows, when the supply on this market greatly exceeds the demand, and a violent decline in price is the natural consequence. Such a period we have just passed thro'.

The only remedy for such a market, is to check the excessive supply, and a little judicious management on the part of the factorymen may accomplish wonders in a week.

We feel certain that in thus expressing our views, we but echo the sentiments of every receiver and exporter in the trade.

JACKSONVILLE, July 3,—Tusday night about 12 o'clock Mr. Alanson Fancher's house was discovered to be on fire and before they could do anything to arrest the flames it was beyond their control. They saved a greater part of the household goods. Mrs. Fancher who has been troubled with heart disease for some time was so suddenly shocked that she expired before the house was consumed although she helped move some of the things. Mr. Fâncher has also been sick for a long time and was confined to his bed but one of those present took him and carried him to his brother's house a short distance from there. They think that he will not stand the shock long as he feels terrible over the loss of his wife. The property was lightly ensured. Mrs. Fancher had an insurance on her life of $1,400. Take it all in all it was a sad calamity to befall our village. F.

CHEESE MARKETS.

(From the Utica Herald.)

AT UTICA.

Utica, N. Y., July 7, 1884.

The competition for the choice lots of cheese to-day was quite lively, and the market stronger than salesmen hoped at first. Several came to the market with strong bids above the ruling, and these were anxious to see prices kept as high as possible. Many salesmen held back 1, 2 and even 3 days of their make, believing it to be good policy to let the market have a chance to right itself. The shrinkage of milk has become very general, and ranges from 15 to 20 per cent. in the diminution of cheese. The rain and the cooler weather may tend to prevent further shrinkage just at present, but they will not restore what is already lost.

Transactions for the day are as follows: 7 lots, 650 boxes, at 8c.; 74 lots, 7,600 boxes, at 8¼c.; 11 lots, 1,346 boxes, at 8 3-8c.; 13 lot, 1,331, boxes, at 8½c.; 3 lots, 370 boxes, at 8 5-8c.; 3 lots, 338 boxes, at 8¾c.; 1 lot, 330 boxes, at 8 7-8c. Sales, 12,365 boxes; commissions, 1,447; total, 13,812. Ruling price, 8¼c. One year ago the transactions were 15,065 boxes, ruling price 9¾c.; two years ago in the time of the railroad strike they 9,476 boxes, at 10¼c. There is some hope that to-day may be the low priced day of the season.

AT LITTLE FALLS.

LITTLE FALLS, July 7, 1884.

The cheese trade moved off rather slowly, to-day, owining to a further decline of about 3-8c. per pound. Salesmen were more persistent that usual and numbers held on till the latest moment in hopes of having their bids raised; but in most cases it was a hopeless effort. It was talked that it would be advisable to make light shipments this week, but as reports came in it was seen that nearly the usual quantity was sold. It is hoped that the prevailing cool weather will have a salutary effect and that prices may not go lower. Buyers appear to be as anxious to see good prices as do salesmen, and some of the farmers encourage light shipments. Dairymen say that the grass crop will be quite light, compared with last year, and that pastures are getting quite dry in most sections. A good, soaking rain would be joyfully received. A strong effort was made to-day to keep prices from exceeding eight cents, and it was not till quite late that it was known that this did not work. Following are the sales:

Lots	Boxes	Price
1	59	7½
9	527	7¾
1	52	7½
66	5,013	8
32	2,873	8¼c

Farm Dairy	856
Total	10 909

FARM DAIRIES.—Sales were 856 boxes at 7¼ to 8c., the bulk at 7¾ to 8c.

BUTTER—45 packages of creamery butter brought 19 cents, and 32 packages farm dairy butter sold at 18 to 19½c.

Miss Emma Precour of Oswego, is among the guests in town this week.

AT FULTON.

Twenty-four factories were represented with 1,300 boxes of cheese, which was readily sold at 8 to 8¼cts. Utica ruling was 8¼. The price one year ago was 9¼; two, 10; three, 10½; four, 9; five, 6.

The Thousand Islands.

Of all resting places accessible to New York, there is probably none so attractive as the Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence. "Lotus Land" it has been named by recent writers, while in the old Indian days it was called by them "Manatoana" or the "Garden of the Great Spirit; and the Indians as they shot through the narrow channels and passages between the islands in their birchen canoes, often paused to listen as the whispering winds conveyed to them the mystic messages of Gitche-Manito, the mighty.

This beautiful expanse of water from Clayton to the Long Sault is crowded with a perfect maze of islands, 1692 in number, of all sizes and of all kinds; some not more than a yard or so in extent, some covering many acres, some bare, rocky and desolate, others covered with a heavy growth of pine and hemlock

One of the great attractions of the Thousand Islands is the fishing; bass, pickerel and the savage muskallong can be readily taken even by the unskilled fisherman. But probably the greatest pleasure is to slowly float over this, the clearest of all waters on a calm day, and see the vast equarium beneath the boat's knee where 6, 8, 12 feet down through the green sparkling river is such an under garden as the wildest fancy never dared to picture on God's footstool. No equarium was ever constructed by the hand of man equal to that over which one sails for miles and miles. Here-to-fore this beautiful archipelago has been rather difficult of access, but the new line opened by the New York, Ontario & Western Railway removes this difficulty. One can leave New York by this route in the evening in a Pullman Buffet sleeper,arrive in Oswego in the early morning, step on a swift steamer running in connection with the train, and after a cool, delightful sail across the blue waters of Lake Ontario and down through the entire length of the Thousand Islands arrive at his destination with a keen appetite for his midday meal.

This lovely resort is rapidly growing in favor. Hotels and cottages are being erected to meet the growing demand for accommodations. Sitting on the broad hotel piazza, fanned by the cool, delightful breezes that sweep over the island and river, one scarcely realizes that it was but yesterday he was sweltering in the hot, dusty streets of New York.

The Crops.

The Palladium's Oswego Falls correspondent gives the following information in regard to the crops in this vicinity: We learn by conversations with farmers from different parts of the town and county that the prospects for crops is far better than for several years. Potatoes are making a rapid and vigorous growth, and with the early plantings the heavy rains of Saturday insures a good yield where the bugs are fed abundantly with paris green. Corn on good ground, is looking nicely, while the wheat crop is well headed and filled and almost ready for the reaper. Hay is much better, both as to quality and yield than last year, while the oat crop is coming on splendidly. The tobacco crop which will be several times greater than ever before, is nearly all set, and some pieces we have seen are large enough to hoe. The apple crop now promises to be one of the largest ever grown, and taking it altogether, the prospect for the farmer looks bright and encouraging, and if for the farmer, then also, for the merchant and miller, as well as other branches of business.

Dexter-Whitehead Case.

Rumor says that the trespass suit of Dexter vs. Whitehead, commenced some three weeks since before Justice Palmer of Granby, at which time defendant disputed plaintiff's title and claimed a public, prescriptive and preemptive right as a pleasure resort to that part of lake Neahtawanta situated on Lot 3, was yesterday brought in the Supreme Court as required by an undertaking furnished Justice Palmer in which court it will now be prosecuted.

The time appointed for the drawing was July 4th. and was done by a committee of prominent citizens. The lucky number, 169 was held by Albert Keller of Volney Centre hotel who carried off the prize. Mr. Amdursky offered the gentleman $75 in cash for the watch and chain which he refused.

Governor Squire.

Watson C. Squire, who has just been appointed governor of Washington Territory by President Arthur says the Oswego Times was an Oswego county boy, although we do not know the place of his birth. His father was a Methodist preacher, and a member of the old Black River Conference. Some thirty-five or more years ago, when Watson C. was a youth, his father was located in and preached in Hannibal village, and afterwards, we think, at Gilberts Mills, in the neighborhood of Fulton. Young Squire was a student at Falley Seminary and was regarded as a young man of fine promise. He married the daughter of Philo Remington, of Ilion, and at one time was interested in the business of those celebrated gun makers. A few years since he went to Washington Territory, and has acquired important interests in the growing city of Seattle. Many of the people of Fulton and Hannibal will remember Governor Squire as he was in his youth and early manhood.

They are sent out in a clean and wholesome condition, will come probably about the 28th of this month and stay just two weeks. Choice is given both in the age and sex of these children. The cause is worthy and the responses should be numerous. J. G. Benedict, C. W. Streeter, or E. R. Redhead will take the names of any who will respond to this call. It is desired to complete the list by next week.

Mrs. Grundy's Exploded Fireworks.

The Glorious fourth has come and gone, and the pride of the patriot is brought low; but the pride of central New York, Kent & Miller's ready-made clothing establishment remains "a joy forever."

The weather for a few days past represents a sky-rocket out of business, a Fourth of July celebration at about Thanksgiving time. Happily in the midst of the multitude of thin things provided by Kent & Miller for hot weather are some very comfortable woolen goods, not heavy, but just adapted to cool nights. Nos. 18 and 20 South Salina street is the place to find them.

Travelling now-a-days reminds one of the contents of an empty box of torpedoes, the sawdust laying about loose is a nuisance to everybody. Dust of whatever kind is only cured by being endured; but Kent & Miller's dusters are the things to travel in. They are light and cool and clean, and like all other clothing for men and boys at 18 and 20 South Salina street, they are more economical, and cheaper than the same class of goods elsewhere.

The Fulton members of the 29th separate company have returned from the State Encampment at Peekskill. The boys report having a good time.

The M. E. church Sunday school will hold a picnic at High Banks, about four miles up the river on Friday, of this week. A canal boat will leave Wilson's dock at 8:30 a. m., sharp.

The Fourth passed off very quietly in this village. Many of the citizens went to Syracuse. The Catholic picnic was the only interesting event of the day. There was about 2,000 persons on the grounds. The ball game between the Oswego and Fulton clubs for a purse of $25 resulted in favor of the Oswego's, the score standing 9 to 28.

One hundred thousand people celebrated fourth of July in Syracuse. A large number of accidents occured. One of the most serious was an $8,000 fire resulting from a firecracker being thrown into a large quantity of fireworks in a show window. Several people had narrow escapes.

The Cato Graphic has already changed editors. The change however is noticeable and the paper now assumes that fearless and independant form which every newspaper should. The present editor Mr. James B. Hunter, was once a resident of Fulton. We wish the new editor and his paper success.

Mr. Fred K. Jones, the well known musician announces that he will receive pupils in the various branches of music. He wishes to have it widely known that he is thoroughly qualified to teach singing and cultivation of the voice. Call at music store and parlors on Oneida street.

Last evening at the residence of H. E. Nichols a reception was given to Mrs. Shaw, the wife of the former pastor of the Presbyterian church of this village, About seventy-five ladies were present to give her a hearty welcome. The joy that was manifest on the countenances of all present plainly showed that four years absence from our midst had not lessened Mrs. Shaw's influence over the hearts of her friends.

Vincent M. Burch, who has been a supervisor, canal collector, an employe in the custom house at Oswego and prominent as a republican politician for many years, has been arrested on the accusation of perjury in relation to the will of his father-in-law, Simon Van Amee, by which $15,000 was deeded to Mrs. Burch solely. Burch testified that he had never seen the will till after Van Amee's death, but experts have testified that the testament is in Burch's handwriting.

OUR CHICAGO LETTER.

Correspondence of The Fulton Times:

CHICAGO, July 5th—The Cleveland wing of New York's delegation to the Democratic national convention has arrived at the Palmer House headed by Hon. A. K. Apgar and Hon. Daniel Magone, with a number of equally distinguished politicians. These men came to nominate Gov. Cleveland and they feel very sanguine that they will be able to accomplish their purpose. They are not satisfied with a majority of the delegation but claim two-thirds. They are insisting that their favorite can carry New York city by 60,000 and the State by 100,000, of these they give 40,000 to the G. W. Curtiss Independents. Hence every one can see upon what a flimsy basis they rest. The delegation will hold its first caucus this evening. The great leader arrived to-day, Daniel Manning, who is chairman of the New York Delegation, together with a number of experienced workers. The county Democracy of the city arrived this afternoon on a special train of 18 Pullman cars drawn over the West Shore road by two engines. It was a most imposing procession and is solid for Cleveland, and equally full of animosity against Tammany, and expect to win with their favorite candidate. But by to-morrow, when the great John Kelly and his hosts of high kickers arrive there will be a great shout for Butler, as it is understood that he is for the Sage of Tewksbury, and if not him then Bayard or anybody to beat Cleveland. It is even hinted here that a large part of John Kelly's followers in New York are disposed to bolt the Democratic party, no matter who is nominated and go over to Blaine. They look upon him as a man who can revolutionize the country, and inaugurate an aggressive foreign policy and that agitation will enliven trade, increase wages and stimulate business. Then there comes the Butler boom. His followers are already here and coming in on nearly every train. The Greenbackers will be fully represented here "hired a hall" and certain of their chiefs claims and will count in the "Butler procession." A great meeting will be held in the street in front of the Palmer house to-night in the interest of Gen. Butler. His chances for nomination are better than some, but the south are nearly solid against him and it is from here the party expects to elect with some help from a few northern states—the names of which have escaped their memories. There is all the time a deep wail in a sort of under current going through the party that Shmuel J. Tilden has refused to allow his name to be presented in the convention, and there will be a strong effort to nominate him yet by some States, unless Manning and a few others set down on it very hard. He will certainly evate more enthusiasm than any other name and coupled with Hoadly or Thurman, or a strong western man would make by far the strongest ticket that they can nominate. But will not the Democrats again blunder?

CARTER HARRISON

as was predicted weeks ago, has won the empty honor of a nomination for Governor in this State and will be pitted against Ex-Governor Oglesby, the most popular war Governor Illinois had. A platform, with an anti-tariff plank was adopted but after a prolonged fight by Carter Harrison and his friends the great Senator, W. R. Morrison who won such a signal defeat in Congress on this tariff bill fought Harrison, and denounced his traddling attempt at deception. The discussion was bitter and the vote to strike out stood 653 for and 623 against. Carter running with his protection for home labor, but this was only to help in to get votes for Governor in a single state. The National Convention will support a tariff for "revenue only" unless Randall should win. His banner is still stretched across the street and his workers are quite numerous. In the variety of opposing candidates there never has been a convention which could equal the present one, and what particular interest will come out ahead is what no "feller" can find out, with those muggy days and awful hot nights the outlook is anything but a pleasing one. The room for the press has been much cut down while the seating capacity of the hall has been enlarged. The Democratic party never did go much on the general intelligence of the rank and file. There is a more potent influence than printer's ink, and is in no way lost sight of during this convention. Perhaps the telegraph will tell you the more probable candidate before you go to press. A dozen names are being canvassed and it will require a strong candidate to beat Jim Blaine of Maine.

THE WORLD CHLLENGED

This liniment has been manufactured and used for twenty five years and our innumerable certificates of cure prove it to be an unparallel success. We do not offer it as an internal remedy, positively asserting that any liniment that can be taken into the stomach without injury can have little efficacy as a specific when externally applied. This being compounded of Oils, is readily absorbed into the system, giving prompt relief even in cases of acute pain caused by Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Sprains, Bruises, Chilblains, or from any cause where a liniment is demanded. The oils are so penetrating that a thorough use of the Liniment will remove all stiffness of joints, lameness of muscles, or pain arising from inflammation or any cause. Even in chronic Spinal Disease, and Paralysis, frequent use of Oil Liniment will effect many cures. Finally for pain in any part of the body, use freely, with rubbing and warmth and we guarantee relief. You will find a trial of it the best certificate of its value. It is the only Liniment made entirely of Oils, and we challenge the world for its equal. Price 25 and 50 cents per bottle. Sold by dealers.

How Watch Cases are Made.

Most persons have an ambition to carry a gold watch case, and yet few people know how a watch case is made, or the vast difference in the quality of them. In a SOLID GOLD WATCH CASE, aside from the necessary thickness for engraving and polishing, a large proportion of the metal is needed only to stiffen and hold the engraved portions in place, and supply strength. The surplus is not only needless, but undesirable, because gold is a soft metal and cannot furnish the stiffness, strength and elasticity necessary to make the case permanently strong and close-fitting. The perfect watch case must combine gold with some metal that will supply that in which the gold is deficient. This has been accomplished by the James Boss' Gold Watch Case which saves the WASTE of needless gold, and INCREASES the SOLIDITY and STRENGTH of the case, and at the same time reduces the cost ONE HALF.

Send 2 cent stamp to Keystone Watch Case Factories, Philadelphia, Pa., for handsome Illustrated Pamphlet showing how James Boss' and Keystone Watch Cases are made.

FASHION NOTES.

Yokes are immensely fashionable both for young ladies and little girls.

Lace ruffles should trim light summer silks, foulards, all India silken stuffs and surals.

Coarsely finished camel's hair buntings with striped borders are made up for traveling dresses.

Wreaths of grasses dotted over with all sorts of grey insects are worn on country hats by Parisians.

The coolest of summer street wraps are shoulder capes made entiely of chenille and beads.

There is a fancy for wearing a velvet basque fitted like a cuirass, with skirts of India silk or foulard.

White promises to be fashionable for summer resort dresses for evening, and for all varieties of day wear.

Wide sashes to be passed around the waist and tied behind in large drooping loops with short broad ends are worn with white dresses.

The largest number of wash goods dresses made up in one particular style are those in the form of what are incorrectly called Mother Hubbards.

Talma capes for summer mantles are made of loops of beads resting on chenille loops; these form the entire cape, to which is added a fringe of beads with chenille in it.

For the most elaborate white dresses lace is used for the entire outside of the dress, with trimmings of black velvet, and a foundation skirt and low waist lining of white silk.

For white surahs and for white India silk and Chinese crape dresses, if the arm is thin there should be coat sleeves of the silk, finished below the elbows by puffs of the net made to imitate under sleeves, and ornamented with a bow and lace frills.

Lace and lamberquin draperies in border lace, placed within the bottom of the bodice, lace elbow sleeves, and a full lace yoke strapped with ribbon matching the taffeta glance of surah of the foundation of the costume, are the features of some of the dressiest summer toilets.

The cotton dresses made up for both morning and afternoon wear are of the new changeable Chamberys, the percales with white grounds, the tapestry-figured cambrics, batistes, the oil calicoes that are Turkey red, white, or cream-color, the zephyr ginghams, and the satteens that look like India silks.

Jerseys, in order to be stylish, must now be very gay and dashing, and they are sometimes found to cost as much as $125; these are beaded silk in open strips like those of silk stockings, while others are entirely of beads. Simpler Jerseys are of fine red or black or blue silk webbing, with the velvet vest, collar, and cuffs trimmed with cross rows of silk braid.

Dogs do not always kill sheep for the purpose of procuring food. The best fed dogs, when once they begin the practice, will continue it until they are caught in the act.

Horses at work will be gratified if they are allowed a little green grass at least once a day. If not convenient to turn them on the grass cut it and feed, with a little salt in the rack.

Bands on fruit trees make good breeding places for the moths if not examined every seven or nine days. By all means do not encourage them by neglecting the bands if they are used.

The best method of catching hawks is by affixing steel traps to a post in preference to any thing else, in order to look around before selecting their prey.

When horses are fetched in off the grass and given dry oats they will often choke. As a remedy, with a dipper or a cup pour a little water in one ear; the animal will shake the oats out of his teroat in half a minute. It works like a charm.

As showing what can be done with sheep the following is published: A Kansas man had nine heads of sheep. To see what they could bring in he used none of the income from them, but put put the mones from wool and mutton sold into more sheep. At the end of nine years he had 1,700 sheep, worth $5,000.

Out of several different compounds tried for the extermination of the cabbage worm, the State agricultural experiment station, Geneva, the following proved to be the most effectual, causing the total destruction of the pests: To one-half pound, each, of hard soap and kerosene oil, add three gallons of water, mix thoroughly and apply with a garden sprinkler.

"The art of medicine did not fail. Only the doctors failed. I stumbled over a proprietary medicine manufactured at Rondout, N. Y., called Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. The package was neat, it was only one dollar a bottle—not that I thought of that though. I was hopeless of help, it could not harm, and I bought and tried it. When the third bottle was empty my appetite and flesh began to return, and the pain and inflammation was gone, and have not come back.

What I think of FAVORITE REMEDY is this: its discovery was an inspiration."

IMPROVED
BUTTER COLOR

A NEW DISCOVERY.

☞For several years we have furnished the Dairymen of America with an excellent artificial color for butter; so meritorious that it met with great success everywhere receiving the highest and only prizes at both International Dairy Fairs.

☞But by patient and scientific chemical research we have improved in several points, and now offer this new color as the best in the world.

It Will Not Color the Buttermilk. It Will Not Turn Rancid. It is the Strongest, Brightest and Cheapest Color Made.

☞And, while prepared in oil, is so compounded that it is impossible for it to become rancid.

☞BEWARE of all imitations, and of all other oil colors, for they are liable to become rancid and spoil the butter.

☞If you cannot get the "improved" write us to know where and how to get it without extra expense. (46)
